CROWD KILLED ASSAILANT WHO FAILED IN ATTEMPT TO SHOOT PREMIER MUSSOLINI

Premier of Italy Was Shot at While Leaving the Stadium at Bologna, Where He Had Opened the Congress For the Advance of Science—Revolver Was Weapon Used—Bullet Cut a Piece of Cloth From Mussolini's Coat and Went Through Coat Sleeve of the Mayor of Bologna—Six Attempts Have Been Made on the Life of the Duce Since He Marched Into Rome Four Years Ago.

BOLOGNA, Italy, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini has once again escaped the assassin's bullet. A youth fired at him today, the bullet cutting a piece out of the premier's coat, and was himself lynched by the infuriated crowd.

The fascist premier was leaving a meeting at the stadium and was at the moment being acclaimed by the great assemblage. The youth stepped forward and with quick motion fired point blank. The bullet cut the sash of the grand cordon of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, which adorned the premier's uniform, ripped away a piece of cloth from the coat and grazed the sleeve of the mayor of Bologna, who accompanied him.

There were startled exclamations, a tremulous silence and fury swept through the multitude. The duce's assailant, seemingly a mere boy of 18, was seized and, before the police could throw a protecting cordon around him, was killed by the mob.

Mussolini remained calm and composed. His automobile halted for a few moments and then proceeded to the railway station. Before entraining for Forli, his home town, he reviewed a battalion of sailors and addressed the officers.

The premier reached Bologna last night. Early today he opened the Littoriale stadium, an immense structure to be devoted to all branches of sports, and late in the afternoon officiated at the opening of the congress for the advancement of science at the stadium. It was while leaving this place about 5.40 o'clock that the attempt against his life was made.

At the morning exercises the duce was astride a charger. He wore the uniform of the commander in chief of the national militia, and was hailed vociferously. Advancing t the center of the litteriale and addressing his beloved black shirts, he said:

"Every time I see the armed forces of the country in battle formation, in perfect union, in a fraternity of spirit, in a common ideal, my first thought turns toward our king, supreme commander of all the forces on land and sea and in the air and of the queen of the militia.

"Black shirts." Il Duce virtually shouted this, his voice rising to a high pitch, "put on your stirrups, raise your rifles, so that the entire world can see that forest of bayonet and feel the pulsation of your determined and invincible hearts."

Benito Mussolini, Italy's fascist premier, has escaped the hand of the assassin at least six times since he marched into Rome four years ago and assumed control of the affairs of the Italian people at the head of the government.

Only so short a time ago as September 11 a young Italian stone cutter threw a bomb at the premier's automobile in Rome. The missile struck a window of the limousine but did not explode until it had fallen to the ground. Mussolini escaped unharmed.

His assailant at that time was seized by a threatening crowd, but was protected from mob vengeance by the police. Four passersby were wounded by the bomb.

On April seven previously, just before Mussolini's departure for Tripoli, Miss Violet Gibson, an English woman, fired a shot which caused a slight injury to the tip of his nose. The attack was made when the premier was leaving a session of the congress of surgeons in Rome. Miss Gibson has since been declared insane by medical experts testifying at her trial.

An attempt in November, 1925, was frustrated when the police discovered a plot to assassinate him by the former Socialist Deputy Zaniboni. On Italy's Armistice day, as he was on his way to make a speech from his residence, Zaniboni was found concealed in a nearby hotel with a high powered rifle furnished with telescopic sights and set up in a direct line with the balcony where Mussolini was to stand.

Of the two other attempts on the life of Mussolini, no details were made public. One of these attacks was said to have been carried out, but without effect, by a royal guard at Chigi palace, in 1923, and the other in 1924 when he was reported to have been shot at while traveling by motor car from an outlying city to Rome.

The Italian people have come to look upon Mussolini as specially protected by Divine providence. He himself, announced as the slogan of his life, "Live in danger," and has repeatedly declared that he would carry out all his plans for the betterment of his country no matter what happened or what dangers confronted him.

Recently a law was passed in Italy making it a capital crime to attack the premier, to be punished by the extreme penalty.

At the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the fascist march on Rome last Thursday, Mussolini reviewed the progress made under fascism. He prefaced his speech with the words: "It is idiotic to decry the regime of fascism as having produced an oligarchy with a cruel and mysterious tyrant at its head. It is equally absurd to accuse fascism of being an unpopular regime and an enemy of the working classes."

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN WAS BEATEN TO DEATH BY MOB

BOLOGNA, Oct. 31.—(AP)—An 18 year old youth who today attempted to shoot Benito Mussolini, was himself stabbed and beaten to death by an infuriated mob.

Mussolini escaped injury. The assassin's bullet missed passing through the premier's chest by the fraction of an inch. It actually ripped both sides of his coat and cut the sash of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus.

The youth had pressed forward as Mussolini was seated in his automobile, on leaving the stadium, where he had attended the congress for the advancement of science, and was ready to fire a second shot. Carabineers an fascists threw themselves upon him as he was in the act of sending a second bullet at the premier.

Within a minute or two of his attack on the duce, the body of the youthful assailant was being dragged along, a crumpled and inert mass, by strong armed fascists through a screaming, milling sea of humanity to his death.

Later, at the police station, where the body was taken, fourteen knife wounds were found and marks of strangling on his throat.

REVERIES OF FATHER OF LATE PRESIDENT HARDING

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Reveries of the son who preceded him to the grave fill the declining years of Dr. George T. Harding, the only living father of a president.

Ill of body, but with his 82-year-old mind alert, the parent of Warren G. Harding, sits in the house which has been his home here for forty-two years and appraises for those who pause before the humble gate the qualities of greatness which lifted his boy from an Ohio farm to the white house.

"They're ringing for Washington. Some day they will ring for me," that prophecy, made by Warren Harding at the age of five, as he heard the bells chimed in memoriam to the first president, the father has seen fulfillment.

Today he lives in a world gone by, his mind filled with interesting incidents, years forgotten, in the life of his illustrious son.

And any review by Dr. Harding of the life of his president son begins with the statement that the most important factor in it was "the wonderful eaching and inspiration received from his mother and his grandmother."

"Value of study, industry, kindness, loyalty and discretion taught by his mother from early boyhood were tenets followed faithfully," Dr. Harding remarked, musing the other day about his son. "That calling for tender treatment of enemies often brought him criticism."

MAY REDUCE FEE FOR MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS

HARTFORD, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel of this state, speaking at the fifteenth annual safety congress of the National Safety council at Detroit, recently, said that a tendency to reduce fees for motor vehicle registrations and operators' licenses "and to rely more and more upon the fuel tax for producing money" is now evidencing itself.

"Both the registration and operators' taxes offer valuable by-products in providing identification, the one of cars, the other of operators," he explained, "so there is no chance that either, if once in effect in a state, will be discarded." The operators' tax, he held, should not be relied upon as a producing tax beyond costs of its administration for discipline.

A new method of determining motor vehicle registration fees, based on a "gross weight" has been under careful study in Connecticut, the commissioner brought out.

"It's theory, briefly described," he said, "is to tax pleasure cars as 'gross weight of car and maximum load. For example, a five passenger car at 'weight of car plus five passengers at 150 pounds each,' commercials at weight plus registered authorized load, etc. The system applies a basis applicable to all cars throughout. It makes no distinctions. It can be formulated to raise any desired amount of money."

Connecticut motor vehicles are now taxed by the state according to total piston displacement.

QUEEN MARIE TO REMAIN IN U. S. TILL ABOUT DEC. 24

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Queen Marie is expected to carry out her original program in the United States, and not return to Rumania until about Dec. 24.

The Rumanian foreign office authorized this statement today, and at the some time denied reports of King Ferdinand's ill health. Nevertheless the kind has been under the observation of the royal physicians because of the extremely strenuous program connected with the reception of the Italian mission, headed by the Duke of Spoleto, Ferdinand, it is explained, has been resting for the past three days.

NAVY SPEED AND STUNT FLYER KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE FELL

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The body of Lieutenant Frank H. Conant, Jr., navy speed and stunt flier, was recovered today from the water in which his plane crashed off Mathews, Va., yesterday afternoon. It was found strapped in the seat of the wrecked plane, the parachute in place and his hand still clutching the control.

While no definite information is at hand as to how the accident happened, some officers expressed the belief that the young aviator was flying low at a point of about 160 miles an hour when one of the pontoons of his plane struck a fish net stake.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 31.—The Belgian National bank, according to the newspaper Vingtieme Siecle, has purchased $25,000,000 in gold. The gold reserve is thereby increased to a sum higher than necessary to cover thirty one per cent of the notes in circulation.

LENINAKAN, Armenia, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A blizzard set in Saturday sweeping over the region devastated by last week's earthquake and adding to the wretchedness of the homeless survivors. Earth shocks continued intermittently; a particularly severe one was felt shortly after midnight.

ERIVAN, Armenia, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A movement has been started to interest the United States in the flotation of an international loan to finance the reconstruction of the region devastated by last week's earthquake. It is estimated that $50,000,000 worth of ruined property must be replaced.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—In a Thanksgiving proclamation yesterday President Coolidge asked the nation to make November 25 a day of praise to God for a year in which the United States had been "blessed among the nations of the earth."

The text follows:

By the president of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

As a nation and as individuals we have passed another twelve months in the favor of the Almighty. He has smiled upon our fields and they have brought forth plentifully; business has prospered; industries have flourished, and labor has been well employed. While sections of our country have been visited by disaster, we have been spared any great national calamity or pestilential visitation. We are blessed among the nations of the earth.

Our moral and spiritual life has kept measure with our material prosperity. We are not unmindful of the gratitude we owe to God for His watchful care which has pointed out to us the ways of peace and happiness; we should not fail in our acknowledgment of the divine favor which has bestowed upon us so many blessings. Neither should we be forgetful of those among us who, through stress of circumstances, are less fortunately placed, but by deeds of charity make our acknowledgment more acceptable in His sight.

Therefore I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 25th day of November, next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work, and in their homes and their customary places of worship, devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and seek His guidance that through good deeds and brotherly love they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

In witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

Done at the city of Washington, this 30th day of October, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-six, and of the Independence of the United States, the One Hundred and Fifty-first.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

By the President:
Joseph C. Grew, acting secretary of state.

SUFFERED LOSS OF MEMORY BECAUSE OF OVER-STUDY

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A sixteen year old New York city high school girl, who suffered a loss of memory because of over-study, was taken into custody by police last night and today was turned over to her mother who was located by police. The girl, according to the police and her mother had evidently become an amnesia victim through over-study for when taken into custody she carried a number of school books and though she could not remember here name or where she was from could talk French, Spanish and several other languages very fluently. After she spent the night at Hillside home her identity was learned today when police determined that she was Anna Consula Rivera, a Porta Rican, of 280 East 102nd street. She was a pupil at 64 East 107th street school.

The mother told the police that the girl was very studious and spent all her time poring over books.

PAINTING CONTRACTOR HELD UP IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL, Oct. 31.—(AP)—George Tapping, a Bristol painting contractor, was held up by three armed men in Middle street late last night and was robbed of $550.

Tapping was returning from Plainville shortly before midnight and was nearing Bristol when he was forced to slow down by two cars ahead of him. It was then that two young men, both carrying revolvers, jumped on his running board and demanded his money. Another youth stood on guard nearby.

The Bristol man attempted to hide the money behind the seat of his machine but his act was seen by the hold-up men. Tapping then threw the money out of the car into a ditch. The three men then disappeared.

Tapping reported the hold-up to the police and a search was made for the money and for the bandits. Neither was found.

STATE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE NOT TO DISBAND

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Rev. R. H. White, district superintendent of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League, in a statement given out here tonight, said that the Anti-Saloon League had no intention of withdrawing from this state and declared that Dr. Ernest V. Claypool had resigned as superintendent of the Connecticut league to accept a pastorate in Indiana.

His statement was in reply to a letter which the Connecticut temperance union is said to have addressed to league officials and which was given out in Hartford last night.

RAILROAD HAND KILLED IN FALL FROM TREE

DANBURY, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Pasquale Rosate, a railroad section hand living at 8 Thorp street, slipped and fell 30 feet from a tree on which he was picking mushrooms 10 the curb below and met with instant death as his two small sons aged 3 and 9 stood and watched. The accident happened about 6.30 tonight. Terrified, the children ran into the house of C. Taylor, 174 White street, in front of whose home the calamity occurred, crying that their father was hurt. Taylor notified the police on viewing the body, and his call was answered by Dr. Samuel Selleck.

Business in Basic Lines Slowing Down

Economists Believe a Normal Recession is Taking Place After Long Period of Fruitful Activity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Contrasted with the undeniable evidence of past prosperity which came to light last week were clear-cut indications that business in many basic lines was beginning to slow down. Economists held varying views as to the nature of the current trade movement, but most of them were inclined to believe that a normal recession was taking place after a period of fruitful activity which reached its peak in the late summer rather than in the fall.

Unless some unexpected stimulus is given to trade, authorities are generally agreed that the third quarter will mark the high point in industrial earnings for the year and that the closing months of 1926 will show a substantial but wholly natural reduction. Support for this theory has been found in the recent downward trend of the stock market, which apparently has been discounting the outlooks for a small volume of trade in the coming weeks.

In the face of a slackening demand for many products however, conditions have become more favorable in the money market, dispelling fears of credit inflation which existed a few weeks ago. The supply of funds last week rose so amply that an overflow found its way into investment channels, pushing bond prices up to around the year's best levels.

Another favorable factor, attesting the huge volume of current trade, was the sustained movement of freight at an unprecedented high rate. Car loadings for the week ended Oct. 16 exceeded 1,200,000, the largest number on record.

Supplementing these figures as an index to the prosperity of the railroads were the uniformly satisfactory earnings statements for September, revealing large gains by the principal carriers. The Pennsylvania system, which has more stockholders than any other railroad in the country, celebrated its annual dividend basis to 7 per cent. Other large railroads are expected to adopt more liberal dividend policies before the end of the year.

Although new business has been declining in the steel and automobile industries, the two largest corporations in these fields—United States Steel and General Motors—reported remarkable earnings for the third quarter.

Emergency measures to relieve cotton from the market and an enormous volume of trade buying apparently have rescued this situation from the disaster threatened by the latest forecast of a record breaking crop exceeding 17,400,000 bales. Prices at one time declined to the lowest levels since 1921 but were later steadied.

The coal industry furnished one of the most striking examples of improvement over conditions a year ago when the anthracite mining suspension was on. A curious contribution to its present prosperity is the large export movement of fuel resulting from the prolonged British strike.

CABLE TO ISLAND OF NANTUCKET BROKEN

WOOD'S HOLE, Mass., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The United States coast guard radio today is the only means of communication between the island of Nantucket and Wood's Hole, except by boat. About a week ago the telephone cable linking Nantucket with the mainland by way of Vineyard Haven parted.

The cable ship Western Union began grappling for the elusive wires but yesterday fouled the telegraph cable and broke it. Section Base 15, here, and Section Base 3, of Nantucket, promptly volunteered emergency service through their radio sets and the coast guard operators have since handled the situation.

They have offered to continue until one or the other cable is repaired, which is uncertain because only in very favorable weather can the cable ships work in the treacherous Nantucket sound. The difficulty of undersea work in that section of the coast was shown in the long sustained efforts to raise the submarine S-51 to it in the sound is added the hazard of dangerous shoals.

TO MEET EMERGENCY IN COTTON PRICES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Brains and money of the south, summoned by a threat of economic disaster, are stabilizing forces of relief from Texas to North Carolina, in an organized drive to meet the emergency in cotton prices and restore stability to the bale-burdened market.

Success for the south-wide campaign for guaranteed reduction of cotton acreage next year was predicted here as agricultural experts viewed the progress of the canvass for a complete census of the industry, whose purpose is to please every farmer to curtail planting.

Experts see in the finance corporations now in progress of formation in cotton states, the most potent factor in the more hopeful attitude. Stimulated by the visit of Eugene Meyer, chairman of President Coolidge's commission for relief and A. C. Williams, chairman of the federal farm loan board, bankers and marketing executives have undertaken to form these companies in order to make loans available to the growers.

RESEARCH CLUB IN THE PLANT SCIENCES AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Forty men interested in research work have organized a research club in the plant sciences at Yale university, with Prof. James W. Toumey of the Yale School of Forestry as chairman. The general objectives of the organization will be to promote informal discussions on various research problems in the plant sciences undre way at Yale, and to enable its members to make contact with others working in this field.

TAXI DRIVER'S BODY WAS FOUND RIDDLED WITH SHOT

SUDBURY, Oct. 31.—The bullet-riddled body of Guisseppi Justi, 39, Sudbury taxi driver, was found at the road-side, 12 miles from here this morning. He set out for Garson Saturday evening with an unidentified passenger. Justi is said to have earned $300, which is missing and police have been unable to trace the passenger.

Magician Houdini Died Yesterday in Detroit

Surgical Attempt Failed to Save His Life From the Effects Following Peritonitis.

DETROIT, Oct. 31. — (AP) — Harry Houdini, the magician, died today.

The noted escape artist, whose adeptness at freeing himself from strait-jackets, chains and cells mystified audiences in all parts of the world, died after a second surgical attempt had been made to save his life from the effects of peritonitis.

Houdini was operated upon last Monday for appendicitis.

Although it was known the magician was ill when he arrived here eight days ago, the seriousness of his condition was not learned until he collapsed at the end of his opening performance.

HAD MOST COMPLETE LIBRARY ON MAGIC IN THE WORLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Harry Houdini, the world-famous magician who died in Detroit today, was born in Appleton, Wis., April 6, 1874, the son of Rabbi Mayer Samuel Weiss.

Houdini came before the American public as an exposer of frauds perpetrated by so-called spirit mediums. He held that the phenomena produced by professed mediums of various kinds, hypnotists, mesmerists and fakirs were all spurious. He exposed hundreds of professional mediums and offered $10,000 to any medium who could produce phenomena which he could not reproduce by relying solely upon his muscular strength and agility, his physical endurance and his knowledge of mechanics. He never was called upon to pay the reward.

He kept an untiring attack on spiritualists, and on Sir Oliver Lodge in particular. He wrote a book to expose "Margery", the medium who won the $2,500 award of the Scientific American, charging that the committee which made the award did not take proper precautions. He aided the police of New York city in putting a number of mediums out of business and gave a course at the police academy here on the discovery of frauds.

His first appearance as a public entertainer was at the age of eight, when he performed on the high trapeze with a circus troup. Because of his mother's objection he was brought back home and apprenticed to a locksmith. Almost at once he turned his attention to the business of opening locks without keys.

A handcuffed prisoner brought into Appleton by a sheriff who had lost the keys to the handcuffs, was the occasion for the discovery of the trick of opening handcuffs which Houdini said was known only to him, his wife and the prisoner.

After an unsuccessful attempt to appear in vaudeville Houdini scraped together enough money to go to Europe, where he made his reputation. When he returned he was able to command 50 times the price asked for his act. Besides performing various so-called magical tricks, Houdini was adept in releasing himself from almost any kind of confinement that could be devised.

He freed himself after being manacled and shut up in a box. He escaped from strait-jackets. He freed himself while hung from a derrick in manacles and a strait-jacket. He suffered himself to be confined in a coffin under water. Although he challenged any man to perform these feats of escape, no man ever duplicated one of them.

Houdini's library here is said to be the most complete library on magic in the world. He was the author of a number of books on magic and was nine times elected president of the Society of American Magicians.

Houdini leaves his widow, who was Wilhelmina Rahner of Brooklyn. They were married in 1894.

FOUR PERSONS WERE KILLED IN FIGHT IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Four persons were killed, one a policeman, as the result of what police believe to have been a quarrel between members of a robber gang in a fashionable apartment house here early today.

The dead are: Ernest Jones, 35, a patrolman; William J. Olsen, wanted here for bank robbery; James Caniffe, alias J. B. 173, wanted in New Jersey for murder and robbery, and an unidentified woman.

Patrolmen Jones and Rancour responded to a call to the apartment early today on a report that a shooting affray had occurred there.

When the police knocked at the apartment door it was opened by Olsen who opened fire, killing Jones instantly. Rancour returned the fire, killing Ilsen.

Entering the apartment, Rancour found Caniffe and the woman dead on the bed.

In the dining room was found the remains of a champagne supper and scattered over the floor approximately $10,000 in currency. It is believed the bandits quarreled over division of the money, which police believe to be loot from a recent bank robbery here.

FRENCH INTERESTED IN ELECTIONS IN THE U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The coming elections in the United States are deeply interesting to the French because of the vague idea here that something is involved that may affect the American attitude concerning the debts.

The French people are not quite able to understand what an "off-year" election means; yet everybody is eager to know whether President Coolidge is to have a republican majority behind him for the next two years.

M. Berenger, the French ambassador will be sent to Washington some time in November, if nothing happens to prevent it. M. Briand, foreign minister, wants the ambassador on the spot during the time ratification of the debt settlement is being discussed in the French parliament which reconvenes November 9.

MERGER OF MANUFACTURING COMPANIES ANNOUNCED

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Announcement was made today through the industrial bureau of the chamber of commerce of the consolidation of Girard and Company, Inc., with McKesson and Robbins, Inc., of New York, under the corporate name of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., of Connecticut, articles of incorporation having been filed at Hartford. The physical merger of the plants utilizing the large plant here, will be effected as soon as possible. Both firm manufacture drugs, druggists' supplies and toilet articles.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

The national council of the Y. M. C. A. closed its four days meeting in Chicago by adopting a budget of $4,084,715 for 1927.

Rev. Gustave H. Leining has resigned as pastor of the Universalist church, Danbury, to become pastor of the Universalist church at Melrose, Mass.

Three automobiles were destroyed by fire when a garage at 162-168 Bedford street, Stamford, was swept by flames, the damage being estimated at $5,000.

Three bandits intercepted a payroll messenger in New Orleans and escaped with the $12,000 weekly payroll of Mente and Company, Inc., bag manufacturers.

Frank Lloyd Wright, architect of Minneapolis, whose domestic affairs have attracted wide attention, was bound over to the federal grand jury on a Mann act charge.

Mrs. Christine Loftin, 34, the wife of Lieutenant Commander Frank Loftin of the U. S. S. Tennessee, committed suicide by shooting herself at her home in San Pedro, Calif.

George Cretzianu, new Rumanian minister to the United States, a passenger aboard the steamer France for New York, made it known that he has no instructions to negotiate a loan.

Two thousand communists of the Paris district have passed a resolution of protest against the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti convicted of murder in Massachusetts.

The Rev. Dr. John Roach Stratton, fundamentalist pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New York, is at odds with the Southern New York Baptist association, and other northern Baptist associations.

Congressman John Q. Tilson and Mayor John B. Tower of New Haven, were entertained at dinner by the republican town committee and about fifty of the ward workers at Craig Loch Inn, last evening.

Coppers show no improvement. It is reported that domestic consumers have not yet covered November needs in full, but buyers generally have been holding off as it influenced by the easier tone at London.

PRESIDENT URGES VOTERS TO GO TO POLLS ON TUESDAY

Mr. Coolidge Said in Message: Let No Voters Abdicate Their Sovereign Right of Self-Government at the Election on Tuesday by Failing to Vote—Wayne B. Wheeler Issues a Tirade Against Prohibition Referenda in New York, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Coolidge in a public message to the people of the country today urges all voters to go to the polls Tuesday. The president himself will journey to his old home in Northampton, Mass., to personally cast his ballot.

Mr. Coolidge's message said:

"Let no voters abdicate their sovereign right of self-government at the election on Tuesday by failing to vote.

(Signed) "CALVIN COOLIDGE.

"The White House, Nov. 1, 1926."

CONJECTURE CONCERNING STATE ELECTIONS TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Another nation-wide campaign began to pass into history today as party leaders packed their political fishing-tackle away in the attic and solemnly sought to compute the comparative size of the respective catches that will be weighed out at the polls on Tuesday.

As the pre-election guessing entered its last fanciful stage, the usual forecasts of sweeping victory came from every hostile camp. Behind the militant claims thus spread grandly across the sky there lay, however, certain quite evident convictions.

There was no doubt that many democratic managers were convinced they had a fighting chance to capture control of at least one branch of congress, or that the republican leaders were just as sure that serious threat of such a result had been removed.

So far as the state campaigns were concerned, the issues had become so badly jumbled that those entrusted with national management of the parties were unable to make any general estimate of how the land might lie. Each contented himself with hopefully opining that his party would hold its own in the net returns, the country over. Outstanding in every such discussion was the situation in New York, where Governor Smith is waging an old-time battle for re-election.

By virtue of referendums in eight states, bearing in one way or another on the prohibition question, wet and dry leaders included themselves in the ranks of the victory claimers. The states that are to vote either on a state enforcement code or of some other feature of the wet and dry problem are New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Colorado, California, Nevada, Missouri and Montana.

Of the forecasts issued tonight from the national party headquarters, those of the democrats were the more sweeping. The party leaders claimed nothing less than a democratic landslide. Not simply administering to the republican administration the ordinary off-year rebuke, but constituting an actual revolution against republican rule. These statements the republicans dismissed as nothing but a democratic hallucination—a sort of Hallowcen hobgobblin that would disappear completely on election day.

Democratic hopes of winning a majority of the senate hinge on the chances party leaders think they have in a group of wide-scattered states, where democratic campaign ammunition has been spent most freely during the summer. These states are Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana (which is to elect two senators), Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah, and Washington. Of these 17 seats, all held now by republicans, the democrats must win nine to have a clear senatorial majority. Even the most sanguine partisans do not hope to recapture all 17; but they do count three or fore as certain to fall into the democratic column. They figure there an even break elsewhere will be all they need.

The republican answer to this reasoning is that while a very few of these states may be normally democratic, and might in an off-year return democratic majorities, the others are republican and taken state by state, can be expected to go that way in 1926.

The house situation is not so easily diagnosed. All of the 435 members, excepting four in Maine who were chosen at an election in September, must get credentials at the polls Tuesday. To gain a majority over the combined opposition the democrats must take 36 seats now held by republicans. The party managers insist it can be done, in the face of a republican reply that any such supposition is preposterous; but neither side had indicated just what districts contain the political dynamite that is to plunge the ballance of power one way or the other.

OBJECTS TO FEELING PULSE OF PEOPLE ON PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, asserted in an address here today that the two issues which would confront voters at the polls in most voting districts Tuesday were 'constitutional anarchy or law enforcement."

"The straw vote referenda in New York, Illinois and Wisconsin are an attack upon our whole theory of representative government," he said. "The first two of these, ask that a federal law necessary for the enforcement of the constitution be altered at the request of these states, permitting the states themselves to enforce or ignore a part of the constitution.

"The Wisconsin 2.75 per cent beer proposal in her referendum is equally antagonistic to representative government.

"The bootlegger and the moonshiner are to be guaranteed from any local police action in California, Colorado, Missouri and Montana, if the referenda in these states, replacing the state enforcement codes, are won by the wets.

"The friends of law and order are supporting congressmen who will keep their oaths to support the constitution.

NORTHAMPTON PLANNING RECEPTION FOR COOLIDGES

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 31—(AP)—Plans for a public reception for President and Mrs. Coolidge when they come home here to vote next Tuesday were made today at a conference between Col. S. A. Cheney and Northampton citizens.

Arriving at about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, President Coolidge will go at once to the polls under escort of a reception committee of 12 citizens. Then the first citizens of the land will visit their old home on Massasoit street where Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lumyra Goodhue, will be waiting.

At 10:30 o'clock a public reception will be held in the high school hall which will last until the presidential party goes to the return train at 11:30. John Coolidge has three recitation periods at Amherst college on election day and since he is making particularly close application to his studies this year it was thought here that he would not be in Northampton to see his parents.

GANGS IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS MAKING CITIZENS TIMID

MARION, Ills., Oct. 31.—(AP) — A back-to-the-fireside movement has been inaugurated by the law abiding citizens of Williamson, Franklin and Saline counties as a result of the renewal of warfare between bootleg gangs. Night driving over Illinois' famous hard roads in this section of the southern Illinois coal belt is an occupation engaged in almost solely by gang members.

That citizens have not been convinced of their safety, even after numerous statements from the Birger and Shelton factions that innocent bystand s would not be killed, is evidenced by drawn shades and early retiring.

More townsmen than usual are going along with their wives and children to picture shows at night and returning home with them to fune in on radio programmes, or perhaps to pop corn or make candy.

Few persons think that bringing state militia back to these counties would mean more than temporary relief unless the troops had orders to clean up every wide-open gambling and bootlegging house and disarm all gangsters.

Unfavorable criticism centers largely against the law enforcement bodies, although the fact that Sheriff George Palligan of Williamson county has only one deputy has turned the fire away from him.

NEW YORK SOCIETY GIRL TO MARRY GRAND DUKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Miss Audrey Emery, a New York society girl, will be married soon to the Grand Duke Dimitri Constantinovitch, cousin of the late czar of Russia, it was announced in a cablegram from Europe made public today.

Miss Audrey is now at Biarritz, France, with her mother, Mrs. Alfred Anson, who announced the impending marriage in a cablegram to her son-in-law, Benjamin Moore, of Syosset, Long Island.

The Grand Duke Dimitri was once master of the Imperial Horse for the late Czar Nicholas, but resigned in 1903. In 1900 it was reported he had resolved to become a monk. Four years later a report from Europe said he had been announced by Imperial ukase as second in succession to the Russian throne. He was wounded while fighting with the Russian army early in the war.

HECTIC CAREER OF THE REV. DR. J. NORRIS, FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 31.—(AP)—A Baptist preacher who came here in 1907 and started a tabernacle church with thirteen members, is to face trial tomorrow on the third of three criminal indictments naming him during his climb to a place of power in militant reform and fundamentalism.

Such brings to date the hectic career of the Rev. Dr. J. Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church, scheduled to face criminal court on a charge of murder for killing D. E. Chipps, lumberman, last summer.

Chipps was shot to death in the pastor's church office July 17 following a quarrel between the two concerning the preacher's utterances against city officials, notably H. C. Meacham.

Dr. Norris got to be known outside of Texas during his revivals in New York a few years ago, but more recently through his championship of absolute fundamentalism, his stand on this issue, including attempts at legislation against the evolution theory, drew him into contact with the late William Jennings Bryan as an adviser and confidante.

The preacher first came into the limelight in Texas back in 1911 and 1912, when he was indicted and acquitted on charges of burning his church and perjuring himself in connection with the arson trial. At that time the prosecution charged that he wrote himself threatening letters and hired a private detective to shoot at him.

CHALLENGE FOR AN OYSTER EATING CONTEST IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—London has boasted of some hefty oyster eaters in times gone by and now that the season is in full swing the question of oyster-eating supremacy is again to the fore.

Only the other day Lord Peel, first commissioner of works, challenged Sir Arthur Pinero, dramatist, to a contest because of Sir Arthur's boasts of his oyster eating ability.

It is on record that one young man goes to a well known place in Regent street several times a week and consumes one hundred oysters at a sitting. The owner of the restaurant declares one of his customers regularly consumed six at a sitting, but explains that was in the days "when they were smaller and cheaper."

A well known stockbroker in the city has four dozen plain and four dozen grilled oysters waiting for him every morning in the "R" months.

HARTFORD GIRL WAS INJURED IN AUTO SMASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31—Two people are in the hospital and Earl Cooper 21, of 462 Park street, Hartford, is being held under heavy bonds for driving while under the influence of liquor, as the result of an accident at Thread Mill Square here a few minutes before midnight Saturday, when a Chevrolet sedan operated by Cooper sideswiped the massive iron watering trough on the square. The injured are Agnes Libby, alias Lewis, of Hartford, possibility of fractured skull and minor injuries and Frank Martin, 29, of 462 Park street, Hartford, cuts about the face and temple. Also in the party was Cooper's young wife. A third man is said to have been in the car and escaped before the officers arrived.

The car had been rented from William Bousa of 21 Park street, Hartford and the young people were driving from Hartford to Providence. In making a slight swing to the right of a traffic signal at Thread Mill Square the machine veered or skidded to the right, crashing against the trough. The Libby girl was sitting on the rear seat. The right side of the machine was crushed in, but the machine did not overturn, traveling some 150 feet before being brought to a stop. Captain of Police Frank McLean and Patrolman Leo Piche rushed to the scene and had much difficulty in handling the party. There was evidence that all had been drinking and the uninjured objected to having the Libby girl taken to St. Joseph's hospital, stating that they wanted to drive on to Providence. At police headquarters, two physicians examined the driver and pronounced him intoxicated. His case will come up in police court this Monday morning. It was stated at the hospital Sunday afternoon that evidences of a fractured skull had not developed in the injured girl's condition and it appeared that both she and Martin would be discharged in a day or two. The Libby girl is said to be a telephone operator in Hartford.

LICAL FIGHTS MAY AFFECT STATE TICKET

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31—In this year of great upsets, as has been so widely proclaimed by sport writers and others, there is much conjecturing on the outcome of the elections here Monday. Slight interest shown in the recent town election and in the state election to date, is not being taken as a criterion by political leaders of the vote that will be cast Tuesday. Both republican and democratic parties admit that they are offering their aces to the public in this election and as this same condition is supposed to stand for the entire state ticket, the leaders feel justified in forecasting a big vote. The ticket in Windham is expected to run close because of the high calibre of candidates offered. A canvass of those who have made a study of politics reveals that the consensus of opinion is for a general run in majority for the republican party, this including the defeat of Oscar F. Atwood of Brooklyn, democratic candidate by State Senator Urgele LaFrance of Plainfield. Charles A. Gates of this city also stands practically assured of re-election to the office of county sheriff through his defeat of A. Hale Bennett of Canterbury. In the 1922 election Sheriff Gates won over the democratic candidate, John O. Fox by 1,715 votes. There is much local interest in the contest for representatives and judge of probate, and there, it is anticipated, the strings tighten and just how much the choices for these offices affect the remainder of the ticket depends on whether or not the voters will take the time and care to split their tickets. Nevertheless a large split ticket is expected because of the three offices mentioned.

Judge of Probate Otto B. Robinson is seeking re-election and with Scotland apparently 100 per cent Robinson there is reason to believe he will carry the majority. Two years ago Judge Robinson overwhelmed the late John O'Rourke by a majority of 662, his majority in Windham being 489. His opponent this year offers real competition in the person of James J. Lee. Mr. Lee is a World war veteran, a former alderman of the third ward and connected with the department of justice at Washington as confidential investigator.

And the pencil that mark, the ballot is expected to remain suspended in mid-air for consideration of the contest for representatives. The republican candidates A. Linn Weatherhead and Charles B. Pomeroy are out to succeed themselves and they point with pride to their record in the last legislature. Weatherhead defeated Patrick J. Twomey by 545 votes and Pomeroy won over Alexis Caisse by 597 two years ago. In the opposition is Frank P. Fenton who represented Windham in the general assembly for two terms. He was minority leader of the house in the 1925 session. He has been town clerk of Windham for 28 years. Aime J. Martineau, alderman-at-large, is runnig mate to Fenton. That he has strength was indicated in the 1925 city election when he carried every ward in the city.

The polls will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rev. Milton S. Rees delivered his farewell sermon, "Is It Nothing to You" and received a parting ovation at a gathering of hundreds of members of Protestant churches in the city and vicinity in the Methodist church auditorium Sunday evening. Dr. Rees will conduct a series of union religious services in Danielson beginning next week. From every angle the revival services here were an unqualified success and untold religious upbuilding was accomplished in the community through the meeting of men and women and the inspiration of Rev. Rees's series of sermons. Dr. Rees made his final public appearance at a largely attended mass meeting in a theatre here Sunday afternoon, delivering a sermon on "Willimantic's Greatest Need." Sunday morning Dr. Rees addressed a union service for the A. M. E. ion and Calvary Baptist churches and later a union service of churches and Sunday schools in the Methodist church. Nineteen Protestant churches of this section participated in the revivals, each parish being represented in ne work by its pastor and a committee of laymen.

Funeral services for Rev. George Walker Christie were held at the late home in South Coventry at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Charles G. Johnson, pastor of the Congregational church of Coventry, officiated. The remains will be conveyed to the Union cemetery in Amesbury, Mass. for burial this Monday. Avery and Vanandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Alex LaPointe of 125 Rockwell street, Fall River, Mass., came through this city on his way home from New York city shortly after midnight Sunday morning and was found to be operating the car without a driver's license when approached by an officer for having parked the machine wrongly on Main street and also for having left the motor running. LaPointe had a Mercer touring car bearing a New York registry number. He had a corresponding registration card. In the car were several used tires and rims and a wooden box filled with automobile accessories. The police sought to establish that the car or the supplies, or both, had been stolen but up to late Sunday had made but little progress. LaPointe, who said that he conducted a garage, will appear before the court this Monday morning.

Elmer Bissonette of 335 Huntington street, New London, drove his automobile around the corner of Main and High streets here Friday night but failed to complete the turn and his car collided with one owned by Frank Valluzzi of 66 Oxford street, Manchester, which was parked near the curbing. Captain of Police Frank McLean walked out of the police station just in time to see the crash. He placed Bissonette under arrest for driving a car while under the influence of liquor and in police court Saturday morning Judge Foss imposed a fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $109.15.

ARRESTED FOR USING PUNCH BOARD IN STORE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31—Captain of Police Frank McLean strolled into the grocery store conducted at 1909 Main street by Matteo Pamboriti, about 4.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and found a man taking chances on a punch-board. Captain McLean arrested the proprietor on a gambling charge and ordered his appearance in police court this Monday morning.

The class of 1927 of Windham High school held a delightful masquerade dance at the town hall Friday evening. There were about 100 couples, gayly attired, in attendance. Miss Elinor Stanley was awarded first prize for the most attractive costume. The patrons and patronesses were, Principal and Mrs. Egbert A. Case, the Misses Hope Morrill, Elizabeth F. King. The arrangements committee was composed of: Miss Lois Holman, chairman, Roderick Beaulieu, Miss Dorothy James, Edward Gatchell, Miss Virginia Hinman, Miss Celia Cohen and Arthur Hall.

With this Monday the final day for filing taxable property lists, only about two-thirds of the estimated total of 4,200 lists had been filed with the assessors up to Saturday evening. After today the rate of ten per cent will be added.

The opinion of a disgruntled population here is that the Weather Man must have a standing order with Old Pluving for a downpour every Sunday. An unusual occurrence is noted in that it has rained on all of the four Sundays of October. With but two or three days exception the weekly weather has been fair. One man said Sunday that all could at least be assured that it would not rain another Sunday in October.

Mrs. Herbert R. Chappell entertained the Coventry-Willimantic bridge club at her home Friday afternoon with two tables in play. Mrs. Robert C. White held high score. Mrs. Mary DeLoyd and Mrs. Ashton C. Parsons played as guests.

Mrs. Lizzie Sadd of 808 Main street is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital having been taken there after a fall at her home Saturday morning.

Miss Dorothy Dockstader, formerly of the Model school faculty, now teaching in Southington, were visitors here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. H. Gergler motored over the Mohawk trail Sunday.

NOW PHYLLIS HAS ROSY CHEEKS

I always liked Phyllis and I felt sorry for her. She never had many good times. Just pale and "washed out looking." Tired easily. Never went in for sports like the rest of us. But now, why, I never saw such a change! I hardly knew her. She had gained five pounds. She'd been playing tennis and, honestly, she looked glad to be alive!

"What have you done to yourself?" I demanded. "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she laughed. "I'm also taking the Pills for Constipation. You better try them yourself."

JEWETT CITY

JEWETT CITY COUPLE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 31—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Burleson celebrated the golden wedding anniversary very quietly at their home on Sunday. The daughters Miss Hallie Burleson of East Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Richard Meyer and her husband of New Britain spent the week end at their parents home, and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gardner were Sunday guests.

Misses Florence Quimby, Ellen Prior and Emma Dearnley were in Moosup Sunday evening where they gave talks at the Baptist church on their experiences at Ocean Park, Me.

The Crusaders enjoyed a Hallowe'en social in the Baptist church vestry, on Saturday under the direction of Misses Susie Morgan and Ellen Prior.

The waist-measure social held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church in the vestry of the church Friday night was an unqualified success. An unusually large number attended, and the receipts up to date are $71.54, which is considered to be some waist measure! Previous to the social, diminutive aprons for the women and girls and trousers for the men and boys, each having a good sized pocket containing verses of poetry, stating the use to which they were to be put, were distributed. The women under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Mrs. C. D. Wolf made the articles and Miss Irene Stewart typed the poetry. The vestry has seldom been so elaborately decorated with the Halloween novelties of black cats, witches, ghosts, bats and skeletons placed all around the walls, festoons of black and yellow and every light covered with Chinese lanterns and shocks of cornstalks. Miss Gladys Jeffers had charge of this work, assisted by Bessie Thompson, Clara Adams, Isabel Marshall, Martin Kraus, Walter Benjamin, Irene Stewart, Christine Marshall, Loretta Alley, Grace Jeffers and Tyler Gilbert. Flora Littlefield arranged the program which was announced by E. L. French. Two little tots, Bernice McNicol with her animated black kitty, and Ruth May Benjamin, brought down the house as they recited their pieces. Mrs. Andrew McNicol sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Alex McNicol. Miss Stewart played piano solos and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox read humorous selections. Then the Halloween games followed under the direction of Sadie Thompson. Mrs. E. A. Faust received the award for the best artist. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served under the direction of Mrs. F. E. Robinson, assisted by Mrs. John Whalley, Mrs. A. P. Anderson, Miss M. A. Burdick and Mrs. C. D. Wolf. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox was in charge of the arrangements for the social.

Mr. and Mrs. John McElligott Jr., gave a Halloween party to a number of friends on Saturday evening, who, on their arrival were awed to see ghostly footprints leading up to the porch where the ghost himself silently greeted them. The guests were masked as they entered the house. Games were played, and dancing to radio music was enjoyed. The rooms were decorated in black and orange crepe paper, black cats and pumpkin moon shines. A witch's kettle held fortunes, which matched the couples for partners at supper. Cold meat, salad sandwiches, doughnuts, gingerbread, nuts, sweet cider and ginger ale were served. There were favors and pretty caps for each guest. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Caron and Mr. and Mrs. White from Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert and Mr. and Mrs. Lanphanin from Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Miller from Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Melady from Bishops and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hiscox and Mr. and Mrs. Marcurale of Jewett City.

J. Edward Wyatt arrived in town Sunday morning for a month's stay after spending a year in Hialeah, Florida.

Dr. G. H. Jennings returned Sunday morning from Montreal, Canada where he attended the 15th annual conclave of the Fellows of American College of Surgeons. The conclave was attended by about 1200 surgeons, the most prominent in the United States, Canada and European countries being represented.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox and Mrs. F. E. Robinson were appointed Sunday to represent the Congregational church at the general conference to be held in Norwich.

Miss Ruth Ballou, a student at Miss Wheelock's school in Boston spent the week-end at her home in Sylvandale, and attended the Army-Navy game in New Haven.

Mrs. Celia Campbell Geist died on Saturday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Campbell. She had been in ill health for several months following an attack of influenza. She was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and her home has been in Providence for 20 years. The family has lived in Jewett City for 26 years and the daughters visit their parents very frequently, so that their many friends sympathize with them the more sincerely and feel that a personal friend who never lost her interest in her home town has been taken away. She was a member of the Jewett City Baptist church and was pianist for the Oaklawn grange. She is survived by her parents and three sisters, Mrs. Martha Casavant and Mrs. Arthur Officer of Providence, and Mrs. Merrick Carpenter of Wethersfield.

Byron Sweet has sent a specimen of a partridge which he shot, to Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Maine, according to a request made by the committee on ruffed grouse investigation, published in the Jewett City column on October 14. This specimen was found to have the stomach worms that are said to be the means of the death of these birds.

The Pachaug Community club held its October meeting in the Grange hall, Thursday evening. The committee in charge was Mr. and Mrs. John Medick, Alexina Pepin, George and Marion Frink.

The programme opened with community singing led by a member of the Crescent quartet, with Miss Ethel Fiske at the piano and there were several selections on the fiddle by George Rathbun, accompanied by Mrs. George T. Briggs, and a reading by Miss Ethel Fiske. A song entitled Old Folks at Home, was sung by the Crescent Male quartet of Norwich, and was followed by a harmonica solo and encore by Arthur Millard, original poems by Peter Olsen, another song entitled, Nights Farewell, with encore by the quartet. Mr. Rathburn entertained again with his fiddle. Doughnuts, cheese and sweet cider were served. Next came a good old-fashioned dance with Everett Whipple as prompter. The committee for the November meeting is Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Miss Juliette Richmond, Edward Thornton and Susan Terry.

TUESDAY, NOV. 2nd, IS ELECTION DAY, AND EVERY CONNECTICUT ELECTOR SHOULD RECORD HIS OR HER VOTE AT THE POLLS.

In 1920 and 1921, about 120,000 men were out of work in Connecticut. This was a result of a Democratic low tariff. Under the present Republican tariff, our places of employment are kept running. No state in the Union can show a better financial record than Connecticut. Recent Republican administrations have REDUCED direct taxation, done away with Democratic indebtedness left from 1914, and increased the scope and capacity of all departments and institutions. We have gone through a war period and a period of deflation; the American dollar is worth only 66 per cent of its 1914 value, yet Connecticut's ACTUAL cost of state government has increased but 10 per cent since 1914.

DANIELSON

CONNECTICUT MILLS CO. IS GOING TO MOVE SOUTH

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 31—Returning at the week end from Albany-Decatur, Alabama, President Obidiah Butler of the Connecticut Mills company gave to The Bulletin a statement relative to the future plans of this corporation, which, more than a decade ago, began the manufacture of tire fabric in Danielson, in a small way and since has grown to be one of the best known concerns in this line of textile activity.

This concern, which has paid millions of dollars in wages to its employes in Danielson and developed an entire new section of the community, with many pretty and comfortable homes, is definitely going south. The change will not be made right away, but is arranged for and eventually will come to pass, unless some great, unforeseen and very improbable happening should come to pass.

In as short a period as five weeks plans for the company's new mill at Albany-Decatur, Alabama, will have been prepared and work on the building, it is now anticipated, will be underway by Christmas. Manufacturing operations in Alabama likely will begin as early as May of next year.

Machinery for the equipping of the new mill will come from the Globe mill of Fall River and the Danielson plants of the company. About one-half the machinery in the Danielson mill will be removed next year. Eventually the Connecticut Mills will entirely be withdrawn from manufacturing in New England. It is likely that more than a year will elapse before the concerns activities in Danielson cease.

President Butler is as keenly regretful as anyone in Danielson will be that the Connecticut Mills, which has employed as many as 450 operatives in the heyday of its operations here, has to go south to save itself from extinction. The advantages of manufacturing tire duck in the south over conducting the business here as so many and so important that they represent the difference between the company being forced out of business or continuing under conditions assuring a prosperous future.

The numerous advantages of the south over the north as they apply to the tire fabric business may be summed up in the statement that manufacturing costs in Alabama are five cents a pound of fabric cheaper than in New England, and that means a great deal of money during the course of a year where the production may be from 250,000 to 300,000 pounds per week. There is no money in manufacturing tire duck in New England today, President Butler says. While the mill here is kept going it makes no profit and is now nearing the end of one of its most unprofitable years—and operations have been continued to hold the organization together while efforts have been made to arrange for a satisfactory location in the south.

A saving of $7 a bale on cotton, due to nearness to the cotton fields; lower electric power rates, lack of restrictions on working hours, lower wage scales, exemption from taxes are all numbered among the advantages that the south offers to claim away the textile concerns of the north. The Connecticut Mills has accepted these as preferable to being forced out of business and going into the hands of a receiver.

As to the future of the Connecticut Mills, President Butler stressed one outstanding fact. In New York the past week he concluded an agreement under which Brander and Curry will become the selling agents of the company. This will be of greater significance in textile trade circles than to the average individual, for it means that the corporation now has an agreement with one of the most successful tire fabric selling organizations in the world. It is almost insurance that the product of the Connecticut Mills of Alabama, as they likely will eventually be known, will be sold to the very best advantage, and that is a very great point, fabric men will tell you.

President Butler said that Charles T. Main, Inc., are the architects and engineers who are preparing the plans for the new plant to be built in Alabama. These plans will be submitted for approval in early December.

As to the future of the properties here, President Butler made no predictions—as it would be impossible for anyone to do.

For the people of Danielson who will most certainly be depressed over the coming departure of the Connecticut Mills there are numerous salient features to remember. Among them are the facts that the mills at the north end of the town are modern, of fine construction and in excellent condition. About them the finest "mill village" property in eastern Connecticut and developed, scores of fine homes, on wide, well-kept streets. Mill village is an inept term to use, for the Connecticut village community has not of the regimented likeness of the ordinary manufacturing center. Each home is of a distinctive type and style, with ample lawn space about it. There's a property that will not long be idle, one may rest assured of that. The mills have their own railroad siding and are so well located that some of the successful branches of the textile business still remaining in New England will find an ideal home there. As marked the collapse of the Danielson Cotton company a few years ago, eventually acquirement of their properties by the Connecticut Mills, in the heart of Danielson, the unpretentious coming of the Paco Manufacturing company to eventually take over this idle plant and develop it into the hive of successful industry—that it is today. So, too, might one point to Williamsville, a deserted village about a closed plant that now prosperously thrives under the name of Goodyear. And, again remembrance of the passing of the age-old Attawaugan company, the gloom in the northern villages of Killingly, followed by the dawn as Paco took over the plants in September of this year and are bringing them back rapidly to their old place as big industrial assets to this town.

Killingly will regret the going of the Connecticut Mills, but Killingly will find a replacement for them—their properties here are too good to long stand idle.

Saturday morning the funeral of Saturday morning the funeral of Charles Heon was held from the home on the West Side with funeral services at St. James' church, Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., being celebrant of the mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Fluet, M. S. The bearers were Louis Auclair, Peter Heon, Omer LaBarre, Etienne Lavole, Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Getting Killingly's polling places ready for Tuesday's election will be one of the jobs that persons charged with the work will be engaged upon today. In this particular election the voting will be done by districts, at Danielson, Dayville and East Killingly. The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. All aside from forecasts, it appears that a sweeping republican victory is due in Killingly tomorrow. The party seems certain of electing its two candidates for representatives. This is based on the fact that there is a normal republican majority in Killingly, a town that barely ever breaks away from the custom of sending republican candidates to the legislature, though there have been occasions when a democrat has slipped in. There is no special circumstance to indicate that will happen this year.

Without undue belaboring of a good cause or excessive propaganda, mention that next Saturday is the annual tag day of the Civic federation. This will be one of the occasion upon which one gives with pleasure. Danielson knows a great deal about all the good the federation accomplishes. It knows that a dollar given to this cause is a dollar gone to help in a great work. The federation's objective this year is to top its record tag day fund of $570, brought in a year ago. The mark this year is not less than $600. It would be wonderful if that figure were doubled.

There was no great amount of football traffic, as it is called, through Danielson Saturday. It so happened that important contests were staged in places that sent the multitudes over different routes to get to the games. Yale-Army does not produce much business from this end of the country and Brown, playing Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H., killed off a great horde of riders who would have been rolling through this town had the game been played in Providence.

Spooky personalities roamed Danielson's streets Saturday night, in observance of an age-old custom of indulging in stunts and eerie practices on the eve of the feast of All Saints, which will be observed today. Scores of children had a delightful time with the various devices they employed to send a chill down one's spine.

Our savings department depositors are reminded that a dividend at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent. per annum is payable Nov. 1. Deposits made in our savings department during the present week will draw interest from Nov. 1. The Danielson Trust Co.—adv.

State officers from the Danielson barracks who were on patrol duty in various parts of the state Saturday in connection with the handling of the Yale-Army football traffic did not have to undergo the freezing they usually suffer on such occasions. Saturday was a delightful day gloriously day to be out of doors.

No definite announcement had been made up to Sunday afternoon as to when Killingly's evening school is to open, but it will likely be early in the present month.

John C. Deming of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

The annual All Saints' day service will be held in Old Trinity church, Brooklyn, a matter of interest to numbers of people here.

Appeals have been received here for contributions for the support of the Newington hom for crippled children.

Scores of hunters availed themselves of the delightful weather of Saturday to get afield with dog and gun, but the bags to game were reported not so plentiful as earlier in the season.

If you ask the man who owns one, he will tell you that his couch has been about the only place he has found it comfortable to be on the long consecutive list of rainy Sundays.

Reward for return of bag containing insurance papers, lost in Moosup Saturday night. Albans Hardman, Moosup, or Box 176, Danielson.—adv.

Plans of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company to work on its power lines Sunday, were again disrupted by rain, so the power was not shut-off Sunday afternoon. This is the second Sunday in succession that this has happened.

PUTNAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT STRONGLY REPUBLICAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM Oct. 31—The 1926 political campaign in this town has been a very listless one. Voters do not seem to be greatly interested in the outcome and there are practically no contests.

For senator from this, the 28th, district, it was assumed until a few days ago that Elbert L. Darbie, of Danielson, who is the republican nominee, would have no opposition. Then it was learned that the democratic senatorial committee had certified the name of Dorothy Jones Bartlett of this city as its candidated.

The time limit for filing names for nomination had expired but Mr. Darbie said that he would offer no opposition to Mrs. Bartlett's name being printed on the ballot, that he believed the electors ought to have an opportunity to vote for whom they wanted and that he would take no advantage of a technical omission; so that there will be two candidates for this office.

There is hardly any doubt, however, as to the result as the district is strongly republican. It comprises the towns of Putnam, Killingly, Thompson, Woodstock, Eastford and Ashford. The first four are normally republican by sizeable majorities on national and state elections, except that Killingly occassionally veers around. In Eastford and Ashford the parties are about evenly matched. Pomfret is linked up with Willimantic in the 29th senatorial district.

Henry N. Benoit is the republican candidate for probate judge and he has no opposition, the democrats naming no one for the place.

For representatives to the general assembly William Pechie and Samuel Rich, republicans, who were elected two years ago, were renominated. The democrats named one candidate, George Potvin.

In Woodstock Miss Lucy Barrett is one of the democratic candidates for representative. Miss Annie R. Bates of Pomfret, and Miss Sadie C. Kimball of Scotland are also candidates for representative. They are both democrats. This makes four women candidates for legislative offices in Windham county.

The S. S. Duilio on which Miss Harlet G. Sampson is a passenger, is expected to dock at Naples Tuesday or Wednesday. She sailed from New York October 24th. Her mother, Mrs. George M. Sampson of Woodstock has received two radiograms from her saying that the weather had been pleasant and the voyage a very enjoyable one.

Jesse E Rich has sold his two family house on Grove street to Leonard H. Mellor. The latter is superintendent of the National Rhea company's plant in this city and the purchase by him of a home here is about the best evidence that could be given of the faith that the owners and officials of a company that is making a comparatively new textile fabric have in their product.

Mr. Rich will continue to occupy one of the apartments. Mrs. A. D. Lown, who lived in the other, has moved into the newly completed rectory of the Episcopal church on Pleasant street, and Mr. Mellor has taken the tenement that she vacated.

Rev. Richard D. Hatch of Brooklyn, Conn., who is the new rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church, will continue to live at Brooklyn until he finds a suitable home here. The rectory into which Mrs. Lown has moved is not large enough for Mr. Hatch's family. He will drive up to conduct services until he is satisfactorily housed here.

Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows sent a delegation of more than 50 to Plainfield Saturday evening to take part in the exercises incident to the initation of twenty-five candidates into the order.

Ten members of Putnam M. E. church went to Moosup last Friday evening, to attend the League institute. They report an exceptionally interesting program. On Friday evening October 30, the institute met at the Putnam M. E. church. The principal feature of the evening was an address by Rev. M. J. Creegan of Hazardville. Supper was served in the vestry room at 6:30.

TWO PUTNAM DOCTORS ALLOWED TO PRACTICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 31—According to the interpretation put on the recent decision of the United States district court regarding the right of 72 Eclectic physicians to practice medicine in Connecticut by Attorney General Frank E. Healey only five are debarred at this time. These five reside in the western part of the state. The licenses of the others will not be revoked at once, possibly not at all. Among those who will be allowed to continue to practice are Dr. Philias E. Tetrault of Putnam and Dr. Raymond Prisque of Dayville.

The assessors of the town of Putnam, who have been making their headquarters in the city council chamber, had a busy day Saturday, it was the last day for property owners to file their valuations and, as is customary, a great many waited until the eleventh hour. At that there is a fairly large number who will be charged a ten per cent penalty for failing to file their returns within the time allowed by law.

The assessors are allowed no option in the matter. Those who fail to file a return before November 1st have a ten per cent penalty added to their taxes.

The Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Second Congregational church preached Sunday morning at the First Baptist church, and the Baptist pastor, Rev. Henry E. Hodges, occupied Mr. English's pulpit.

There is a great deal of interest among the citizens of Woodstock in the special town meeting called for Monday afternoon to see if the vote taken at the annual town meeting, authorizing the building of four miles of "state aid highway" from Woodstock to Eastford will be reconsidered.

After the vote was passed at the annual meeting authorizing the building of the road there seems to have been a growing sentiment against it on the ground that it would impose too heavy a burden on the tax payer. One part of the call for the special meeting reads that if the vote is rescinded to see what action will be taken relative to this road it is possible that a proposition will be advanced that the four-mile stretch be built a part at a time, say, a mile a year.

PLAINFIELD

At a Halloween party held at the Community house, Wednesday evening fine prizes were awarded for the best costumes. They were won as follows: Marceline Vencent, Celia Isreal, Bertha Kelly, Miss Joan Kirby and Miss Pauline Peltier. The Bluebird trio furnished music for dancing.

Mrs. M Hart of Natick, Mass., and her daughter Mrs. Herman Johnson were business callers in Providence during the week.

Charles M. Stead, who formerly spent his summer here, died recently in New York. He was father of Mrs. Paul R. Reynolds.

The date of the meeting of the Six Church conference has been changed to Tuesday, November 16, at Westminster.

The Moosup fire department responded to a call for a chimney fire at the house, corner of Salisbury avenue and Jacques street, about 8:30 Thursday morning. No damage resulted.

Frank Welch and family, who occupied the Jared Hall place in Sterling, have moved to the Dearnly farm at Bishop's crossing.

At a whist party Wednesday evening in Foresters' hall, under the auspices of Moosup Girls' club, prizes were awarded Miss Dorothy McBrien for the prettiest costume, Herbert Phillips of Plainfield for the most original and Herbert Van Cleaf of Oneco for the funniest costume.

Israel Chabot of Waurecan, remains in a critical condition in Worcester hospital. He was [illegible] injured three weeks ago as a result of an accident near Burn's garage in Lisbon when a machine driven by Melvin Richmond and owned by Leo Bellevance ran into the motorcycle driven by Mr. Chabot.

The Franco-American societies held its annual election in Lyric hall during the week. Owen Tellier of Taftville, was elected president of the Connecticut Franco-American societies. Mr. Tellier succeeds Joseph Castonguay of Hartford. Mr. Castonguay will be honorary president during the coming year.

At the Halloween party Thursday evening some three hundred little girls were guests of the Community association at the club. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded Betty Holmes, prettiest; Loraine Colburn, most original; Evelyn Lamothe for the funniest, also to Frances Babcock and Margaret Walsh.

TOLLAND

Miss Margaret Morris and Enid Morris are spending a few days in Springfield, guests of Mrs. Clinton Reed and Mrs. Julia Morris.

John Darling of New Britain and John Lee are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Emery M. Clough.

Miss Ethel Usher has gone to North Carolina for a week.

James E. Rhodes has just finished picking from six to seven hundred bushels of first class apples from his orchard.

The annual Thank Offering meeting of the Woman's Missionary society is to be held Sunday evening in the vestry. Miss Manchester from India will be the speaker.

Funeral services were held Sunday Oct. 24 at his home and were private. Rev. William C. Darly officiated. Burial was in East Windsor.

Asa P. Bird died very suddenly Thursday at 12.30 Oct. 21 of heart failure. He was born in Albany, Me., July 25, 1845, the son of Samuel and Lucy Bird. He had lived in Maine, Massachusetts, Washington, Baltimore and Hartford, where he was a broker. For the last twelve years he has lived in Tolland.

He was twice married his second wife Mrs Mary Helen [illegible] survives him, a daughter, Mrs. Grace B. Sage and a grandson, Frederick H. Sage of New York also by two step-daughters, Mrs. Hattie F. Peace of Tolland and Mrs. Florence F. Olmsted, a teacher of vocal music in the University of Florida at Miami.

In Washington at the week end, when Mrs. Arthur O'Brien was hostess at a dance at the Wardman Park Saddle club for the benefit of Wood House settlement, one of the patronesses was Mrs. Henry P. Dimock, of Washington and South Coventry.

THIS is the third OLD GOLD headline contest—with another golden pot of $2,000 in prizes. Get on your thinking cap—you may get $1,000 out of that pot!

The Lorillard Company think the above is a dandy ad for OLD GOLD Cigarettes. But what shall the headline be? A headline makes or unmakes an advertisement.

You are invited to submit your headline idea. The obstinate man in the picture is refusing to try OLD GOLDS. The young lady behind the counter knows that a stubborn man misses a lot of thrills. What is she saying to him, to get him to change his mind?

Your headline must not be over ten words, including the four first words "DON'T BE STUBBORN, SIR!" That gives you a maximum of six words to add.

52 prizes totalling $2,000.00 will be awarded for the 52 headlines which most cleverly get over the point of this advertisement . . . in the opinion of the judges.

CONTEST RULES

(1) Contest opens November 1st and closes November 15th. All replies must be mailed to reach the Lorillard Company by or before midnight of November 15th. Winners will be announced November 29th.

(2) Anyone—of either sex—may compete, excepting employes of the P. Lorillard Company or their affiliated companies.

(3) Read the text of the above advertisement carefully. Get posted on the features of OLD GOLD Cigarettes. Then submit the most appropriate headline starting with the words "DON'T BE STUBBORN, SIR!" and using not over ten words all told. The shorter the headline, the better, if it gets over the point.

(4) Originality, clearness, brevity, neatness and legibility will count.

(5) Send your suggestions on the coupon in this advertisement, or a sheet of paper, written on one side of sheet, only. Sign your full name and address. You may submit as many suggestions as you like, but each must be on a separate sheet of paper, or a separate coupon—with your name and address in full.

(6) In the event that several persons submit the same winning headline, with equal neatness and equal respect for above conditions, the prize for that headline will be divided equally among them.

(7) The P. Lorillard Company will have the right to use as it pleases any or all headlines suggested, whether they secure a prize or not.

ELECTION DUTY ON TUESDAY

For the most part the campaign in this state for the election Tuesday has been completed and about all that remains to be done is to get out the vote or go to the polls and use the much coveted franchise.

Connecticut is concerned with the importance of good government. It knows from experience the benefits which have been gained under the present administration with Governor Trumbull at the head and it cannot fail to appreciate the fact that policies have been adopted and carried out which have freed the state from a ponderous debt. The high standing which Connecticut has among other states for business conduct isn't to be disregarded and there has been no argument offered that furnishes a convincing reason for thinking of a change. Rather has the campaign demonstrated most effectively that Connecticut is doing so well that it should be kept going in the same direction, and that means the retention of the republican officials at the helm of the ship of state.

As for Senator Bingham the state cannot fail to recognize the excellent impression that he has made in filling out the incompleted trem of the late Senator Brandegee to which he was elected. He has been a powerful support for the federal administration and repeatedly demonstrated the value to Connecticut of having such a representative in the upper house of congress. His election should be insured by a large majority.

Congressman Freeman of this district is also deserving of reelection on the strength of his record, the value of his work for the district and the consistent backing which he has given to the president and his policies.

Attacks made upon the republican state and federal candidates, feeble though they have been, only add conviction to the belief that faithful, active and sound business supporters deserve to be kept in office. It would be folly for Connecticut to think of doing otherwise.

It is nevertheless important that there should be a large turnout on the part of the voters. Avoid any possible regrets by getting out, going to the polls and supporting the republican nominees. Safety and good results lie in sticking by those who have been tried and stood the test so finely. Their good work calls for their retention in office.

CELEBRATING HALLOWEEN

From various parts of the country appeals were made for an orderly observance of Halloween, and when some of the celebration results have been considered it can be easily agreed that such appeals are justified.

There is no justification for youngsters suddenly going wild and causing all kinds of destruction, serious annoyance to the sick and aged and showing no disposition to refrain from acts of violence and grave disorder.

In the observance of Halloween there can be no disposition to stand in the way of wholesome fun on the part of the young people. It is to be expected and encouraged, but even as it is urged and aided there cannot fail to be recognition of a reasonable limit, the overstepping of which properly calls for rebuke and restraint.

It was long since understood that safety and sanity were needed in connection with the observance of the Fourth of July. The harmful effects of the wild and reckless celebration were seen on all sides, and yet though the curbing has been put into effect there has been no detraction from or lack of interest in the observance of the nation's anniversary.

Much the same situation has developed in Connecticut with the Hallowe'en celebration. There may not be as many deaths or as many injuries, but the overstepping of bounds has developed in many directions in connection with what is done under the name of Halloween observance. Where educational efforts have been put forth and properly backed they have been followed by good results and given encouragement to the getting of additional improvement in the same direction. Yet it is only what should be reasonably expected.

PRESIDENT SETS EXAMPLE

The announcement that President and Mrs. Coolidge will go to Northampton, Mass., to cast their votes in the election Tuesday cannot fail to be an inspiration to the voters in general. Here is displayed a regard for the duty of voting that is impressive. They could remain in Washington and vote by mail, but have elected to go in person and meet the responsibilities that go with the franchise.

There are great numbers who need to give that same attention to the use of the ballot. They live by the hundreds within walking distance of the polls and yet fail to show the proper interest in presenting themselves at the polling places and standing as individuals for the best to be had in government, local, state or national.

The absentee voting privilege does not apply to the large army of slackers but if it did they would probably continue to cling to the idea of staying at home and letting others do the voting and then save because the result wasn't different or conditions followed which were most distasteful.

Let all voters, women as well as men, follow the example of President and Mrs. Coolidge and arrange their duties so that they can get to the polls as early as possible on Tuesday. Make it an election of all the voters who are physically able to get there. See that the republicans are out in force, and if that is done there can be no question of a satisfactory result.

It may be said that the apathetic are following the easiest course. It would be easier for the President to vote in Washington, but he isn't taking the easiest course when it comes to rendering an important duty.

SHERIFF AND REPRESENTATIVES

Since the days of George Jackson, New London county has had the services of Sidney A. Brown as high sheriff. That period furnishes convincing evidence that he has had experience with which the county cannot afford to part, and if we understand the sentiment of the people, those of both parties, there is no disposition to think of making a change.

Faithful work is deserving of recognition and Sheriff Brown has certainly looked well after the duties of his office in this county. Furnishing convincing evidence through his record that his services should be retained and appreciating the importance of having an experienced man in such an office the voters who have consideration for efficiency in office and merit in candidates will eagerly await the opportunity to insure his election on Tuesday. He is one of the many republican candidates who is the right man for the job.

Let it also be remembered that Norwich wants representation in the legislature that will accomplish something. There is none so bold as to think that the legislature will be other than republican. Unless Norwich sends representatives who are members of that party its representatives are bound to labor under a handicap, the effects of which have, though not frequently, been disclosed in the past. The election of Cassidy and Engler will eliminate such a possibility in the next general assembly, even as it did in the last.

APPLE WEEK

The week commencing October 30 has been designated as Apple week. What are you going to do about it?

Apple week, like other weeks having special designations, is for the purpose of trying to awaken an interest in apple culture and the use of apples and thereby bring about a recognition of the opportunities which prevail for developing this industry and of making use, so far as is possible, of the state grown products.

It might be expected that the growing of apples would increase with the demand, and yet it is a fact that many of the apples which are consumed in Connecticut today are grown in other states. This shows that opportunities for supplying the home markets are not being met by the Connecticut orchardists, even though the state grown fruit is just as desirable, and in many instances more so.

If Apple week will serve to whet the interest in apple consumption, it ought also to develop a greater interest in the production to meet the consumption. Why shouldn't Connecticut by greater production on better marketing facilities handle this business which is now proving so profitable to growers in other states? It is certainly worth thinking about seriously, and without wasting too much time there seems to be good reason for believing that land less profitably used should be employed for that purpose.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Judging a man by the car he drives is much like judging him by the clothes he wears.

Greetings to November, and if it is in keeping with the almanac days there can be no complaint.

The man on the corner says: The month of election, Armistice day and Thanksgiving is now with us.

Rain has done much in October to keep down the Sunday traffic and probably the accident record.

Are your blinds, porch chairs and nerves intact and in place following the observance of Halloween?

Remember tomorrow is election day and your duty to go to the polls and vote. For good government pull the republican lever.

Like many other things a grand jury is what you make it. It may provide an interesting inquiry and it may be a cat and dog fight.

The sesquicentennial may live in memory, as claimed, but it has had a hard struggle for existence in Philadelphia, as it can testify.

The series of curves below the state hospital will some day be eliminated, but until such work is done it is a fine place to use caution rather than speed and corner cutting.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Vegetables sliced lengthwise instead of crosswise keep their flavor better when cooked.

If cake is made with a butter substitute be sure to use an additional amount of salt.

Regular meal hours is an important stone in the foundation of family happiness.

A drop-leaf table saves lots of space when one room has to be used for both dining room and kitchen.

Give the family a pleasant surprise the next time you serve roast lamb by putting some grape or currant jelly in the gravy.

If possible use the water from your potatoes when making gravy from fried or roasted meats. It will add more flavor.

Borax water will remove the brown stains from scorched or burned dishes. Let them stand in the solution for a day.

Fill the copper kettles with boiling water and rinse out thoroughly before starting to clean them. They will polish much more quickly.

Use very little furniture polish in warm weather and rub that in well. Much polish will give the furniture a bluish, smeary appearance.

All traces of mud may be easily removed from black clothes by rubbing the spots with a raw potato cut in halves.

If gum is accidentally besmeared on furniture, rub a little olive oil with a soft cloth on the spot and all traces of gum will disappear.

If soda is spilled on the floor, before sweeping it up sprinkle salt on it. The salt keeps the soot together.

BREAKING THEM IN

The inside of new iron utensils should be coated with fresh mutton tallow and allowed to stand a few days until the fat melts; then they should be heated in hot soda water.

FOR GOOD BEVERAGES

After use, coffee and tea pots should be rinsed in cold water and washed with clear hot water. Then they should be scalded with boiling water, wiped dry, and aired thoroughly.

MACARONI

Macaroni should be broken and put into plenty of salted fast-boiling water. Keep boiling steadily until the macaroni is tender. This is the best and quickest manner of boiling this article.

ONE NEW MEMBER

The stick that the new rug is rolled on only needs a notch in one end to become a member of the clothes-prop force.

AN OLD IDEA

It is foolish to believe the old adage that cake batter may be stirred in just one direction and still result in a good cake.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If the toothbrush you have purchased is too stiff for your gums, soak it in hot vinegar for a half hour. Then wash in clear, cold water and a great deal of the stiffness will have disappeared.

One ounce of precipitated chalk, a quarter of an ounce of powdered orris root and the same quantity of soap powder make an excellent tooth powder. Mix the powder by passing it three times through a sieve.

Girls in their teens seldom need to use these cosmetics and should not make a practice of doing so. Young skins usually contain sufficient natural oil to make the use of grease creams superfluous. And the enlarged facial pores that often trouble the adolescent girl are likely to become clogged with face powder when it is used daily.

Keeping late hours is a big item in the ugliness rules, and it is especially applicable to young people. Nervousness and premature facial wrinkles result from loss of sleep. It has been estimated that girls require the following number of hours of sleep every night: Age 12 to 14, 10 to 10 1-2 hours; age 14 to 16, nine to ten hours; age 16 to 18, nine to nine and one- half hours; age 18 and over, eight to nine hours. Mature women who wish to reduce may cut down their sleeping period.

REMOVING WINDOW PAINT

To save the labor of scraping spattered paint from window glass, cover the glass with a paste of cleaning powder before the painters start work. When they have left the paint spots and powder may be easily removed together.

CHAMOIS GLOVES

Chamois gloves should be washed in warm soapsuds. Gently rub them in the lather, but do not rub the soap directly on them. When perfectly clean rinse them in clean, slightly soapy water and they will dry soft.

TOPKNOTS FOR HATS

The so-called "buttonhole" flower, now being worn everywhere but in the title position, has been promoted to the highest point fashion can attain. It is an amusing and striking feature of the new turban hats and is made from the same fabric as the hat it trims. The satin-faced, duvetyn turban is drawn tightly around the head to a point on the crown where it is surmounted by the "buttonhole" flower. The topknot is usually in a contrasting shade and is repeated in the shoulder flower.

DROP DUMPLINGS

If the drop dumplings stick to the spoon when you are trying to drop them into the hot stew or soup, first dip your spoon into some of the hot liquid and then try to drop them. Better success.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Jumper frocks in a vivid shade of marigold yellow are extremely smart in late summer modes.

The deep armhole seems assured for the winter coat and wrap as dolmans grow in favor.

The bright red envelope purse for winter is often adorned with black enamel or silver, and frequently with combinations of both.

White flannel coats in tailored styles worn with printed scarfs are seen at all the country clubs.

With the sports frock or the pleated crepe skirt the jumper of velveteen in orange, green or Alice blue is stunning.

White is always excellent taste for the evening frock, and the use of crystal and rhinestone trimming is sure to raise it to the right degree of sophistication.

Envelope purses have taken on a very light appearance. One is made of squares of green and yellow leather in checkerboard pattern.

Many practical coats for day wear have straight lines, but a cape across the back neutralizes the severity and gives a pleasing silhouette.

Evening coats of small patterned metal brocade are straight of line and white fur appears in wide bands about the sleeves, the collar is usually of the material itself and is small and close fitting.

Dark blue beret, the characteristic head covering of a Basque peasant, have been adopted by both men and women for sports wear. They are worn in rakish fashion drawn down over the left ear.

Tulle frocks, while not so practical as those of chiffon, are exquisite. In the wardrobe of a girl who has just gone back to school is a delightful little frock, which has a skirt composed of alternate flounces of black and white tulle. The waist is of white taffeta.

MILITARY MODE AGAIN APPEARS

Milady of Mayfair has been seen lately in the old military styles which come and go periodically. Jumpers with epaulettes were of scarlet and gold. There is a "catch," however. To wear these jumpers successfully a woman must have a military carriage or else resort to padding.

SOMETHING NEW IN HAT STLYES

London women have gone to the gardens and hedgerows for something in new hat styles and have evolved a type for the "fall," which is almost an exact replica of the snail-shell.

The colors used in the makeup—green and gray—assist the illusion created by the snail-like swathing of the drapery.

The Neapolitan fisherman's hat often has been copied in knitted material for seaside wear but Bond street milliners have appropriated the shape for their smartest felt creations and are producing it in many colors.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

When basting thin silks or satins use a fine needle and silk and before pulling out the bastings clip them every few inches. This will prevent holes and roughing up of the material.

When blankets have become thin and unsightly from long use, have them washed, put two or three together, and cover them with pretty sateen to make quilts. Button down the quilt here and there, mattress fashion, to keep them in proper shape and finish off with a nice frill of sateen.

To prevent soft material from puckering when sewing it on the machine, put strips of newspaper under it and sew through both material and paper. The paper is easily removed and a smooth seam results.

When sewing snaps on a garment, sew the half with a projecting point on first. Then press down firmly on the material in the place at which the corresponding snap is to be sewn. This will leave a distinct impression on the goods to show you just where to place the snap.

QUILTING VOGUE IS HERE AGAIN

Patchwork as a medium of needlework decoration has an aristocratic ancestry. Many of the designs have been handed down from the middle ages, adapted from the lovely pieces of that time. This art reached its height in the colonial days and many unusual and charming patterns were designed at this time.

At these famous "quilting" parties the current topics of the day were discussed and the results have been handed down to us in history, story and song. These colonial quilters may rightly be called our first club women.

Besides the quilts and bedspreads, patchwork is also used in frocks, pillows, table and dresser scarfs and curtains. Good looking and distinctive pieces can be fashioned using this fascinating work.

TO ARRANGE FOODS

In arranging foods in the icebox place those oftenest used on the top shelves, and the others lower down where they are not so easily reached. Place left-overs in the smallest possible pans and bowls to conserve space.

TABLE DECORATIONS

Unique among decorations for the table are figures that represent rosebush made of glass tinted a delicate blue. In appearance they resemble the beautiful pieces of carved crystal which come from China.

NEW RECIPE FOR APPLE PIE

The next time you make an ordinary apple pie, after you have filled your dough-lined pan heaping with apples and after you have added sugar, nutmeg, a little flour and lots of butter fill up the pan with cream and then add criss-cross strips on the top.

You will find the pie rich and most delicious.

CONCERNING WOMEN

South Carolina leads all the other states in having the greatest proportion of its women at work, one-third, while West Virginia has the smallest proportion, about one-ninth.

In no country in the world is there such an organized system to promote better homes as in Canada, where women's institutions are to be found in every community with well-worked courses in home economy.

Mrs. Gordon C. Willard, a former instructor at the Western college, Oxford, Ohio, before becoming the wife of her present husband revised the marriage ritual and drafted her own version of the "obey" paragraph.

Though she is past 90 years of age, Mrs Annie Clarke of Raphoe, Ireland, is still able to take care of her small farm. She recently completed the mowing, tying and stacking of an acre of oats, finishing the task in a week.

Some New York women who earn the largest salaries in the commercial art field are former students in the free classes of Cooper Union.

JUST A SUSPICION OF ONION

A bottle of onion salt is a splendid article to have on hand when just a slight flavor of onion is desired. A few sturdy shakes and you have the required seasoning, both of onion and salt.

AT THE CHILD'S PLACE

It is an excellent plan to put a piece of white oilcloth under a child's plate at table. It can be wiped and put away after every meal and it saves the tablecloth.

RECIPES

Cocoanut Bread: Mix and sift two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoon of salt, four teaspoons of baking powder and three tablespoons of sugar. Rub in five tablespoons of shortening. Beat one egg, add two tablespoons of molasses and one-half a cup of milk. Pour the liquid into the dry mixture, mix thoroughly, then beat in one can of fresh cocoanut with the milk. Pour into a well greased bread pan and let stand for 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven for 50 minutes. This is an excellent bread for sandwiches. It will be better in flavor if made the day before it is to be used.

Banana Custard: Peel and mash one large fully ripe banana. Press through a sieve, rejecting any coarser parts. Add two well beaten eggs, two tablespoons of sugar of vanilla extract and one and one-third cups of milk. Mix well and finish as for baked custard. It may also be prepared as a boiled custard. In either way it is very nice served cold with whipped cream.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Lawrence Saunders, who is 70 years old today, is an engineer and manufacturer of high repute, best known perhaps as the inventor of the apparatus for underwater drilling now in general use. Mr. Saunders, who is a Georgian, was educated at the University of Pennsylvania for the engineering profession, and is now one of the leading manufacturers of tools and implements used in mining and excavation processes that American has. Not a few of these implements are his own devising. He has served on many national and international commissions assigned to investigate problems of commerce and navigation. During the war he was chairman of the U. S. Naval board of consulting experts. He has been president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and has been an active worker in the National Civic federation.

Make the Most of Books

By James Mosher Penniman, Litt. D.

Any Place or Any Time

No other occupation is so well adapted to the profitable employment of moments of leisure as reading. At any place, at any time, without preparation we may read. Books are always ready to do for us all that our mental state will admit. No man was ever so wretched that he could not claim and receive the companionship and sympathy of the best thought of the best men. No life is so cheerless that it cannot be brightened by books.

Doctor Johnson thought that the most miserable man is he who cannot read on a rainy day. How much those miss who have no love of reading, how time must hang heavily on their hands in illness, in bad weather, in the long evenings. Emerson liked to read and study in a tumultuous privacy of storm.

Stories That Recall Others

Something Worse

Father and son were having a heated discussion. Son seemed to think that old age was a disgrace, and did not hesitate to speak his mind. Father turned red with fury when the son casually remarked that "he could imagine nothing worse than to be old and bent."

"I can," spluttered his father. "It's to be young and broke."

"The Gentle Grafter"

The lawyers were in a huddle telling experiences. One had once been employed to defend a man charged with issuing worthless checks. Jones and his client succeeded in convincing the judge that the man was not guilty and he was discharged.

The attorney named the figure for his services and the client wrote a check for the sum named and the attorney accepted it. The next day he learned from the bank that the check was worthless. The signer had never had an account at that bank.

TRAFFIC

By the Allens Speed Ordinance Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

The reason that the attempt to regulate pedestrian traffic has failed in so many cities that have attempted it is because public officials have failed to take into consideration the factors of popular psychology. To successfully change the life-long street habits of a billion or more people is a very delicate task. As a basic principle it may be said that it is impossible to enforce pedestrian control. The regulation must be so designed and presented that the public will give voluntary obedience making the rules self-enforcing.

The success of Los Angeles in bringing about universal synchronization of pedestrian and vehicular traffic has been due to a number of factors that led to a willing cooperation on the part of the walking public.

The most important factor for the success of pedestrian control is that vehicular traffic should be sufficiently heavy and so regulated that it is practically constant in flow. If a pedestrian is required to wait with the signal at the intersection where the roadway before him is empty and there is no visible reason for his delay, he will rebel. On the other hand if at the great majority of places where he must wait for a change in signals before crossing he is confronted by a stream of constant and heavy traffic, the reason for his delay is apparent, and he will give voluntary obedience.

The first requirement for successful pedestrian regulation, therefore, is an accurate regulation of vehicular traffic so that during the go signal there are always machines moving through the intersection. Where automatic traffic signals are used this can be accomplished by keeping the intervals as short as possible. It is better both from the standpoint of pedestrian control and vehicular traffic to have a few cars left over at the end of each run to have a lapse of five or ten seconds in which the intersection is used. Where the control is by manual operation the officer can accomplish the desired result by making his changes frequently and by never allowing his intersection to become idle.

The placing of marked crosswalks at intersections greatly facilitates pedestrian regulation, by keeping the walkers compact and by giving a certain protection against interference by automobiles.

When pedestrian control is introduced the police should be thoroughly instructed in their duties. Under no conditions should they be permitted to make wholesale arrests for violations. Warnings to careless or thoughtless violators can best be given by short toots upon a traffic whistle. In 18 months of pedestrian control in Los Angeles there have been but five arrests for violations.

Before pedestrian control is attempted there should be a thorough campaign of public education through the newspapers. Every citizen should be thoroughly informed as to his duties and obligations.

If the above conditions are intelligently created, pedestrian control can be established in any city with a resultant relief to congestion and traffic accidents.

CHILD TRAINING

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS

It is of importance to note the steady and consistent growth of our schools savings banks which, at the close of the last school year showed balances of $31,984,052.62, an increase of 12.4 per cent. over the preceding school year. Deposits increased 30.6 per cent and depositors 18.6 per cent.

The situation has been very well summed up by Mr. Epsey Albig, deputy manager of the savings bank division of the American Bankers association, who superintended the gathering and compiling of the data. His findings are summed up as follows:

"New high totals in school savings for all time mark the report as of June, 1926, covering continental United States. The number of systems reporting school savings has increased during the year from 766, embracing 1,577 districts, to 872, which embraces 1,818 districts. The number of schools has increased from 16,163 to 21,371; the number of pupils enrolled in schools having systems from 3,848,632 to 4,919,741; the participants in school savings from 2,869,497 to 3,463,746; the deposits from $16,981,560.72 to $20,469,960.83; net savings from $3,770,922.86 to $4,770,781.09; and bank balances from $25,913,581.15 to $31,984,052.62."

Mr. Arthur H. Chamberlain, educational director of the American society for thrift, has stated that during the last school year approximately 5,000,000 school children studied school thrift in some form.

But while these figures show great progress in thrift education work it is to be borne in mind that there are millions of students in American schools who are being given no instructions in thrift work and many more millions who are not depositors in school banks.

Much has been accomplished for the development of thrift practices among the coming generation. There is still a great task to be accomplished with these young people.—American Society for Thrift.

Headache, Colds, Costive Bowels, Take "Cascarets"

To-night! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Miss Anna Smith, student at the Holy Family Academy, Baltic, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Old Saybrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hirsch and son, Harry, Jr., of New London spent the week end in New Haven. They attended the Yale-Army game Saturday.

Mrs P. S. Collins of Norwich is visiting Mrs. Theodore Goodrich in Flanders for a few days. Mrs. Goodrich spent the first of the week as the guest of Mrs. Collins.

Week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. La Pre of 48 Asylum street were Mr and Mrs. Roy Casavant of Webster, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duhamel and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Stanton and children, Edward Jr., and Annette of Ware, Mass.

RECOVERED STOLEN CAR AT WILLIAMS CROSSING

A Ford roadster stolen Saturday night from in front of the Broadway theatre was found Sunday evening at Williams crossing, on the Willimantic road. William Willett of Montville reported to the police that he had left the machine parked in front of the theatre Saturday evening and later found it gone.

Early Sunday evening police headquarters was notified by Daniel J. Frink that a Ford roadster had been in front of his house all day Sunday. The registration numbers correspond with the numbers of the missing machine. Officers Patrick Murphy and Clifford Geary were sent after the machine and Officer Geary drove it to police headquarters where it awaits its owner.

Before the officers could bring the car back here they had to buy gas and oil for it as the car had been run until the gasoline tank was dry.

Mr. Frink reported that he missed five or six quarts of milk from his place, probably taken by the persons who had the Montville man's machine

WEDDINGS

Firth-Goyette

A very pretty autumn wedding took place at 7 o'clock last Thursday evening at the home of the bride in Hanover, when Gladys Lillian Goyette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goyette became the bride of John Edward Firth of Baltic.

The couple was attended by Mrs. William Tonnesson, sister of the bride, and William Tonnesson as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dwight Stone, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church.

As the bridal procession entered the room, the organist, Miss Blanche Lucier, cousin of the bride, played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. Mrs. Grant Bush, sister of the groom, sang Oh Promise Me. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was charmingly gowned in blue, brocaded georgette, trimmed with silver, with hat to match and carried tea roses. The matron of honor wore black satin trimmed with a delicate pink with hat to match and carried roses.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to 50 guests from Hanover, Baltic, Norwich, Montville, Jewett City, and Newport, R. I.

The bride's gift to the matron of honor was an aquamarine ring. The groom gave the best man a white gold cigarette case.

The bride received numerous gifts, including cut glass, furniture, linen, china, silver, a beautiful parlor lamp from the girl friends who the bride has worked with in the Hanover mill and from the men of the finishing room a beautiful parlor clock.

The bride has lived in Hanover for the past few years.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freemont Firth of 162 Main street, Baltic. He has lived there for the past 22 years. The young couple have a host of friends who wish them joy and happiness in their new life. After a honeymoon trip to Massachusetts and Niagara Falls they will reside in Hanover and will be at home after Nov. 1.

VERSAILLES METHODIST CHURCH

METHODIST CHURCH AT VERSAILLES RECALLS FIFTY YEARS OF HISTORY

Versailles Methodist Episcopal church celebrated its 50th anniversary Sunday, holding the special services at 2.30 in the afternoon in the church building which has served the congregation since its dedication, Nov. 2, 1875.

The anniversary services, at which the pastor, Rev. Harvey H. Conklin, presided, had an attendance that filled the church and included in the congregation were all who attended the dedication exercises 50 years ago. The hymns and scripture readings were the same as were used at the dedicatory exercises.

The services opened with the voluntary, Adagio Religioso (Oseton), by organ and violin, with Miss Alma Boutilie at the organ and the choir leader, Harold B. Linderson, violinist. This was followed by the processional hymn, "Church of One Foundation, and the congregation joined in the hymn, "Jehovah's Awful Throne, Rev. C. T. Hatch of Chatham, Mass., a former pastor, led in prayer with the response and the anthem, "Holy Love Abiding (Waring)" rendered by the choir. The reading was led by Rev. Charles Smith of Uncasville, a former pastor and was followed by the interesting historical sketch read by Mrs. Albert McNeely of this city.

The scripture lesson was given by the pastor, reading from portions of Joel, Matthew and Luke, which followed talks by the two former pastors present, Rev. Mr. Smith and Rev. Mr. Hatch, the latter making a touching reference to Rev. Chauncey W. Ruoff of Woonsocket, who immediately preceded Rev. Mr. Conklin in the pastorate. The solo, Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled (Sparks), was rendered by Archibald Torrance of Taftville, and was followed by the address of the afternoon which was given by Rev. Myron E. Genter, district superintendent, who spoke inspiringly upon Harvest Time.

After the hymn, And Will the Great Eternal God, had been sung by the congregation, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Smith and the organ postlude, La Cinquastaine (Gabriel-Marie), concluded the service.

Between the church service in the morning and the anniversary service in the afternoon, dinner was served to the guests of the church under the direction of the entertainment committee, Mrs. George W. Cole, Mrs. Henry Benker, and Mrs. William Walmsley, assisted by Mrs. F. H. Topliff, Mrs. John Hargreaves, Mrs. A. R. Boutilier, Mrs. H. R. Richards, Mrs. Fred Irons, Mrs. Bert Oliver, Mrs. Irving Gregory, Mrs. Fred Babbitt, and Mrs. C. W. [illegible].

At the morning church service the sermon was by Rev. Mr. Hatch and in the evening the first of the mission services to be held this week was held. These will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Conklin, assisted by Miss Elsa Nisbet, soloist, and Gustav Bachman.

The Church History.

Mrs. McNeely's paper upon the 50 years' history of the church was in part as follows:

Reminiscences

The old church which stood where the two family house (nearly opposite the Versailles post office) now stands was a Congregational church until after S. L. and L. D. Sayles bought the Versailles mill. Then a vote was taken to find the preference of the people as to denomination. As the Methodists were in the majority, the conference was asked to send a minister to supply this church. This was in 1873. The Rev. W. O. Cady was the first pastor. He was here, I believe, two years. Rev. Elisha B. Bradford was the next pastor. He was here the year the church burned; and it was during his pastorate that funds were first collected and the present church building planned.

In 1876 the Rev. F. C. Newell became pastor and was here for three years. It was November 3, 1876 that this church was dedicated. There are not many now living who contributed to the funds for the erection of this building. The children were formed into the "Busy Bees" society and a penny collection taken at each meeting and we sewed patch work blocks which were made into a quilt which was sold at the semi-annual bazaar and the proceeds, with the penny contributions, were used to help purchase the bell. I well remember the enthusiasm of the children when it was proposed that their money be used in this way and that each time the bell would ring we were to remember that it was calling us: "Come to church! ! Come to church! !"

In those times the Ladies' Aid met every other week for sewing in the afternoon. A supper was served to those who attended these afternoon sessions and for the children who came after school. A fee of five cents was charged for this supper. Of course everything was contributed by the hostess and her committee for that meeting and the collection went into the treasury. In the evening there was usually a social time for those who could come and often the collection was increased by contributions given at this time.

These were active times in this church. A class meeting was held on Tuesday evening, a prayer meeting on Friday evening, Ladies' Aid on Thursday and on Wednesday evening the Good Templars meeting. Most of the young and middle-aged people belonged to this society of which John Mo-Neely (often called little Johnny because of his short stature) was lodge deputy through most of its active years. When other activities also claimed the attention of the people of this community, you can realize how busy both young and old were.

The pastor was ably assisted by his wife, a very efficient and lovable woman, who took active interest in all these activities. They had three children, two boys, who have since been ministers in this conference, and one daughter, Grace. The older son, Wilbur C. Newell, is still in the service but in another conference. Elmer, the other son, has passed to his reward; and I do not know where the daughter is.

The next pastor was Dr. E. F. Smith, who many will remember as the preacher on the camp-grounds at Willimantic. Of course the first questions were children asked when the new pastor came were: "Has he any children? Are they boys or girls?" We girls were rather disappointed as there was no girl to fill the place of our lost playmate but we soon made friends with the boys of which there were two, Harry and James. They were here only one year but during that time a little daughter, Effie, came to their home and of course was the pride of all us girls.

Dr. Smith was followed by Rev. J. H. Sherman, who also had a family of three children, the twins, John and James, and a daughter, Maud. Mr. Sherman was much interested in the temperance movement and also in laying a right foundation for the children before the evil days drew nigh. He organized a Juvenile Good Templar society whose membership was under 15 years of age. I wish every child could have the helpful lessons which we received in the meetings of this organization, especially at the initiation. As each child who held office had to fulfil the duties that would be required of their elders in the Senior society they also received training in this line of work. The "Good of the Order" was also a school of training as each child was encouraged and helped to take part by the way of recitation, reading, singing or playing, as they were best fitted for it.

There were revival meetings during the winter both in the pastorates of Mr. Newell and Mr. Sherman and large classes which filled the altar joined the church. After a pastorate of three years according to the rules of the conference of that time, Mr. Sherman left us for other fields of la-

[illegible] Sherman was [illegible] very effective preacher [illegible] best to hold [illegible] and were mostly Sunday [illegible] unable to [illegible] The next was Rev. [illegible] who was with us three [illegible]

[illegible] his pastorate that [illegible] began to work in the church [illegible] school. After filling the [illegible] of librarian, secretary and treasurer in the Sunday school, he asked me to teach a class of young ladies.

Rev. B. F. Simon, the next, was a pastor worthy of a pastorate that could pay more but we were fortunate to have his services in 1887. He served this church and Baltic, as a number of our pastors have done.

United With Greeneville

In the next year we were united with Greeneville and Rev. G. H. Lamson was the pastor in 1888. Age was beginning to tell on him and he felt that he could not take the two charges the next year.

In 1889 G. W. Wright came to take his place but was not the right stamp of a man for these charges and asked to be transferred in the middle of the year. Then we had a period of supplies, who did not succeed in doing much for the church. The last of these, a Mr. Amidon, who lived in Baltic, did painting during the week and tried to preach on Sunday. He was earnest in his endeavors but when a church is run down, it needs a good preacher, and organizer and a good pastor. So for the period of about ten years we had no help from the conference and little to keep life except for the efforts of a few in the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society which was organized by a young man named John Rainsford, who, being a thorough Christian, made us feel that it was not numbers that counted in God's sight but earnest Christian living. I hope that others were led closer to God through this work in the Christian Endeavor society, as I was led.

Through the kindness and desire of spreading the gospel the surrounding churches, Methodist Protestant of Canterbury, Newent Congregational, St. Andrew's Episcopal in Norwich, and the Taftville Congregational, there were services held in this church during the years of Methodist famine.

Methodist Ministers

The first Methodist minister I have any record of serving in this church after the period of dearth is Samuel Rook who served Baltic and Versailles in 1901-02. He was followed by Robert Dyson in 1903 who worked faithfully to obtain funds for the building of the Baltic church.

The next in line is the honored pastor of this morning, Rev. Charles Hatch who served the two churches for four years 1904-08.

Then followed the beloved pastor of long faithful service 1909-23, Rev. Charles Smith. He was followed by Chauncey W Ruoff who found the work arduous on account of failing health, yet served you two years 1923-24.

This brings us to the present pastor who has worked so loyally and well the past year and who is still on hand to continue the good work.

You will all notice the many improvements that have been made in the church. And we have to thank the present Ladies' Aid and the Men's League for these, they having expended about $800 in the past year.

Some Faithful Workers

Yet it would not seem fitting to neglect to speak of some of those who played important parts in the working of the church. Perhaps the one who stands out foremost in my mind is Albert Ray, who was treasurer for this church for many years and who was ever ready to lend of his funds to the pastors until the salary could be raised. We have also to think of him as giving his daughters a musical education that they might give their services to the church that he loved to serve and they, no doubt, as willingly gave their services in turn. For many years these daughters, Mrs. William Babcock and Mrs. Jennie Alexander, served the church without remuneration and were always on hand and could be depended upon. Their brother, Avery Ray, as well as the father, sang the hymns of Zion each Sunday.

We cannot forget the years of faithful service given by Mrs. William Fuller in her work in the Sunday school and Ladies' Aid society. Mr. Fuller was always a faithful member of the quarterly conference and Lena, the daughter, who came forward to help in later years.

Then there was the Freeman family, Lyman with his cornet and violin; Charlie, our loved Charlie, who helped so much when the numbers were few; there were also Allie, Hilda and Johnny, the twins whom all prided in as they grew up in our midst; also the little ones, Mary and Annie. How nice to think of this large family and then among them came the niece, Delia, now one of your number, known to you as Mrs. Boutilier.

There was another family who came from the Occum side and who still has a representative among you, the Richards family. How we liked to work with Edith, our faithful Edith; Mabel helped us in our social gatherings and Herbert and Tyler, the little ones were always in the Sunday school.

There was another Ray family in the early history of this church who occupied two seats. That of Henry Ray a brother of Albert. Among those I remember best of this family is Mary Emma, (Mrs. Elisha Baldwin). She was before marriage a teacher in the public school and in later years superintendent of this Sunday school.

From the Versailles village came the Baileys, the Schofields, the Harringtons, the Williams, the Pickwicks, the Dewhursts, the Dorreys, the Allens, the Jellys and many others who helped from time to time. There is one whom it would be remiss not to mention, Frank Yerrington, who in later years so often decorated the church and whose last effort was to do so. He, it was, who gave the beautiful communion table in memory of his father and the bible in memory of his mother. So we might go on mentioning Hector MacConnell and others and then miss some worthy soul whose influence has touched lives of whom we know not.

So let us bow our heads in memory of all those who have at any time been of the constituency of this church, in the past and whose memory we should hold dear.

May God help us to be faithful to [illegible] task.

MERRY HALLOWEEN EVENT AT UNCAS-ON-THAMES

The annual Halloween celebration of Uncas-on-Thames took place Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in one of the wards of the men's infirmary in the local sanatorium. The ward was very prettily decorated in black and yellow so suggestive of Halloween and the lights were encased in orange decorations made in the semblance of Halloween clowns. The walls and doors were trimmed with Halloween colors and bayberry branches. In one corner of the room a witches' caldron added a touch of realism to the scene. The entire effect was very pleasing and in keeping with the spirit of the evening.

The frolic started with a grand parade of merrymakers dressed in all kinds of costumes from the beautiful to the ridiculous. A pretty Colonial girl marched side by side with an Indian during the war dance. A bride and groom were followed by a couple of stunning bridesmaids and an attractive ringbearer, pierrettes marching side by side with clowns and Humpty Dumpty hand in hand with the aurora borealis. The people taking part in the costume parade were mostly patients of the institution and a few of the staff. After marching around the ward and in front of the judges, the masks were removed and the prizes awarded as follows: For ladies, first and second prize went to Misses Loretta and Anna Smith, who were dressed as paper dolls, third prize to Mrs. Nellie Atkins, whose paper costume represented the northern lights. A special prize went to Miss Helen Fitzgerald dressed as a Colonial girl. The prize for the funniest costume went to Miss Mary Holt, dressed as a spiderman. The men's prizes were awarded as follows: First prize to George Cook, dressed as a modern girl, second to Arthur MarcAurele, dressed as an Indian squaw, third to George Thom, who made a very fine blushing bride. The prize for the funniest costume went to Fran Ricchie for his clown costume. The judges awarding the prizes were: Miss Mary McKay, Mrs. Torrance and Mr. and Mrs. James Purdon, all of Norwich.

After this a few dance numbers were played by the orchestra and refreshments in which the time honored cider, doughnuts and apples were served.

Not a small part in the enjoyment of the evening was due to the favors furnished by the Norwich lodge of Elks, through Felix Callahan, and the New London lodge of Elks and the very enjoyable music rendered by Kapetch's orchestra, through the kindness of James Brudy of the New London lodge of Elks. The decorations were made possible by the sanatorium holiday fund and the decorating was done by Richard Forsythe, William Mannix, William Johnson and Ellis Kennedy under the supervision of Miss Viola Comstock, head nurse of the sanatorium, assisted by Miss Mary Jackson. The refreshments were in charge of Miss Miriam Campbell.

FORESTERS ARE TO JOIN ARMISTICE DAY PARADE

At the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 63, Foresters of America, with Past Chief Ranger Joseph Callahan presiding, it was voted to participate in the Armistice day parade. A large delegation is expected to turn out and the local members have invited the several surrounding courts to join with them. Three applications for membership were received and four candidates were obligated.

WRECKED CEILINGS ON PLACE IN PRESTON

On the charge of damaging private property in destroying chicken coops and knocking down the ceilings in the house which he occupied in Preston, Morris Studd, 45, was arrested there Saturday night by Constable Mill. It is understood that Studd had been served with notice of foreclosure brought by a man named Plotsky and he did the damage charged in retaliation. The case will be heard in a justice's court in Preston. Studd's brother gave bonds for his appearance in court.

LEGION IN FOR KEEPING CHEMICAL WARFARE SERVICE

The Geneva Gas Protocol is the subject of a statement issued by the officials of Fletcher Post No. 4, American Legion. The Legion favors the retention of the chemical warfare service and opposes ratification of the Gas protocol. The statement, issued through Adjutant Joseph Bellefleur of Fletcher Post, says:

"As the time is rapidly approaching when the United States Senate convenes on November 10, 1926 the opposition to the continued activity of the chemical warfare service increases. With the American Legion as an organization of exercise men and women heartily in favor of the continuance of this branch of our national defense as one of the greatest means of our national security, the Legion wishes to enlighten our people on some of the questions pertaining to this issue. The use of chemicals on the field of battle is to cause casualities. Generally these chemicals are liquid or solid before released from their containers, whether the containers be airplane, tanks, artillery shell, chemical cylinders, smoke candles or other devices. They become gases upon release and cause casualities through being breathed, by burning the skin, or by profuse tears, temporarily preventing the use of the eyes. War chemicals are in constant commercial use or can readily be made by dye manufacturers or other chemica. producing plants. Therefore they are always at hand. Secret research for more effective chemicals that will penetrate present known protection cannot be prevented. Therefore they are always at hand. Secret research for more effective chemicals that will penetrate present known protection cannot be prevented. Therefore it is necessary that our own country keep up in research in knowledge of methods of protection, and in training in the use of chemicals in war in every way. Every man demands in his business reasonable amount of insurance. Our country demands a reasonable amount of insurance against a disastrous surprise by chemicals or any other method of waging war. Every new effective weapon has met with outcry against it being an inhuman device. The more effective the new weapon, the greater the outcry. The same opposition that the use of gas is now meeting, was encountered by bows and arrows, rifles, machine guns and high explosives but each in turn has been accepted, because they were effective. All history shows that in time of war any effective weapon available will be used. It should not be necessary to cite history to show any one who thinks, that when war exists, the most effective weapons will be used, those most general of application and most available. This is fundamental, bright "survival of the fittest" stuff. When nations are at war their very existence is at stake. Who is going to enforce a peacetime agreement under these conditions? If a nation uses gas in violation of its agreement, it will be necessary for its opponent or opponents to use it in retaliation, or to contemplate defeat. This is true with regard to any effective weapon, so we get back to the necessity of accepting any weapon which has been shown to be effective in war and to the necessity of acknowledging that all nations must be prepared to use this effective weapon We believe that every effort should be made to avoid war, but we don't want the United States should agree not to use such a weapon if it does have to resort to war. To do so may mean putting our country in a condition of unpreparedness that might endanger its national life. And, you know, that if we were in war and were being beaten and invaded, you would hang any man higher than the moon who didn't use gas or anything else to save the country. Why tie your own hands.

"All those who oppose the use of gas in war claim that it is more cruel or in-human or barbarious than other methods of warfare. They get that way from having swallowed our own perfectly good wartime propaganda. No known method of putting men out of action is pleasant and being gassed is not exactly like smelling perfume, but is less disagreeable than being bored with a bullet or shattered by a shell. We don't have to argue with people who talk about gas being more inhuman than other weapons. Summed up in a sentence the report of the surgeon general of the United States army shows that less than two per cent of gas casualities died while approximately twenty four per cent or all other casualities combined died. Didn't we use gas just as soon as we could and as much as we could during the war? Doesn't the World war casuality data show that it is the most effective method of causing casualities? Were not all treaties regarding the use of gas in war entirely ignored during the World war? And they would be ignored again. It all of our possible enemies know that we are thoroughly prepared to use gas and that we can in greater quantities than they, will they not hesitate to attack us? Preparation for it is therefore the insurance for peace. The necessity for thorough preparation is best illustrated by the fact that with all our facilities not a single American gas shell was fired on the western front. This for the reason that we had no chemical warfare service as a component part of our military forces and knew nothing about the production and use of gas for war purposes. Is this country to again be placed in the position where we will be unprepared and can be taken by surprise?

"The fact that we have an abundance of raw materials and large chemical industries does not mean that we are prepared in case of another emergency. It is necessary that this country keep up its research work and that the necessary supply of defensive equipment and the materials used in chemical warfare shall always be on hand. It is necessary that the component parts of our army and navy be thoroughly trained in the methods and use of chemicals. In the World war we were obliged to purchase our first 700,000 gas masks! In the event of another emergency there may be no long period in which to make the necessary preparations. That country which is not fully prepared with the most modern and effective weapons may never be given the opportunity to prepare. In short preparedness to use gas at once is the only safe course. And these are a few of the reasons why the American Legion went the people of our country to get in touch with their senators and let them know that the people they represent are with the American Legion in the stand which they have taken in regard to the continuance of the chemical warfare service as a necessary part of our defensive system and to their opposition to the ratification of the Geneva gas protocol."

WILL OPEN PORTION OF WEST THAMES STREET

It is expected that a portion of West Thames street will be open to two-way traffic by Tuesday. The pouring of cement between the trolley rails has progressed as far as Nelson place and the section from the junction of High and West Thames street to Brown and West Thames streets will be sufficiently hardened by Tuesday to allow for traffic passing over it.

When the lower end of West Thames street is opened to two-way traffic one-way traffic will be maintained for a few days between Brown and West Thames streets to the city line

WENT BEYOND LIMITS IN HALLOWEEN PRANKS

Literally scores of complaints were received Saturday evening by the police department that Halloween observers were making nuisances of themselves. Complaints began to arrive by telephone early in the evening and continued until late at night.

One group of boys were observing Halloween by throwing rotten eggs at people in the vicinity of Washington square. One of the eggs struck a young woman in the back and ruined her coat. Other people in the neighborhood were showered with eggs. A complaint to the police resulted in the seizure of a couple of the eggs and the securing of a list of names of boys and youths who are very likely to find themselves obliged to answer for their actions. Broadway residents report the theft of chairs, rugs, mats, etc., from porches and in one case a large stone crashed through the glass in the front door of a residence.

The Jail Hill gang created considerable trouble and action against those boys is contemplated by the police and the people who made the complaints. The Falls gang of toughs was unusually active and considerable damage has been reported from that section of the city.

To the boys of the city Halloween instead of being a night of playful and harmless pranks was the signal for the roughs and toughs to see how much real damage they could do with respect to no ones property or rights. It is understood that quite a number of Norwich boys will make the acquaintance of the bar of justice and perhaps become acquainted with the interior of the boys' reform school where they will be confined until discipline has taught them the difference between right and wrong.

OBITUARY

Daniel C. Callahan

Daniel C. Callahan, brother of William H. Callahan, died suddenly early Sunday morning at his home, No. 8 Sherman street. Mr. Callahan, who was a painter by trade, was born in this city and was the son of the late Daniel and Bridget Brennan Callahan. All of his life had been lived in this city. He was educated in the public schools of Norwich and was a painter by trade. Mr. Callahan was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

Surviving are a brother, William H. Callahan of this city, two sisters, Mrs. Sarah A. McGee of this city and Mrs. Eugene Riley of New London. There are also a niece and a nephew. Mr. Callahan years ago was a popular ball player. He was at one time pitcher on the old Norwich baseball team.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the auspices of Sacred Heart church, orwich Town, a fine musical programme was given at Backus hospital Sunday afternoon. The program which was arranged by the entertainment committee of the church, comprised several selections by a trio of male voices, with other vocal solos.

The participants were Walter La Fontaine, John Kelly and Matthew Sheridan.

Miss Alice H. Kennedy was accompanist for the following numbers: Hello Aloha, trio, Messrs La Fontaine, Kelly and Sheridan, vocal solo, Show Him the Door, Mr. Kelley; groups of songs by the trio, The Sidewalks of New York, I Can't Tell Why I Love You, In the Good Old Summer Time; vocal solo, Meself, Mr. La Fontaine. In closing two more selections were given by the Trio, Hi Ho the Merrie and Bye-Bye Blackbird.

Miss Kennedy also entertained with popular slesctions on the pian. The musicale was attended by members of the Sacred Heart parish.

At the meeting Friday evening of the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor society of the Methodist church, it was voted to hold a sale and supper during November, in the chapel, of the First Congregational church. Mrs. William Weaver and Mrs. Richard Carter, the latter president of the F. F. S. C. E. society are to be in charge.

It was also voted by this society to send flowers and a sunshine box by its treasurer, Mrs. A. D. Zabrinkie of Vergason avenue, a patient at Hartford hospital, following a serious surgical operation.

After matters of business were completed, those present numbering twenty or more, joined in an informal party in observance of Halloween, arranged by the president Mrs. Carter. The pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten and Miss Florence M. Bennett, assisted in the numerous Halloween games. Mrs. William We

ACADEMY WINS FROM CHAPMAN TECH IN ANNUAL FOOTBALL CLASH

The Red and White of the Academy emerged triumphant over the Red and Black representing Chapman Tech in New London on Saturday afternoon by the score of 13 to 0. The game was devoid of thrills there being little to excite the crowd along the sidelines at Morgan Park.

The contest was more a battle of two strong defensive teams with the Academy showing what little offensive there was around in scoring their two touchdowns.

The locals resorted to the forward pass as their principal weapon for gaining yardage after a fighting Tech line stopped short all thrusts at it. With Capt. Ed. Brewer leading the attack as a battering ram the Red and White attempted right at the start of the game to rip the opposing line to pieces but after about five minutes of play this plan proved rather unsuccessful and then the Academy went into the air with the result that a touchdown came very soon after this plan of battle went into effect.

On the other hand Chapman, with her much heralded aerial attack, could do little in the matter of consistent ground gaining. Not more than three of about a dozen passes attempted were successful, and those that were completed gained very little. The Whales could gain nothing at the center of the Academy line and many times the down river boys lost ground in these attempts. Tech's only real offensive was shown in the closing minutes of play when, with several substitutes in the Academy lineup, they brought the ball from their own 40 yard line down to Norwich 13 yard line where the game ended. These gains were made on sweeping end runs.

The first Academy touchdown came in the latter part of the first quarter, when after the play had been in midfield for a considerable time, the locals suddenly let loose a series of passes which brought the ball to within the shadows of Chapman Tech's goal posts and Brewer went over for the first tally from the 2 yard line. Jim Williams kicked the goal sending a neat dropkick over the cross bar.

The second period was taken up with the play being in midfield for the most part, both sides divided possession of the ball but neither team threatened to score to a dangerous degree. The Academy had a slight edge in the punting in this quarter.

The final Academy score came shortly after the opening of the third quarter. After Norwich had kicked off Chapman proceeded to make one first down bringing the ball to their 40 yard line. But, on the next play the Tech center passed badly and the ball rolled down to the 5 yard stripe where Mish fell on it and it was Norwich's ball. The Academy required the entire four downs to register the score and Williams crossed the final line with the last points of the game. Williams's attempted drop-kick for the extra point went wide of its mark and the game was over as far as further scoring was concerned.

The remainder of the third period saw the Academy get dangerously near another score only to have a forward pass from the 13 yard line grounded over Tech's goal line in the latter part of the quarter.

The Academy again threatened in the opening part of the last period when after Chapman had punted out the locals again staged a march down the field via the over head route but Norwich lost the ball when they were stopped on the New Londoners' 12 yard line. Tech punted out and the Academy fumbled after two plays and the Whalers staged their last minute show of offensive, carrying the ball about 50 yards to Norwich's 13-yard line where the game ended. The Academy lineup was profusely dotted with subs at this time, which no doubt accounted for this final ground-gaining display of the losers.

Jim Williams played the best game for the Academy while Capt. Ed Brewer and McGlone also did good work. Labenski's defensive play also was a shining spot in the Academy victory.

Kelli at quarter and Aquillo at end did the best work for the losers.

Although the Academy won, they did not play their best game and missed at least two more chances of what should have been sure scores. Not a little hard work confronts the locals within the coming two weeks if a victory over Bulkeley is to be secured. Bulkeley, ancient rivals of the Academy, who play at the campus here Saturday Nov. 13, have one of the best teams that have represented that school in some time and have been establishing quite a respectable record in games played to date. Wilby of Waterbury will be the opposition at the local campus next Saturday afternoon and this game should furnish the Academy with a stiff test in preparation for the Bulkeley encounter.

HARVARD PILES UP LARGEST SCORE IN 39 YEARS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31—(AP)—Harvard in defeating Tufts 60 to 0 yesterday scored its greatest number of points in any one game in 39 years. The undefeated 1919 team, which tied only Princeton and invaded the Pacific coast for a 7 to 6 win from Oregon, crushed Bates 52 to 0 in the opening game.

The highest score against Yale was in 1915 when Harvard won 41 to 0, the highest score by either team in their annual duel since 1884 when Yale took Harvard into camp by a score of 42 to 0.

But present day scores pale into insignificance beside the tremendous totals of the 1886-1892 period. In 1886 Harvard scored 158 points against Exeter and ran up a total of 765 points in 14 games. Princeton and Yale were the only teams to defeat Harvard and to score. Tufts was beaten twice, 82 to 0 and 96 to 0. The following year Harvard defeated Wesleyan 110 to 0. In 1888 she defeated Amherst 102 to 0, in 1890 the Crimson downed Cornell 72 to 4, and in 1892 she defeated Wesleyan 154 to 0.

RACE FOR FOOTBALL TITLE BECOMING CLOSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Uneasiness about heads that would wear football crowns increased as a result of the latest developments when additional undefeated teams toppled right and left in Saturday's play.

The exultant roar of a Columbia Lion sounded over the prostrate form of a somewhat faded Red team from Cornell when a long shot came home as have many other less favored entries in a season of football surprises.

Brown remained on the select class with a victory over Dartmouth, the reverse for the Green being the third in as many Saturdays. Lafayette waited until the last minute but downed the hitherto undefeated presidents of Washington and Jefferson to keep its record clean.

Pennsylvania went to Illinois to Rock to the Illini but the Western Conference saw the intersectional count evened, when Michigan was defeated by the Navy. The Army kept pace with its traditional rival, the Navy, but routing Yale.

The Navy upset advance forecasts and was regarded as likely to have clear sailing until the annual game in Chicago. A possible cloud across the sky for the Army takes the form of Notre Dame.

Missouri spoiled a perfect day and record for West Virginia, the Valley Eleven making another notch in the gun used for intersectional warfare. Holy Cross, however, won its intersectional game with Dayton and remained undefeated.

New York university continued to sweep clean, coming from behind to down Fordham. Boston college won from West Virginia wesleyan but surrendered the unchallenged prestige of a clean goal line.

Harvard and Princeton did not overly exert themselves with their games Saturday making the opening the series of "Big Three" contests. The Crimson swamped Tufts while the Tigers were winning by a comfortable but not top-heavy score from Swarthmore.

Syracuse stopped Johns Hopkins easily and Colgate won by a larger score than was expected among supporters of Michigan state.

Pittsburgh took the high scoring prize for the day by running up a count of 33 at the expense of Westminster.

ILLINOIS' VICTORY AND MICHIGAN'S DEFEAT SURPRISE

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Illinois' victory over Pennsylvania and the sinking of Michigan by the Navy were startling surprises to the Western Conference.

There was something of a suspicion that Illinois, although walloped by Michigan a week ago, might beat the Quakers, but none of the sideline experts had any idea that the Navy might do more than give the Wolverines a tough fight.

The defeats of Penn and Michigan dropped of the most important teams of the country out of the unbeaten classes and Minnesota's victory over Wisconsin added still another, insofar as the Western Conference situation is concerned. The Ohio state team, undefeated this season, appears to be the "White Hope" of the big ten to wallop the Wolverines and make the 1926 championship more of a free for all.

Illinois and Penn waged a desperate battle in a contest that threatened to become one of the most remarkable played on American gridirons this season. An unexpected development was the starting issue of the forward pass. Illinois was expected to rely heavily on this weapon and Penn was reputed to have four passing backs. Zuppke did not open up with his passing attack until the last five minutes of the game when he cut loose with three that enabled Frosty Peters, with himself assuming the role of a passer, to get in range for a field goal.

Penn failed to work its famous hidden ball attack with any success because of the disagreeable habit of Zuppke's team in rushing in to smear every one concerned in the deception. Charley Rogers, the Penn left halfback, played an outstandingly brilliant game, but his two playmates in the backfield, Paul Scull and Wascolonis, the big Quaker fullback, did not give him much assistance.

Wisconsin and Minnesota put up a terrific and bruising battle at Madison, but Minnesota won as was expected. Northwestern beat Indiana again with one more point than on the first occasion. There was nothing unexpected in this result as northwestern possibly could have made the score bigger had it set out to do it but there was no reason for taking any chances with Purdue looming up next Saturday as a tough opponent. Purdue rambled all over Indiana state teachers in a practice game while Iowa showed slightly strengthened defense in its 21 to 0 victory over Carroll college.

EDDY'S FIELD GOAL BEATS NEW HAMPSHIRE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 31—Connecticut Aggies defeated New Hampshire university, 3 to 0, at Textile Field Saturday, as the result of a field goal by Willard Eddy, halfback, who was the star of the game. Besides his successful attempt from the 27-yard line, Eddy missed two others by inches from 25 and 30 yards.

A beautiful forward pass from Schofield to Eddy preceded the score. The game was played in a heavy rain.

The line-up:

Connecticut (3)		N. H. (0)
Callahan, J., re		re, Prince
Sayers, rt		rt, Hoagland
Zoltis, rg		rg, Wettergreen
Daly, C., c		c, Langdell

WORLD'S RECORD FOOTBALL SCORE IS MADE

PRICE, Utah, Oct. 31—(AP)—The Carbon county high school football team yesterday afternoon hung up what is claimed to be a world's record score when it defeated Perron in a regular division game, 175 to 0. This mark betters what was previously claimed to be the world record score of 146 to 0, made by East High, Salt Lake City, against the Latter Day Saints team in 1919. De is a Carbon player, scored 25 goals in yesterday's game.

MAINE HEADED FOR N. E. CONFERENCE TITLE

STORRS, Oct. 31—(AP)—In an important New England conference game yesterday, Connecticut Aggies defeated University of New Hampshire at Manchester, N. H., by a 3-0 score. It was the only one of yesterday's contests that brought two conference elevens together, though two other teams figured in games that will have an important bearing on the success or their respective seasons. University of Maine downed Colby by a narrow 7-6 margin in the Maine state series, while Massachusetts Aggies took a 21-7 beating from Amherst in a game to decide the football championship of the town where both institutions are situated. Rhode Island was not scheduled to play yesterday.

So far as the conference is concerned, the Connecticut-New Hampshire contest was the most important of the day, and the result strengthens Connecticut's claim as the second strongest eleven of the conference. Maine, by virtue of its six victories in as many starts, including wins over the conference elevens of Connecticut and Rhode Island, has without question the best record to date. The Pine Tree staters have yet to meet New Hampshire, however, and a Granite state victory would raise havoc with Maine's claim.

In defeating New Hampshire, Connecticut brought its victories to date up to four. Wesleyan, Massachusetts Aggies, Trinity and New Hampshire have been defeats by the Nutmeggers, who in turn were turned back once by Maine.

The Pine Tree staters ran their victories to six straight in downing Colby and as Bates was turned back a week ago, Maine has now only to defeat Bowdoin next Saturday to win its third successive state championship. This will be no small assignment for the university eleven, however, as the formidable Bowdoin team can be counted upon to furnish a real battle. Thus far, Maine has defeated Fort Williams, Rhode Island, Middlebury, Connecticut Aggies, Bates and Colby and all this by a team that looked anything but promising at the start of the season.

Massachusetts Aggies found Amherst too strong yesterday, and once again the Lord Jeffs are champions of the town of Amherst. It was a case of too much Amherst power against a green Aggie eleven.

The number of games won and lost by the conference teams to date follows:

	W	L	Pct
Maine	6	0	1.000
Conn. Aggies	4	1	.800
New Hampshire	2	3	.400
Mass. Aggies	1	4	.200
Rhode Island	0	5	.000

AGGIE GIRLS PLAY TIE GAME WITH N. Y. U. TEAM

NEW YORK, Oct. The girls' field hockey teams of New York university and the Connecticut State Agricultural college played to a 0 to 0 tie in Central Park. It was the opening game of the season for the local players and the second game this year for the Aggies.

Both teams presented an impenetrable defense, Tries for goal were made by each side on several occasions, but in each instance went for nothing. The N. Y. U. swimming stars, Miss Esther Foley and Miss Ethel McGary, played on the Violet team.

The line-up:

N. Y. U. (0)		Conn. Aggies (0)
Tamor, lw		lw, Barbour
Rothman, ll		ll, Haley
Lyons, cf		cf, Brown
Markowitz, ri		ri, Kierstead

ARMY MARCHES THROUGH YALE TEAM WITH LITTLE OPPOSITION

The Army Mule and the Bulldog tangled in a one-sided fight in that little patch of greensward surrounded by towering concrete walls known as Yale Bowl on Saturday afternoon and 81,000 persons saw the Bulldog scamper though the tunnel a badly battered and beaten animal. The Army amassed a total of 32 points while Yale could score nothing as a balm to this overwhelming defeat. It was a colorful affair and although the Yale supporters found little to enthuse over they admired the grey clad Cadets, 1700 strong, that gave a brief exhibition of drilling on the field shortly before the game.

Yale never had a chance to win. They were outclassed. Within five minutes after play was called the Army had crossed the Yale goal-line and the cadet cheering section was wild. Yale had received, tried to penetrate the Army line without avail and then punted to Harding of the Army, the Yale ends nailing the receiver in his tracks. Harding fumbled and a Yale man recovered. Again finding the Army forward defense a veritable stone-wall McGunigle attempted a pass but it grounded. He then dropped back for a field goal but the ball went wide. The ball was put into play on the Army 20-yard line and on the second down Murrell punted. Bunnell was standing on his own 30 yard line waiting for the ball. When it came he juggled it and as the Army tacklers hit him he lost it and it bounded out of his arms. Dashing at full speed Born, the fleet Army end scooped it up and dashed across the line for the first score. Wilson kicked the goal. This was the break that took the fight out of the Bulldog.

From this score on it was all Army. They romped through the center of the Yale line for repeated gains and Wilson, former Penn State star, cut around the ends and through tackle with marked success. The Army line ripped away at the faltering Yale line and in their eagerness were offside many times. The backfield was in motion several times before the ball was snapped and this incurred numerous penalties. In all the Army lost 90 yards in penalties which meant very little to them.

The Army impressed with its alertness recovering five fumbles by Yale backs, two by Bunnell which proved costly and paved the way for a score. The second touchdown came after a recovered fumble by shooting Wilson and Cagle through the Yale line. Again in the second period another touchdown came when a blocked kick gave the Army the ball close to Yale's goal posts. Murrell and Wilson battered the way through the Yale line and across the goal. The fourth touchdown was the result of an intercepted Yale pass which preceded a terrific drive down the field and across the last chalk mark. The final score came late in the game after the auburn haired drop-kicking specialist, Cunningham, had been called into the game and had missed his mark by inches. With the ball on Yale's twenty-yard line Ordway fumbled and Brentnall recovered taking the ball to the Yale six yard line and after two plays Gilbreth skirted the Yale left end for the final score.

It was a game well worth seeing. Although one-sided the spectators saw a mighty fine football machine in the Army. Every man was alert and was playing football for all he was worth. Cagle, Wilson and Murrell were the outstanding stars for the Army, each individually executing several long and spectacular runs. In the line Daly, a Hartford boy, and a former Connecticut Aggie star, played a brilliant game at center.

Yale lacked something. It seemed as if they did not have the customary fight or were discouraged under such a vicious attack as was launched by the Army. Even with Noble and Kline in the game it is possible to believe that Yale could not win. Yale had Bunnell but Bunnell erred in critical times. With the other two stars in the game Yale might have scored but never have won. Yale tried all the tricks in her bag but they availed little. Their end runs were stopped without material gain; their line plays seldom took them past the line of scrimmage and their forward passing was broken up. Yale attempted 23 forwards completing 5 and four were intercepted. Two of the passes should have resulted in scores had not the receiver fumbled with a clear path to the goal. The Army won on straight football not a pass being attempted.

The crowd was treated to a brilliant display of drop-kicking before the game and between the halves by the red-headed Cunningham. This cadet was booting the pigskin across the bar with unbelievable regularity from any distance up to 40 yards. Cunningham got his chance when he was rushed into the game in the last few minutes and standing on Yale's forty yard line his kick missed the goal by inches. Cunningham shook his head as he saw the ball start then turned and trotted back to the bench his day's work having been completed.

With the final whistle of the game the huge crowd that thronged the bowl was loathe to leave the stands expecting to see the cadets break loose and celebrate with the tearing up of goal posts etc. It was a very sedate and orderly group that thronged the field. To one not knowing the result of the game it would seem from the behavior of the cadets that the Army had lost the game. They assembled and then marched to their train without the least celebration. Winning games may have become such a habit that they failed to get worked up over such an overwhelming victory.

It was a great day for the future generals and it was the fourth victory over Yale and the first since 1911.

Present indications are that the major league baseball clubs will start the season next spring with more new p'ots at the helm than has been the case in a number of years.

ONLY EIGHT TEAMS REMAIN UNDEFEATED IN EAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—The undefeated teams of the east had shrunk to eight today, as a result of Saturday's form reversals. Both West Virginia and Pennsylvania felt the sting of intersectional defeats which, however, failed to mar their records among the eastern elevens. Boston college, only team with an uncrossed goal line lost little honor Saturday when West Virginia Wesleyan managed to score. Georgetown stands at the head of point scores with a massive total of 73 in six games.

The table showing wins and losses, points scored and opponents' total points, follows:

THREE TIED FOR FIRST PLACE IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 31—(AP)—Ohio and Northwestern continued their progress Saturday toward an undefeated season in the Big Ten football race for the championship, while Michigan, tied with them at the top of the conference, was upset in its intersectional game with the Navy. To this trio of two game winners in the conference may be added Purdue with one victory and a tie, prepared to forge ahead if the others falter.

Each of the four leading teams has two or more tough games yet on the schedule. Michigan must conquer Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota, Ohio meets Michigan and Illinois. The Purdue-Northwestern game will eliminate one team and Northwestern has Iowa to beat and Purdue has Indiana.

Standing of the Big Ten teams with total points scored in all games:

	T	L	Td	Tp	Op
Ohio	2	0	0	120	27
Michigan	2	0	0	120	14
Northwestern	2	0	0	108	9
Purdue	1	0	1	73	31

MADDEN TAKES LEAD IN EASTERN SCORING

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Bill Madden, Columbia, captain, with 42 points, jumped into the lead among individual scorers in the east Saturday, gaining a four point advantage over "Whippet" Carr, Syracuse back, who is out of the game because of injuries. Shaughnessy, of Colgate, crept within a point of the crippled Orange star.

ONE TEAM LEFT IN EAST WITH PERFECT RECORD

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Boston college, with a perfect record of six games won and none lost, is the only team left in the east with an unblemished record. Holy Cross, Brown, New York U., Lafayette and Army have been defeated.

Boston college has scored 120 points to its opponents' 6. Holy Cross has scored 159 points to its opponents' 35. Brown has scored 152 points to its opponents' 14. New York U. has scored 140 points to its opponents' 10. Lafayette has scored 120 points to its opponents' 37. Army has scored 143 points to its opponents' 28.

NOANK

Several members of the Fire company went to New London Saturday to see the football game between Chapman Tech and Norwich Free academy. The trip was made in a Nash sedan. They were backing the Rose of New England boys to win. A sign on the back of the car read "We want a victory for Norwich" and the colors, red and white were flying. The Norwich team won 18 to 0.

The Missionary society of the Baptist church met during the week with Miss Annie Spicer at her home on Front street. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Among those present were Mrs. Lucy Fitch, Mrs. Lida Fitch, Mrs. Jane Palmer, Mrs. Ada Fitch, Mrs. Mary Chesebro, Mrs. Prue Chesebro, Mrs. Stella Potter, Mrs. Augusta Potter, Miss Ruth Evarts, Mrs. Mabel Spicer, Miss Emma Wilbur, Mrs. Minnie Palmer, Mrs. Minnie Palmer, Mrs. Minnie Cox, Miss J. Chester, Mrs. Lina Barber and Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft.

The old Potter estate on Front St., on which two large houses and a store were located for 50 years. Several years ago a fire destroyed the store but the two houses were saved. The place was known as the old Potter block. One house was sold to Dr. William Hill and is being torn down by Elmer Durfee. The lumber of the building will be stored in case that some day the doctor may build. The other house is occupied by Jared Brown, a fisherman and is where he builds his lobster pots during the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson motored to New Haven Saturday to see the Yale-Army game. Mr. Anderson's son Robert is in his last year at Yale who was in the cheering squad for the game.

Carl Ashcraft went to Fall River for the week end.

A new cradle is being built at Rogers' boat shop for a company at Eastern Point under direction of Foreman Orlando Clark. Part of the cradle was sent over to Groton Friday. It is to be used on the new railways. Freeman Rogers is putting it in for Mr. Hennington, where a 60-foot boat can be hauled out.

Elmer Hewitt had a new bird dog to try out in the woods Friday. The dog "Swift" got a pheasant and hit the bird, but did not kill it right out. The pheasant started to run and the dog chased it. The owner sat on a rock to wait for his dog to come back. It was fifteen minutes before Swift appeared but he had the bird. He went about one and one half miles. This is the dog's first time in the woods.

At Groton Long Point but a few will remain in their cottages throughout the winter. The post office will close, today the first of the month. The point had a good season after some bad weather during the summer. The water will be shut off now and the electric lights also. Three new cottages are being built and it looks like a busy winter at the point.

Miss Mildred Daboll, a student at W. M. I., New London, in her last year, stands high on the honor roll. Only about ten in her class are on the roll.

Fred Phillips went to Huntington, L. I., for the week end.

Charles De Blasi of Sterling is home for a few days' visit.

The fishing craft Louise has been towed to the shipyard where she was hauled out on the south ways for painting and repair work. When the boat is launched the craft will go to the fishing grounds around Montauk and Point Judith after flat-fish.

Coast Guard Boat No. 157 is receiving a coat of paint also recaulking at the shipyard.

Mrs. Abbie Merritt of Fort Hill is spending a few days with friends in the village.

John Bradley of Tallahassee, Fla., will pass several weeks with relatives in town.

NEW LONDONERS TO HEAR TALK ON ADVANTAGES OF ZONING THE CITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 31—This city is moving towards the inauguration of the zoning system that will regulate the character of the structures that will be erected in stated zones and the character of the business that will be carried on in the structures erected if business is to be conducted in them. An expert in zoning is to address the Rotary club here next week and hold a conference with the members of the city council and any others who may care to attend the meeting, to explain the system and to disclose the alleged benefits that will come from its adoption. It is admitted that care must be exercised in the introduction of zoning, that the city's prosperity shall not be jeopardized by any false notions of exclusiveness in providing business establishments. The city is in need of more industry, and to get it is the idea of many persons who have the foresight and the desire to see New London grow industrially and commercially. But the people of the city will be more familiar with the intent and the purpose of the advocated zoning when the expert has given them the benefit of his knowledge and recited experiences of other places. That there are positive benefits that may come to this city from the establishment of zones for building construction is admitted, but that there is danger if caution is not exercised is feared.

LAST VOTE ON PAPER BALLOTS COMES TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 31—The voters of this city will use the antiquated paper ballots for the last time Tuesday next. After that they will cast their votes on the automatic machines which are so generally in use throughout the country. It requires from six to twelve hours to get a count of the votes cast under the system that has prevailed here, but that will change when the voting machines are put into use and when a record of the votes is kept automatically and computed in the same way. It was intended that the machines should have been used next Tuesday but the city council delayed the inauguration of them until there was not believed to be sufficient time to make certain that the voters were familiar with the machines so that no mistakes should be made. The change will be welcomed by the voters and the substitution of the machines will also be in the direction of economy in that the number of election officials will be reduced.

Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen William Riordan, Clarence Martin and Ernest Opperman started on their annual vacations of two weeks today. Desk Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolmen Michael Dorsey, Frank Linehan and Clidye Murphy, concluded their annual vacations today.

YANTIC MAN'S AUTO WAS FOUND IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 31—An automobile owned by Nelson Desrocher, Yantic, carrying registration, 32-899, was found abandoned on Williams street, near the Connecticut College for Women this morning by the police and was taken to the police garage. Later it was determined that the automobile is owned by Desrocher. The Norwich police were communicated with, being informed of the finding of the automobile and it was then revealed that the auto was stolen Saturday night. Desrocher was notified of the recovery of the auto and came to New London where the auto was returned to him.

George John Walsh, 64, believed to have relatives residing in New London, died Saturday night in a Norwalk hospital. The selectmen of Norwalk today communicated with the New London police, stating that it was understood that Walsh had two brothers, Michael and James Walsh, who resided here. The police were unable to locate the supposed brothers in this city.

George Wilbur, 142 Shaw street, complained to the police this morning stating that a Shaw street youth had forcibly taken $3 from his little son, who had been dispatched to a store to make a purchase.

Leo Cunkoski, 43 Roosevelt street, Norwich, was arrested Saturday evening by Patrolman Elwood Bailey charged with violation of the traffic laws. Since Cunkoski was a non-resident and unfamiliar with the laws, he was released with a warning. Wallace Potter, Uncasville, was also arrested by Patrolman Lawrence Hardy for the same offense and Potter received the same consideration as did Cunkoski. Nathan Pumerantz, Montauk avenue, was arrested by Sergeant Samuel Hick charged with violation of the parking laws on Green street, where Pumerantz conducts a store. As Pumerantz was familiar with the parking restrictions there, he was ordered to present himself in the police court Monday morning.

James Dignowity, Pequot avenue, was arrested by State Police Officer Webber, Groton barracks, Saturday morning when he was found lying alongside the highway in East Lyme and in a bewildered condition from over-indulgence in liquor. Dignowity will be presented in a justice court at Niantic Monday night. Dignowity had been in company with Joshua Sands, Lyme, Saturday morning, and according to State Policeman Webber, while the pair were occupants of Sands' auto they engaged in a quarrel and at Niantic Sands forcibly ejected Dignowity from the auto, leaving him lying on the ground and close to the highway where he was in danger of being struck by automobiles. A telephone message to that effect was sent to the state police barracks and upon finding Dignowity alongside the road, he was brought to New London and locked up.

The docket to be presented in the police court as usual Monday, will be a large and varied one for there are a score of prisoners awaiting their presentation before Judge Victor Prince. There are 18 of the prisoners charged with intoxication. Others to be presented are Harry O'Hare, Lawrence, Mass., charged with creating a disturbance on a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train. O'Hare was taken from the train here by Sergeant Martin Kane, special agent of the railroad. Another prisoner is Frank Mchoney, who claims to reside in Hartford, and who was arrested Saturday night on Bank street by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman John Sullivan charged with vagrancy for Mahoney was soliciting alms. Harry F. Holloway, 43 Granite street, charged with fraud, in embezzling an amount alleged to be close to $3,000 from his former employers, H. L. Handy Co., Springfield, Mass., will also be tried on continuance. A part of the trial occurred last Monday when about 10 witnesses, merchants to whom it is alleged Handy sold goods and then appropriated the money to his own use, testified. There are about a score of other witnesses, merchants of Groton, Mystic, Norwich, Montville and Niantic, who have been summoned as witnesses at Monday's trial. Holloway, formerly resided in Groton and has not been employed by the Handy company for several months. He was arrested August 25, since which time the case has been continued several times.

The police have taken two young girls from the streets, Myrtle Hunt and Shirley Lee Hummell, and secured their committal to the State Farm for Women. They had been running the pace and they were found in a rooming house on Bank street with a couple of Coast Guardsmen.

The girls made no excuse for their predicament and were committed with the least ceremony. Both had assumed names, but the ones by which they have been known hereabouts during a year or more. The girls were attractive when they first appeared here and would have been esteemed and respected had they saw fit to go along the straight and narrow path that leads to happiness. They have indulged in liquor and have made companions of men of their own sort until the law stepped in and stopped them. How long they will be at the state farm depends upon their conduct there.

There was a Halloween procession in the streets of the city Saturday evening in which some 200 marchers took part. The result was that Bank and State streets were so filled with the paraders and autos that traffic was hindered for an hour or more. The costumes in the line were of varied sort, some amusing and others quite unique. But the occasion provided plenty of fun for the children and was not without its pleasure for adults who looked on, and for not a few who marched with the paraders.

Max Schwartz, Norwich, has sold a cottage on Easterly place, Ocean beach, to Chris. Benois.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has ordered the suspension of the driver's license of John Bailey, 403 Ocean avenue.

Mrs. Herman Braverman, 55 Prest street, made complaint to the police Saturday morning that during Friday night a thief visited her hennery and stole eight of her flock of chickens.

Joseph Eisenstein, 115 Main street, parked his automobile on Washington street, near Methodist street, Friday night and when he returned to the auto he found that a spare tire had been stolen.

Charles West, Niantic, came to New London in his automobile Friday night and attended a performance at one of the theatres He parked his automobile on Huntington street, between Federal and Church streets, and when he returned he found that it had been stolen. West reported the theft to the police and the police of the surrounding cities were asked to be on the lookout for the auto. Saturday morning the police of Norwich found the automobile abandoned on the Salem road. West later went to Norwich and recovered his property.

The police received a complaint from a resident of Pequot avenue Friday night, stating that several adults were occupying an automobile in front of the Colonnade hotel, 116 Pequot avenue and they were apparently drunk for they were making such a noise that the neighborhood was being disturbed. Patrolmen Thomas Lyden and Clarence Martin were sent to Pequot avenue, but by the time that the officers arrived at the hotel the disturbers had driven away.

HELD FOR DRIVING CAR WHILE UNDER INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Louis Marshall, 895 Pequot avenue, wife of a tobacco salesman, is a patient at Home Memorial hospital, suffering of undetermined injuries, and Timothy J. Fenton, 35 Grand street, is under arrest charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. It is claimed that he is responsible for Mrs. Marshall's injuries for the auto which he was driving which is owned by Samuel Katz, collided with an automobile driven by Marshall. Both automobiles were extensively damaged. Besides being charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, Fenton did not possess a driver's license. He was released from custody tonight when Katz's father qualified on Fenton's bond of $150. He will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

Marshall was driving his automobile on Shaw street about 2:30 o'clock and was headed in a northerly direction. At the corner of Harris street, the auto driven by Fenton and headed in a southerly course was encountered. Marshall's auto was well over on the right hand side of the highway, according to witnesses who also said that Fenton failed to keep his auto on the right hand side, but drove to the opposite side of the street and crashed head on with the Marshall auto. The impact was terrific and a telephone message was sent to the police station and with the request that an ambulance be summoned. The police speed auto, with Captain Charles A. Finney and Patrolman Augustus Ray was sent to the scene of the crash and the ambulance dispatched there. When the ambulance arrived at Shaw and Harris streets, Mrs. Marshall, who was apparently seriously injured, was taken to the hospital. She is believed to have suffered a fractured arm, lacerations and bruises. Marshall sustained lacerations to his chin, which required three stitches to close the wound.

Fenton had disappeared before the police arrived, but he was found at the Ockford Hose company building, where members of that company were engaged in putting him to bed. When the officers arrived Fenton was compelled to dress and was taken to police headquarters. Enroute to police headquarters Fenton admitted having been drinking and stated that he procured his liquor at a place in the Fort Neck district.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruity laxative for stomach, liver, bowels

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm children and they love it

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Fig Syrup" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruity laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing." Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by "The California Fig Syrup Company."

WESTERLY

HOLDING TRUCK DRIVER ON CHARGE OF EVADING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 31.—An ice truck, 31,285 N. Y., operated by Morris Lazzi, 35, of 508 East 17th street, New York, collided with the Chevrolet sedan, L-1581 Conn., of Manuel Travers, 11 Diving street, Stonington, near the Eugene Woods place on the Westerly-Stonington road Sunday at 4 a. m. It was reported that the truck, without lights was proceeding from New York to Providence on the wrong side of the state highway, crowded the Stonington bound auto off the road and swinging around, struck the lighter car, wrecking its rear end and smashing in the doors. The occupants escaped uninjured and it was said that the truck proceeded toward Westerly followed by the owner of the wrecked auto. Pawcatuck Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon was told of the smash and blew his whistle but the truck driver proceeded across the Pawcatuck river bridge into Westerly without stopping, while the Stonington officer trailed it up High street, still blowing his whistle. Westerly Patrolman Michael Curtin started toward Hope Valley in pursuit of the truck and on his return found Officer Sheldon with the truck driver under observation. On returning to Connecticut Lazzi was taken to the Liberty street lockup and held there by direction of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna for arraignment before Judge William A. Wilcox in Stonington town court this (Monday) morning. Travers was accompanied by Frank Previty of Stonington and the truck driver had with him as passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Anaslete Marcani of New York.

The death of Miss Rhoda Gavitt, aged 86 years, occurred on Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock at her home, corner of West Broad and Liberty streets, where she resided with her sister, Mrs. Lucy C. Bliven, in Pawcatuck. She was the daughter of the late George W. and Betsy Sheffield Gavitt of Westerly, where she has been a life long resident. She is survived by a nephew, Charles H. Gavitt, who resides in Avondale, R. I., besides other relatives in New York state and a niece, Miss Bessie Gavitt, who resides in Providence, R. I.

HALLOWEEN CELEBRATORS "CUT UP" IN WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 31. — All Hallows Eve was observed in Westerly Saturday, when the streets in the early and late hours were filled with ghosts, witches, goblins, as well as all manner of grotesques, both young and old. Public dances and private parties called out many masqueraders, who travelled by foot and auto to their favorite rendezvous. The clever and almost complete disguises of well known Westerly people were in many cases penetrated by watchful onlookers, when smartly tailored "young men", blacked up chauffeurs of auto parties, wanderers in bath robes and even convict suited fun makers and young men in their old and new style women's apparel paraded the streets.

Sunday morning showed that gates had been unhung and draped on adjoining lawns and telephone poles. An Elm street resident reported to the police that an antique chair had been taken from her porch and smashed in the roadway while doll carriages with their treasured occupants were pushed into the streets to complete the wreck. But one intoxicated young man was taken under police surveillance.

The Ford coupe of Raymond Taber, which was stolen last Thursday afternoon from Main street, where it had been left parked by its owner, was reported found at Wakefield in South Kingstown, R. I., on Saturday by Policeman William R. Dilman, who notified the Westerly police department. On Saturday evening Officer LeRoy H. Norman was accompanied to Wakefield by Mr. Taber, and the auto was returned to its owner.

FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING OF HORSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 31.—Eugene Gagnon, alias, 54, residing at Sunset cottage in the town of Hopkinton, R. I., was arraigned before Judge Oliver H. Williams, in a special session of third district court on Saturday noon. The complaint, under the general laws of Rhode Island enacted in 1666, alleged that Gagnon did "ride and drive a horse faster than the common travelling pace in the compact village of Hope Valley on Oct. 29." The respondent entered a plea of guilty, saying, "That while under the influence of liquor he had worked all day and that his horse acted as charged near the Hope Valley civic center and railroad station, the place she wants to go the most and I can't hold her."

Officer Kay said that the defendant was observed "zigzagging back and forth on highway at the 'rapid' speed charged and that the man, peaceably inclined when sober was in the habit of 'furiously' driving when intoxicated and while he was cautioning him without warning he suddenly whipped up his horse and continued despite his blowing his police whistle. He pursued him in an auto a half mile and placing him under arrest brought him to Westerly." Finding him guilty, Judge Williams fined him $20 and costs. Under the general law, which was enacted especially for Newport and Providence a ten days' imprisonment is optional.

There was an attendance of 150 at the wedding in the First Baptist church on Broad street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when Miss Nellie Louise Peckham, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Merrick Peckham of Westerly, became the bride of John Henry Foster Ward, son of Frank Ward of Bradford, R. I. The double ring service was used by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church. Preceded by the ushers, Ledward Andrews, of Bradford and Edwin Potter of Westerly, little Miss Ruth Peckham, a niece of the bride, as flower girl, the bride and bridesmaid, Miss Aurelia Burdick of Bradford, proceeded down the center aisle to the music of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played on the organ by Miss Mildred K. Taylor, church organist. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, John Peckham, brother of the bride. The bride was given in marriage by her brother Frank. Ushers roped off the pews with white ribbon. Church decorations were oak leaves and autumn foliage. Following the ceremony the wedding couple departed on a honeymoon, which included a motor trip to New York.

Saturday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Annabelle Vars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Vars of Lower Pawcatuck, became the bride of Leon A. Knowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Knowles of 185 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck.

The ceremony was performed at the Vars residence by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member.

The bride was gowned in pale pink crepe de chine, her veil being caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds. Mrs. William Rose, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and William A. Rose was best man. Mrs. Rose wore a gown of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The ceremony was followed by a reception and supper at the home of the bride in Lower Pawcatuck. Guests were present from Philadelphia, Plainfield, Norwich, Mystic, Groton and Westerly. Numerous beautiful and useful gifts were received by the bride.

After a wedding trip to Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Knowles will make their home in a newly furnished apartment at 185 Mechanic street.

The death of Mrs. Rosalie D. Blades, widow of William W. Blades, occurred last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lester E. Dodge at 428 East 23rd street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Blades will be remembered by many Westerly people. Her husband was general superintendent of the local plant of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co. for many years, and was a member of the First Baptist church. During their residence here Mr. and Mrs. Blades lived on Spruce street.

They had a son, William J. Blades, who died some time ago, and the only survivor now is a daughter, Mrs. Lester E. Dodge (Hattie C. Blades).

At the Westerly town treasurer's office Saturday $71,702.85 was received during the hours from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. At the end of the day 3,431 people had paid their taxes, making the amount collected $350,427.85 of the 1926 levy. There remains between 500 and 600 people who had not paid their taxes but this number may be reduced when all checks in the mail have been accounted for. At the town treasurer's office the Misses Mary E. Quinlan and Mary C. Jolly have assisted in the tax collection, and Constable Michael J. Burke has been doing special police duty until the funds collected have been safely deposited in the bank vault.

Saturday was a busy day at the office of the Pawcatuck probate court rooms. This was the last day for Stonington taxpayers to file their lists for tax purposes and over 100 lists were made out. Assessor Charles R. Johnson, Vice William A. Maxwell, resigned, was on hand until a late hour to assist taxpayers in filling out their lists. At the organization meeting of the Stonington selectmen held last Thursday in Stonington borough, Charles R. Johnson was elected an assessor until the 1927 October election.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sherman were visitors Saturday with friends in Hartford.

Dr. John Champlin, Jr., and Dr. John E. Ruisi returned to Westerly early Saturday morning from a motor trip to Canada.

Westerly Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon returned to Westerly on Sunday morning after a visit in Canada.

Joseph Metevier has returned to his home in Pawcatuck from a vacation visit with relatives in Manchester, N. H.

Dr. Philip Papalia of the Emergency hospital, Washington, D. C., is the week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michel D. G. Papalia, in Westerly.

Charles E. Redford of New London visited over the week end with relatives and friends in Pawcatuck.

Oliver W. Stoddard was a Westerly visitor on Sunday in Hartford and Simsbury.

Edward J. Butler was among the Westerly attendants at the Army-Yale football game on Saturday in New Haven.

Miss Camalia Papalia, a teacher in Pawtucket, R. I., arrived in Westerly on Friday night to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Papalia, for a short time, after attending the Rhode Island Teachers Institute.

George E. Phillips of Providence and Pleasant View beach, accompanied by friends, motored on Saturday to Thompson, to visit his daughter, who is attending a girls' school there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Vars of Westerly were among the attendants at the Army-Yale football game in New Haven Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Snyder returned to their Westerly home on Sunday from a vacation visit with relatives in Newark, N. J., and South Manchester, Conn.

Mrs. Henry A. Stahle returned Friday night to her home in Pawcatuck from a visit in Providence.

Mrs. Frank G. Ahearn of Westerly was among the attendants at the Army-Yale game in New Haven on Saturday.

Members of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church attended the installation ceremonies of the Rev. William M. Simpson of Brookfield, N. Y., to the pastorate of the First Hopkinton Seventh-day Baptist church in Ashaway on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. In the absence of W. L. Burdick, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of the Westerly church, presided at the services.

Miss Jessie Bryson of Westerly attended the Army-Yale football game on Saturday in New Haven.

MYSTIC

Frederick Arnold Wilson, 58, who died at his home, 11 Hatch street, Thursday evening, Oct. 28, after a lingering sickness, was born at Kingston, R. I., the son of Benjamin Wilson and Mary Ann Bowen. He had been employed as a loom fixer in the mill here until failing health caused his retirement from work. He was a member of Friendship lodge of Carolina, Odd Fellows, and of Mystic Rebekah lodge, No. 56. He is survived by his wife, Minnie B. Wilson, and two sons, Frederick of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Everett, of Mystic, and by two daughters, Minnie, of Mystic, and Mrs. Edgar Richards, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Funeral services were held at his home Saturday morning at 8:30. Requiem high mass at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. Thomas P. Mooney. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery.

Automobile traffic was heavy Saturday morning, many going through Mystic to attend the Yale-Army game.

The two-masted schooner Anna E., of New Shoreham, R. I., has left Lathrop's dock, after having the engine overhauled.

The yacht Clayton II, of Block Island is at the Post boat shop to be painted, as are also the Dorothy and Dorilda II, of Block Island. Post boat shop has stored the yacht Elizabeth for the winter and the yacht Audrey, of Block Island, is at the basin. Doris M., of Stonington, left Friday after being painted and repaired. The Post shop is furnishing employment for a good force of men.

The Monday club today begins its meetings for the season of 1926-27, at the home of Miss Harriet Fish, of Burrows street. The topic for the winter's study is to be China. The first paper has been prepared by Miss Eleanor Fish, who will give it this afternoon.

At the first fall meeting of the auxiliary of Richard W. Morgan post, No. 55, held recently, Mrs. Wilhelmina Gremley gave a report of the August convention held in New Haven.

Plans are being arranged for the Thanksgiving morning traveling basket. This method will be used to raise money for Christmas boxes to be sent to disabled veterans and has been successfully carried out in years past.

Alison Whipple of Westerly was a caller here on Saturday.

Breaking the News To Nanny

If news be good, or news be sad,
To break it suddenly is bad.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse was uncertain in his own mind whether to Nanny Meadow Mouse the news of his homecoming would be good news or sad news. He hoped it would be good news, but he wasn't sure. The one thing he was sure of was that whether it was good or sad it would be bad to break it to her suddenly. So Nanny had tried his best to think how he could break it to her little by little. Then he had an inspiration. An inspiration is a newly and suddenly born idea. It all came about from looking at his tail. He had looked over his shoulder at his tail very thoughtfully and right then and there the idea had been born. Now that was an inspiration.

"I wish I knew," thought Danny, "if Nanny is at home, or if she is out somewhere."

As if in answer to Danny's thought he heard a little rustle up above and looked up. In the little round doorway of that nest in the bush appeared the head of Nanny Meadow Mouse. Danny's heart leaped right up in his throat. He wanted to rush right to her. But he couldn't. No, sir, he couldn't. Something seemed to hold him right there. "Perhaps," thought Danny, "Peter is right. I am almost sure he is. It will be wisest and best and easiest to break it to her little by little."

Danny looked about. It didn't take him any time at all to find the path that Nanny used the most often in going to and from the nest. He ran along this little path until he found a place outside where he could sit in the grass, yet not be seen.

"This will do," thought Danny. "This will do splendidly. I'll sit here and let that little short tail of mine be out in the path. Then when Nanny comes running along the path she'll see that little short tail of mine. She'll say to herself, 'That looks like my Danny's tail. Yes, sir, that looks like my Danny's tail. Of course, it can't be, but it does look like it.' Then she'll come a little closer, so as to see better, and she'll say, 'If that is my Danny's tail it will have a little scar on the under side where he was bitten in a fight a long time ago.' Then I'll turn my tail over and she'll see the little scar. Then she'll say, 'That must be my Danny's tail. Can it be that my Danny is alive?' Then I'll say, 'It's me, Nanny,' and then"—But that's as far as Danny got. You see, he was very busy trying his tail. He couldn't get it fixed in the path to suit him. He didn't want anything more than just his tail to show.

"It's a great idea," said Danny to himself. "It really will be breaking it to her little by little. There's nothing much smaller than my tail, and if she sees that first, of course, it will be breaking it to her little by little."

At last Danny got his tail fixed to suit him. He felt quite sure that nothing but his tail was visible in that little path. Then he tried to possess himself with patience. He felt sure that sooner or later Nanny would come out of the house and run along that little path. If she did that, he felt sure that she would see his tail.

"If she doesn't," said he to himself, "I'll wiggle it. Then she'll be sure to see it. I wish it were a little longer. I wish it was long like the tail of my cousin, Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. But if it were, I suppose it wouldn't be breaking the news to her little by little." So Danny sighed and waited, and his funny little short tail lay out in the little path through the grass.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—An irregular recovery in stock prices, based on favorable earnings and dividend developments; a further advance in bonds to around the highest levels in several years, coincident with the successful flotation in New York, and European markets of a $500,000,000 loan government loans; a freak collapse in cotton prices to the lowest levels since 1921 followed by a partial recovery, reduction in time money rates to the lowest quotations since last spring, where the high lights in this week's financial and commodity markets.

Stock prices failed to give indications of a definite trend, irregularity being due in part to the unusual pre-election switching of speculative accounts, the excellent third quarter earnings statement of the United States Steel and General Motors corporations temporarily checked selling pressure against those issues. Oils and rails gave the best demonstration of group strength, with the chemicals presenting several points of weakness.

With Europe making steady progress towards economic recovery, foreign bonds found increasing favor among investors. The prediction of Dwight Morrow of J. P. Morgan and Company, that France and Italy would go on a gold basis next year, stimulated the buying of those issues, while the new Belgian issue went to a premium of several points above the offering price of 94.

The ease in money rates set at rest fears entertained a few weeks ago of a rise in Federal Reserve rediscount rates and Wall street began to hear talk of a possible decrease to stimulate business, several lines of which have shown a marked falling off in the last quarter. Widespread efforts to finance the storage of cotton and restrict production of the commodity next year had a stabilizing influence on the future market.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Sleepy Song

As soon as the fire burns red and low,
And the house upstairs is still,
She sings me a queer little sleepy song
Of sheep that go over the hill.

The good little sheep run quick and soft,
Their colors are gray and white;
They follow their leader nose to tail,
For they must be home by night.

And one slips over, and one comes next,
And one runs after behind.
The gray one's nose at the white one's tail,
The top of the hill they find.

And when they get to the top of the hill
They quietly slip away.
But one runs over and one comes next—
Their colors are white and gray.

And over they go, and over they go,
And over the top of the hill.
The good little sheep run quick and soft,
And the house upstairs is still.

And one slips over and one comes next,
The good little, gray little sheep!
I watch how the fire burns red and low,
And she says that I fall asleep

—Josephine Daskam.

It won't be Long

"I won't be long," the Little Boy said,
As he clattered him down the stair,
And found him a hat for his curly head
And called to a dog somewhere.

Then off like a flash down the shady lane
With a whistle and cry and song.
And back to us ever it came again:
"I won't be gone very long."

"I won't be long," the Little Boy said.
"Don't wait any supper — you see,
I'll just have a bowl of milk and bread,
And my dog will eat with me."

Then he swung his hat on his tangled string
Till the curly dog warged his tail
And romped and played like a boy in spring
And barked him a comrade's hail.

"I won't be long," the Little Boy said
Oh Mother of him, don't cry!
The leaves come green again, yellow and red.
And the years and the years go by

But sometimes he'll come, as we've seen him do,
With a bark of my dog and a song.
For it must be true—oh, it must be true
That he'll not be gone very long!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

With winter coming on, now is the time for the Wide Awake boys and girls to provide protection for the birds from winter's snow and ice storms. As we all know, many of our birds stay with us throughout the year and each winter many hundreds of them die from exposure and lack of food.

Wherever possible, especially where birds are in the habit of congregating, bird houses should be placed where they will find them. Even a small box, placed in a sheltered spot, so that rain and snow will not be likely to get into it, will be welcomed by the birds when Jack Frost freezes everything up and the skies drop a thick blanket of snow over the ground.

Another important aid for the feathered folks in winter is the feeding box. Of course the birds do not need feeding boxes at the present time for they can find plenty of food for themselves just now. But when ice and snow cover everything they will find it extremely difficult to get food. Then is the time that the feeding box will help save many of them from starving to death.

Although there is no particular necessity for feeding boxes or boards, yet it is not too early to think about it. Wide Awakes can start to construct feeding boxes and boards and will have them to set out when the severe winter storms arrive.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Pilgrims

Uncle Jed: It was on the 21 of November in the year 1620 that the Mayflower with a band of Pilgrims, 102 in number came to anchor in Cape Cod harbor, after a stormy voyage of nine weeks. At first they did not dare to leave their vessels, but sent out small exploring parties to find a harbor they would like better. Myles Standish was the leader who found a harbor he thought they would like better at Plymouth and they began at once to build their homes amidst a storm of snow. All work was suspended on Sunday. No matter whether they had a shelter of a roof or not no work was allowed on the Lord's day. The houses were rudely made of logs, and protected from the weather by a thatching of frozen earth. As the houses began to be finished the families began to go ashore, but scarcely had the labor began when they were taken with severe sickness, and within three months, 46 of their number died. At that time there were only seven who had strength to take care of the sick. The dead were buried at night lest the Indians should know of their weak condition and attack them. When spring came they rallied from their sickness but only half of their number remained. They calmly watched their little vessel the Mayflower sail slowly out of the harbor on one morning in April.

At Beach Pond

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you about one day of my vacation which I enjoyed very much. I went to Beach pond which is a summer resort and is about five miles from my home.

I met some other friends there and we went in swimming. We hired a boat which only cost us ten cents and we rowed around

TAFTVILLE

The preacher at the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday was Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church at Norwich Town. Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, pastor of the local church occupied the pulpit at Rev. Mr. Bailey's church. In the evening there was the regular meeting of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor. The leader was Miss Selena Adams and the topic discussed was What the Different Nationalities Bring to Us.

A number of the prominent republicans of the fifth voting district of the town have arranged a republican rally to be held this (Monday) evening at Parish hall.

HALLOWEEN FROLIC HELD BY HELPING HANDS

Friday evening, the Helping Hands, held one of the most enjoyable socials of the season in the Social hall of the Spiritual academy. Bewildering in its variety, the party in its Halloween attire was most bizarre, nearly everyone present being masked. Prizes were presented for the most grotesque as well as the handsomest costume, and the many Halloween games offered the winners attractive prizes also.

The cozy social hall was beautifully trimmed in orange decorations and bobbing and witches hob-nobbed with each other in a most amusing way. The committee of arrangements included Mrs. Earl Pillman, Mrs. Charlotte Powell, Miss Rose Breckenridge, Mrs. Louis Russell, Mrs. Charles A. Dowsett, Mrs. Charles Twist and Mrs. Beetham who served dainty refreshments at the conclusion of the games.

MACHINE HIT BOULDER ON MILITARY HIGHWAY

When the machine they were riding in hit a large boulder on the Military highway at the Pines, south of the Norwich state hospital, three New London men had a narrow escape from fatal injury about 10.45 o'clock Friday night. The machine, which it is said was traveling at a fast rate of speed, and was on the left side of the highway, turned turtle after hitting the boulder. The boulder weighing about a ton, was moved about four feet.

John Cote of Connecticut avenue, driver of the machine, received a broken left leg, bruises on his knee and a gash on his chin. Harry May, No. 47 Prest street, received a cut over his nose and Allyn McGuinness, No. 57 Jay street, escaped injury.

Passing motorists aided the injured men from the wreckage, and they were brought here to the W. W. Backus hospital for treatment.

KNOCKED OUT AND ROBBED ON DARK LANE ON THE WEST SIDE

John McBurney of 14 Lafayette St., collector for a clothing house, was knocked unconscious and robbed of between $80 and $100 Saturday evening before 10 o'clock on a dark lane along which he was passing from High street to Thames street. He was found on the ground by an insurance man who was passing and the police were notified, Officers Lamphere and P. Murphy making an investigation after the assault and robbery had been reported to Sergt. John H. Casey at police headquarters.

Mr. McBurney told the police that he did not know what hit him but as he was passing along the alleyway a sudden blow from the dark struck him on the head and he fell unconscious. His hat was found to be crushed down on one side and he had a bad bruise on one cheek. There were a number of bricks in the vicinity, one of which might have been used as a weapon by his unknown assailant.

Mr. McBurney's keys and his empty pocketbook were found on the ground near where he had fallen. The pocketbook contained a number of bills which he was to collect but there was no money in it, and his assailant had taken the money which he had in his pockets as well. Mr. McBurney could give the police no definite idea of how much he had but believed it was about $80 or a little more.

PICTURE SHOWS LESSON OF SUNNY DISPOSITION

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon the service at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. was greatly enjoyed by a good sized audience notwithstanding the inclement weather. The meeting opened with the singing of hymns, followed by Scripture reading and prayer; also vocal solos by Hugh Kinder, whose musical numbers are always appreciated. The five reel moving picture, "The Little Duchess," was shown and much appreciated by the audience. It was the story of a little orphan girl, who was sent to an asylum, but finally taken to live with her grandfather who was crabbed and cross. Others in the home were anything but friendly to the child, but her beautiful sunny disposition finally broke down all the barriers, and kindness won the day.

Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk taking for his topic, "The sun and the sunny disposition." He spoke in part as follows: For the text I want to take the words in Ecclesiastes, 11:17, "What a pleasant thing it is to behold the sun." We seldom stop to think of the great power of the sun, sometimes called "the king of day." No one can estimate its mighty power; power to warm the entire earth; power to draw water from the ocean that we may have needed rain; power without which we could not live. Then what a contributor to beauty is the sun; the magnificent rainbow would be impossible without the sun; and no beauty in nature surpasses a glorious sunset. What a great blessing is the sun; no vegetation could exist without the sun; we would all die without its existence. A sunny disposition like the sun, has great power in human lives to ease the burdens, etc. The sunny disposition is certainly a thing of beauty and more of us should possess it. The individual with the sunny disposition is a source of blessing to others; if there were none there would be little pleasure in life. When the husband comes home discouraged, the sunny dispositioned wife cheers him for a new beginning. I shall never forget the late Waterman R. Burnham, the first president of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. I saw him on his death bed, suffering much; he told me of his sufferings and with a never to be forgotten smile, he looked up from his bed and said sweetly, "but it is all right." He has gone, but many will long remember his pleasant sunny disposition. The little girl of the picture really makes the picture worth while as she sprinkles sunshine into crabbed lives; she teaches all of us a beautiful lesson. The question is, how we can best create and maintain a sunny, helpful disposition. I believe by gathering Jesus Christ in our hearts. Jesus is called in the scriptures "the sun of righteousness," and "the bright and morning star." One day He was having a heart to heart talk with His friends and at one point He said to them, "My wish for you is that your joy may be full; that ye may have sunny dispositions." The greatest satisfaction in life is to plant joy in the lives of others. Two men were looking at a beautiful rose bush; one said, "my, what terrible thorns on the bushes;" the other said, "what beautiful roses." Let us show others the roses in life. The kind word; the kind act; the smile, are among the roses of life. Many are waiting for them. Let us dispense them in the name of Him, who is "the oblefest among ten thousand, and the one altogether lovely."

TWO PEOPLE HURT AND TWO AUTOS WRECKED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 31—Two people were hurt and two Ford touring cars were completely wrecked in an almost headon collision on the Hartford-Willimantic road in the town of Columbia near the motorcycle climb about three miles from here shortly before midnight. One car driven by John Makin of New Bedford, Mass., was headed for Hartford. With Makin was his father, Thomas Makin, who was thrown through the windshield and sustained cuts about the face and head. He was given first aid treatment and taken to Hartford as was also Makin's wife, who sat in the rear seat and suffered bruises. The other Ford was driven by Mike Dwasko, R. D. No. 2, Colchester, state road gang employe. Both machines turned over on their sides, the Massachusetts car on the right of the road and Dwasko's car way over to the left. State police of Stafford Springs were notified.

Palestine Commandery to Parade

Palestine Commandery, No. 6, Knights Templar, of New London, will participate in the parade and celebration of Armistice day, Nov. 11, in this city.

The commandery will come here with at least three large divisions, in full knights templar regalia, headed by a brass band. This will be the second time since the famous celebration of the Battle of Groton Heights, many years ago, that the commandery has turned out in such a celebration. Defense day in New London two years ago, when a huge parade was staged in New London, found the knights templar in line.

Extra Pay for Submarine Men

A bill will be introduced in Congress this fall to increase the pay of submarine men, the Sub-Base newspaper states. If it passes, men in the submarine service will receive ten dollars submarine money, ten dollars qualification money, and a dollar for every dive, total of all additions not to exceed $30 a month. Without the pay for diving every man will be sure of $30 a month extra pay.

LEBANON Y. M. C. A. GROUP VISITED LOCAL ASSOCIATION

Saturday evening, the Lebanon group of Y. M. C. A. county members visited the Norwich Y. M. C. A. and spent a most pleasant evening. Those attending included the following: Edwin Foster, Christie Foster, Abraham Aspanall, Lester Yerrington, Harrison Abell, Jason Clark, Frank Perkins, Joseph Aspanall, Gordon Aspanall and Nathaniel Manning. At first the group gathered in the large gymnasium and under the leadership of the Physical Director William C. McKean were given lively exercises consisting of various games concluding with a short game of basketball. Following this the visitors made for the fine Osgood Memorial swimming pool, where they greatly enjoyed a swim. After dressing the group enjoyed the billiards and other games in the lobbies, and later all were served ice cream.

Before the visitors left a brief meeting was held in the parlors when a program for the county members of Lebanon "Y" group was discussed. Emery H Davis Edwin Foster and General Secretary Hill each gave their ideas of what might be a helpful program of work for the meetings at Lebanon, and by request of the boys W. C. McKean and Emery Davis of the local Y. M. C. A. staff will visit Lebanon next Saturday evening and it is hoped at that time the group will be organized for the fall and winter.

COAL BARGE CAPTAIN GIVEN FINE IN COURT

At the Saturday morning session of the city court George Spangler, 40, of New York, captain of a coal barge unloading pig iron at the plant of Richmond Radiator company, was presented on a charge of beating his cabin boy. The charge against the coal barge captain was nolled on payment of $6 which will be used to send the cabin boy back to New York. The cabin boy, McAuliff by name, refused to go back on the barge, claiming that Spangler was always beating him. Spangler was arrested by Officer Howard Coburn who happened to be in the vicinity of the barge when Spangler was beating the boy early Saturday morning.

An out of town man who has been in court before was sent to jail for 15 days on an intoxication charge. Another man who couldn't pay his fine for intoxication went to jail to work it out. A local man was fined $5 for violating the city ordiance, and a Willimantic man had his case nolled on payment of $3. He was charged with not having his registration with him.

Series for Public Health Nurses

So great was the interest and enthusiasm in the meetings for public health nurses, held at the state tuberculosis sanatoria last year that the first of another series has been planned, says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health.

These meetings have been planned by the bureau of public health nursing of the state department of health to familiarize the nurses with the work of the different state institutions and departments which are in a position to assist them in furthering the health and welfare of their towns.

Public health nurses, administrators of public health nursing and others who are interested are welcome to attend. The meetings will be held at 2 in the afternoon and will include Nov. 16, Tuesday, New London county, at Seaside sanatorium, Crescent beach, Niantic; Nov. 19, Friday, Windham county, at Training school, Mansfield.

At such meeting Dr. Millard Knowlton of this department will speak on the nurses' part in diphtheria prevention.

Health Report In This Section

The weekly morbidity report for the week ending October 23, issued by the state department of health, shows the following cases of communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut: scarlet fever, Montville, 1; New London, 1; Putnam, 1; Willimantic, 2. Measles, Brooklyn, 1; Danielson, 6; Killingly, 11; Willimantic, 1. Whooping cough—Thompson, 2; Willimantic, 1.

LORD JESUS CHRIST THE KING REVERED AT ST. PATRICK'S

In common with all the churches in the Catholic world, St. Patrick's observed Sunday, the feast newly instituted by Pope Pius XI, that of our Lord Jesus Christ, the King. The four masses were largely attended. At 9 o'clock Rev. John J. Reilly, having read the gospel for the 23rd Sunday after Pentecost, Matthew 9: 18-26, spoke on the new feast, recalling the ardor which the people of old followed Christ during the brief period of His earthly ministry. While other great leaders of their times have passed and are forgotten, the Saviour remains more than ever the leader and the king of men's hearts as He was centuries ago. Times have changed, but Christ is still the hope of our hearts. In the Blessed Sacrament of the altar He continues the true king of human hearts today.

Men are constantly reaching out for happiness, for joy; but above all they must have love or their craving hearts will not be satisfied. And experience has taught them that there is no true satisfying love save that which radiates from the great heart of their Redeemer. The heart of Christ and the heart of man are like two strings of some harmonious instrument, in unison in this desire for mutual love. How to make the new feast of spiritual profit by a deepening and widening of this ardent love for Christ through a more faithful obedience to the commands of God and a broader charity toward men, was the preacher's lesson.

Father Reilly assisted Rev. Myles P. Gavin, who read the low mass, in administering communion to a large number of penitents. At communion time, Organist Henry J. LaFontaine played with harmony and fine skill in registration, "Ah! I Have Sighed to Rest Me," from "Il Trovatore," to which the words of a hymn have been set. The junior choir sang, with a pleasing solo by Miss Alice Murphy, a new hymn recently received from Baltimore, "Mother, at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling." It is the composition of the Sisters of St. Joseph, and was first sung at the shrine in Washington.

EAGLEVILLE MAN FINDS ORLANDO BEAUTIFUL SPOT

(Special to The Bulletin)

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 31—Howard C. Atkins from Eagleville, Conn., arrived in Orlando last week for the winter. He is now located at the Lorna Doone auto camp.

"I am thoroughly pleased with Orlando. It is one of the most beautiful cities I have ever seen," commented Mr. Atkins when interviewed by Parson Webb, the popular director of tourist activities of the Orlando chamber of commerce. "Your beautiful palms, the delightful climate, with the weather neither too warm nor too cold, appeals to me," he continued.

Mr. Atkins was particularly interested in the orange and grape fruit crops of this season, and was informed that there will be a slight increase in the production this year over last. It is estimated that some two million boxes of oranges and grapefruit will be shipped out of Orange county this season. The truck farming was another subject of interest to him. This is the time of year when the farmers are busy getting in some of their crops and from now on, until the heat of mid-summer, there will be garden produce coming on with the heighth of the season about the first of the year and on to the first of March.

Halloween Birthday Party

A pretty Halloween and birthday party was given last Wednesday evening by the M. M. club at the home of Miss Mae Ulrich on Dunham street in honor of her birthday. The dining room was tastefully decorated in a Halloween scheme. The M. M. club presented her with an underarm bag. Those present were Misses Mae Ulrich, Julia Cook, Julia Ulrich, Anna Gressner, Cecilia Cook, Teresa Peringer, Louise Courbois, Anna Peringer and Elizabeth Falmun. Games and music were enjoyed and a dainty luncheon was served by Miss Anna Ulrich.

NORWICH POULTRY ASS'N. PLANS BIGGEST SHOW YET

The 135th members of Norwich Poultry association are out to make this year's show the biggest and best ever.

At a preliminary meeting the past week at the rooms of the chamber of commerce, a number of novelty ideas for making the four days' show attractive to the general public, as well as to poultry fanciers, were discussed and adopted. Frank E. Fitch, 24 Hedge aveue, is president of the organization and C. A. Ricker is secretary. A committee consisting of Lieut. John A. Monroe, U. S. N., Harold Carpenter and C. A. Ricker was named, to put over the original scheme of not only exhibiting prize poultry during the show, but of giving a public lesson in the cooking of chickens, for the benefit of housewives and others who will attend the exhibit on two of the nights designated.

This will be the third show given by the association and it is planned to make it as interesting to the general public as it will be to breeders and keepers of poultry. It is claimed that last year the organization held one of the best small shows in New England. Now the Norwich fanciers are getting on their mettle, pointing out that New London with a membership of only about half that of the Norwich association, got up an astonishingly big show last season. The local members feel that given co-operation of the townspeople and residents in suburban Norwich who have fine stock, there is no reason why Norwich should not put over a project which will be a real hummer.

The local members are highly gratified at having enrolled a new and enthusiastic fancier of wide experience, Lieut-Commander Monroe, who at his summer home on Mystic river has some of the choicest birds in the state and who is aiding the resident members in every way possible. Lieut. Monroe has recently come to Norwich to make his home at 129 Broad street and Secretary Ricker stated Sunday that already his help and suggestions have proved a big stimulus to the other members of the association. Every fancier or breeder who has birds worth showing will be encouraged to enter the display, so that the show may go ahead of anything of the kind ever attempted in this section of the state.

The fact that applications for premium lists are being received from outside the town is considered by the members a most promising sign of the wide circle of poultry owners intending to come in, to make the exhibit a success.

REV. MILLICENT WILSON FILLS SPIRITUAL ACADEMY PULPIT

Two remarkably scholarly discourses were given at the Spiritual academy Sunday by Rev. Millicent Wilson of Boston, who by her impressive delivery, carried her hearers to a striking climax, in which she made some unusual and convincing points. She followed her lectures by psychic demonstrations, giving some appealing and clearly truthful messages, all of which were readily recognized. Eager friends clustered around the rostrum at the close of the services, to greet this gifted woman, and it was announced that next Sunday, the pulpit would be occupied by the gifted speaker and medium, Mrs. Oneita Norgrave who will remain to give a message service on the Monday following her Sunday services.

Halloween Frolic

Miss Mary Peckham of Corning Road was the hostess of an enjoyable Halloween frolic given at her home Friday evening for eighteen of her friends. The decorations were tastefully arranged with a color scheme of orange and black, and the spookiness of occasion was very evident with black cats, pumpkins and jack-o-lanterns dangling from conspicuous places around the rooms. A delicious buffet lunch was served by Mrs. F. B. Peckham, after which dancing and games were enjoyed to a late hour. Those present were: Florence and Francis Bushnell, Helen Dennison, Marguerite Miller, Helen Connel, Ruth Lathrop, Rosalie Andersen, Doris Buteau, Jery Burke, Tom McVeigh, Gilbert Dennison, Aubrey Brown, Donny Courbois, Russ Aldrich, Scud Covey and Ken Connel.

POETRY

To a Wonderful October

You have said good-by, October,
Spread your wings and flown away;
Found the Land of Last Octobers,
Where your older sisters stay.
Yes, their beauty we remember,
Leaves of gold and hazes blue;
Still, of all the Last Octobers,
None enthralled our hearts like you.

From the day you came, October,
Your ambition seemed to be
Just to flirt with some new glory
Every valley, hill and tree.
Leaves you spread upon the waters
Were not dead, as cynics say;
They were living, dancing children
Laughing ripples bore away.

You made old feet young, October,
Blithely lured them on and on Down gay bypaths, leaf-embroidered,
Till all thoughts of age were gone.
You gave Youth new animation,
Pouring love from cloudless skies;
You made Grief forget its sorrows
When your sunshine dried its eyes.

You have said good-by, October,
Spread your wings and flown away;
Found the Land of Last Octobers
Where your older sisters stay.
Yes, their beauty we remember,
Leaves of gold and hazes blue;
Still, of all the Last Octobers,
None enthralled our hearts like you!
—William Herschell in Indianapolis News.

A Morning Prayer

Lord, send me to my work today
With quiet heart to cheer the way,
May those whose lives are touched by mine
Some beauty glimpse like peace of Thine.
Some blessing gain because I tread
The common way with uplift head.
Grant I may see Thee ever there
Willing and glad my cares to share,
Helping my thought to soar—to find
The purpose of Thy wondrous mind,
And may I tho' in humble place
Work nobly; that by Thy good grace
The part Thou gavest me to do
From morn till eve by journey through
When set at last in Thy design
May fill its place in hue and line;
Be fashioned by the pattern He Has set for men since Galilee.
—Gertrude B. Walker.

REPUBLICANS CERTAIN OF VICTORY IN STATE TODAY

J. Henry Roraback, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, Looks For a Republican Vote in Excess of Any Heretofore Registered in an Off Year—James J. Walsh, Chairman of the Democartic State Central Committee, Declined to Make a Forecast.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—After weeks of oratory, with republican and democratic nominees and party workers travelling from one end of the state to the other, Connecticut's campaign came to a close today.

Tomorrow, it will be the turn of the voters to take the center of the stage and then it will be determined what affect the flood of oratory had had upon the minds of the electorate.

Pre-election activities of the two major parties were brought to a conclusion tonight with the republicans "certain of victory" at the polls tomorrow and the democrats leaving "with the voters of the state the decision of issues raised by us in this campaign."

"The state will go republican by a vote in excess of any heretofore registered in an off year," J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the republican state central committee, declared today. "United States Senator Hiram Bingham will be re-elected, all five congressmen and the eight republican nominees for sheriff will be elected, and both the senate and the house of representatives will be overwhelmingly republican."

With fair weather tomorrow, Mr. Roraback expects the returns will indicate that more than 75 per cent of the republican vote will be registered, giving a plurality for all candidates of well over 50,000.

A firm believer in the "theory that the majority shall rule," James J. Walsh, chairman of the democratic state central committee, in a final statement tonight, declared that after the votes are counted tomorrow, "the democratic party will accept the verdict of the electorate." Mr. Walsh said he believed that the paramount issue in this "campaign is the elimination of Borahcaching and the return of the government to the people."

Mr. Walsh, when asked for a prediction on the outcome at the polls tomorrow said:

"I do not believe in forecasting the success or defeat of an election prior to the time the polls close on election day.

"The democratic party has nominated candidates who are able and representative citizens. They represent the various geographical divisions of the commonwealth, and are well trained by education and experience for the offices to which they have been nominated.

"We have presented the issues of this campaign to the people as we have seen them and believe the people will consider our purpose in trying to return the legislature of the state to them so that they may once more conduct the government for all the people and not for a chosen few.

"We have untiring faith in the electorate of this state and are perfectly satisfied to leave our cause in their hands."

A. E. Lynch, secretary of the democratic state central committee, said: "I make no prediction as to the election. The decision is with the voters. We will know tomorrow night whether the citizens of the state want to continue under one-man rule or not."

Charles G. Morris, democratic nominee for governor, said tonight that he would leave the predictions to those who are more acquainted with the situation. He said that in speaking in the state he had found much enthusiasm for democratic principles and many assurances.

David M. Richman, democratic nominee for secretary of state, said: "Our cause is now in the hands of the electorate of the state of Connecticut. I feel that every fair-minded, independent voter in the state has a glorious opportunity to repudiate bossism and a government which has long lost its service to the people. We have presented our issues fairly and they have been unanswered by our opponents. If Judge Tyler and Mr. Morris we have two candidates who are pledged to give the best that is in them to the people and not to any particular individual. A vote for the democratic party is a vote for popular government."

U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, seeking re-election on the republican ticket, expressed the belief today that a big republican vote is to be registered at the polls tomorrow and he sees nothing but a republican victory.

"The people are well satisfied with the administrations of President Coolidge and of Governor Trumbull," he said, "and in my opinion they are going to come out in force and cast their ballots in favor of the republican administration which will be a vote of confidence."

Congress John Q. Tilson, who is seeking re-election in a letter received tonight by his campaign manager, John B. Tower, thanked the mayor for the support he had given in the campaign and spoke of what he considered the main issues to be decided at the polls tomorrow.

"The campaign in the third district," the letter said, "has been somewhat unusual and I have heard it said that this is due to public apathy, in a way there probably is apathy towards this election but I think this lack of interest is due almost entirely to the fact that the people as a whole are so well satisfied with existing conditions that there is no desire for a political change. This state of affairs is not peculiar to my own district or to Connecticut but has been noted in practically all parts of the country. The only danger that might result from this lack of interest is that many people, through a failure to understand the importance of this election might not go to the polls tomorrow to vote.

"It appears that President Coolidge has sensed this situation and in a public statement just issued has called attention to the necessity for every voter sharing in the responsibility of government by casting his or her vote on election day.

"There is only one real issue in this campaign and that is the continuance of the sound policy of tariff protection which with the aid of economical and efficient government has contributed so much to our national prosperity. Attempts have been made to bring other issues to the forefront by those who wish to appeal to special classes of people but I do not believe that many have been led astray by such false issues."

FREED AFTER 21 YEARS IN WETHERSFIELD PRISON

HARTFORD, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A sincere will to "shun evil and do good" was recognized today by the state board of pardons. As a result, Charles H. Bassett, for 21 years an inmate of the state prison at Wethersfield, has been declared a free man.

At the same time, the board voted the release of Joseph Colombe, 56, who has served more than thirty years of a life sentence for second degree murder committed at Bethany, July 15, 1895; the reduction of the minimum sentence of Rosario Di Profio, serving from twelve to fifteen years for unlawfully transporting and using explosives, to eight years; and the reduction from three years to one of the minimum sentence of Egbert Thrall, Jr., convicted October 28, 1926, of the theft of a motor vehicle.

Bassett's successful appeal for clemency marked the culmination of a series of discouraging recitals of a career, perhaps more arresting and unusual than any before heard by the board. It was the eleventh petition for lease of a man who had "worked out his own salvation" behind prison bars.

A confirmed thief and gangster long before his twentieth birthday, convicted of complicity in the murder of a Waterbury station master late in 1905, an unruly and troublesome prisoner during the first years of his incarceration, he is today a student and a man of refinement.

"ICE WAGON" CONNELLY WAS SLAYER OF "KILLER" CUNIFFE

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The man who yesterday killed James "Killer" Cuniffe, notorious New York bandit was identified today by local police as Thomas "Ice Wagon" Connelly, alias Thomas Crowley, a member of the "Bum" Rogers gang of thugs with which Cuniffe also was associated.

The identification was made through a minute description of the man read over the telephone by New York police.

Connelly, who was known here as William Olsen, killed Cuniffe and an unidentified woman companion during what police believe was a quarrel over division of loot from recent robberies. He himself was shot to death by Patrolman Ephraim Rancour but only after he had killed another officer, Ernest Jones, and wounded a bystander in a pistol battle which followed the attempt of the officers to arrest him for the slaying of his companions.

FORMER GOV. BAXTER DEFEATED IN HOME CITY

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Former Governor Percival P. Baxter apparently failed to carry his home city in today's special senatorial republican primary. With Boland ward two missing, Arthur B. Gould of Presque Isle had 2,733; Baxter 1,664; Brazell 1,118, and Jack 93.

FINDS RELIGION CLOSELY RELATED TO GOOD HEALTH

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Pointing out that "great numbers of nervous women fly off the handle, lose self-control and wind up with mental collapse," Dean Charles R. Brown, of the Yale Divinity school, speaking here today, expressed doubt as to whether people of today have the necessary nervous fibre and mental stability to stand up under the strain and speed of modern life. He was speaking on "religion and health."

"Nervous breakdowns, insomnia, various forms of hysteria, and insanity, permanent or occasional, seem to be on the increase," he said.

"We have learned much in the last fifty years about the potency of mental and spiritual forces in overcoming functional troubles and in gaining sound health. The church has a duty in this matter. We are learning more about the utilization of certain mysterious forces within this human personality of ours as we undertake to work out our well-being. Man's prevailing habits of thought, his freedom from fear and worry, malice and hatred, his exercise of faith and hope and love, will all register themselves in certain definite physical results. The sound mind and the Christian heart contribute steadily to better health."

BRITISH UNION SEAMEN NOT TO SUPPORT MINERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—British union seamen in six American ports are overwhelmingly opposed to supporting striking British miners either by refusing to sign on vessels carrying coal to United Kingdom ports or by furnishing funds at the rate of a shilling or half crown per man. The poll was taken on British ships at Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, Norfolk, Newport News, and New York.

ACTOR ARNOLD DALY WAS INJURED IN FALL ON WALK

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Arnold Daly, widely known actor and manager, was in a hospital today suffering from a slight fracture of the skull sustained when he slipped and fell on the sidewalk early this morning. For several hours after the accident it was believed that the patient was only posing as the actor. Positive identification was finally made by Warren P. Munsell, general manager of the Theater Guild.

WINS WATCH AS CHAMPION CIGARETTE BUTT CRUSHER

NORTH LOND BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Harry Hayden, champion cigarette but crusher, today is the proud possessor of a silver watch given by the New Jersey W. C. T. U. to the boy smashing under foot the greatest number of "snipes." He ground 9,000 under his heels, according to W. C. T. U. records.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

NICE, France, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A fascist manifestation today in connection with the attack on Mussolini developed into a violent anti-French demonstration at Ventimiglia, a border town of Italy, says a despatch from that place to the L'Eclaireur.

GENEVA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Germany's known desire to get back at least one of the many colonies which she lost as a result of the World war is a grave problem which is now confronting the league of nations. The problem is felt here to be all the more grave because no light is seen as to how the question is to be solved.

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Death to every enemy of Mussolini was the cry that swept through Italy tonight. It was shouted by hundreds of thousands of black shirts parading in every city and town throughout the kingdom, thundered in huge type on the front pages of the newspapers and received the official sanction of the fascist party through the voice of Secretary General Turati, who spoke to fifty thousand persons massed in Colonna square under Mussolini's window here.

MUSSOLINI'S ASSAILANT WAS BOLOGNA PRINTER

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Anteo Zamboni, son of a Bologna printer, is the youth who yesterday attempted to assassinate Benito Mussolini at Bologna. The 18-year old boy, who was knocked to the ground and dragged to his death an instant after he shot lay at the morgue today, so badly battered and cut that it was with difficulty that his identity was established.

Although the authorities believe that he was the agent of a group of disgruntled anti-fascits, nothing to confirm this has come to light, but under orders from the secretary general of the fascist party, the authorities and all supporters of fascism are using every effort in their search for possible accomplices.

All Italy is thrilled by the almost uncanny escape of the fascist idol, and Mussolini is everywhere extolled for the presence of mind he displayed and his composure after the attack.

The premier was the recipient of thousands of telegrams of congratulation, including a message from King Victor Emmanuel and one from Pope Pius. The pontiff, commented on his fortunate escape: "This is a new sign that Mussolini has God's full protection."

WEEKLY BULLETIN STATE OF DEPT. PUBLIC HEALTH

HARTFORD, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A Notable feature of the morbidity report of the state department of health for this week is the increase in the number of new cases of whooping cough reported from Colchester. The total number for the state was 59 as against 39 for the previous week. The greatest number of cases were reported from Colchester where there were 37 new cases and from New Britain which reported 16. New cases of diphtheria increased two, the total for the state being 72. Cases of scarlet fever increased from 31 to 48. Cases of measles fell from 20 to 11. There were 79 cases of chicken pox and 74 of sceptic sore throat.

The weekly bulletin issued by the department of public health urges on parents the necessity of reporting without delay cases of communicable diseases to the health officer of their town.

FLOODS ARE CAUSING ALARM IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Nov. 1.— (AP) —Panic stricken by the rush of flood waters, riverside inhabitants in the Meuse, Sambre and Ourthe valleys have been deserting their homes during the past few days of heavy rains.

The Meuse at Liege had risen by nine feet this afternoon and was rising at the rate of an inch an hour. The situation was most serious, Dinant, Huy, Flemalle and Jemeppe. In these places the houses bordering the river bay been flooded to their second stories. Many residents were cut off by the flood waters and were rescued by police and military detachments.

Colder weather and frost this evening gave hope that the flood situation would be relieved but alarming conditions still prevailed. Many roads and thousands of acres of farm and pasture land were flooded to a depth of several feet, while many industrial works lie idle. The streets of Liege were covered with an inch of snow tonight.

PRESIDENT SETS EXAMPLE BY GOING HOME TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—President Coolidge is giving personal emphasis to his appeal to the public to vote tomorrow by going with Mrs. Coolidge, to Massachusetts to vote in their home city of Northampton.

The privilege of voting by mail was foregone by the president, who, by going to his hold home, desired not only to show the importance he attaches to exercise of the franchise by all citizens, but also to demonstrate his desire for the re-election of his close personal and political friend, Senator Butler.

SUFFICIENT CAPITAL TO DEAL WITH COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Sufficient capital is assured to permit the successful orderly marketing of this year's record cotton crop, Eugene Meyer, chairman of President Coolidge's cotton committee, declared today upon his return from the south.

Mr. Meyer reported that eight financing corporations capitalized at a total of $16,000,000, had been organized in the southern states under his direction. This aid, he pointed out, is supplemented by the intermediate credit bank machinery.

A WOMAN CENTENARIAN VOTES IN SPECIAL PRIMARY

BELFAST, Me., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Sarah E. Stewart of Belfast, 100 years and eight months old, voted today in the special senatorial primary here.

Mrs. Stewart announced later that she had marked her ballot for a townman, Hodgdon C. Buzzell, president of the state senate, one of four candidates for the republican nomination to succeed the late U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald, who died several months ago.

FINANCIAL MARKETS CLOSES FOR ELECTION DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—All business in the financial district will be suspended tomorrow under the requirements of election day, a legal holiday, the New York Stock Exchange, the curb market, cotton exchange, other securities and commodities markets, and the banks will be closed.

Queen Marie Honored by Sioux Indians

Royal Visitor Was Given a Glimpse of the Odd West in Modern Setting.

QUEEN MARIE'S SPECIAL, in North Dakota, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A colorful glimpse of the old west in modern setting was afforded Queen Marie today when at Mandan she became a "war woman" of the Sioux Indians and later at Medora witnessed an old time rodeo arranged in her honor.

The Indian ceremony and rodeo capped a day of novel experiences which began at Fargo when she took into her private car the first of a series of farmer delegations, who gave her information about farming conditions.

With all the dignity and ceremony that could be crowded into the "short form" ritual of the Sioux, Queen Marie was inducted into the tribe's sisterhood and given the name Winyan Kipanpi Win, which means "the woman who was waited for."

A war bonnet of eagle feathers, symbolic of the high station of the wearer, was placed on the queen's head by Chief Red Tomahawk as the badge of her acceptance into the tribe.

The ceremony began with a drum beat dance of braves and squaws in a circle about Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas and Princes Ileana. Then a buffalo robe was placed on the ground and Marie was directed to kneel upon it.

In the robe, Marie was carried to the ceremonial tepee where Chief Red Tomahawk, reputed slayer of the warring medicine man, Sitting Bull, went through the ritual of extending the fellowship of the tribe.

With the old tribesmen in the tepee were several young Indians who saw service with the American expeditionary forces, Governor A. G. Gorlie and Major A. B. Welch, of Mandan. Red Tomahawk spoke to the queen in the Sioux tongue:

"I want to say a few words to you now. You see this soldier (Major Welch) he is one of us by adoption and we call him brother. He told me that you are a 'ruler of a nation and a war woman.' I sent many of my young men across the ocean to fight the enemy.

"Your men were friends of my men and we fought in the same battles. I am told that you were active in that war and made sacrifices for them. I am told that many of your young men were buried far from home.

"We want to honor you. A woman does not wear an eagle's head dress unless she has performed some splendid act of heroism. Your part in that great war has endeared you to us who are of the prairies.

"We feel that we have a comrade of the war trailing you. Therefore, I present you with this honorable badge of bravery and give you the name 'Winyan Kipanpi Win', and you are my sister now."

While the ceremony was on, Princess Ileana tested the bartering ability of an Indian by swapping some Rumanian needlework and a brooch for quantity of sompums, Indian money and a beaded bag. Prince Nicholas took no part in the ceremony; but followed it closely.

ANOTHER DEFENDANT IN MORSE TRIAL IS SICK

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—The number of defendants in the Morse stock fraud trial dropped from 17 to 16 today when a mistrial was declared as far as Glenbard E. Foster is concerned and his trial was ordered severed from the rest.

Foster, who with three sons of Charles W. Morse and 18 other men, had been on trail three weeks for sending false financial statements of the Morse steamship companies through the mails to prospective stock purchasers, collapsed in a taxicab Friday while on his way to court from his home in East Orange, N. J.

Because of his illness the trial was adjourned until today and this morning another adjournment was taken to permit medical examination of Foster. When physicians reported that his condition was such as to make his further attendance at the trial dangerous to him the court granted a motion for severance.

Foster is the second defendant to have his case severed from the mail trial. Charles W. Morse, aged shipping man, was scheduled to be a defendant in the present trial but his case was put off on account of his failing health.

FATALLY INJURED IN A CLASH AT FOOTBALL GAME

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Playing of the Star Spangled Banner by the band of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college which brought the cadet students of the school to attention ended a clash of Aggie and Baylor university students between periods of the football game at Waco, Texas, but not until after Charles M. Sessums of Dallas had been injured fatally Saturday, witnesses said today.

Sessums at first thought to have been lightly injured, died Sunday of a fractured skull.

Practically all A. and M. students are members of the reserve officers training corps.

FALL AND DOHENY TRIAL HAS BEEN SET FOR NOV. 22

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Trial of the naval oil lease conspiracy case against Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, Los Angeles oil man, was set for November 22, by Justice Koehling today in the district of Columbia supreme court.

The defendants, facing charges growing out of the leasing by Doheny interests of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve, were directed to appear November 10, for arraignment, their counsel had asked Friday, that the trial be postponed until January 10, but Owen J. Roberts of the government's special oil council, urged November 22 as the date.

NAVY FLIER KILLED IN LEAP FROM FALLING PLANE

PENSACOLA, Fla., Nov. 1.— (AP) — Ensign Henry Harrison, 25, U. S. N., of Cambridge, Mass., a member of the navy air station class of 1925, was instantly killed this afternoon when he leaped from an airplane into the bay. It was harrison's second solo flight. Observers at the air station said Harrison's plane went into a nose dive and was flying upside down when the aviator leaped. Harrison and the plane struck the water simultaneously. The body was recovered.

Dry Law Violators Are Two-Fold Liable

Supreme Court Rules Both Federal Gov't and a State May Lawfully Prosecute.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Both the federal and state government may lawfully prosecute a person in their respective courts for violations of their prohibition laws growing out of the same act.

This point was determined today by the supreme court in ruling on a case from Louisiana in which Dorm, Herbert and others sought to have their conviction in the state courts set aside because the federal government had indicted them for the same offense.

Discussing the contention of double jeopardy, the court in an opinion by Justice Vandervanter to which no dissent was announced held that "the eighteenth amendment to the constitution contemplated that the manufacture of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes may be denounced as a criminal offense both by the federal law and by the state law and that the laws may not only co-exist but be given full operation each independently of the other.

"Only offenses against the laws of the United States are cognizable under its authority. Those against state laws are cognizable only under the authority of the state. And this is true where the same act is an offense against both a law of the United States and a law of a state."

The court pointed out that the state had the right to enact prohibition laws without regard to the federal government on the eighteenth amendment, and emphasized that, in attacks upon the construction of state laws, the final decision rests with the courts of the states.

The fourteenth amendment did not authorize the supreme court, the opinion declared to revise the decision of state courts on questions of state law. When the federal government enters no objection to a state proceeding with the trial of persons under federal indictments in prohibition cases, it must be assumed, the decision added, that the United States has acquiesed.

SETTING STAGE FOR THE HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Reports of the disappearance of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness in its case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her male relatives, who Wednesday will be placed on trial for the slayings of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were denied today by state troopers guarding her home near New Brunswick.

The scheduled questioning of Ralph V. M. Gorseline, former vestryman and choir singer in Mr. Hall's church was postponed today by inspector John J. Underwood, who said he was not yet ready.

Gorseline yesterday denied charges by the prosecution that he had witnessed the slayings four years ago and that one of the male defendants had encountered him in De Russey's lane and fired at him.

Somerville today was a scene of confusion which centered about the court house. A score of electricians and carpenters were at work in the building installing telegraph instruments, additional electric lights and extra seats for reporters. Seventy-five press seats will be reserved. Ten photographers will be permitted in the court room at all times.

ELECTION HALTS INDIANA POLITICAL INVESTIGATION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Approach of election day served today to slacken the activities of the grand jury that is investigating allegations of political corruption among high officials. The investigating body held brief morning and afternoon sessions and adjourned until Wednesday.

Some political leaders had hoped for a report from the grand jury before the election. They believed a report would exonerate some of the candidates against whom suspicion was directed when Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes, Indiana "Commercial" made his sweeping charges that corrupt deals had been negotiated by several officials with D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan.

Other politicians held that if indictments were returned before election, the effect would be to discredit innocent candidates who might happen to be on the same ticket with those indicted.

CONN. MEN HONORED BY COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—At the annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons, held at Montreal last Friday and attended by 2,000 surgeons from all parts of the United States, several Connecticut physicians were elected to fellowship. The selections were made a board of regents composed of the most prominent surgeons of the country.

The Connecticut men honored include:

Waterbury—Dr. E. R. Webbe, Dr. M. F. Merriman, Dr. William M. Good.

WOMAN'S APPAREL FIGURES IN THE M'PHERSON CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The blue trunk of mystery said to be the property of Kenneth G. Ormiston and containing apparel alleged to belong to Aimee Semple McPherson, accused evangelist, spilled an array of costly finery into the already cluttered records of the case when it was opened on its arrival from New York late today.

Silks and brilliants, evening gowns of cloth of gold and silver, snakeskin slippers and flimsy negligeeas, gorgeous pajamas and fur trimmed wraps, poured from the trunk as the district attorney's investigators opened it for inspection.

Sixty seven pieces of women's wearing apparel and knick knacks were counted in the glittering pile.

TODAY'S ELECTION CONTEST FOR CONTROL OF CONGRESS

Both Republican and Democratic Leaders Are Making Claims of Overwhelming Victory—In Many States Local Issues Are Interwoven in General Elections—Eight States Will Vote on Some Feature of the Prohibition Problem.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A fast disarray of political debits and credits, the accumulation of a campaign of many unusual sides, was handed over tonight to the American voter.

A nation-wide reckoning up at the polls tomorrow will determine whether the republicans are to remain in control of congress, and what political flags are to fly from the mastheads of many state governments.

The campaign passed out like a lion, but it will remain for the returns themselves to show whether the roaring of spellbinder and publicist have penetrated very deeply into the consciousness of the voters. While candidates and managers have in some cases worked themselves into a nearfrenzy of enthusiasm, reports from many districts have told of a condition of near-apathy and much indecision on the part of the electorate itself.

Both republican and democratic leaders stood pat through election eve on their respective claims of overwhelming victory. But on their trial balance sheets they both were forced to represent many important factors with an algebraic "X." The unknown quantity in one state was the pulling power of a strong personality, in another the untested strength of this or that local issue. For the best efforts of the tacticians have failed to disclose a common denominator that would put the fight on a national basis.

In many of the states the dominating local issues are inter-woven directly into the pattern of the general campaign, but in several special questions are to be voted on separately by referendum. Eight states—New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Colorado, California, Nevada, Missouri and Montana—will vote on some feature of the prohibition problem.

Although in many states the rallying of voters and the whirlwind swings of candidates continued until tonight, very few real political bombshells were exploded in the closing hours of the battle. One surprise developed in Massachusetts, in the form of a charge by former Senator Walsh, the democratic senatorial candidate, that the supporters of his republican opponent, Senator Butler, were buying votes at ten dollars each in Mr. Butler's native city of New Bedford. In Maryland, where the vets have been maintaining neutrality between two senatorial candidates who both were supposedly anti-Volstead, the association against the prohibition amendment suddenly repudiated Senator Weller, the republican, and threw its strength behind the democratic nominee, Millard E. Tydings.

New York's tempestuous state campaign continued its unseen course until the last, and as the shouting died the partisans of Governor Smith were offering wide odds that he would be re-elected, despite republican claims to the contray. In Illinois, Ohio, and all the other states where the fighting has been hand to hand, both sides go to the polls claiming victory.

In the national arena the most stubborn attack of the democratic "outs" has been directed toward control of the senate. Democratic leaders did not abate tonight their forecast of enough democratic gains to overturn the present republican senatorial majority. This prediction the republicans denied with every show of confidence, although they conceded privately that the customary off-year gains might be chalked up to the credit of their opponents.

To capture the senate the democrats must gain nine seats now held by republicans. They figure they have seventeen chances in the close states, and need only a little more than an even break to do the trick. To this the republicans answer that a turn-over of nine senate seats would amount to a democratic landslide, and that no rumblings of such a gigantic disturbance have reached republican headquarters.

It is conceded everywhere that the democrats started the campaign with certain important elements of a potential victory already in their hands. It so happens that the senators who are up for re-election this year are those who were swept into office in the Harding landslide of 1920 while the house that is standing for a renewal of the tenure was elected in the Coolidge landslide of 1924. Of the senatorial states, seven now are represented by democrats, and all of them are in the solid south where the chances of an overturn are at the minimum. Five others—Oklahoma, Maryland, Kentucky, Arizona and Missouri—have otherwise than not trained with their southern neighbors in political affairs in ordinary years. In addition independent republicans are in the field against the regular republican nominees in New York, Illinois and Oregon, while in several other states local considerations, like the recent Ku Klux Klan charged Indiana, have interfered with the plans of republican managers."

Oklahoma, Maryland, Kentucky, Arizona and Missouri are listed by the democratic dopesters as already won, although in every one of these states the republicans are claiming a narrow advantage. Besides, the democrats profess high hopes of electing democratic senators in Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Illinois and Colorado, and Emre they have a chance also in Idaho, Indiana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington. In all of these states the republicans, on the other hand, count on a margin wide enough to win.

CONTESTS IN ELECTIONS IN EASTERN STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)— Battle lines were drawn tonight for tomorrow's election in the east, as last minute charges and new factors entered the political arena in Massachusetts Connecticut, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

In Massachusetts, former Senator David I. Walsh, democrat, who is opposing the incumbent, Senator William M. Butler, republican and supporter of President Coolidge, today charged that there was vote buying in New Bedford and that the Butler machine was responsible.

In Maryland, the association against the prohibition amendment today followed up its previous endorsement of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, democratic candidate for re-election by throwing its support also to Millard E. Tydings and Thomas H. Robison, democratic candidates respectively for senator and attorney general. The campaign closed with charges and counter charges on the Conowingo power project, Addison F. Mulliken, republican gubernatorial nominee, accusing Ritchie of mismanagement.

In Pennsylvania where a republican senator campaigned in behalf of the democratic nominee, Governor Pinchot, republican, followed the suggestion of the democratic senatorial candidate, William B. Wilson by issuing a proclamation calling for "special vigilance to prevent ballot box frauds." Senator George W. Norris, republican, of Nebraska, toured the state in support of William S. Vare secured the republican senatorial nomination.

Charles G. Morris, democratic nominee for governor of Connecticut, reiterated his charges of irregularities in the state highway department and Governor John H. Trumbull, republican candidate for re-election, declared state finances were never better as under the pay-as-you-go policy. Senator Hiram Bingham, republican, has built his campaign around his record. He is opposed by Roilin U. Tyler.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic candidate for re-election and his republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, continued to appeal to voters tonight in New York. Governor Smith stood on his record and defends his proposals for state water-power development, while Mills defended his charges of alleged adulteration of milk.

Robert F. Wagner, democratic senatorial nominee, has attacked Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., as a "reactionary," while Wadsworth urged his re-election as an indorsement of Coolidge policies.

Rhode Island voters tomorrow will choose a governor. Vermont and New Hampshire will vote for governor and a senator. New Jersey democrats are demanding modification of the Volstead act. In West Virginia, republicans are appealing for support of the national administration.

ELECTION FORECASTS IN MIDDLE WESTERN STATES

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The din of debate on prohibition, the tariff and farm relief died out tonight in eight middle western states, and voters summed up campaigns from which will emerge as tomorrow's voting nine United States senators.

In three more central states where no senators will be chosen, gubernatorial contests gave interest to a political off-year.

The campaigns ended cheerfully throughout the corn belt, with the greatest attention focussed on Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, where the democrats have brightest hopes of victory.

Prohibition is an issue in Ohio, Missouri and Illinois senate contests, with the democrats representing sentimen for modification. Ohio republicans claimed tonight that Senator Frank B. Willis is beyond danger of defeat by Atlee Pomerene, former senator. Republican leaders in Indiana likewise claimed easy victories for Senator James E. Watson, seeking re-election, and Senator Arthur Robinson, who asks the election to the unfinished term of the late Senator Harry S. New. Democrats contended that charges of Ku Klux Klan domination of republican politics in Indiana would jeopardize republican success and would give the senate seats to Albert Stump, attorney, and Evans Woollen, banker, the democratic entrants.

REV. DR. J. FRANK NORRIS ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Called to trial here today on a charge of murder for the slaying of D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, Dr. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor and fundamentalist leader, began a fight to have the case transferred to another county.

After much legal jockeying, the district court began hearing testimony on the defense's application for a change of venue, with Mayor H. C. Macham, a friend of Chipps, who has retained special counsel to prosecute the minister, the principal witness.

Several others among the 70 witnesses subpoenaed by the defense in an effort to show that sentiment in this county is such that Dr. Norris could not obtain a fair trial were examined before court adjourned until tomorrow.

The defense in its application for a change of venue moved that the trial be transferred t ocome county other than this (Tarrant county) or Dallas county, on the ground that Dr. Norris' numerous crusades against vice, bootleggers, Catholics and alleged corruption in government had made him many enemies here.

The application charged specifically that "a combination" composed principally of Mayor H. C. Meacham, City Manager O. C. Carr, officers of the Knights of Columbus, and other Catholics had been formed against Norris to obtain his conviction.

The state replied that if there was any prejudice against Norris, it was due to the latter's "unfair attacks," but denied that there was any widespread prejudice against Norris and asserted there were thousands of high minded and fair citizens in the county who would render a fair verdict.

WOULD CHANGE POLICY OF THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin, head of the central executive committee of the communist party, has, according to the diplomatic correspondent of the "Westminister Gazette," resolved on a change in the foreign policy of the soviet government. The plan includes the slowing down of communist propaganda abroad. Securing de jure recognition of Russia by the United States and other countries, the settlement of Russia's debts to foreign countries, and obtaining foreign loans for development.

Stalin, it is asserted, considers the use of foreign loans a better way of industrializing Russia than extracting the peasantry by increased taxation to raise money, therefore he wants to limit the activities of the communist international abroad.

E. P. WHITMORE INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 1.—Edward P. Whitmore, well known insurance man of this city, was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in a serious condition at noon Monday after his automobile had overturned in a ditch near Tucker's garage one eighth of a mile from Columbia Green on the Hebron road. It is believed that Mr. Whitmore became suddenly ill or suffered a fainting spell. Wheel marks show that the car zigzagged along the road for about 50 feet. It then ran against the embankment on the left of the road and remained tipped at a sharp angle. Mr. Whitmore sustained a bad cut on the back of the head and up to late in the day he had not as yet recovered consciousness. He had been to Hebron on business and was returning when the accident occurred. Ralph Buell of Columbia saw the automobile turn over on its right side and he notified residents of the vicinity. Raymond Squier, Raymond Lyman, Claire Robinson and Joseph N. Clark gave assistance and Mr. Whitmore was taken to the hospital where he was treated by Dr. J. A. Grenard. The machine had come to a stop when it struck against the abutment of a culvert, there being no indication that the brakes had been applied or that any attempt had been made to straighten the machine's course.

PREDICT MANY SPLITS IN WINDHAM'S VOTING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 1.—A splurge of interest in today's elections became manifest at the eleventh hour and it is surmised that this Tuesday's ballot battle will be a largely and closed fought encounter.

Windham will in all probability be one of the last towns to announce final results because a large number of split tickets are anticipated also because the old form Australian ballot is in vogue here and the fact that the counters in the four Windham districts count slowly and carefully. Windham is always one of the last towns to be heard from. In addition to these reasons if the voters turn out as they should there will be about 400 new electors parading to the polls, making the total number of about 5,400. The polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 6 p. m.

There is trouble brewing here also on the point of how to split the ticket when voting for representatives. It is pointed out that when splitting a ticket when voting for either one or two of the four representatives named in the ballot an X mark should be placed opposite the name of each of the two representatives being voted for. Unless this is done some antherifies claim that the intention of the voter can be questioned and according to a prominent attorney the Connecticut Record decision is in favor of this contention. This dispute, however, is considered so much hot-air by others and verbal buffeting is likely to develop when a split ticket with an X mark before just one representative candidate is encountered.

Experienced workers will be on the job all day to get out a big vote. Headquarters for both parties are located at advantageous points near the four voting places. The republicans have their main headquarters in the Coolidge club rooms in the Franklin building and the democrats hold forth in the Opera House block.

Towns surrounding Windham will be the scene of intensive drives to secure as big a vote as possible. At Coventry the polls will open at 6 a. m. and close at 6 p. m.; Andover, open at 6:30 a. m., closing at 6 p. m.; Lebanon and Ashford, opening at 7 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m.; Eastford, Willington, Hebron, Scotland and Hampton, opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 5 p. m.; Franklin, Mansfield and Chaplin, opening at 9 a. m. and closing at 5 p. m.; Columbia opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 1.—Two young men whose names are being withheld but who are said to be Willimantic residents, narrowly escaped injury Sunday afternoon about 4:45 o'clock when a Ford coupe in which they were riding and which bore the Connecticut registry number C-3457 climbed a high embankment and turned over near the residence of E. C. Clemens in Pheonixville. It is said that the car was being operated at a fast rate of speed. The machine was practically demolished. The state police at Danielson were notified and the driver of the car was placed under arrest. He was scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace R. Grant Trowbridge of Eastford Monday afternoon but the case was continued until Friday night. The driver is to be charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Earl Cooper of Hartford, driver of the Chevrolet sedan which sideswiped the big iron watering trough at Thread Mill square shortly before midnight Saturday, resulting in injuries to two people, was fined $100 and costs in police court Monday morning when convicted of a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. The injured people, Frank Martin, brother-in-law of Cooper, suffering from painful lacerations on the face and neck, and Miss Agnes Libby of Hartford, suffering from bruises and two deep cuts on the head, are patients at St. Joseph's hospital. Cooper and his wife and John Martin, another brother of the latter, who were also occupants of the machine, escaped injury. The car had been rented from William Bouse of 21 Park street, Hartford. Captain of Police Frank McLean testified relative to the accident and the condition of the autos. Cooper's assessment was $11.15.

The funeral of Miss Marion E. McKernan was held Monday morning with services in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly officiated, and Mrs. E. R. Providence presided at the organ. Miss Mary McShea rendered Jesus, Saviour of My Soul and Miss L. Monica McKeon sang Some Sweet Day. There was a large attendance of friends and many beautiful floral representations in evidence. Burial was in the Mount St. Benedict cemetery, Hartford, where Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski of this city, conducted a committal service at the grave. The bearers were J. Stanley Healy, James E. Abernethy, Christopher Abernethy, Stanley Williams, Henry J. Spencer and Bert Squires. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Coming down Twin Hills in Coventry, Sunday night, William Bay of 33 Stone street, Manchester, was blinded by approaching headlights and his automobile crashed into a steam roller which had been left on the side of the highway. Mrs. Bay and three children were thrown out of the machine by the force of the impact, Mrs. Bay was taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital where she was treated for a cut over one eye and the loss of several teeth. Mrs. Bay was thrown against the steering wheel and suffered bruises to her chest. The children were slightly cut and bruised. It is stated that there was no red signal of danger on the steam roller, and state police are investigating this matter.

Lucius S. Bigelow, widely known in this city and in Mansfield Center where he maintained a summer home, died at his home in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday. News of his death shocked the community of Mansfield Center where he was regarded as one of the outstanding benefactors and where he had made a host of friends. Mansfield was the home of his ancestors of the Storrs family. For 30 years Mr. Bigelow with his family and his mother, Maria Storrs, occupied the Brown house in Mansfield for the summer, coming from Glen Ridge, N. J. Later Mr. Bigelow purchased the Charles H. Weeks estate and on the island of what is now known as Bigelow Pond he erected an attractive summer residence and called it The Lodge of Pine Island. The home of the late Miss Mary Cross was also purchased and the second floor apartment maintained as one of the Bigelow furnished homes. Mr. Bigelow was a member of the Periodicals Publishing company.

Mansfield Center realizes a great loss in his death. He had taken active part in many civic functions. Through the initiative of Mrs. Bigelow and her family the Mansfield library, recently dedicated, was established years ago, making the present building a possibility. Mr. Bigelow brought about the success of the bi-centennial celebration of the Mansfield Center church. He had erected the Mansfield Center sign which hangs over the highway in the village.

Mattes Tamberini of 1100 Main street, was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $10.15 in police court Monday morning on a charge of maintaining a gambling device, consisting of a punch board with prizes offered. The arrest was made by Captain of Police McLean Sunday afternoon.

Nelson J. Greenwood was charged with keeping a gaming place in police court Monday morning and found not guilty. Through his attorney he pleaded not guilty. Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady testified to entering the pool room at 18 Railroad street on the afternoon of October 25th and finding several men gambling with cards. Those charged with gambling were either fined or their bonds forfeited.

Greenwood said that he had owned the place of about three weeks. He was in the jitney business and he had a man knowmas John Brown to take care of the place. He said that he was away on a trip when the gambling incident took place. On Prosecutor Gaucher's request for a conviction Attorney Kelly for the defense argued that there was no evidence that Greenwood knew of the wrong doing in his place and that the poolroom could not be judged by its past reputation. Judge Foss found Greenwood not guilty, at this point.

The continued case of Leroy Roberts, manager of a gasoline filling station on lower Main street, was nolled in police court Monday morning when Prosecuting Attorney Gaucher stated that witnesses could not state definitely that Roberts had filled a motorcycle gasoline tank while the motor of the machine was running, contrary to law. On the evening of September 30, last, Edgar Breton of this city sustained fatal burns when gasoline being put into the tank overflowed onto the hot motor of the motorcycle and burst into flames. In his finding, following an inquest, County Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson exonerated Roberts of any criminal responsibility in the matter.

Mrs. Sophie Jurchlinsky of Chaplin was charged with assault and battery on John Mathusek, al twelve-year-old boy, in the Chaplin town court Saturday, but was discharged for lack of evidence. In chasing young Mathusek away from her land where he and others were picking walnuts, the woman is said to have struck the boy with a stick. Justice of the Peace Charles E. Russ presided and Grand Juror George Reed prosecuted.

Henry E. Knowlton, of Mansfield, cited last year by the state tax commissioner's office as the champion tax collector in Connecticut, is proud of the fact that he has made his record without maintaining special headquarters. Mr. Knowlton has collected the property and personal taxes in the large town of Mansfield under difficulties as the town is one of the largest in the state in the matter of area. Last year he made a 100 per cent collection in addition to causing several people to pay up arrears.

Mrs. Maud R. Lummis enters the field for judge of probate in the town of Chaplin this Tuesday as an independent and both republicans and democrats are awaiting the results of her endeavor with considerable interest. The democrats endorsed the republican candidates, Judge Burton M. Welch, but this did not deter Mrs. Lummis from announcing her candidacy with a promise of "at least one honest, independently conducted office for Chaplin."

Mr. and Mrs. John James entertained at Halloween party in honor of the marriage of their son, Newton James to Miss Evelyn Carpenter of South Coventry. Present were, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kennedy and family of James and family, Mr and Mrs. Robert Greene, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Harold James an dfamily, Mr. and Mrs. Earl James and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton James, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond James, Miss Dorothy James and Mr. and Mrs. Newton James, all of this city.

JEWETT CITY

HUNTERS GET 16-LB. COON IN WOODS AT HOPEVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 1.—Romeo and Theophile Pepin and Hubert Miller were showing a sixteen pound coon which Romeo Pepin shot in the Hopeville woods at dusk Monday afternoon. Miller climbed the tree to get the animal. His dog Turk has a reputation as a coon dog and was right on his job again. Theophile Pepin is going to mount the pelt which is unusually handsome. The young men got their quota of rabbits and squirrels besides, but saw no game birds.

A Halloween social was given Friday night by the eighth grade of Riverside Grammar school, 150 attending. The members of the class made their own invitations and programs. The social was held in Assembly hall which was decorated in yellow and black, with black cats, cornstalks and pumpkins. There were games and Miss Margaret Driscoll played for dancing. Sandwiches, cake and cocoa were served. The entertainment committee was Archie Goldberg, Stella Gaska and Arthur Gray. Refreshment committee Stella Goha, Annie Manicki and Angeline Zavestoski. Decorating committee Catherine Jodoin, Althea Fields and Helen Kolburs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ray left town Monday to live at the Masonic Home in Wallingford. The trip was made by automobile with Walter Field.

WESTERLY

EXPECT LIGHT VOTE IN WESTERLY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 1.—Today, election day in Westerly, voters will cast their ballots, the smallest in size since the adoption of the Australian ballot in Rhode Island for congressional, state and town legislative candidates. There appear three major party lists under their respective party emblems, below which appear circles for the voting of straight tickets, as follows: Republican with eagle; democrat with star and socialist, labor nomination paper, with arm and hammer and the usual section for writing in names, if the major party nominee is not satisfactory. In the town of Westerly there are two ballots, differing in respect to the nominees for representative in general assembly for the first and second Westerly voting districts. In the first voting district on the republican list appears John D. Nichols, Potter Hill road; and in the democratic column, John E. McHale of White Rock. In the second voting district on the republican list appear Clifford W. Campbell, 14 Elm street; and in the democratic column, Thomas V. B. Clancy, 13 Sussmer street.

Before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck in a session of Stonington town court Monday, Morris Lazal of 502 East 17th street, New York, was arraigned on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna, charging operation of an automobile with defective lights. A plea of guilty was entered to the charge. Judge Wilcox found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $27.55, which were paid.

Funeral services for B. Ripley Parks, whose death occurred last Thursday was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late home in North Stonington. Rev. Lucien Drury officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by interment in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic. The bearers were E. A. Andrews, Leander F. Park, Andrew W. Perry, Burk G. Hewett, Irving W. Miner and Mason Partelow.

BADLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 1.—Miss Margaret Murphy of 19 Thompson street, Pawcatuck is a patient at the Westerly hospital, suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, a deep gash over her left eye, requiring seven stitches to close, a gash on her right knee which took three stitches and abrasions to her hands and legs. Her injuries resulted from being struck about 6:45 o'clock on Monday morning near the Lorraine mill and being knocked to the cement street surface of Mechanic street by the auto driven from Clarkville by Angelo DeBermordo, 6 Pond street, who picked her up and carried her to the office of Dr. M. H. Scanlon from where she was taken to the hospital. Pawcatuck Policeman C. Wilson Brown on investigation found the brakes in good condition on the Overland auto, which was brought to a stop 25 feet from the point where Miss Murphy was hit when the car was proceeding at from 15 to 20 miles per hour.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

Oct. 29. Florence R. Agard to Ernest H. Saunders and Johanna V. Saunders as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, a certain tract of land with buildings and other improvements on the south side of Crescent street.

Oct. 30. William A. Wilcox, commissioner on estate of Peleg Clarke to James A. Dunn; lots Nos. 25, 32, 33 and 37 plat No. 2, estate Peleg Clarke.

To Harry M. Jacobs, lots Nos. 23, 25, 31, 35 and 36 on plat No. 2, Peleg Clarke estate.

To Walter C. Ulles, lots Nos. 29, 34, 21 and 39, plat No. 2, Peleg Clarke estate.

WESTERLY COUNCIL HELD LENGTHY SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 1.—The Westerly town council began its November session after 10 o'clock Monday morning in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall. Present were Council President John D. Nichols and Councilmen Rogers E. Trainer, Peter Nardone, Isaac G. Smith and Thomas F. Moore, together with Council Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Solicitor John Ferguson. Absentees were Councilman Harry H. Coleman, who is recovering from an operation in Jane Brown Memorial hospital in Providence and Councilman Holdsworth who has removed to Massachusetts.

Mrs. Marietta Rose of 6 Rose avenue appeared before the council for about the seventh time this year to again complain in no uncertain terms about the unsanitary conditions which still exist in the vicinity of her home where the brook back of Pierce street which crosses Pleasant street by the old canal bed is filled with all manner of nauseating, filthy and contaminating refuse. She said, "It's a dump there now and so bad we'll have to do something, we can't live there," which was the sentiment of her neighbors. Mrs. Rose said they were willing to pay for work done if the town would supply old sewer pipe and if the council would explain to her what they wanted, she would try to obtain it. If it were the obtaining of property owners' signatures to articles of agreement for payment of costs and that the work could be carried out as Engineer Thomas McKenzie, Westerly water works department superintendent had indicated in his preliminary survey. Councilman Trainer, a member of a council committee with Councilman Holdsworth, named at a previous session of the council for investigation, told Mrs. Ross that the town council had felt that as the matter would require a considerable expenditure of the town's money, it was up to the Westerly financial town meeting. When Mrs. Rose said that the brook at times ran red with blood from the adjoining slaughter house of Joseph Brocato which had a pipe running to the brook, Solicitor Ferguson asked if she was willing to come into court and testify as to what she had seen, as she added that rats, dead dogs and cats were also thrown into the brook. She said she was willing and that Brocato had said when remonstrated with that he wasn't going to stop his practice.

If Mrs. Rose and other witnesses would come into court, Solicitor Ferguson promised a quick ending of insanitary practices. Engineer McKenzie was not available when the council sent for him and assurances were given Mrs. Rose that her proposition of part payment would be taken up with him as she requested before winter came. It was explained by the council that for a few of the abutting property owners to place the brook in a drain would make matters worse above the point where the pipe started and that the completed project should be gone through with. Councilman Thorp said the abating of the nuisance "hinged on the adoption of a public dump, and that the council was about ready to adopt a public dump, when dumping refuse in other localities could be prohibited."

Although many Italians resided in the section complained about, Mrs. Rose claimed that their desires for cleanliness were just as pronounced as in other sections of the town. Councilman Peter Nardone was named to act on the committee with Councilmen Trainer in place of Councilman Holdsworth, who has left Westerly.

John E. McHale, supervisor at the Nov. 2 election, Clerk Whipple reported had verbally declined to serve as he was a candidate for representative. John W. Casey, 53 Railroad avenue, was voted a supervisor as McHale's successor. Appointment of a gate tender for the first voting district was discussed.

Payment of town bills was taken up, when on request of Councilman Trainer, Councilman Smith reported that no balances were available from the town treasurer and collectors' office had a busy month's ending. Councilman Smith requested that the bill of Wall and Co. of Providence, whose accounting system had been voted adopted by the previous council, showing an October charge of $105.50, "services on accounting system," be held up while some of the items were investigated. The pay of election officers was looked up when some of the officials were reported as complaining of the small amount, it being found that at the last meeting $8 was paid the moderators and $7 to the clerks, who this year have to serve two hours longer.

Approval was voted by the council of the action of Westerly Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton in selling notes of the town of Westerly, aggregating $125,000, dated Nov. 1, 1926, and due May 1, 1927, to the Old Colony corporation of Boston.

Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster reported no cases of contagious diseases for the month of October. The report recommended that properties at 11 Maple avenue, Isaac D. Hunt estate, William Bent of Providence; and 3 Main street, Briggs building, Frank E. Robbins of Worcester, Mass., Max Novastroski, agent, be connected with the recently installed Westerly sewerage system. The council voted that legal notice be served for the owners to have the property connected with the sewer main drains within 30 days.

Frank W. Coy appeared before the council to ask the council what action it had taken in the matter of wrong done the people of the town in the collection of town taxes. The wrong referred to was the assessment of costs on delinquent taxpayers. President Nichols informed Mr. Coy that the matter was in the hands of the council committee, A. Clifford Holdsworth. Mr. Coy replied that he had information from Mr. Holdsworth that he was going to take the matter up with Providence attorneys. Mr. Coy desired an itemized account, and say, "My opinion is that this council is an accessory after the fact." President Nichols stated that the council had no jurisdiction over the town treasurer and collector's office and Solicitor Ferguson asked Mr. Coy why he had not gone to the town treasurer or brought some of the lawyers he understood he had consulted before the council. Mr. Coy replied that he was not going to as he did not have to and all he wanted was the record of the stand of the council in the matter and the council had promised and promised him and if nothing was to be done for the council to go on record and say you will not, that's all I want. Mr. Nichols said Mr. Holdsworth had not attended the last few council sessions and when he saw him he would ask for a report and Mr. Coy said the expenditure of a two-cent stamp would bring an answer. As Mr. Coy left the council chamber he queried, "May I know, if I come to the next council meeting and understand that you will try and get a report?" He received an affirmative answer.

Westerly Chief of Police Thomas H. Brown reported five arrests for the month of October, as follows: Defective brakes 1, driving an automobile without an operator's license 1, insane person 1, and carrying concealed weapons 1.

A petition was received from John L. Breen and Thomas L. Breen of Watch Hill, asking that the council amend the Westerly zoning ordinance, changing the present residential district a distance of 236 feet north on the Westerly-Watch Hill road from the garages of Cornelius J. Farrell and Arthur Starling on the west side of the highway and down Breen road, so called. The council voted a public hearing on the petition to be held in the council chamber on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 8 p. m.

A letter addressed to the Westerly town council from the U. S. war department, U. S. engineers' office in Providence, stated that application had been received from the Walter C. Merchant Regains Health

Suffering From Dizzy Spells, Indigestion, Loss of Sleep, Restored to Good Health by Tanlac.

Everyone who has the tremendous responsibility of supporting a family knows the value of good health. It is life. For a year, Louis Furter, a well-known Worcester, Mass., merchant, 38 Woodford St., suffered from indigestion, heartburn and dizzy spells that would make him blind. He says: "Whatever I ate caused miserable hours of suffering. My nerves were in such a wretched state I could not sleep nights.

"I was always tired, and tried everything in the search for relief. Then I read of how Tanlac had helped others, so decided to give it a chance to bring me relief. It met with every need in my case. I am on my fourth bottle and again feel like my old self. I eat everything without pain. I enjoy a good night's sleep and get up feeling fine. Tanlac deserves a lot of credit."

This amazing tonic made from roots, barks and herbs helps build up weak bodies, relieve causes of pain. Ask your druggist for your first bottle today.

Avoid Faulty Elimination!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

THE kidneys filter the blood. They are constantly ridding the body of poisons. One should realize, then, how much good health depends upon good elimination. When toxic poisons are permitted to accumulate, there's apt to follow a tired, achy feeling and, often, a dull backache, with toxic headaches and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of a stimulant diuretic. You will find enthusiastic Doan's users the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DANIELSON

CONN. MILLS TO OPERATE FOR SEVERAL YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 1—To dissipate any confusion that may have arisen over the plans of the Connecticut Mills to establish a plant in Albany-Decatur, Alabama, it may be reiterated this morning that it will be a long time before the concern ceases operations in Danielson, if ever.

No one has said that the corporation would cease to do business here by May 1, but somehow that idea had gained some circulation Monday. At about that time some machinery of the local plant will be removed to Alabama, but only a portion of it. The mill here will continue to run and it will be from two to three years from now before anything definite can be determined about the future of the company in Danielson. There is, it may be said once more to make it extra positive, a possible chance of operations being carried on here for years to come. It will run from two to three years longer in any event and maybe longer.

SUNNY SOUTH HAD EARLY FALL OF SNOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 1—To those who always think of the south as the land of sunshine and warmth, it is interesting to note that Mrs. Ira A. McDaniel in a letter to her parents, Sheriff and Mrs. Charles E. Lyer of Dayville, writes that there were flurries of snow at Atlanta, Ga., Saturday of last week, which was quite a delightful day here in northeastern Connecticut. Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel are now at Cedartown, Ga., where there is great activity on the part of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in developing a mill that will supply more tire fabric for the big plants at Akron. Until a few weeks ago Mr. McDaniel was assistant treasurer here for the Goodyear company, as he now is at Cedartown.

There was only one case for the town court to consider at Monday morning's session, that of Daniel Danasowicz of New London, charged with reckless driving. He was fined $25 and costs, and paid.

This was the most important development of watching the motor traffic over Sunday in this town. There was one minor accident in the business section Saturday night, but the small damage to one machine involved was adjusted between the drivers.

Heavy rain Sunday afternoon and evening cut down the traffic materially from what it usually is on Sundays, but there were nevertheless a great many cars operating on the state highways, the drivers exercising special caution against accidents.

Death came shortly after noon Monday to bring the release of John McNally, from the Windham county jail at Brooklyn. McNally was taken seriously ill about 5:30 Monday morning. Dr. W. A. Tanner was summoned from Danielson to give him attention. McNally did not rally under treatment and the end came shortly after noon. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and removed to his rooms here.

McNally was committed to the jail from the Willimantic police court on October 1 to work out a fine of $10 and costs. His time would have expired tonight. He was born in Riverpoint, R. I., and for years had been engaged as a mill worker. It was stated here Monday afternoon that he has a brother resident in Jewett City.

Killingly is one town that has hundreds of electors who well might heed the admonition of President Coolidge carried in the press of Monday that they vote today. Hundreds failed to go to the polls here in the town election last month. The task of party workers today will be to get these disinterested persons to the polls, and an effort will be made to accomplish it. No great enthusiasm has been stirred up in Killingly over today's election. There are no sharply defined issues to stir the imagination of the voters, no local contests to arouse great interest. This being the fact, electors must have an inherent regard for the great privilege of voting and a sense of party duty to go out to the polls. It is the hope of party leaders here that all electors will heed the president's advice and be at the polls today.

No one who has card that hear need worry about getting election returns tonight. In scores of homes throughout the town there will be parties seated about radio receiving sets. For those who have no such place to go there will be a broadcast for the public. This will be outside the town hall building and has been arranged by D. Blumenthal. This set will be tuned in on WTIC of Hartford, which will be specializing on Connecticut returns and also giving information as to how the tide of battle has flowed and ebbed in other states. Mr. Blumenthal said Monday afternoon that he will continue the broadcast at least until the returns indicate the general results in Connecticut.

In today's election in Killingly chief local interest is the voting will center around the candidacy of Attorney E. L. Darbie, republican nominee for senator from this, the 28th district, and the welfare of Arthur W. Williams, William C. Buster, republicans, and Clayton Wright and Patrick Riley, democratic candidates for representatives. Judge Sabin S. Russell, has both the republican and democratic nominations for judge of probate and is assured of re-election. Attorney Darbie's votes will come from six different towns making up the senatorial district, Killingly, Putnam, Woodstock, Thompson, Eastford and Ashford.

There are 46 prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn at this time, five of them being held for trial before the superior court.

The sophomore class of Killingly high school has elected these officers: Robert Grannon, president; Elizabeth Stevens, vice president; Mary Haveles, secretary; Bertram Hammond, treasurer.

Jack Louby and Henry Gately, students at Boston college, have been guests here of Miss Helen Cronin, a member of the faculty of Plainfield high school.

DEATH MONDAY OF MRS. JABEZ R. BOWEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 1—Mrs. Jabez R. Bowen, 82 passed away Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. F. Kenworthy, 182 Main street. She had been in failing health for several years and seriously ill the past six weeks, her illness terminating in pneumonia.

Lucretia B. Reynolds was born in Burrillville, R. I., May 27, 1844. She came to Dayville to reside in 1865 and lived there until 1916, when she came to Danielson to be near her daughter and family.

She married Jabez R. Bowen June 1, 1873. Mr. Bowen survives her. Of the four children born to them, but one survives, Mrs. Kenworthy. There is one grand-daughter, Phyllis Kenworthy and three brothers, William Reynolds of Auburn, R. I., and George Reynolds of Providence and Benton Reynolds of Webster, Mass.

Rev. W. D. Hetherington has resigned as pastor of the Union Baptist church at East Killingly and is to leave there about the middle of the month.

This afternoon members of the Fortnightly club are to meet with Mrs. E. N. Keach of Broad street.

Having watched the Yale-Army game at New Haven Saturday afternoon, Joseph LaBelle expressed his opinion Monday that the cadets, as they played in that game, could have beaten three Yale elevens.

Not a few looked with interest Monday morning at an Idaho registration on a car running through Danielson, as machines from that state are rarely ever seen here.

There was a freeze in Danielson early Monday morning, when the temperature dropped down into the 20s.

Monday was the last day for filing tax returns with the town of Killingly. Those who file now will have 10 per cent added to their last list.

A historical paper recently read before the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., dealt with the Danielson home, at the corner of Main and Maple streets, this structure built in 1756 and the home many years ago of the woman for whom the chapter is named.

Football enthusiasts are showing much interest in an opportunity to guess in advance on scores of big college football games, the winners being awarded boxes of candy. No exchange of money is involved in the transaction.

More children's books are to be purchased for the public library, and Butler's history of Woodstock also is to be added.

Modern house, all improvements, sun parlor, double garage for sale on Riverview, price reasonable. George J. Heneault. Tel 543-3.—adv.

Miss Madelyn Cronin, student at Mt. St. Vincent college, New York, spent the week end at her home here.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Gallup, recently married at Windsor, this state, were visitors here Monday. Dr. Gallup is at the Children's hospital in Boston.

A meeting of the chamber of commerce is scheduled for this evening at the Attawaugan hotel.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion sallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 16 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

PUTNAM

WOODSTOCK VOTES TO RECONSIDER ROAD VOTE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 1—The special town meeting at Woodstock today to determine whether the vote to build a road from Woodstock to Eastford brought out as many votes as are ordinarily polled at an election. The interest in the matter was intense and the sentiment for and against the project was more evenly divided than was at first supposed. A motion to reconsider the vote of the annual town meeting by which the road was ordered built was adopted with 190 ayes and 110 nayes. The check list was used on this ballot, but on the next one to rescind the action taken there were 166 ayes to 69 nayes, no check list being used.

Israel Durand, 72, a long time resident of Putnam, died this morning at his home on Dattey street. He is survived by his wife and several children, one of them being Bennet Durand, who is a city patrolman.

A surprise bachelor party was given at the home of his father, Franklin Baker, for Henry Baker, who is to be married to Miss Viola D. Benoit on Thanksgiving day at St. Mary's church. A purse of money was presented the groom-to-be. Refreshments were served.

The guests were Joseph Giraca, Charles Giraca, Armand Giraca, Armand Decosier, Arthur Labossiere, Arthur Clotier, Ulric Baker, John Hannifan, Edgar Lucier, Lawrence Light, Leo Auger, Daniel Williams, Napoleon Williams, Joseph Bove, Leo Giraca Ferdinand Phaneuf, William Moehon, Joseph Riley, Franklin Baker and Henry Baker.

Rev. Boynton Merrill, assistant pastor of the Old South church, Boston, formerly pastor of the Second Congregational church in Putnam, is a member of the committee on the Sunday school movement among 13 Back Bay churches. In the rotogravure section of a recent Boston paper there was an excellent likeness of the former Putnam pastor.

Among those from Putnam who attended the Connecticut Girl's conference which was held in St. Paul's Universalist church at Meriden, last Friday and Saturday were Miss Gladys Shaylor, Miss Mabel Whiting, Miss Rachel Hurlbut, Miss Grace Rothwell, Miss Helen Morse and Miss Pauline Morriarty.

At the out-of-door council fire of the Halsho Campfire Girls, honor beads were awarded and the following officers elected: President, Hazel Ames; vice president, Lillian Janino; secretary, Barbara Mayhew; treasurer, Winifred Lepire; scribe, cheer leader and song leader, Dorothy Woodis.

At the convention of the Connecticut Franco-American society held at Hartford, Michael J. Dalgie was elected secretary of the state organization and Henry N. Benoit as assistant secretary. Both of them are well known and popular Putnam residents.

The many patrons of the Putnam postoffice are congratulating Miss Eliza Reid, who has been money order clerk at the local postoffice for many years on her recovery from the injuries sustained in an automobile accident last August. Miss Reid is now able to get around without crutches, and hopes to be quite herself within a few weeks. Mrs. John Duffey, who was injured in the same accident has not as yet been able to discard her crutches, although it is thought she will make a good recovery. Both of them were in a critical condition in a hospital at Worcester for a number of weeks following the accident.

Robert W. Bridgeman, head of the Bridgeman Detective agency at Hartford and who was fined $25 for assault and $25 for breach of the peace at Torrington recently was well known in Putnam. He is especially well remembered for the work he and his men did here nearly two years ago in getting the evidence which caused the conviction and state's prison sentence of Charles Bursuck and also the conviction of a number of other liquor law violators.

Miss Dougan, the music director of the Putnam schools, is planning an operetta to be given sometime during the winter by a mixed glee club of boys and girls. The first rehearsal was held last week. The date for the performance has not as yet been decided.

The women of the Second Congregational church are planning another delightful affair this year for the Christmas season. A supper will be served and a play "Cousin Kate" will be presented by Miss Mildred Bass Anderton of Boston. They also expect to have tables of candy, food and Christmas gifts. The date of this annual affair will be sometime the latter part of this month or during the early part of December.

Ladies' Night for the Putnam Rotarian club took the form of a Halloween party. The decorations were in keeping with Halloween and were arranged by Mrs. Edw. Hill and her committee and there were black cats, corn stalks and pumpkin lanterns in profusion.

The party was held at Odd Fellows' hall and dancing, cards and Halloween games were enjoyed. Refreshments were serve.

At the meeting of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club which was held in Grange hall at Abington, informal talks were made as to how local conditions could be bettered after the regular business was disposed of.

Earl Keith, 22, of Woodstock Valley while cutting wood for the J. M. Tatem company of Eastford cut the tendons of the back of his left hand. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where an operation on the severed tendons was performed and where he remained a patient. The following day his brother Walter Keith, 23, of Woodstock and who had been employed at Oxford was taken to the same hospital with a badly cut upper lip. He was trimming a tree when the axe caught on a limb of the tree and was deflected and struck him on the lip. He had not learned of the accident to his brother when taken to the hospital.

The judges for the best and funniest costumes at the Halloween social held in the Second Congregational church parlors Friday evening, given by the O. S. S. girls, were Dr. James Weeks, Mrs. George Hyde and Mrs. Irene Brainard. The grand march was a line of such a diversity of costumes that it made it very hard to decide. The funniest costume prize went to Miss Betty Sheffield who was dressed as a witch and as the young lady is a very tiny miss of about four the part was well carried out. The best costume of complete disguise went to William Patterson, dressed as a red devil. Until he unmasked no one guessed who he was. The remainder of evening was spent in games and music. Miss Carolyn Derrick read a ghost story and those present were led into a dark corner to find the ghost. After the games refreshments were served.

The East Greenwich, R. I., Academy football team met the Stonington team on Owens field at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was a close game and very evenly matched player for player. The game was witnessed by a large crowd of rooters for both sides. The score was 21-7 in favor of Stonington.

NOANK

The young people's society of the Baptist church gave a Halloween social to the young people over twelve. The church was crowded, many were in costume and all had fun playing Games. Fortunes were told by Miss Eloise Rose by the reading of palms. Rev. Mr. Weiss of the church announced the supper. The table was decorated with pumpkins and black and orange paper.

Crushers football team waited for four Sundays to play, on account of the rain and Sunday at 11:30 o'clock it rained again but they played the game against the All-Stars from West View. The field was wet and muddy but both teams fought hard for victory and it was in the final period that the Crushers won out, a 30-yard forward pass from Dinty Banks into the arms of Big George Adams who raced 30 yards for a touchdown and Flash McDonald failed to kick extra point and the in the last two minutes of play Lefty Bogue of the All-Stars missed a chance to score on the 2½ yard line. Speed Langworthy, the All's fullback, picked up the ball when Bogue fumbled and ran 40 yards for a touchdown on a slippery field. The whole All-Stars team could not catch him. The final score was Crushers 13 All Stars 0. It was a great game to watch and a good crowd turned out in spite of the weather. Both lines were strong and held on the one yard line twice. Bogue and Bull Fray were the stars for West View, while Big Babe Adams and Speed Langworthy starred for Crushers.

Many Halloween pranks were cut up Main street Sunday morning looked like the race near Fishers Island, where the lobster men haul their pots. Lobster pots and rope were over the street, door bells were rung and at Albert Fitch's store on Elm street he had to move lots of things from the door to get in. The crowd were singing "It Only Comes Once a Year."

COLCHESTER

Mothers who have been attending the Well Child conferences in the state are learning that their children can gain in weight, by a health plan which is being followed. Regular monthly attendance at these health centers teaches mother that there are probably three causes for children to be underweight, some physical defects, not enough food of the right sort and not enough rest. Physical defects are being corrected as a result of these conferences and little by little other motors are being controlled. Mothers now learn that pie and cake coffee and pickles keep children from being healthy and they are substituting milk and whole grain cereals and bread also plenty of vegetables and fruit. Furthermore mothers watch the amount of food eaten as they realize that gain in weight depends on each child eating plenty of the food each day. Often failure to eat enough food is the only factor which keeps children underweight. Some children are kept this way because they are too active; always on the move they forget to eat or sleep, unless parents stand guard and insist upon rest period each day and an early bed hour each night. Such health lessons are learned at the Colchester monthly well child conference. The November conference is to be held at the Congregational chapel from 2 to 4 this (Tuesday) afternoon.

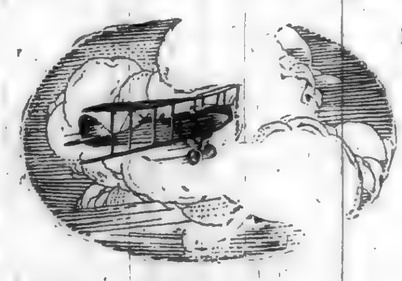
Quickly Drives Out All Rheumatic Poison

Torturing Pains and Swollen Joints Vanish When Rheuma Is Used or Money Back

If you want quick gratifying relief take one teaspoonful of Rheuma, night and morning. Almost from the first day you should realize that when Rheuma goes in Rheumatism goes out. It acts on the blood, stomach and liver forcing the dangerous poison to leave the system in the natural way—that's the secret of Rheuma's success.

It matters not whether you are tortured with pain, crippled with swollen joints or distressed with occasional twinges, Rheuma is guaranteed by Lee & Osgood Co., and all druggists, to end rheumatic suffering or money back.

Rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It often affects the heart and causes death. If you have it in the slightest degree get a bottle of Rheuma today and drive it from your system right now.



Consider the Aeroplane

Floating away, a tiny speck in the sky, it is hard to realize that Because of it, we now have better wood-work in our home.

It's a fact, though, and came about through the unprecedented demand for dry, safe wood to use in airplane construction.

So great did this demand become during the war, that the research departments of the Government went to work to devise means of quickly and safely drying wood by artificial means.

That their efforts were successful is evidenced by the fact that adequate reserves of airplane lumber were built up.

Strangly enough, though, this war demand has resulted in great benefits to our home construction, for the very methods that the Government experts devised for curing and preparing green lumber have been adopted by modern trim mills. The result is seasond, dry trim and lumber that does not warp, twist or split.

It is such lumber and trim that we carry in stock. It is safe to put in your home, and will last as long as your home.
Stop in and let us tell you about it.

TODAY'S ELECTION

This is election day, the day when it will be determined who will be the junior senator from this state in congress, who will represent the state in the house of representatives, who will be the state officers for the next two years and who will make up the membership of the general assembly, with judges of probate and justices of the peace in addition.

The selection of such officials deserves the careful attention of the voters. They are relied upon to make the best possible selection and that is best assured by getting out the full vote. It is to be expected that the party organization will be actively engaged in this work but the individual should recognize and respond to his duty.

As President Coolidge has so well said, "Let no voters abdicate their sovereign right of self government at the election on Tuesday by failing to vote."

By casting the straight republican ticket today the voter will aid in the election of a United States Senator Hiram A. Bingham who has upheld and will uphold the policies of President Coolidge.

He will also help in the election of a member of congress, Richard P. Freeman, whose support of the administration has been unwavering and whose work for this district has been constant and effective.

He will give his endorsement to Governor John H. Trumbull and other officers, who for the past two years have given Connecticut a masterly state government and one that should be continued for the welfare of the commonwealth.

He will also use his franchise for the purpose of giving Norwich representation in the next general assembly that will be in harmony with the majority sentiment, a distinct advantage when it comes to getting effective representation and desired results.

Because of the accomplishments in national affairs, the excellent administration of state business and the desire for a continuation of both for the satisfaction and contentment of the public every republican and every fair minded voter should be eager of the opportunity of registering his approval of what has been done and indicating what he desires for the future by enthusiastically backing the republican candidates.

It is certainly no time to stay at home. Get out and manifest your appreciation of conscientious service by voting for its continuance.

Pull the top lever and make it a republican victory.

SENDING COAL ABROAD

The continuation of the British coal strike is making itself felt in this country, while continental Europe is also experiencing a strain upon its fuel resources.

When the British mines were closed last May because of the strike there was a season of light consumption ahead and a certain amount to draw upon. With the coming of colder weather the demands have multiplied and even though some of the strikers have gone back to work the production has not reached the point where England can begin to meet the demands. Coal rationing has been reported to, continental mines have been called upon and the shortage is extending its effects to the cities of other European countries. In this country the effect has not only been to increase production but also to increase the price.

The demand upon the coal producers of this country has resulted in the sending out of the soft coal region of more than 71,000,000 tons in the six weeks from the first of September to the middle of October or nearly 4,000,000 tons in excess of the production of a year ago. For the month of September nearly 2,500,000 tons of soft coal were mined for export making a total of ten and a third million tons for the first nine months of the year.

But it is not the British alone who are bothered by the stoppage in coal production caused by the strike, for their mines were to a large degree relied upon by other countries, while the German mines from which the British are now drawing were also depended upon to meet European requirements.

For the American soft coal producers the exportation business is velvet. It is emergency business of which they are taking full advantage for it will last only as long as the effect of the strike continues to leave England with no coal. It is not to be expected that American coal is going to find a permanent market across the water, and yet Scotch anthracite is one of the constantly advertised fuels of Canada.

TODAY'S REFERENDUMS

In addition to the election contests in the respective states today, there are eight states in which referendums will be held concerning prohibition. That means that the voters will be called upon to express themselves relative to the dry law and thereby let it be understood what the sentiment of the people actually is.

This it is believed is the right way to get at such an expression. Certainly it is grossly unjust to vote for or against a candidate in order to set forth wet or dry sentiment, when the candidacy has nothing whatever to do with such a question. Through a referendum that situation is entirely eliminated, offices can be filled and sentiment expressed without any conflict.

A referendum result will not accomplish anything in the way of changing the law should it prove wet. It will however settle that contention that has been put forward ever since prohibition went into effect that it was never favored by a vote of the people.

If the people of a state want prohibition, or if they want modification of the present law or a return to conditions before prohibition the chance which is offered to them through a referendum is one that should be embraced, for then it can no longer be said that those who represent them are misinterpreting their wishes. It is well that the representatives should be acquainted with the sentiment of their constituents, for they can thereby be better representatives. It isn't to be expected that there will be a census taken for the purpose of finding out how the people feel on any question, but when a referendum is provided it will be a mistake if full advantage is not taken of it.

In eight states today the voters will have a chance to participate in such a referendum, and the value of it will lie in showing how the people of those states feel concerning the dry law. It is open to all voters quite the same as the choice of officials.

FIGHTING CRIME

While crime conditions in numerous states have developed the demand for stricter and stiffer laws, it is noted that judges in New York continue to apply the heavier sentences which have been made possible in that commonwealth. The idea of handing out a slap on the wrist and expecting the recipient to abandon all his criminal inclination is beautiful in theory but it doesn't work out well in practice. Instead of reformation it results in the judge resorting to such leniency, being imposed upon, and the public being made to suffer the effects of crime, crime and more crime.

Hardened criminals within the past few weeks have been given heavy sentences. The latest instance, when Judge Mancuso sentenced a gunman, who was involved in the shooting of a policeman who appeared during a robbery, to 70 years in state prison after a plea of guilty to the second degree had been entered. That is as much as a life sentence and must serve notice upon others involved in that kind of a game that there is not a pleasant outlook ahead for those who are caught.

One or two instances will not be enough to discourage the gunmen and those who think so little of taking life. It is a course that needs to be adopted by all judges and continued and New York is setting a good example when it makes such sentences possible and then follows it up by enforcing the law.

It is inevitable that there will be good results for the serving of that kind of a notice reaches those for whom it is intended. And with other states watching and following New York it will be only a question of time before the idea that crime is profitable and healthy will be completely upset. When the gangsters find that they cannot overstep and disregard the law without getting punishment fitting the crime there will be less interest in taking the chance. Other states are bound to be driven to it even as New York has been, and it is quite natural that New Jersey's governor should already be advocating similar action.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vote in such a way that you will be proud of it the day after.

Vote, vote as early as you can and vote the republican ticket.

Do not forget to so arrange your programme today that you will get to the polls early and vote.

Remember the polls are not open in the evening. They close today at five o'clock in the afternoon.

Mussolini must feel that he has a charmed life even if he does seem to have a number of enemies.

The man on the corner says: What has become of those old time political torch light parades?

The discovery of a new deep hole in the ocean off Japan shows that all the discoveries are not made around the poles.

Remember the top lever today is the republican lever. When you pull that you indicate your stand for good government.

Herrin might be expected to shy from publicity but instead it demands it and every new outbreak adds to its disgrace.

Whether his is a charmed life, or a steel jacket which Mussolini wears it is enough to thwart the assassin and that is much.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m.

HE WANTED FOXGLOVES

It is the shrub and garden seed section of a large department store. Gigantic blossoms in intense colors burst from the decorative posters up on the enthralled eyes of the mob of buyers, bolstering up their good resolves to weed the border every day this year. A line three deep besieges the counters over which bushels of nasturtiums and petunias in embryo are changing hands.

J. P. Greenhill, a broker who has moved out to Languishing Heights, steps hurriedly from the elevator bent on making a purchase for his wife. She has told him to bring her six foxglove plants for a certain corner in her new garden and the name of the blossom has escaped his mind filled with per cents and dividends.

Mr. Greenhill—"Have you some plants—er—they are about so tall and the blossoms run up and down sort of—you know!"

Clerk, of a saturnine nature eyes him and moves away coldly. "Hey Jones, you busy? Customer!"

Mr. Greenhill, temporarily stricken dumb by Jones' new spring tie, purple and pink stripes— "Er—that is—I want some plants that are tall and have blossoms up and down—"

Jones (eying two flappers buying pansies)—"Mebbe you mean morning glories? They go up, anyhow—"

Mr. Greenhill—"No! You plant 'em out in the ground—I mean they don't run up strings! Doggone it! Name's on the tip of my tongue! They had a lot of 'em at the place we visited last summer—oh, you see 'em around everywhere—"

Jones (disinterestedly)—"Huh? You don't mean dandelions? Nobody buys dandelion seeds! Here's a catalogue. Mebbe—"

Mr. Greenhill turns the pages dazedly. The pictures resemble their realities as much as a highly retouched photograph looks like your homely cousin Susie. All of them have tongue-twisting foreign names and he gives it up. "Listen!" he beseeches Jones, who is wandering away. "They stick right up straight and the flowers start at the top and go down—"

Jones—"Oh, Miss White! Can you take this customer? I gotta go to lunch."

Miss White, who has quarrelled the evening before with her boy friend and wept half the night and had no breakfast—"D'ja want sumpen?"

Mr. Greenhill—"Desperately! Do you know anything about a tall plant that looks well in a corner or point of a garden and stands up high and has"

Miss White, feeling the eye of the floorwalker upon her—"We gotta nice sale or lilac bushes today—they make a grand border, and it's nice to pick the flowers. Why don'tcha—?"

Mr. Greenhill, wildly—"But I don't want a hedge! I want some plants my wife told me to get and they're tall—"

Miss White, calling across to the next counter—"What's the name of a tall plant with spikes of flowers up and down, anybody know?"

Girl with a bad cold—"Mebbe he means largepur?"

Handsome man clerk (condescendingly)—"Hollyhocks, girlie, hollyhocks, of course!"

Chatty elderly lady customer, joining in helpfully—"Golden glow stands up high—I had the loveliest bank of it last summer!"

Another customer, with a firm chin, elbowing to the front—"I'm perfectly certain it's the new tall cosmos you want—the flowers are perfectly lovely and look so well in my Venetian vase! You'd better get cosmos—only you get the seeds instead of plants!"

Mr. Greenhill—"It's not a single one of all those names! Consarn it! My wife told me I couldn't forget it if I remembered the name of—now, what did she tell me to remember so I wouldn't forget it? It's about so tall and the flowers are sort of pink—or blue—maybe they are purple, I don't know!"

Miss White (indignantly)—"Well there's verbena and pansies and nasturtiums and pinks, and I could tell you plenty of others! Whyn't you just take some lilacs now when they're so cheap! They'll bloom all right in three years and—"

Mr. Greenhill (after a moment of intense concentrated thought, face purple with the effort, everybody waiting to see whether he has an apoplectic stroke or just a bad temper)—"Aw, what's the use! Gimme six lilacs!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. William Z. Ripley, who recommends a comprehensive federal investigation into the entire field of public utility management to correct what he considers an over-extension of corporate organization and attendant evils, is a Harvard professor and a specialist of national and international renown in two very distinct fields, anthropology and sociology. He has few if any peers in the United States in his study of the problems of railway management, transportation and the economics of the distribution of goods. His book on the Races of Europe, and his studies of the racial conditions in the United States have won for him recognition far and wide. He has repeatedly served on national, state and local investigations of social problems. Incidentally, Prof. Ripley is a democrat and not a plutocrat, and a thinker with preferences inclining him to the side with progressive movements and legislation.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Small Fixed Period Daily

Lack of time is made an excuse for superficial accomplishment, but no one is so busy that he cannot find time to read if he will but diligently make the most of his opportunities. "Dost thou value life," said Franklin, "then do not waste time for that is the stuff life is made of." "In studies whatsoever a man commandeth upon himself, let him set hours for it," says Bacon, but, he adds, "whatsoever is agreeable to his nature, let him take no care for any set hours, for his thoughts will fly to it of themselves."

A small fixed period devoted to study every day is far better than a longer time given occasionally. The result is not only greater but the mental effect is better. For by devoting a certain time every day to the consideration of noble thoughts your mind which grows by what it feeds on is given food for reflection so that it increases in power even when you are not reading.

Stories That Recall Others

Will Power

Betsy sucked her thumb. Her mother was trying the mitten cure to overcome the habit. After she had worn the mitten several nights mother said: "Now, Betsy, we won't put the mitten on tonight. You're such a big girl you won't suck your thumb any more."

"No," replied Betsy, "I'll wait until you get down stairs."

Fair Warning

Jennie, who is a school teacher, awoke the other night affrighted and alarmed. There had been peculiar and apprehensive noises in the room. It was pitch dark. For more than half an hour she lay in a state of terror, breathing as lightly as possible, fears entering her alarmed mind and dangerous visions insistent on coming into clear pictures of havoc and horror.

Unable to stand the strain alone, Jennie at last awoke her sister.

"Wake up! Wake up!" she whispered. "Don't talk. There's someone in the room."

The sister turned, listening for a moment. "I'll get up and turn on the light," she suggested.

"No, no," Jennie almost screamed. "Wait!"

Saying that Jennie crouched low and shouted with all her power.

"If there's anyone in here, I'll give them just one minute to get out!"

The sister's burst of laughter aroused many of the neighbors. Of course the trouble had all been caused by the flapping of the window shade.

DO YOU KNOW

The memory is said to be stronger in summer than in winter.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, and the foot callouses, without soreness or irritation.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Danny's Tail Is Discovered

The clever schemer never sleeps,
But constant vigil ever keeps.
Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse was sitting in the grass beside one of the tiny little paths of Nanny Meadow Mouse. He was quite hidden in that grass. Nothing was to be seen of him from the path but his funny little short tail, which was sticking out right in the path. You know, Danny had left that tail out there on purpose. He was planning to break the news of his homecoming to Nanny Meadow Mouse little by little, and he thought the best way to do it would be for her to discover his tail first. Perhaps Danny wasn't thinking of Nanny altogether. I don't know anything about it, but perhaps he was thinking that if Nanny should discover that tail he might have a chance to find out just how she felt about him without having to face her. You see, she wasn't at all certain how welcome he would be after having been away all summer.

Now Danny was very tired, for you know he had done a lot of traveling. It was very quiet and peaceful there. Danny began to doze. Two or three times his eyes almost closed, only to be opened hurriedly. But at last they did close and remained closed. Danny was taking a nap and out in the little path lay Danny's funny short tail. It was a short tail, too. Sometimes Danny had been ashamed of that short tail. Sometimes he had been envious of his cousins with long tails. Many a time he had admired the long slim tail of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, and the even longer tail of Nimblefeet the Jumping Mouse. But now he was quite satisfied with that little short tail. You see, he hoped that little tail was going to be a sort of an ambassador for him. Ambassador is a big word, isn't it? But its meaning is quite simple. It means some one who smooths the way for you. Danny hoped that his tail would smooth the way for him with Nanny.

Now it just happened that one of the half-grown children of Ringneck the Pheasant happened along that way. Young Ringneck was out in the great world and very proud of it. He had perfect faith in his ability to pick up a living. His bright eyes, which were very sharp eyes, looked this way and that way in search of good eating. Many a worm and insect and many a plump seed those bright eyes discovered and his stout bill picked up. Despite this, he was still hungry. In fact, he had an extra good appetite that day.

It was just by chance that young Ringneck found that little path through the grass. It was a good place to walk and so he followed it. Presently those sharp eyes of his brightened. Ahead of him, lying in the path, was a little worm. Never had he seen one just like it before, but he was sure it was a worm. He hurried forward. Just before reaching it he stopped. He cocked his head on one side and studied that worm.

"I never saw one like that before," said he to himself, "but when I'm hungry all worms look alike to me."

Just then Danny Meadow Mouse who was dreaming, twitched his funny little short tail. Young Ringneck saw it. He saw that tail move. That settled any doubt there might have been in young Ringneck's mind. He would have that worm before it had a chance to get away. He took a step forward and swiftly picked up that tempting little worm.

Now, not two people have yet agreed which was the most surprised—Danny Meadow Mouse or young Ringneck—when the latter picked up what he thought was a worm. He dropped it as quickly as he had picked it up, so hard that it had made Danny squeal. The instant he was dropped he took to his heels.

Young Ringneck looked quite upset. Then, as Nanny Meadow Mouse poked

Ahead of him, lying in the path, was a little worm

her head out of her doorway and inquired what the trouble was, he tried to look dignified. "It is a queer thing to me," said he, "how careless some people can be. If I had a tail I thought anything of I wouldn't leave it around where other folks would be likely to step on it."

CHILD TRAINING

TEACHING CHILDREN TO LIE

Katharine D. Hill

Most intelligent parents distinguish between the child's romancing or sheer inability to know truth from fancy, and the actual lie, denying guilt or placing the blame for an offense on an innocent playmate in self-defense. There was a time when I was quite proud of the tact I used in dealing with the former, and of my severity in trying to cure the latter, but I have come to feel that in these latter efforts many of us—though well meaning parents—have actually encouraged these very faults which we are struggling to correct.

One day when I was chatting with a neighbor our respective children fell into one of those petty quarrels so common to childhood, and my boy interrupted our conversation with some weeping accusation against his little playmate. To my friend's natural chagrin at any unseemly action on the part of her child was added annoyance at the interruption, and her manner was actually terrifying when she turned to the little girl and demanded, "Did you hit Richard?"

Self-defense being of the strongest instincts of the human race, the child cringed and said, "No."

Evidences were against her, but still, and ever more emphatically, she protested her innocence. In vain I tried to persuade the mother to let the matter drop for a moment, and soon a hysterical mother was dragging a hysterical child away, saying, "I won't have my child a liar. I'll make her tell the truth!"

She was exhausted when she came back a little while later to say she was convinced her little girl had been telling the truth from the beginning, for she had clung to her story even under threat of the whip if she dared to lie.

Poor child! Almost forced to lie in the first place by the demand, "Did you do it?" and by the realization that confession would mean sharp and quick punishment, and then tormented into a hysteria in which she actually came to believe in the innocence she was claiming!

And so it goes. We threaten with hand and voice while we demand, "Did you do it?" or ask a group of children standing in trembling realization of the punishment awaiting the culprit, "Which one of you did it?" We know there is no instinct stronger than that of self-defense, and yet we ignore that fact, practically forcing the little child to lie and tempting he older brother.

So with little children I have come to avoid these questions under most circumstances. They are having a hard enough time of it to learn to draw the line between fact and fancy, without my tempting them in the face or one of the strongest instincts born in them. When it is absolutely necessary to learn whether or not the little one is guilty, I try to pry out the truth by some other method. And of the direct question seems advisable I ask it gently, trying to make it clear that my purpose is to learn the truth rather than to punish. There are very few occasions when it is either wise or profitable to ask which of a group of the little children has transgressed. If we do so, they will very likely all claim ignorance or pass the blame from one to the other. And if by chance we discover the culprit, we are apt either to utter an inane warning not to let it happen again, or, worse yet, to punish the offender before his comrades tempting many of them to determine, whenever they are guilty, to lie cleverly enough to escape.

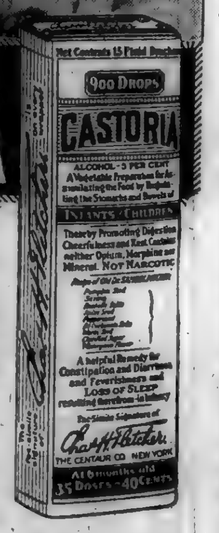
When they are older, with standards more fixed and true, I shall be glad to put them to the test, but in the meanwhile the guilt is mine if I tempt the little ones beyond their strength.

SHORT TALKS BY THOUGHTFUL MOTHERS

A Pennsylvania mother speaks first: "I know the worth of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. We used it for years, and it never failed us. For croupy children, feverish colds, disturbing night coughs, it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house." No opiates, no chloroform, made under rigid sanitary control, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound carries a strong appeal to thoughtful mothers everywhere. Ask for it.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA



When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

NEW YORK TRUCK DRIVER FINED IN STONINGTON

Morris Lozzi of 505 East 17th street, New York, was fined $10 and costs of $17.55 in Stonington town court on Monday morning, before Judge William A. Wilcox, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without lights.

Lozzi was the driver of a truck which collided with a sedan driven by Manuel Travers of 11 Diving street, Stonington, Sunday morning at 4 o'clock near the Eugene Woods place on the Westerly-Stonington road.

It was said that the truck, driven without lights was proceeding from New York to Providence, that it was on the left side of the highway, and that it struck the Travers car, wrecking the rear end and smashing the doors of the car. Mr. Travers and Frank Previty of Stonington, who were occupants of the Travers machine, were uninjured. It was alleged that the driver of the truck proceeded toward Westerly. Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon of Pawtucket was told of the crash and blew his whistle in an effor to stop the truck, which crossed the bridge into Westerly without stopping.

Officer Sheldon apprehended the truck driver, who was held for arraignment in Stonington town court. With him in the truck were Mr. and Mrs. Anastete Marcant of New York.

TWO NORWICH PETITIONERS BEFORE PARDON BOARD

Two men who received their sentences to state's prison before the superior court in this city were petitioners before the board of pardons at Wethersfield, Monday.

Attorney John T. Barry of this city, appeared for George A. Finn, 35, former bank examiner who later was an official of the Bankers Trust company of this city, embezzled its funds. It was Finn's second appeal, and he sought a reduction of his minimum sentence. His sentence was for 5 to 9 years. Mrs. Finn pleaded for clemency for the sake of their four children, ranging from three to eight years. While maintaining that in his opinion the sentence was just, he would be satisfied with whatever action the board took in the case.

Simon A. G. Salsbury, sentenced October 9, 1918, for murder in the second degree, committed on May 6, at Preston, made his 12th appeal. Salsbury had killed two men, Herman Chapman and William Kinney, who went to the house to dispossess him. Attorney John A. Danaher appeared for Salsbury, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown said Salsbury had impressed him, and he believed the man would not be a menace if he were released.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Michael McLoughlin

Following an illness of about two weeks, Julia Lyons McLoughlin, wife of Michael McLoughlin, died Monday afternoon at the W. W. Backus hospital, where she was employed. Mrs. McLoughlin was born in Ireland 54 years ago and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lyons. She came to this country when a child and for 45 years had resided in Norwich. Mrs. McLoughlin was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

Surviving are her husband, one brother, John J. Lyons of this city, two sisters, Sister Lilosi of St. Theresa's academy, Boise, Idaho, and Miss Mary A. Lyons of Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. H. Wales Lines

Mrs. Sarah Congdon (Munger) Lines, wife of H. Wales Lines, who is widely known as a leading building contractor in this state and elsewhere, and has been prominent in Masonry many years, died at her home, No. 65 Pleasant street, Meriden, Sunday afternoon after a long illness.

She was 68 years old and a daughter of the Rev. Washington Munger, a Baptist minister, and Louisa (Nichols) Munger, of Waterford.

She was a member of the First Congregational church in Meriden and during her earlier years was very active in the work of the church. She was a member of Meriden chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Her marriage to H. Wales Lines occurred June 23, 1861. Besides her husband, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. Sarah Lines Hamilton of Meriden, Mrs. Clara Lines deBussy of Stamford, and Mrs. Ellie Lines Chapin of Pine Meadow. She also leaves a brother, William S. Munger of Waterford, and eight grandchildren.

143,406 INDIVIDUALS IN STATE FILED INCOME TAX RETURNS, 1924

Of the 143,406 individuals who filed income tax returns in Connecticut in 1924, three reported incomes of more than a half million dollars. There were 619 residents of the state who reported incomes of more than $50,000. But the largest group of those filing returns in the state included those whose incomes were between $1,000 and $2,000, there being 35,761 of these individuals reporting. This and much other information of interest is found in statistics just issued by the internal revenue bureau.

Connecticut individuals and corporations paid 1.78 per cent. of the total income taxes received by the bureau for the year. The total net income reported in the state was $475,174,349, on which a total tax of $12,592,964 was paid.

The percentage of the state's population filing returns was 9.54, which was exceeded only in five other states. The average net income per return was $3,354.56; per capita net income reported was $817.96; average income tax per return, $87.82, and per capita income tax, $8.37.

The number of returns decreased 6.28 per cent., as compared with the previous year, but the net income reported increased .82 per cent. and the tax increased 12.45 per cent.

Profits Outstanding Losses.

Farmers of the Nutmeg state filed 552 returns, a net profit of $331,667 being shown. Only 367 of the farms showed profits for the year, however, the other 185 recording net losses.

Of the 5,782 corporations that filed returns from the state, 3,431 reported net income, totaling $109,140,674, and 1,951 showed deficits for the year totaling $34,792,136. The largest group of corporations reporting was in the "financial" category, which included banking, insurance and related business. There were 1,123 of these corporations, reporting, of which 760 reported net income of $16,029,967 and the other 363 deficits of totaling $7,652,425.

In agriculture and related industries, there were 108 corporations that filed returns, of which 96 reported net income; in mining and quarrying there were 28, of which 12 reported profits on the year.

Manufacturers Prosper.

Manufacturing corporations filed 1,526 returns of which 614 showed net income for the year.

Construction concerns, totaling 278, showed 182 operating at a profit; corporations engaged in trade totaled 1,555, of which 1,021 reported net income.

Of the corporations reporting for 1924, 52.34 per cent. reported net income, as compared with 51.43 per cent. in 1923 and 52.81 per cent. in 1916, with 1919 the high-water mark in this period, when 68.36 per cent. of corporations filing returns showed net income.

The number of individual returns filed in the state under the system of declaring $1,000 or over was 84,472 in 1917, rose to a high point of 149,820 in 1923 and dropped to 143,406 in 1924.

HARTFORD PASTOR SPEAKS TO BAPTIST MINISTERS HERE

Rev. J. N. Lackey, D. D., of Hartford, presented the paper for discussion at the morning meeting of the Thames River Valley Baptist Ministers' association, which was held Monday at the First Baptist church with morning and afternoon sessions. Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the church, is president of the association.

The devotional period was in charge of Rev. H. C. Plumb of Flanders.

Rev. Dr. Lackey's paper was upon "Loss of Individual Emphasis in Our Churches."

In his paper the speaker brought out that the individual is lost in the crowd, who is found in the various walks of life—journalism, industrial, commercial, educational, etc.

Christ was a unique character, the speaker said, because he stood alone. The church is expected to be unique in the world standing, not because it stands alone, but that it will be noticed. The church membership needs to be exalted. Some people think that because their names appear on the church roll or that they occasionally donate financially, that this is sufficient. The speaker said this alone leads to the loss of interest among members for church welfare.

The loss of Calvinism in preaching was also brought out. Calvin taught God and man, which no individual had a right to stand between. The loss of so much of the sense of sin and wrongdoing was another obstacle which the church is up against.

"To soften life and then soften ourselves not one ought to think that they can get into the kingdom of God on flowery beds of ease while others fight to win the prize and sail through bloody seas," the speaker said.

"If a plague comes into our community we are stirred to begin to use precaution."

Rev. Mr. Lackey told of the evil in the world against the church, and said, "the church needs the people who will stand up and fight the evil works."

At noon the ministers and friends adjourned to the basement of the church, where the following appetizing menu was enjoyed: Grape fruit, beef loaf, mashed potatoes, Waldorf salad, cream, carrots, peas, pickles, rolls, coffee, apple pie.

Mrs. M. E. Maguire was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Louis Maples, Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. D. L. Jones, Mrs. Maude Wheeler, Mrs. Harry Howard, Mrs. James Tourtellotte and Mrs. A. N. Haring.

The afternoon session was taken up with the hearing of reports of the various committees, officers, etc. and other routine business was transacted for Baptist was held and the meeting broke up shortly after 3 o'clock.

Among the clergymen were: Revs. H. B. Hutchins of Quaker Hill, F. S. Robbins of Preston City, P. S. Collins, C. E. Dunbar, D. A. Pitt, D. D., all of Norwich, George A. Atha of Groton, J. F. Sperrin of Fitchville, E. L. Nield of Montville, L. J. Shepler of Mystic, E. P. Weise of Noank, J. C. Gavin of Lyme, H. C. Plumb of East Lyme, H. M. Thompson, D. D., of Stonington, E. E. Scates of Jewett City, J. N. Lackey, D. D., of Hartford and J. W. Carevale of Norwich.

HALLOWEEN DANCE HELD BY IMMERGRUEN GUARDS

The Immergruen Guards held their first dance Saturday evening in Germania hall, with a large number present. The costumes were of all descriptions and every one had a grand time. The Ideal Radio orchestra played for the dancing. The hall was decorated with festoons of black and yellow streamers, cornstalks, pumpkins, autumn leaves, cats, witches, bats, pumpkins and skeletons. The lights were covered with crepe paper domes of black and yellow. The grand march was led by Mrs. E. Cloutier and Mrs. G. Kirchner.

The committee in charge was as follows: Floor directors, Mrs. G. Kirchner and Mrs. E. Schubert soda stand, Mrs. L. Lalrich and Mrs. M. Lenf; hot dogs, cake and coffee, Mrs. V. Wenzel, Mrs. E. Schiltens, Mrs. E. Braun; cider and doughnuts, Miss G. Deirman, and Mrs. Schubert; check room, Miss O. Lachae, Mrs. I. Gresser and Miss J. Schaffhauser; ticket office, Miss M. Opits.

Kitemaug Apples Displayed

Apples from the Kitemaug orchards of Frank W. Browning at Montville are made a feature of the "apple week" exhibit in the windows of the Mohican store where 30 bushels of the handsome fruit from the Kitemaug trees are on display. They are all brilliant in coloring, unblemished in quality and luscious to the taste, due to the scientific methods which are used in Mr. Browning's orchard to produce perfect fruit.

The varieties include Rome Beauties, Golden Delicious, R. I. Greenings, Pippins and McIntosh Reds. The Kitemaug orchards are now devoted exclusively to apples as Mr. Browning some time ago cut down all his peach trees in order to specialize in apples.

Given Halloween Surprise

Alfred Faulkner of Trading Cove was very agreeably surprised by a company of young ladies who came in in Halloween costumes, with masks and candles, Monday evening. Exhibitions of toe dancing, Charleston and collegian, waltzing and heel and toe dancing were given. Miss Ward furnished lunch, assisted by Arlene Price of Norwich Town. Mr. Faulkner has been very ill but is now on the road to recovery. Singing and dancing completed the entertainment for the evening.

SPOKE ON PROGRESS OF HOSPITAL STANDARDIZATION

Dr. James J. Donohue has recently returned from meeting of the fellows of the American College of Surgeons, which was held in Montreal with an attendance of over 1,000 of the leading surgeons of the United States and Canada. One of the important addresses of the meeting was that by Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director general of the college, who spoke upon the subject, Hospital Standardization.

In part Dr. Martin said:

The American College of Surgeons greatly appreciate this opportunity of officially presenting to the people of the United States and Canada the list of approved hospitals of 25 beds and over. These hospitals have adopted the fundamental requirements for the right care of the patient and the broadest community service, as provided for in the minimum standard requirements laid down by the American College of Surgeons, an international organization charged with the responsibility of the great movement known as hospital standardization, embodied in which are the six great fundamental principles upon which rests our responsibility to the patient—organization, co-ordination, co-operation, efficiency, economy and service.

It is true that the hospital has become a part of the social life of our people. It is becoming increasingly used from day to day, and 12,000,000 or more persons are hospitalized annually. It is hardly conceivable that any community should content with a hospital which has not been awarded this recognition as a public assurance that it fully recognizes its responsibility to the patient, the student nurse, the young doctor, and the community at large. If every hospital in the United States and Canada were operated strictly under hospital standardization requirements there would be at least a saving of 24,000,000 hospital days for the 12,000,000 patients, as compared with conditions prevailing prior to 1918, when the hospital standardization movement commenced. Further, the hospital death rate under the same conditions would be reduced to the average of 15 per cent. Both from the economic and humanitarian standpoints the citizens of two great countries cannot turn a deaf ear to this movement, and each community must assume the responsibility of seeing that its hospital is meeting the requirements and on the approved list.

Hospital standardization is a great responsibility, and it should appeal to everyone who is interested in the better care of the patient. The smaller hospitals have been seriously handicapped because the college has been unable, for financial reasons, to survey them and give them the advice and assistance they so much desire. The college must continue its work among the larger hospitals, but must also endeavor in some way to finance the survey of the smaller institutions. Their importance to the United States and Canada is shown in the fact that of the hospitals between 25 and 50 bed capacity, more than 1,500 in number, represent 47 per cent. of the total active hospitals, with beds aggregating 48,722. Many of these could easily qualify as approved hospitals. The only reason they are not on this list is because of the increased expenses that would be incurred by the survey. The college is in a position to do this additional work with the greatest economy and efficiency, having now the entire field set-up, if the means for financing the work are available.

The annual survey embraces active and special hospitals of 25 beds and over in the United States, Canada and other countries, numbering this year 2,528. This group includes the federal hospitals of the United States Army, Navy, Public Health Service, Veterans' Bureau, National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, and a number of institutions in other countries. The list as announced shows a healthy growth from 695 hospitals survey in 1918, with only 20 or 12.8 per cent. approved or meeting the requirements, to 2,528 surveyed in 1926 with 1,731 or 68.5 per cent. approved—a most gratifying result.

The following hospitals in the state of Connecticut have been awarded full or conditioned approval:

One hundred or more beds: Bridgeport hospital, Bridgeport; Danbury hospital, Danbury; Grace hospital, New Haven; Greenwich hospital, Greenwich; Hartford hospital, Hartford; Hospital of St. Raphael, New Haven; Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital, New London; Meriden hospital, Meriden; Middlesex Hospital, Middletown; Municipal hospital, Hartford; New Britain General hospital, New Britain; New Haven hospital, New Haven; St. Francis' hospital, Hartford; St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury; St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport; Stamford hospital, Stamford; Waterbury hospital, Waterbury; Veterans hospital, New Haven.

Fifty to 100 beds: Charlotte Hungerford hospital, Torrington; Home Memorial hospital, New London; Litchfield County hospital, Winsted; Manchester Memorial hospital, South Manchester; Mount Sinai hospital, Hartford; Norwalk General hospital, Norwalk; William W. Backus hospital, Norwich.

ELECTION RETURNS

Election returns, state and national, will be flashed on the screen at The Bulletin office tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

It being a busy night for the force of workers in the office, there will be positively NO admittance to either the editorial or composing rooms.

LEE HEAP RETURNING FROM TRIP TO COAST

Lee Heap of South Second avenue, Taftville, is a passenger on steamer Manchuria, which sailed from Los Angeles Monday and expects to dock in New York Nov. 17, going by way of Panama canal, according to word received by local relatives. Mr. Heap made up a party of four, including William Kendall of Norwich, who left Norwich about five weeks ago for a cross continent sightseeing trip and for the past three weeks has been visiting with Mr. Kendall's daughter in Vallejo, Cal., during which many enjoyable automobile trips were made. Mr. Kendall will remain with his daughter for the winter.

While in Vallejo Messrs. Heap and Kendall visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baldwin of Los Angeles, the former a brother of Samuel Baldwin of Plainfield, Mrs. Kate Dunne and family of Bakersfield, and Dr. Joseph Robinson, of Anaheim, Cal., all former Taftville residents. Trips were taken to the Yosemite valley, Pasadena, Hollywood, Mexico and en route stops were made at Pacos Canyon, N. M., Pryjolas Canyon, the site of the ancient cliff dwellers, the petrified forests, the painted desert, grand canyon and other points of interest.

The trip across the continent was made in 11 days of actual driving, rain falling during the first five days until a point was reached in Missouri, but to offset this the roads were excellent, and 1500 miles were made. Terrible roads, "miniature mudholes, were encountered in Kansas and until they reached New Mexico, from then on the roads were in better condition. Many cars were seen mired in the mud on these Kansas roads, the local party assisting a number of them to get on their way. The remainder of the trip was traveled in pleasant weather, the party arriving at their destination without any serious mishap, and all expressed themselves as well satisfied with the trip.

BEGINNING TO DECORATE FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Merchants along Main street and in the central part of the city are already beginning to decorate their places of business for the Armistice day celebration Nov. 11. On out of town decorating company has men at work putting up the decorations for the big observance which will be featured by a parade of 5,000 to 7,000 in line with 15 bands and six drum corps.

Announcement is made that the committee in charge of the float division are receiving additional entries of floats almost daily. Organizations planning to enter floats in the parade should communicate as soon as possible with Arthur E. Story, No. 75 Laurel Hill avenue, chairman of the parade committee. Worthwhile prizes are to be awarded for the best floats in the parade.

CROWD AT ARMORY FOR RAPP ORCHESTRA DANCE

The state armory on McKinley avenue had a crowd of 600 Monday evening for the dance under the auspices of Battery B with the music by Barney Rapp's orchestra of 13 pieces. It was the first of the series of dancing events by the battery and opened the season with great success under the music of the popular orchestra, with Barney, himself, directing.

MISS CONNELL WAS LAST VOTER TO BE MADE

Miss M. Genevieve Connell, clerk in the office of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook, had the distinction Monday of being the last voter made eligible this year to cast a ballot in the election today (Tuesday).

There were two young women who had not attained the legal voting age on the last regular day for making voters and it was agreed then by the officials that they should be made on Monday. The other young woman did not appear but the board, which consisted of First Selectman William S. Murray, Town Clerk Holbrook, Second Selectman Charles P. Bushnell, Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, held its special meeting in the town clerk's office and duly administered the electors' oath to Miss Connell Monday morning.

L. H. D. Club Halloween Dance

In Odd Fellows hall on Monday evening a delightful Halloween dance under the auspices of the L. H. D. club, was attended by about 50 couples. The appropriate decorations made a pretty setting for the dance which was given under direction of the committee consisting of Miss Marie Desmond, chairman, Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, Miss Frances Kelly, Miss Loretta Gedie and Miss Catherine Finnegan. The music was by Thumm's orchestra and cider and doughnuts were served for refreshments.

NIANTIC

Gates Rebekah lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F. met Monday evening at the lodge room and entertained the grand officers of the Rebekah assembly. The degree staff initiated a class of candidates in a very impressive manner. The grand officers who attended the meeting were the president of the Rebekah assembly, the vice president, the district deputy president and two past presidents. There were visiting members from Osprey lodge of New London also from the Mystic order. About 100 members and visiting members were present. Mrs. Sutter presented gifts on behalf of the local lodge to the president and vice president of the Rebekah Assembly. Preceding the meeting supper was served Clarabel Fallows being chairman, ably assisted by Julia Rathbun, Frankie Temple, Gladys Rathbun, Edith Beckwith and Martha Swaney. The local order received an invitation from Hope lodge of Norwich to participate in the Armistice day parade at Norwich on Nov. 11th. It was voted to accept and at the next meeting of the local order, action will be taken as to the appointment of delegates who will go from here to participate in the parade.

The sewing club of Gates Rebekah lodge will hold an all day sewing meeting on Friday at the home of Mrs. Susie Rogers.

There was a pickle sale and jelly sale at the Niantic Public library Friday afternoon from 2 to 5. The proceeds from the sale will go toward paying for painting the exterior of the library building which is already being done.

St. Agnes Altar society is holding whists every week at the rectory. The whist held this week was well attended and very successful. Straight whist was played. Prizes were won by John Shea and Mrs. Willard, of New London, Mrs. George Wargo and James Connolly. Following the playing there was vocal and instrumental music by Mrs. James Sherlock which was very pleasing. A radio entertainment was also on the program. Light refreshments were served by the hostesses, Miss Catherine Lane of Seaside sanitarium and Mrs. Edward Congdon. The men present enjoyed the usual smoker.

On account of the stormy weather Sunday the reception at the Yale Engineering camp was postponed to next Sunday, Oct. 31st from 2 to 4 p. m. All townspeople have been invited to attend.

The whist last Thursday evening at the Black Point home of Mrs. James Bond was well attended and very enjoyable. It was given under the auspices of the auxiliary of Nehantic chapter, Order Eastern Star. Prizes were captured by William Green and Mrs. Latham of Noank. Eight tables were in play. There were visitors from Noank and New London. Following the playing refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Bond.

Nehantic chapter, Order Eastern Star plans to hold a Hallowe'en party at the lodge room Saturday evening. All visiting Eastern Stars and their families have been invited.

Nehantic chapter held its regular session Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Blake have returned to their home in Pine Grove after several days' motor trip to Philadelphia to attend the sesqui-centennial exposition. They were accompanied by Mrs. Blake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards of Montville. On the return trip north, they made an overnight stay at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. James Metcalf in Middletown, N. Y. Mr. Metcalf lived here before moving to the empire state.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson, of Georgia, was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother-in-law told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash," she writes. "I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I was not the same woman at all. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does me more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."—Mrs. Belle Thompson, R. 2, Rossville, Georgia.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" to neutralize any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to

SUSIE ATTENDS THE YALE-ARMY GAME AT THE BOWL AT NEW HAVEN

Susie in company with the boy friend attended the Yale-Army game at New Haven on Saturday and had a fine time, according to her letter which follows:

Dear Sports Ed.:

Well Ed., old dear, me and the boy friend took in the Yale-Army game last Sat. at New Haven and I sure got quite some kick out of it, more'n them Yale fellers and they got a hell a kicks at that. Gosh, I didn't have no intents of going until the boy friend calls up and says he's got a couple tickets that ain't working and will I use one of them. Will a duck swim? Well I told that kid I sure would make the best use possible of that bit of pasteboard.

The kid shows up next morning 'bout 9 a. m. in the fliver. You know Ed the boy sold the good car and got one of them mechanical tomato cans 'cause he said the big car was keeping him busted all the time. Them cans is all right if you keep one eye on the road and the other on the roof of the car so's you can duck when you hit a rough place in the road. Well I gets in and we joins jauntily on our joyous journey. When I says joints I means joints. Lordy gosh, but I felt like I had St. Vitus dance by the time I gets to that place what they calls the bowl. We grabs a coupla alleged ham sandwiches what musta been held over from the last Yale-Army game and we gets out the road map to find our way in. We goes through a cemetery where the best people in New Haven is now residing and finally we finds the bowl. Just outside the bowl there is a lotta people parading up and down and then they's more folks what has got something to sell. They say they was $3,000 cash consumers at the game but I'll bet they was a 100,000 others that was selling either programs, vilets, chrisanthemums, peanuts, candy, tooth-paste and eats. I says to the boy friend "Lets get a coupla programs" and he says, "Sure". Well when he finds out they is four bits each he says "Give me one." Then he tares it in two and gives me half saying, "You keep track of the Yale team and I'll keep track of the Army. It's too much for a girl like you to keep your eyes on both teams too oncet." Well I don't mind that so much, I'm still having a good time but what gets me kinder mad was when a feller comes up with some flowers and says, "Get your colors, vilets for Yale and 'Santhemums for the Army, which does the lady want?" Well I horns right into the conversation and says, "Oh, we are for Yale." The boy looks at the vilets and then at the 'santhemums and says, "Oh, let's cheer for the Army, everybody else is cheering for Yale." So he buys me one chrisanthemum for a dime, thereby saving about $4.90. Gosh, that boy don't think nothing of money, he's liberal just like Hetty Green was.

Well, to show you what kind of a kid he is, I'll tell you something. You know they was a lotta girls what was giving out samples of tooth-paste there. Well one of them dames give the boy a box and he looks at it and says, "Where's the brush?" But the dame ain't so dumb and she gives him the once over and says, "Well, ain't that a toothbrush under your nose, well rub the paste on that." She was referring to that mustashe what he thinks is a regular he-man adornment, but it aint. I suppose if they had been giving away sheet music he'd have wanted a piano to go with it. That's the kind of a guy he is, generous to a fault.

Well, we get's into that bowl all right and finds we got fine seats, way over in Derby some where's. But that don't bother me none cause I got some glasses but when I looks at the field I thinks I'm looking through the wrong end. Well we sits down on them 2x4 boards what they calls seats and I starts giving the crowd the once over through the binocs. Well, believe me, they is some mob of peoples there and out of them 83,000 they ain't more'n a coupla grand that ain't got fur coats. I was included in the 2,000. I starts figuring up and I finds that if I had all the money them furs and near-furs was worth I could build a bowl meself and then have enough over to buy a fur coat. Them games is a great place to show off your furs and maybe some of your neighbors' too.

By and by we hears music and somebody says the kadets is coming and shoot that time in comes a band followed by a snappy bunch of boys all dressed in grany or powder blue, I don't know witch, and they marches around the field like they was all tied on one piece of tape. Well, just to look at them boys you knew right away why them Germans called "time out" in that big game over across. After them kadets had took their seats in the stands the team comes on, or rather I should say, three Army teams come on. Pretty snappy bunch of footballers they was. Then Yale comes on and they is given a mighty cheer and I sees that me and my paller 'santhemum is in the minority just like the democratic party. Then some Army fellers leads a mule around the field. And I says to the boy friend, "They hin't going to let that animal play are they or is he the kicker?" Well that don't register so good with the boy, for he says, "Don't be cracking wise, or people'll think you ain't never been to no football games." I can see right away I'm going to have a grand and inglorious time.

Well, bime by the game starts. Gosh, before many minutes I is glad that the boy has bought the 'santhemum, for that Army team has got a score and is ahead. Somebody kicks a ball to that feller, No. 39, Bunsell, the program says his name is and he muffs it just like Meusel missed that fly in the world's serious. Then some Army feller grabs the ball and its a touchdown. After that its all Army and everybody who bought vilets is pinning them under the fur coats and them what has 'santhemums ate sticking them out so's everybody'll see them. This Wilson feller what was in the backfield for the Army is a bear when it comes to carrying a ball around a football lot. Gosh he was here, there and everywhere and first one Yale feller would grab him, but it ain't no use, he just keeps going. He weren't the only one what plays tag with them Yale fellers, they's Hewitt, Cagle and Murrell. I can see them Yale fellers is having a lotta fun diving for the runners only to have the ground come up and hit them aslack in the face.

Everybody is saying what a shame it is for Yale and if that feller Kline and Noble was in it would be different. Believe me Ed., if Yale had had Ted Coy, Red Grange and the New Haven police department in there they couldn't have stopped the Army without using machine guns. And on top of it all the Army got so many penalties that you didn't know which way the team was going, front or back. But that didn't make no difference to them future shave-tails, if they lost five yards they went out and made ten. So by simple arithmetic it was easy to see that they was bound to gain ground, provided the umpire held to giving out only five yards at a crack.

Say, one thing that I got a great kick out of was that red-headed feller what give the drop kicking exhibition before the game and between the halves. That kid was sure some little booter and maybe he didn't know it. He was a cocky little cuss and when he did get his chance the umpire called a balk or something and the kid missed the goal. I sure was sorry 'cause I sure like them red-headed boys.

Well Ed., I didn't get quite so excited at this game like I did up in Boston and I don't think I pulled no dumb ones. The only crack what I made that might not seem strictly according to Camp was when Yale sent in a flock of new players, I yells to Tad Jones, "Hey Tad, old kid, let 'em all go in, but don't take nobody out and then you might win." Gosh, that crack got me a lotta dirty looks and the boy friend turns his back on me, but I fooled him 'cause the feller what was next to me was a Army man and he pulls out a bottle and says, "Let's have a drink of tea on that one." Well, I like tea, so I says sure, and he pours me out a drink which it took Oh man, oh boy, when that feller says tea he left off them two last letters, he oughta said T. N. T. I coughs my thanks and he says, "Let's have a nother" and I says, "NO, and for Gawd's sake don't drop that or it'll explode and wreck the place."

Well, bime by the game is over and me and the boy friend starts to go out but we don't make no more headway at getting out than Yale did in getting through the Army team. Everybody is waiting to see them kadets do their celebrating but they musta been a coupla generals around for there weren't nothing doing only a coupla kadets kissed a couple girls and the crowd cheered.

Finally we gets moving and I finds that there's a lotta Norwich people at the game for I sees Vez Callahan, Jim Sheridan, George Madden, Frank Diggins, Jack Donovan, Dr. Bussiere, Doc Solomon and a lotta other people from Norwich. Well, I hope they had as good a time as I did, but some of them looked like they had bet on Yale. Well, we gets home all right although we had to hit a coupla cars to do it. Not hard, you know, but just enough to bend a coupla mudguards and a head light but everybody thought it was good fun and we don't get no bawling out.

Well Ed., the boy friend says he's going to get tickets for the Harvard game and will I go? Gosh ain't he funny some times?

So long Ed.,
SUSIE.

NO MORE INTERSECTIONAL GAMES FOR THE BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The tumult of intersectional strife died tonight on Western Conference gridirons. Every Big Ten team has played its last distant foe of 1926, and next Saturday's efforts will be given to conference engagements with two exceptions.

Indiana plays Notre Dame and Ohio State is idle.

Illinois which showed with its victory over Pennsylvania, a team developing fast into a major threat at conference leaders, prepared for Chicago. The Illini probably cannot put themselves in title position now, but they can make the going rough for some surviving aspirants. Chicago has yet to win a conference game.

Michigan, stunned by its loss to Navy, practiced without Friedman for the Wisconsin game at Ann Arbor Saturday. Friedman's leg was wrenched in the middy game, but he expects to be back in a few days. Wisconsin relies on the same stubborn pursuit of the ball which frightened Minnesota, but entertained more brilliant hopes of overcoming Michigan's drive toward a big ten title.

Northwestern, after its second victory over Indiana Saturday, found itself at the stage where it must prove its ability to win from somebody beside the Hoosiers if it is to be crowned conference champion.

The Wildcats foresees a clear title for themselves if Ohio State takes Michigan's measure and then falls before the improving Illini, but this demands victories of Northwestern over Purdue, Chicago and Iowa on successive week-ends.

Minnesota, both hearted by its conquering of the Badgers, worked tonight for the homecoming game with Iowa at Iowa city. Iowa, which had an easy game Saturday, has been preparing for Minnesota for a week already, and thus holds an advantage which almost counter-balances the edge which the Gophers claim on the basis of previous showings.

Notre Dame will pursue against Indiana, the same undercover attack which quelled Georgia Tech, with the hope of winning without displaying any of the tricks Rockne is developing for the Army game a fortnight hence.

Ohio State, with an open date, worked tonight with vigor for the Michigan contest, on which all the Buckeye hopes for a Big Ten title are pinned.

ATHLETIC RELATIONS BETWEEN ARMY AND SYRACUSE BROKEN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Temporary suspension of athletic contests between Syracuse and West Point teams was announced today, following a conference in New York city between Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse university and Brigadier General Merle B. Stewart, superintendent of the United States Military Academy. It was agreed that the situation involved no difficulties which could not be satisfactorily adjusted in time.

The conference related to the Syracuse-Army football game at West Point, October 16, in which five players were hurt, and another, Quarterback Bayainger, who later resigned from the Syracuse squad, was banished from the game for slugging referee Schwartz.

The players most seriously injured, "Whippet" Carr, Syracuse flash and high point scorer of the east up to last Saturday, and Trapnell, star of the Army backfield, have been unable to play since. Carr, who suffered torn ligaments in his knee, probably is out for the remainder of the season.

DEMPSEY DOES NOT APPLY FOR N. Y. LICENSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey failed to make application today to the New York boxing commission for a license to fight in this state. Announcement had previously been made that the former heavyweight champion would ask that the license refused him when he sought to fight Gene Tunney here be granted before he returns to California to go into light training to determine his come-back capabilities.

The commission suspended Sailor Friedman, Philadelphia welterweight, for 30 days in conformance with a working agreement it has with the Pennsylvania state body.

Walker Gets Decision.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, Elizabeth, N. J., was awarded the judges' decision over Joe Simonich, Butte Mont., at the end of a ten round fight here tonight. Simonich scored the only knockdown of the fight in the first round.

Walker weighed 155; his opponent, 154½.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m.

GORMAN WINS FROM PERSSON ON A FOUL

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Bud Gorman of Kenosha, Wis., won on a foul from Harry Persson of Sweden, in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Referee Jimmy Crowley disqualified Persson for striking low after he had warned the Swedish boxer in previous rounds. Persson weighed 200 1-2 pounds, Gorman 200.

The bout which was the final of the card of four ten-round matches was not exciting in the first rounds, neither boxing being punished to any extent. The fifth round had continued for one minute and 55 seconds when Persson was sent to his corner in the boxing during the first four rounds, Persson had an edge. Both Gorman were told the referee to get their blows up but Persson was warned in three of the first round rounds to refrain from questionable blows.

The card attracted only a small attendance, the number of paid spectators being announced as 1,422. George Godfrey, of Leipersville, Pa., defeated Jack Townsend of New York when Referee Jimmy Crowley stopped the bount in the sixth round of a ten-round match because Townsend was not boxing according to the rules. Godfrey weighed 201 1-4, Townsend 191 1-2. Townsend substituted for Bill Goethe of Galveston, Texas, who failed to pass the doctor's examination. The bout was slow and uninteresting.

Art Weigan of Buffalo outpointed Murray Gitlits of New Haven in the opening match of a four ten-round card. Weigan weighed 178 and Gitlits 177 1-2.

Yale Okun of New York was given a decision over Earl Blue of St. Paul in a fast ten-round bout. Okun weighed 173 pounds, Blue 172. The decision proved unpopular with a portion of the crowd and was greeted with prolonged booing.

Blue dropped Okun for a count of nine in the first round.

YALE VARSITY UNDERGOES GENERAL HOUSE-CLEANING

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—With disastrous defeats behind and with the big three contests ahead, the Yale first and second football teams were subjected to a general shake-up today. As a result, a member of the scrubs, William Holabird, of Ferndale, Mich., found himself in the varsity backfield and changes were made to strengthen the line.

Holabird was a freshman star three years ago but had not played football for the past two seasons. He is Yale's pitching ace on the baseball team and was a baseball and football star at Hill school. Knowlton Stone was moved up to fill the other halfback position, Hoben was left at fullback and Captain Bunnell at quarterback.

In the line, Webster returned to guard with Burt Benton being moved up to fill his right tackle place. Richards replaced Quarrier at left tackle. The rest of the line was not shifted, with Sturhahn remaining at left guard, Harvey at center and Scott and Fishwick in the end positions.

The second team saw Phillips moved to fullback with Charlesworth shifted from guard to center. Dick Wortham from the injured list and Elmer Kell from the scrubs assumed the guard positions and Flaherty and Ryan returned from the injured list to fill the tackles. Mallory and Collins were the ends. The backfield saw Switz elevated to quarterback in place of Decker, McGunigle and Ordway at the halfbacks and Phillips fullback.

DARTMOUTH ANNOUNCES GRID SCHEDULE FOR 1927

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A 1927 football schedule that takes in Harvard, Yale, Brown and Cornell on the last four successive Saturdays of the season was announced today by the Dartmouth college athletic council.

Allegheny is the only new foe appearing on the list, which is complete with the exception of one open date on October 15. The rest of the schedule follows:

September 24, Norwich; October 1, Hobart; 8, Allegheny; 22, Harvard at Cambridge; 29, Yale at New Haven; November 5, Brown at Providence; 12, Cornell.

SUPT. W. M. SKELLY ENGAGED TO PROVIDENCE GIRL

William M. Skelly, superintendent of the Norwich Golf club is receiving the congratulations of the club members as well as their good natured banter. The reason is that recently in Providence Mrs. Ralph B. Lobiles of 67 Cypress street, announced the engagement of her sister, Miss Kathryn Alice Driscoll to Mr. Skelly.

HARVARD-PRINCETON GAME FEATURE OF EASTERN GRID BATTLES SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Harvard and Princeton are griding themselves this week for the opening engagement of as wide open battle as has ever been promised for the championship of the "Big Three."

There will be no lack of traditional color and interest in the 1926 round robin of the ancient Eastern triumvirate that starts Saturday at Cambridge but it is noteworthy that all three enter their climax games defeated and shunted aside in the main fight for sectional honors for the second straight year.

Yale and Harvard each has tasted defeat twice while Princeton has been beaten and tied—a record of disaster that probably has had few if any parallels in "Big Three" history.

Harvard's hopes are perhaps the brightest of the three now, for the Crimson, after a ragged start, has come forward at an astonishing pace while the Tigers and the Elis have put up erratic exhibitions.

It has been eleven years since Harvard carried off the "Big Three" crown outright. Eddie Mahan's 1915 Crimson team was the last to reach the peak and it made a good job of it by smothering Yale to the tune of 41 to 0. Twice since then in 1919 and 1920 ties with Princeton have kept Harvard from regaining the title.

Harvard has the memory of two successive debacles against Princeton to tone for. In their last two games the Tigers have rolled up seventy points against the Crimson. Not even a triumph over Yale could be any sweeter than a decisive victory this Saturday over Princeton for Harvard men and their new head coach, Arnold Horween.

The Tiger and the Bulldog, however are very much in the closing fight despite earlier reverses. Adherents of Old Nassau point out that Bill Roper has had the faculty of bringing his squad up to top notch for the games with their traditional foes the past few years. The Tiger Eleven that smothered Yale and Harvard last season had met earlier reverses.

The Elis feel that their defeats at the hands of Brown and West Point largely were due to the absence of such stars as Noble, Kline and Richards. With these three men back in the line-up, as they are expected to be for the Princeton game Nov. 13, followers of the Blue look for an improvement sufficient to down their old rivals.

While the "Big Three" are having theirs, "private fights," the chief contenders for the eastern sectional crown will take matters comparatively easy this week in preparation for bigger tests. Army and Navy, now dominating the battle, should not be seriously extended by this Saturday's foes, Franklin and Marshall and West Virginian Wesleyan, respectively. Brown's "Iron Men" expect a let-up in their game with Norwich while Lafayette is not likely to have trouble keeping its unbeaten slate clean against Rutgers.

Boston college, New York university and Holy Cross, however, three other unbeaten arrays, face sturdier rivals. Harry Stuhldreher's rugged Villanova Eleven tackles Boston Fordham invades Worcester to meet Holy Cross while Carnegie, which upset Pittsburgh, comes here to attempt to break the sensational winning streak of Chick Meehan's N. Y. U. outfit.

TENDLER FOULS JORDAN IN THE FOURTH ROUND

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Irish Tommy Jordan, Brooklyn welterweight, won from Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, on a foul in the fourth round of a ten-round match at the new Broadway arena here tonight. Jordan weighed 148, Tendler 148 1-2.

Tendler was winning handily until a heavy left hand smash to the stomach dropped Jordan to the canvas in the fourth. The Brooklyn boy claimed the blow had landed low and he was awarded the bout by the referee. Jordan took a count of four in the first round when a left hand drive spilled him.

Kaplan Kayoes Padgett

K. O. Phil Kaplan of New York, won from Cowboy Padgett, of Wyoming, on a technical knockout in the second round of a ten-round semi-final. A shower of blows dropped Padgett for a count of nine early in the round. The bout was stopped when the referee decided the westerner was in no condition to continue.

Kaplan weighed 158 1-4, Padgett 155.

Arthur De Kuh, Italian heavyweight of New York, stopped Clem Johnson, New York negro in one round. The weights were, De Kuh 206, Johnson 204.

George Balduc of Lewiston, Me., gained a close decision over Augie Pisano of New York in the only match that went the full ten rounds. Balduc weighed 131, Pisano 134.

PETE HERMAN ARRESTED FOR RUNNING A SPEAK-EASY

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Peter Guiotta, known in pugilistic circles as Pete Herman, a former bantamweight champion, is being held under a charge of violating the prohibition law after police found a hidden bar and carbaret in the old French quarters here today.

More than a dozen other persons were arrested during the raid.

THE MIGHTY CRUSADER CLINCHES 3-YR. OLD TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Mighty Crusader clinched his title as king of the three-year-olds today by romping away with the Riggs Handicap, mile and a half feature of the opening day at Pimlico. The Man o' War colt packed top weight, 130 pounds, in bringing home the $25,000 stake in 2:32 3-5, two lengths ahead of Mars, Gaffaman was third.

Crusader was a heavy favorite among the seven starters and easily demonstrated his superiority. Montferrat took an early lead to be displaced by Blandin at the mile post. Half way through the back stretch Mars rushed to the front on the outside just as Sande cut Crusader in through the rail position, and came on to dispose of Mars in the stretch. Gaffaman was six lengths back in third place. Helen's Babe and Display were the other starters.

No races were scheduled at Juarez today. Four jockeys, J. Sylvia, C. Trippey, T. Wilson and G. Owen were suspended for disobedience at the post and Sylvia was fined $50 for unnecessary roughness. The arival of 44 horses today brought the total at the track to 700.

LOUGHRAN AND WIGGINS SUSPENDED IN RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia and Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis were suspended for sixty days today by the full board of the Rhode Island boxing commission for alleged stalling in their scheduled 10-round bout at the Auditorium here last Friday night. The purse was ordered forfeited.

Loughran was awarded the decision in the fight on a foul, declared to be a low blow in the fifth round of the bout which occurred shortly after both fighters had been warned. The Rhode Island boxing commission is affiliated with the fight boards of 31 other states.

Loughran is regarded as a contender for the light heavyweight championship. Last Friday night Loughran's manager announced that his man was preparing to claim Jack Delaney's light heavyweight title on the ground that Delaney is now too heavy to fight in the division.

AMERICAN COUPLE WIN MEXICAN TENNIS TITLE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Miss Martha Bayard of Boston, and Miss Penelope Anderson of Virginia today won the women's doubles championship of Mexico. They defeated the Misse Tapia and Gallado of Mexico, 6-0, 6-2.

Robert Kinsey and John Doeg, of California, won the men's doubles finals, defeating Lozano and Delcanto Mexico, 6-4, 6-3.

Baltimore has been selected as the place for holding this year's tournament for the national junior and boys' indoor tennis championships. The tournament will be held the week of December 27.

SPORTING NOTES

University of Pennsylvania has won three-fourths of all its games with western elevens since 1894.

Harvard has listed two Hoosier opponents on its gridiron schedule for next year, Purdue and Indiana universities.

The longest run to touchdown from catching a punt in "Big Three" games was made by Lamar of Princeton, 80 yards, against Yale in 1885.

The race for the Southern Conference football championship this season is one of the closest and most interesting to be seen anywhere in the country.

Harvard can scarcely make a poorer showing in its "Big Three" games this season than it did last year, when the Crimson failed to score against either Yale or Princeton.

The football game between Annapolis and University of Pennsylvania, formerly one of the prominent annual fixtures on the gridiron, is to be resumed next season after a lapse of five years.

When the Yale Bowl was completed only a few years ago, so tremendous was its size that it was thought it would never be filled. Now it is found totally inadequate to accommodate the crowds seeking admission to the big football games.

Brown university used only 11 players in its great gridiron victory over Yale.

Many of the college teams appear to be more successful this year than last in scoring the point-after-touchdown.

The longest run to touchdown from a fumble, 95 yards, in "Big Three" games, was made by Coolidge of Harvard against Yale in 1914.

It is a long time since Yale, Harvard and Princeton have all had to acknowledge defeats on the gridiron so early in the season as was the case this year.

Handicapped by a lack of veterans and with an exceptionally light team, University of Maine nevtheless appears to be in a good way to win the New England conference championship.

The largest score ever made by a team in one of the long series of football games between Yale and Harvard was the Yale total in 1884 when the team, captained by E. L. Richards, defeated the Crimson, 84 to 0.

Winnipeg is to have a new athletic club with a clubhouse to cost something like three-quarters of a million dollars.

All of the best jumpers in the country have been nominated for the Manly Memorial Steeplechase, the big cross-country fixture with $10,000 added, which will be contested at the Maryland Jockey club meeting at Pimlico on November 8.

Although close to his 50th year, King Gustav of Sweden is able to play a good game against some of the noted tennis experts of Europe.

Meeting for the first time in the Maritime Provinces, the Canadian A. A. U. is to hold its 1926 session at St. John, N. B., December 9-10.

Sitting at a distance and with his back to his opponents, Newell W. Banks, the American checker champion, recently played four Philadelphia experts simultaneously and did not lose a game.

A series of forty-five games of 125 points each will be necessary to determine the new world's champion at pocket billiards in the tournament to begin in Philadelphia on November 6. Ten of the foremost exponents of the game will contest.

Mounted on horseback at a special hunt meet of the Britannia Beagles, Richard Ferris of Dartmouth, England, received many congratulations on his 100th birthday. Among them was a telegram from King George.

Stanley Bruce, the Australian premier who is a conspicuous figure at the imperial conference now in session in London, was a member of the Cambridge crew that beat Oxford in the great English varsity race in 1904.

In the coming tournament in Philadelphia for the world's pocket billiard championship the real battle is expected to be between Ralph Greenleaf and Frank Taberski, both former national champions and bitter personal rivals.

Proposed amendments to the constitution of the Amateur Athletic Union have been mailed to delegates from 21 active and 70 allied associations throughout the country who are scheduled to attend the annual convention in Baltimore in November. One amendment provides that foreign athletes, here three years without seeking citizenship papers, cannot compete in sanctioned A. A. U. events. Another would allow life guards to enter amateur swimming meets.

Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, champion of the middleweights, announced that he has offered "Pa" Stribling $100,000 for the right to control the management of Young Stribling. Atlanta light heavyweight. Walk is leaving for Atlanta Saturday to discuss the deal with the Stribling family. Final arrangements for the middleweight championship battle between Flowers and Mickey Walker in Chicago, Dec. 3, will be completed in New York before he leaves, Walker said.

Take a tip to pipe-joy

IF COLUMBUS had not been of investigative mind, this grand and glorious continent might never have been discovered. It's a good thing to experiment, up to a certain point. If you don't yet know the joys of Prince Albert, for instance, experiment!

It will be more than an experiment; it will be an experience! A delightful experience! It will prove to you that you have been missing the best your pipe was prepared to give you in downright contentment. Buy some Prince Albert today and see.

That first fragrant whiff, as you open the tidy red tin, will set you astir with anticipation. Eagerly you will fill your pipe and light up. As that wonderful smoke trickles up the pipe-stem, you will ask yourself where you've been all these years!

Cool as a Palm Beach suit. Sweet as the promises of an office-seeker. Mild as a May morn. Mild, but satisfying right down to the last puff. You can hit it up from sun-up to sun-down . . . and you will. There's a tidy red tin nearby with your name in it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

HOLLOWAY CASE GOES OVER A WEEK IN THE CITY COURT AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 1—Witnesses from Norwich, Montville, Noank and other places hereabouts were in the police court this morning to give testimony to the effect that Harry Holloway, an employe of the H. L. Handy company, collected money from them, though he claimed these witnesses were debtors of the Handy company. But the witnesses were not heard. Holloway, who is understood to have been injured some time ago, is under the care of a physician, and the doctor gave a certificate to the effect that Holloway was not fit to come to court. The prosecution told Judge Prince that the physician, Dr. Douglass of Groton, had represented to him a few days ago that Holloway would be in court this morning. As a result of the situation that has developed the case went over for a week, when it will probably be sent to the superior court, where the case will be tried out. Witnesses thus far have produced receipts for the money paid to Holloway. It is understood that the defense will be that errors in bookkeeping led to the claim that money had not been paid to the Handy company.

INTOXICATED DRIVERS FINED IN POLICE COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 1—Intoxicated automobile drivers came into the public eye this morning when the police court assembled. Each was convicted upon the presentation of testimony and each was fined $100. Timothy J. Fenton, a young, married man, employed by the Cortiselli company, was doing a little work aside from his employment at the silk mills. He found demand for his talent in this direction in the Shaw's Neck neighborhood. That service, it was represented, was so much appreciated that he imbibed homemade wine, and that made him intoxicated. He had a dizzy load on that made operation uncertain. He ran into a car that was being operated by Louis Marshall and in which he was accompanied by his wife. Finley didn't even have a license to operate a car. He borrowed a machine and went his way till he brought up in a head-on collision. Then there was no more riding for him. Leniency was asked for him on the ground that he has four small children, ages between 2 1-2 years and 4 months. He was shown the leniency that reduced his fine by $50.

John Migo aged 2 years came tearing over the Thames river bridge and ran into a trolley car. John had a couple of companions, but they were so delighted they did not have to go to a hospital that they fled and left John to take the consequences. He took them, for he was fined $100 this morning. State Policeman Webber made the arrest.

Percy Coe Eggleston, 55, died last night at his residence, 61 Vauxhall street, after several weeks' illness with heart trouble. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Misses Virginia and Katherine Eggleston, two brothers, Julius Eggleston, of California and Edward Eggleston, this city and by a sister, Mrs. Carlisle F. Ferrin, also of this city. Mr. Eggleston was for many years purchasing agent for the Cortiselli Silk company until his health became such that he was compelled to relinquish his duties. He was a republican in politics and had served as a member of the board of school visitors. He was a director of the Mariners Savings bank, treasurer of the New London Cemetery association and a trustee of Bulkeley high school. Mr. Eggleston had been troubled from the heart affection several months and about six weeks ago he was compelled to relinquish his duties with the silk company.

Richard J. Mulcahey, 66, retired member of the New York police department died Sunday at his home, Quaker Hill, Waterford, from a heart affection, with which ailment he had suffered for many weeks. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Carrie Mulcahey, and a sister, Miss Mary Mulcahey, of New York. Mr. Mulcahey was a member of the New York police department many years. He was retired 22 years ago and six years later pur-

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

chased a building lot at Quaker Hill where he had a residence erected and where he had since resided. Mr. Mulcahey suffered heart attacks about two months ago, but he did not become confined to his bed until last week. Sunday he experienced a sinking spell and although medical aid was summoned, he did not rally.

Mrs. Anna C. Carey, proprietor of a store on Meridian street, caused the arrest this morning of Soriah Barker, a stranger hereabouts on a charge of fraud. Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky immediately ordered the release of Barker on the grounds that the arrest of Barker was not based on a criminal act of the accused, but on an alleged transaction where Mrs. Carey's only recourse to satisfaction was in a civil action as Barker had not been guilty of any act of criminality. The decision of the prosecutor brought about a heated controversy between him and Mrs. Carey and to the latter Prosecuting Attorney Hollandersky made himself most plain in informing her of the provisions of the statute.

Mrs. Carey received three rugs from Barker recently for her to attempt to sell and afterwards Barker is alleged to have procured merchandise of the approximate value of $100 from Mrs. Carey. Mrs. Carey did not sell the rugs and this morning when she was on Bank street she saw Barker and created a scene by demanding Barker's arrest. Patrolman Frank Linehan, on his way to report for duty at police headquarters happened along and when Barker fled, the officer gave chase and overtaking him, arrested Barker. The officer instructed Mrs. Carey to proceed to the police station to formally enter a complaint. When she did so she encountered Prosecuting Attorney Hollandersky who, upon hearing the allegation of the woman, declared that there was no case against Barker and ordered him released. When this was done, Mrs. Carey and the prosecutor engaged in a heated tiff.

Miss Elsa Sachert, 206 Connecticut avenue; Daniel Eggleston, Old Mystic; Andrew Savilla, Station 5, Waterford; Patrick Mullaney, Waterford; Richard Burke, United States Coast Guard Academy and Howard Lampert, United States Coast Guard destroyer Davis, state pier, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Benjamin Simmer, 20 Federal street, suspended.

The usual bunch of drunks and brawlers appeared for discipline today. Some of them were old-timers while others appeared for the first time. One of them, a beggar in the highway, was allowed to get out of town, while another, a fellow who had a bottle of denatured alcohol with him, was sent to jail. He claimed he used the stuff as a paint remover and said it would do the work.

The fire department was called out twice Saturday night for automobile fires, but in neither instance was the damage of serious consequence. The first alarm was sent in from Box 45, corner of Bank and Truman street, when an auto caught fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished with chemicals. The second alarm was sent in about 6:30 o'clock when another auto caught fire on Howard street. The alarm was sent in from Box 43, Connecticut Power company's house. In this case also, chemicals were used in subduing the blaze.

Patrolmen George Cockell, Brainard street, and Braxton Hill, Bank street, were indisposed tonight and were unable to perform patrol duty.

Frank Silva, 28 Harrison street, employed by Miss Mary Harrison, also of Harrison street, as caretaker of her property, made complaint to the police Saturday afternoon that boys were making a nuisance of themselves besides causing damage to one of the Harrison properties by frequenting the premises and trampling upon productive ground, and also stealing fruit. The property was bequeathed the Smith Memorial home upon the death of Miss Harrison's father two years ago the property to divert to the possession of the home upon the demise of Miss Harrison.

Miss Ida Berkowitz, employed by a millinery company, at 174 State street, made complaint to the police Saturday evening that she had been victimized of $10 by a stranger and who evidently schemed to defraud the complainant. Miss Berkowitz stated that the man made a purchase of a 25 cent article and tendered a $20 bill in payment. She gave the customer his correct change, but he manipulated the bills so as to make it appear that she had given him $10 less than she really did. She gave the man another $10 bill and he departed. Afterwards she discovered the fraud and made her complaint.

STOLE M'GARRY SEDAN— TO BE TRIED WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 1—Charles Hummell, 366 Jefferson avenue and Kenneth Davis, formerly of the Salvation Army lodging house, were arrested in New York two weeks ago charged with attempting to sell stolen goods. They had in their possession a Buick sedan, owned by William P. McGarry, 112 Washington street, Norwich, and stolen from Meridian street, this city, after it had been parked there by Miss Margaret McGarry, daughter of the owner. The men were brought back to New London for trial Wednesday night. Chief Inspector William Lahey this evening informed the New London police that the charge of attempting to sell stolen goods against Hummell and Davis was nolled in court today and that the prisoners will be turned over to a New London officer Wednesday. Sergeant John Cavanaugh who is on his vacation, will go to New York and bring the prisoners back to this city. During Hummell's absence from this city, his wife, Shirley Lee Hummell, has been committed to the State Farm for Women at Niantic.

CONTRACT FOR FIRE HOSE AWARDED BY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 1.—The city council this evening voted to buy 2,500 feet of fire hose from the Manhattan Rubber company at a cost of $1,888.27 net. There were eight bidders and three of the bids were alike to a penny. The contract was awarded to the Manhattan company inasmuch as it had a local representative. On recommendation of the city manager the council voted to purchase a Ford runabout for use in patrol duty by the police department. A long argument ensued as to whether the runabout was preferable to the sedan type, but the city manager insisted that the runabout was the car for the purpose, as it was intended to use it in connection with police duty so the car was ordered.

A refund of $63.20 was voted to Mrs. Gertrude Gaffney as paid in taxes for which she was exempt.

The council approved the purchase of hard rubber tires for the Thomas fire apparatus, in accordance with the recommendation of the city manager, the claim being that the pneumatic tires were too costly for the purpose attained.

Councilor May read a long communication in which he rebuked the members of the council for not taking a more constructive view of matters that he had called to their attention during the past year. He cited a number of projects that had been sidestepped by the council.

A contract to adult the city accounts was awarded to White and Alexander at a fee of $1,000.

A dozen applications for building permits were presented to the council. They included one cottage and a two-family dwelling with several garages, the enclosure of porches and the addition of dormer windows.

A. Sher & Co., wholesale fruit and produce dealers on Bank street, suspended business voluntarily today because of financial troubles and a short time after the place was under lock and key. Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs placed attachments aggregating $7,000 on the place. It is understood that the liabilities against the company greatly exceed the amount of the attachments for it is understood that the company carried notes aggregating $16,000.

Mrs. Fred Maynard of Fishers Island; Mrs. William Graham and infant daughter, 57 Franklin street; Mrs. William Spicer, 9 Waller court; Rev. Joseph Magonia, 730 Main street; Mrs. Robert Avery, Groton; Mrs. Gaspero Freno, Crescent beach; Hanford Collins, Jr., Galen Perry; Mrs. Raymond Smith and infant daughter, Pleasure beach and John Hiding, Jr., Groton, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged over Sunday.

Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Miss Jessie Anne Broomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Broomer, 14 Shafter street, Dorchester, Mass., were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Miss Broomer's sister, Newton Center, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, of Chicago, who was assisted by Rev. E. L. Farnsworth, Dorchester, and was witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends. The bride and groom were unattended. Rev. and Mrs. Spaulding are on a wedding trip and upon its conclusion will take up their residence on Hempstead street.

Stanley Barlow, of Watertown, Conn., and Miss Violet I. Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Porter, 1749 Ocean avenue, were married Saturday afternoon at the Montauk Avenue Baptist church by Rev. Horatio J. Chase. Floyd Barlow, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Christine Roberts was bridesmaid. The ushers were Walter Porter, Robert Lewis and William S. Simmons. Betty Simmons was flower girl.

Dr. Hugh F. Lena has returned to his residence on Broad street, after a vacation of two weeks, a part of which time was spent in attendance at the American Congress of Surgeons at Montreal.

Various petitions for hanging signs were made to the council and they were referred to the city manager with power.

James Dignowity, of Pequot avenue, arrested Saturday by State Police Officer Webber, of Groton barracks, when Dignowity was found lying alongside the highway at East Lyme following his having been ejected from an automobile, according to the officer by Joshua Sands, Lyme, was not presented in justice court at East Lyme this evening. Dignowity escaped that formality by agreeing to sign the pledge. On that promise Sergeant Clofford Gorgas, Groton barracks, permitted Dignowity to be delivered into the custody of Rev. Joseph Ranlazewski, rector of Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, before whom Dignowity, it is said took a pledge to hereafter abstain from intoxicating liquor.

Today was pay day with the United States Coast Guard and as a result many sailors of that branch of the service were about the city tonight, most of whom were in a jolly frame of mind. Of their number three of them went to the Capitol theatre, where they started a disturbance and were finally ejected. One of their number started to utter obscene remarks, with the result that Officers William Corcoran, Lawrence Fardy and John Sullivan placed them under arrest. At police headquarters the only one of the sailors held for trial was the one who used the objectionable language.

FREIGHTER GASTON TOWED TO PORT, ENGINES DISABLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 1.—Freight steamer Gaston, Norfolk, Va., en route from Boston to Newark, N. J., became disabled in Long Island sound this morning when engine trouble was experienced and this afternoon the freighter was towed into port by patrol boats 127 and 128 and the 100-foot cutter Petrel. The Gaston is owned by the Port Newark and New England Steamship company and is engaged in the coastwise trade. She carries a crew of 18.

The Gaston had reached a point off Rocky Point, R. I., at 1 o'clock this morning, when the lookout at the coast guard station observed the steamer drifting toward the Long Island shore. The patrol boat 127, which was at Greenport was sent to the aid of the steamer and picked her up off Horton's Point. The freighter was too big for the patrol boat to handle and a call to the state pier station here requested that assistance be sent. Patrol boat 128 and the Petrel responded and this afternoon, with patrol boat 127, took the steamer in tow and made the harbor at 4:30 o'clock. One member of the engine room force was burned by a backfire when the engine trouble occurred.

The son of Judge and Mrs. Edward M. Yeomans, of Andover, John Yeomans, has been home for a short vacation from Harvard Law school in men's top-coats. Some call is reported for form-fitting coats with velvet collars.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Today will see the opening performance of "Young April" a unique and inspired picture of tremendous appeal, glowing romance and brilliant characterizations with three famous screen artists in the featured roles, winsome Bessie Love and Joseph Schildkraut the foremost romantic player of the American stage and screen and Rudolph Schildkraut father of Joseph a stage star of prominence who made such a hit in "His People" His portrayal of the king in "Young April" is magnificent. Bryant Washburn is also featured in a prominent part. "Young April" is one of the truly big pictures of the year, the other readers of True Story Magazine will be a new True Story Magazine production entitled "Wives at Auction" with Gaston Glass and Edna Murphy. A story that enthralled the thousands who read it of True Story Magazine and will wend its way into the hearts of the vast army of movie patrons. A new comedy entitled "Please Excuse Me" will furnish plenty of fun in contrast to the dramatic action of the features and completing a fine program of entertainment. Richard Dix is coming in his latest success The Quarterback with beautiful Esther Ralson and a new picture from the famous True Story Magazine story, Wives At Auction with Gaston Glass and Edna Murphy.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Broadway Theatre

The writer witnessed the most entertaining and at the same time most thrilling combination vaudeville and picture program that has been seen in this city in months. It is now drawing capacity crowds to the Broadway theater and will be on view for two days more only.

For more than a half century, Ward and Diamond have been familiar names in the mimic world. Today, at 78 and 75, respectively, the duo are still going strong, and withal furnishing and interesting link between the past and the present.

Ward sings When You and I Were Young Maggie with tonal values that cannot but surprise. Nor is that all. Later, he turns a handspring or two with an ease that is wholly foreign to your vaudeville reporter, and does a soft shoe dance akin to one he stepped at the long, forgotten Barton Opera House here in 1871.

Diamond's original harp dance is as much a novelty today as it was in those days when he was a prime favorite in the halls.

The other acts on the bill which also furnished real entertainment including Richard Wally, the human billiard table and Lester and Stuart in Bound for Nowhere.

Rollicking Mary Pickford is back again!

The famous little star, whose screen masterpieces have delighted millions throughout the world, has produced another great picture which has been called her greatest in on the bill too.

Mary's newest picture is Sparrows. It deals with the adventures of a band of youngsters on a baby farm. While there is a little message in the picture, as there is in all good pictures, Sparrows is first of all is entertainment and the sort of entertainment that Mary Pickford fans like.

Mary is cast as Mama Mollie, the little girl who mothers the forlorn children on the baby farm. She pilots them through many adventures providing much laughter, many thrills and not a few tears.

That is Miss Pickford's unfailing recipe for an evening's entertainment and in Sparrows she is said to have one of the best pictures she has ever made.

Connecticut College Concert Series

Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column announcing the course ticket sale for the concerts offered by the college during the season. There is a measure of delight in store for music lovers within reach of New London which is rarely equaled and never excelled anywhere. Many cities can and do support more concerts, but not even New York and Boston can have better ones. First, there is Lucrezia Bori, preeminent today as one of the leading opera singers of the world. Possessed of a glorious voice, incomparable artistry, and a degree of personal charm seldom bestowed upon one human being, it is not to be wondered at that she is a prime favorite in Europe and South America as well as in our own country. Negotiations for Bori have been in progress for five years, but her operatic engagements have hitherto precluded much of any concert work. Her concert here November 16, will be an event of great social and musical distinction.

The English singers who come to us in January opened their American tour in New York Sunday afternoon. Many readers of this paper will have read the reviews of their concert in the various New York papers, but for the benefit of those who did not see them, we quote a very small portion of the column and a half article written by Lawrence Gilman in the Herald Tribune. "One cannot be too grateful to such virtuous and the English singers for reminding us of the great qualities of this old music and its masters. It would be difficult to overpraise the exquisite skill, the unfaltering taste, the insight, the delicate imaginative justice of the singers who interpreted yesterday their program of this music."

Any lover of beautiful music of faultless lyrics, of ensemble singing, any singer, teacher of singing or student of singing who is absent from this concert of January 11, will be cheating himself immeasurably.

Beyond a mere announcement of their coming it is hardly necessary to say anything of Pablo Casals, the world's greatest living 'cellist, or the Boston Symphony orchestra who supply the other two concerts.

These annual series are not given for profit and are made possible by a group of public spirited townspeople who guarantee the college against loss. On its part, the college through a committee appointed by President Marshall, does all the work and thus far has been able to make the receipts a little more than equal expenditures.

Course tickets will be forwarded by registered mail as in former seasons and the committee expects to begin sending them about November 8th. Allotments are made to the guarantors first, than to subscribers in the order in which their applications have been

TODAY'S EVENTS

This is All Souls' day, which in France corresponds to Memorial day in America.

Beginning today, National Apple week will be observed throughout the United States and Canada.

Centenary of the birth of Gen. William H. Lytle, an Ohio Civil war commander who fell at Chickamauga.

In today's election 34 United States senators are to be chosen, the candidates including 27 of those who now hold seats.

Thirty of the states will choose governors and other state officials and several others will elect members of the judiciary and minor officers.

The complete membership of the house of representatives will be chosen for the 70th congress, with the exception of four members already elected in Maine.

In a referendum in Ohio the voters will have an opportunity to repeal or uphold the present primary election system in that state.

Oklahoma City will vote on a proposal to adopt a city charter and Malden, Mass., will be the first city in the country to take a referendum on the league of nations.

Citizens of Kansas will vote on a proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for the payment of $5 a day to members of the legislature instead of $6 a day, which has been the rate for 67 years.

Propositions for modification of the Volstead act or other forms of attack on the existing prohibition laws will be submitted to the voters in eight states—New York, Wisconsin, Nevada, Illinois, Colorado, Missouri, Montana and California.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater, New London

Mordkin, most famous of all Russian male dancers, who will be pleasantly recalled as dancing partner of Pavlowa on the occasion of her first visit to America, will with his company of over 50 artists, including a Symphony orchestra of 15 under the direction of Vladimir Bakaleynikoff, director Moscow Musical art studio, which toured this country last season, appear at the Lyceum, New London on Wednesday evening, Nov. 3rd. He will offer a widely diversified program which has as outstanding features Aziada, Carnival, Cupid in Camp and Chopiniana, in addition to which there are over 20 divertisements including Bow and Arrow, The Italian Beggar, The Dying Swan, Bacchanale and Voices in Spring. Supporting Mordkin as principals are Vera Nemchinova, former Prima Ballerina Diaghileff's ballet Russe, Hilda Butsova, formerly Pavlow's understudy and Pierre Vladimiroff, Karsavina's former partner.

Bread Theatre

The "Waning Sex" with Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel will be shown at the Breed theatre today for the last times.

For Wednesday and Thursday the Breed will offer an excellent double feature program headed by "Miss Nobody." Anna Q. Nilsson's latest starring vehicle which is said to be one of the most unusual roles of her career.

The beautiful First National star takes the part of a hobo in "Miss Nobody." She wears mannish clothes throughout the major portion of the picture.

The four principal male actors in "Miss Nobody" grew long beards for their parts in the picture. Walter Pidgeon, who plays opposite Miss Nilsson, grew the longest crop of whiskers, with Arthur Stone, Mitchell Lewis and Clyde Cooke close runners-up, or runners-down.

During the screening of "Miss Nobody" in one of the mountainous districts of California, Miss Nilsson narrowly escaped being bitten by a deadly rattlesnake, which prepared to strike at her as she rolled down a railway embankment.

The snake was killed, however, and now the star is wearing shoes made out of its skin.

The second feature is "Whispering Wires," a mystery-melodrama and features Anita Stewart and Edmund Burns.

EDWARDS' SKULL FRACTURED IN COLLISION WITH TRUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 1—Herbert Edwards, 31, of 49 Beach street, riding a motorcycle collided with the truck of the South County Public Service Co operated by Angelo Christina of 13 Downer street, Pawcatuck at 5 o'clock today, at the junction of Elm and School streets. Edwards sustained a fracture of the skull, deep lacerations on his forehead and contusions on his face. He was taken to the office of Dr. J. Gordon Anderson for treatment and was reported as not knowing how or where the accident happened. The collision occurred as Edwards was proceeding down Elm street toward Beach street and the truck had turned up School from Main street. Little damage was done to the motor vehicles. Patrolman Leroy H. Norman investigated.

Joseph Dugliss of 34 Highland avenue was cut about the head when at 8 o'clock in crossing Broad street from the Westerly town hall from Wilcox park he walked into the automobile driven by Miss Alice Dunning who was accompanied by her mother. He was treated by Dr. J. Devere Barber. Officer Robert M. Kessel investigated the accident. Mr. Dugliss was reported as assuming responsibility for the mishap.

Harley P. Chase Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars held a social and dance at Vets hall Monday evening. Mrs. Emma E. Bromley gave the details of the bazaar to be held by the veterans in the state armory. Refreshments were served.

Lyme Artists' Exhibit

By courtesy of the Lyme Artists' colony an exhibit is being held at Wesleyan university. The exhibit is open daily to the public and there is no admission charged.

The opening exhibit was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Wilson Irving, secretary of the association and an artist, spoke on "What to Look for in a Picture." After his address the exhibit was opened for inspection.

Discharged in Justice's Court

For lack of evidence, Morris Studd, 45, and Louis Plotsky, were discharged when they were presented in the justice court in the town of Preston Monday on charges of damaging private property. The specific charges were destroying chicken coops and knocking down ceilings in a house. They were arrested Saturday night by Constable Hill.

BUT—HE "FELT NO BETTER FOR THAT"

A man from Nebraska tells this: "For three nights I was kept awake by a bothersome persistent cough, and so were others of the family; and I felt no better for that. The very first doses of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me and in two days' time my cough was entirely gone." Think of the saving of distress to himself and others, had he taken Foley's Honey and Tar Compound at the start. It pays to keep it on hand. The large family size is a real economical buy. Ask for it.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't SHOW!

There's a way to keep your hair just so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful lustre!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff! Dissolves every bit of it. Puts scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair-roots. Why use anything else?

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks firm, all shares and specialties advance.

Bonds higher, French and Belgian 7s at new highs.

Foreign exchanges steady, European currencies higher.

Cotton barely steady, good Liverpool cables.

Coffee firm, commission house buying.

Chicago

Wheat easy, increased visible stocks.

Corn lower, bearish private crop estimate.

Cattle firm.

Hogs weak.

STOCK PRICES FIRM

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone in today's market, with trading of the usual quiet preelection character with a huge short interest reported to be outstanding in several stocks, a covering movement was started by a few traders in the last hour to prepare for possible election surprises, but at no time was there any concerted rush either to buy or sell, although demonstrations were staged in a few issues in which special developments are believed pending.

From a stock market standpoint, one of the most interesting developments of the day was the publication, after the close, of the weekly statement of brokers' loans by the New York Federal Reserve bank, showing a decrease of $52,922,000 in the week ended last Wednesday. The total of $2,602,186,000 is $206,811,000 below that of three weeks ago, and $688,929,000 below the high level established in the first week of the year.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors again were leaders in point of activity. Steel rallied from a low of 138 to 140 3-4 and closed just below the top for a net gain of 1 1-2 points. General Motors closed 1-8 higher at 145 5-8 after fluctuating within a range of 3 points. Total transactions in these two issues approximated 130,000 shares or about one-eighth of the day's entire volume of business.

Strength and activity of the Gotham and Onyx Hosiery issues, nearly all of which attained new peak prices for the year, was associated with merger rumors involving these companies. Union Carbide was bid up to a new high at 85 3-4 on the prospect of a higher dividend. Independent strength also was shown by American Express, American Type Founders, Commercial Credit first preferred, Durham Hosiery, Fifth Avenue Bus, National Dairy Products and Pennsylvania Motor Car.

Oils were again in good demand under the leadership of Independent Oil & Gas, Texas Co., and Pan American Western B, all of which closed 2 to 3 points higher. The announcement of a cut in crude prices of the Humble company was more than offset by the bringing in of several productive wells in the Seminole district.

Rails pointed upward on buying presumably influenced by current traffic and earnings reports, but the gains as a rule were small. Erie issues steadied on unofficial denials that the road was to be dropped from the new "Nickel Plate" consolidation.

Call money ruled at 4 1-2 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were steady, but offerings of funds were reported to have increased.

Weakness of grain prices featured the commodity markets. December wheat breaking below $1.40 a bushel for the first time in weeks while corn futures sank to new low levels for the season. Cotton closed practically unchanged on the day. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices were slightly higher.

With most of the foreign markets closed in observance of All Saints day, trading in the foreign exchanges was quiet with quotations generally holding firm. Demand sterling was slightly easier around $4.84 9-16, but French francs advanced 5 points to 3.18 cents and Italian lire jumped 19 points to 4.34 cents despite another attempt on Premier Mussolini's life.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Cotton spot quiet; middling 13.65.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Although pre-holiday influences reduced the volume of bond trading today, the forward movement of prices continued without interruption. Investment funds sought outlet in both the foreign and domestic divisions of the market, pushing prices of many popular issues to the year's highest levels.

The new Belgian bonds, which have been the feature of trading since their introduction last week, retained their position at the top of the list today, mounting to another high record of 97 5-4, nearly 4 points above the offering price. French 7s also reached new high ground but scattered selling in Italian obligations was occasioned by the latest attempt against the life of Premier Mussolini. German General Electric 6s jumped more than 3 points to 113 1-2, the high mark of the year.

The recent relaxation of long term money rates led to investment purchases of many high grade railroad liens. Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Chicago & Northwestern, Missouri Pacific and issues of similar calibre were in demand at fractionally higher prices. Erie bonds recovered part of the ground lost at the close of last week and a brisk buying movement took place in Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s and International Great Northern adjustment 6s.

TAFTVILLE

Parish hall was packed to the doors Sunday evening when a real old-fashioned Country Store and Halloween celebration was held for the benefit of Sacred Heart church. The affair which was under the auspices of the Army and Navy club, was directed by James H. Troland and proved a decided success. On the stage was depicted the real old time country store thronged with the village checker champions, the inveterate whittlers, the usual town characters and town wits who cracked jokes that hit upon noted people of the village. These witticisms proved no end of mirth and kept the large audience in wonderful humor.

Jimmy Hanlon was Uncle Josh, the village storekeeper and he was ably supported by Julius Jemery, Frank Carberry, George McGrill, Emile Raymond, Fiorimond Burelle, Joseph Tellier, P. Trembly, who carried out their parts in a very characteristic manner.

There were 15 amateur vaudeville acts competing for prizes and everyone of these acts would have done credit to a professional bill. The feature act was entitled "The Comeback of Harry Willis" with J. Edward Benoit as Earl E. Leiderman, Peter Frasenak as Lionel Strongfort and Nelson Lemieux as Harry Wills. The act brought out what physical training such as is indulged in at the Army-Navy club gym can do. The other acts, on the programme were: Song, Give Me a Kiss, Will Yu, Huh? Miss Theo Allard; recitations and impersonations, Conrad McDowell; Charleston exhibition, Eloi Fregeau; in Joshua, Master Henry Reardon; Charleston exhibition, Miss Loretta Lucier; harmonica duet, Trem-bly and Tellier; solo in French, Miss Lillian Rondeau; monologue, John Holland; Charleston exhibition, Miss Oree Adams; duet, Kelly and Fontaine; buck and wing dancing, Frank Carberry; song recital, Warren Kane; St. Mary's Trio, Messrs Connelly, Corning and Spellman; card tricks and the Frisco, George Boucher; grand finale, the entire company.

After the performance the judges, Mayor Milo R. Waters, P. F. Sweeney and J. C. Marsan awarded first prize to the athletic act, second to Eloi Fregeau, third to Miss Theo Allard, fourth to Jimmy Nallon and fifth to Miss Loretta Lucier.

At the country store over $200 in merchandise, donated by the Taftville merchants was disposed of during the evening.

R. B. SHERMAN PRESENTED REPORT AT DETROIT

R. B. Sherman, employment manager of the U. S. Finishing company, who is attending the annual congress of the National Safety council held at Detroit, presented a report to the textile section of the council on accident statistics in the textile industry, and at the meeting of this section he was elected vice chairman to serve for the coming year. In addition to his activities in connection with the textile section, he is also a member of the American Society of Safety Engineers. This society deals with the many engineering problems related to the prevention of accidents in industry.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m.

PETITION FOR EXTENSION OF E. C. POWER CO. LINES NEAR OCCUM

At the November meeting of the court of common council in the council chamber Monday evening a petition was received from Arthur Ray and others residing near Occum asking that the Eastern Connecticut Power company be given permission to extend their electric lines a distance of about 3-10 of a mile in order to provide electric lighting facilities for the petitioners along the old Canterbury turnpike. The petition was referred to the finance committee of the council.

The meeting was called to order about 8:15 o'clock by His Honor Mayor Milo R. Waters and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading according to custom. City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read his certificate of publication on the ordinance providing a fine of $50 for each violation of park rules laid down by the board of park commissioners. A hearing on the matter was then opened by Mayor Waters and was promptly closed as there was no one who wished to be heard in regard to the ordinance. Following the closing of the hearing Alderman Henry Gebrath moved that the ordinance be adopted and it was so ordered by the council.

Petitions were received and referred as follows:

From J. Brogno, asking the removal or the trimming of a tree near No. 172 North Main street as the tree is represented as being in a dangerous condition. Referred to the public works committee with power.

From Miss Emma Smith, asking permission to connect her premises at No. 83 Division street with the sewer in Division street. Referred to the public works committee.

From Gustave Lackanbach asking permission to locate a tank for the storage of valoline beneath the sidewalk at No 84 West Main street. Referred to the public works committee and fire committee.

From Charles A. Rathbone asking that the street on his property on West Main street and running to Maple street, be accepted as a public highway by the city. Referred to the public works committee.

From Arthur Ray, et al., residing near Occum, asking that permission be granted the Eastern Connecticut Power company to extend its lines about 3-10 of a mile so that residents on the old Canterbury turnpike may install lights. Referred to the finance committee.

Reports were received and accepted as follows:

Monthly report of the street commissioner; monthly report of the city treasurer; quarterly report of the cashier's accounts of the water department; quarterly report of the chief of police.

The committee on public works recommended that Miss Emma Smith be given permission to connect her premises, No. 83 Division street with the sewer in Division street. They reported that they had investigated the petition. The report was accepted and the recommendation was adopted.

The police committee reported that petitions for lights had been granted as follows:

Petition of Chester J. Bushnell for a light on Sunnyside avenue; petition of Kenneth Depula for a light on Russell road; petition of A. F. Wyman for a light on Court street.

The following resolution was adopted:

That the city acquire of Josephine L. Cotter so much of the drain of sewer connecting her real estate at the corner of Joseph street and Division street with the Boswell avenue sewer, as is within the highway limits, to be used as a public sewer.

The council also adopted the following resolution: That the city treasurer pay to Sergt. Clifford W. Gorgas of the state police department and, for the state police department the sum of $408.53, one-half of the fines, minus collection charge, turned over to the city treasurer through mistake by the jailer of the Norwich jail, in four cases, the accused in each case being arrested by the state police.

Department bills were approved as follows:

Park department, $713.55; cemetery department, $1,086.87; fire department, $6,067.46; finance department, $57,485.41; water department, $5,368.11; recreation department, $87.50; public works department, $21,841.04; street lighting, $3,161.92; Deep River reservoir bills, $50,166.86; police department, $6,505.29; gas and electric department, $65,550.19.

The council adjourned about 8:30 o'clock.

DELAWARE INCORPORATION FOR LOCAL WOOLEN MILL

Incorporation under the laws of Delaware, with authorized capitalization of $1,350,000, has just been effected by the New England Mills Co. of this city, operated as partnership by Oscar L. Peterson and his sons, Harold L. and Clarence E. Peterson. Three residents of Dover, Del., M. W. Cole, J. H. Hughes and J. L. Wolcott, were named as incorporators.

Incorporation in Delaware was decided upon to take advantage of the more liberal statutory provisions. The action does not contemplate any change in location.

The New England Mills company manufactures worsteds and woolens, giving employment to 75 persons when one shift is working, but for much of the time two shifts work. As soon as yarn on order is delivered a night force will again be organized, it is announced. The mill of the company is located off North Main street, near the plant of the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co.

PRIZES AWARDED AT PRETTY HALLOWEEN PARTY

An enjoyable Halloween party was given on Saturday evening by Mrs John Hafner at her home, 12 Hedge avenue. The house was attractively decorated with streamers, black cats and other Halloween decorations, while the guests were met at the door by two clowns in costume, impersonated by Robert and Donald Hafner. Music, dancing and games were enjoyed, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Harold Jordan, Mrs. Jerry Kane and John Clabby. Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Bamber, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Williams, Miss Myrtle McCord, John Clabby, Mr. and Mrs. John Hafner.

FINES TOTAL $500 WITH 3 MONTHS JAIL SENTENCE

Monday morning Louis Plotsky went to jail to start his three months jail sentence for violation of the liquor law. In court Monday he was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell, for which he was fined $100, transportation, for which he was fined $200, and selling, for which he was fined $200. In addition he was given three months in jail.

An accomplice of Plotsky, Tony Rodriques, was sent to jail for six months on Oct. 7, but sentence in Plotsky's case was deferred to give him time to settle up some of his other business, including a civil suit in the superior court at New London.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE BRINGS FINE OF $100

In the city court Monday morning, Angelo Chioda was found guilty of reckless driving and failure to grant the way and was fined $100 and costs by Judge Arthur F. Libby. He was arrested Oct. 27, following an auto accident at Yantic crossing, which resulted in injury to several people.

A local man was sent to jail for 90 days on a charge of breach of the peace.

A local man, charged with intoxication, failed to show up and his bond of $25 was forfeited. A Baltic man paid $10 and costs for intoxication and a Jewett City man went to jail to work out a fine for intoxication.

Enjoyable Halloween Party

On Thursday evening a very delightful Halloween party was held at the home of Ruth Huntley of Geer avenue by the E. S. S. club, there being 35 present. A feature of the evening was an exhibition of Charleston by Ruth Yalen. Refreshments were served by Bessie Edwards, Fannie Sowa, and Ruth Huntley. Games and dancing were enjoyed.

NEW LONDON COUNTY HAD 6,355 TAX RETURNS

Hartford county led the seven Connecticut counties in the number of individual returns filed in 1924, with New Haven county second and New London next. Fairfield, Tolland, Windham, Middlesex and Litchfield counties were the lowest, in the order named. Fairfield county, however, took second place from New Haven county in the number of returns of $10,000 and over that were filed.

In Hartford county a total of 44,585 individual returns were made, 40,458 of these being under $5,000, 2,241 being between $5,000 and $10,000 and 1,886 $10,000 and over.

New Haven county's record was 43,720 returns filed, 40,248 being under $5,000, 2,102 being $10,000 and over; in Fairfield county the figures were 31,992 returns filed, falling into the three classifications as follows: 28,748, 1,767, and 1,477, respectively.

New London county reported 9,355 returns filed, of which 7,738 were in the lowest income classification, 388 in the second and 210 in the $10,000 and more class. Litchfield county, which filed the fifth highest number of returns, 5,391, had 4,845 in the less than $5,000 class, 308 in the from $5,000 to $10,000 class, and 238 in the $10,000 and more class.

In Middlesex county the returns totaled 3,595, falling into the three classifications as follows: 3,249, 201 and 146; in Windham county, where 3,767 returns were filed, the divisions were 3,548, 142 and 77; and in Tolland county, which filed 3,565 returns, 1,731, 66 and 67, respectively.

Hartford led with 22,909 and Guilford with only 174, came last.

WILL MAKE ARGUMENTS IN TREE CUTTING CASE

Evidence was concluded in the common pleas court here Monday before Judge C. B. Waller in the trial of the $700 damage suit of George O. and Harriet J. Malloy against Russell Brand, all of Preston, and the arguments are to be made in New London next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

It was alleged in the complaint that on Jan. 1, 1922, the defendant unlawfully entered upon the plaintiff's property and cut down and carried away trees to the value of $300 and causes other damage while trespassing, such as tearing down fences which made the total claimed damage $700.

The defendant set up that he did not trespass and that the trees were on his own property. The plaintiff introduced into the evidence a deed dated in 1884. Attorney Abel F. Tanner and Attorney George Curtis Morgan represented the plaintiff and Attorney Charles L. Stewart appeared for the defendant.

GIRL GAINED 7 POUNDS NINE YEARS AN INVALID

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co. or any druggists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine, and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.

Chapman, Max J. Smith, Arthur Stein, David Fahey, B. F. Shea and Dr. Thomas F. O'Laughlin.

All Saints' Day Observance.

Services for all the saints—known and unknown—were held in St. Patrick's church Monday, opening the month of November, which is devoted to prayers and good works in remembrance of the souls in purgatory. There were masses at 5 and 7 o'clock, also at 8, when the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, read the low mass. At the offertory, Organist Henry J. LaFontaine sang Dr. Jules Jordan's setting of "Ave Maria." There were solos also by Mrs. Bernard J. Coyle and Mrs. George H. Roberts. Rev. John J. Kelly assisted in giving holy communion.

The lesson for the day was Apocalypse 7, 2-12 and the gospel was Matthew 5, 1-12—the Beatitudes. The offertory was Wisdom 3, beginning, "The souls of the just are in the hand of God and the torment of malice shall not touch them; in the sight of the unwise they deemed to die; but they are in peace."

CARNEGIE MEDAL FOR CENTRAL VILLAGE MAN

Thomas Weaver of Central Village is one of three Connecticut men awarded Carnegie hero bronze medals for the commission of heroic deeds.

Weaver rescued two boys from drowning at Montville, No. 21, 1924. The boys were brothers, William F. Pearl, 11, and Edward B. Pearl, 10. While skating on Whitestone Brook, William broke through the ice 60 feet from shore. Edward went to his help and also broke through. Weaver went out on the ice after both the boys and also broke through the ice, but managed to get the boys into shallow water where they were all helped ashore. Weaver had one foot frozen and was disabled for a week.

The polls will be open in all districts today from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m.

At Rensselaer Polytechnic.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Monday Afternoon Sewing club met with Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen, of Lincoln avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Johnson are entertaining Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Lewis Dexter, of Andover, N. H.

Today (Tuesday) the B. Natural club opens its season, meeting with Mrs. William F. Bailey, of Slater avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Phipps Austin have arrived from Cleveland and are at the home of the former's father, Willis Austin, on Washington street.

At present Mrs. Zebulen R. Robbins, her daughter Mrs. H. A. Kelly and the latter's daughter are in Paris, expecting to remain for the greater part of the winter.

The second meeting this season of the Monday Bridge club of two tables was held with Mrs. J. Eldred Brown, of Otis street. The club met first with Miss Minnie L. Palmer.

Miss Ellen Prentice, of Danielson, John Whittaker and daughter Sarah, also Charles Hicks, of Providence, were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Prentice, of Prospect street.

NORWICH TOWN

At the home of Miss May Mackey, who resides with her aunt, Miss Luetta Dowdall, of Otrobando avenue, a Halloween party given Saturday evening, from seven to ten was attended by fourteen children and several adults. Nearly everyone present was in costume forming a gay assemblage including Santa Claus, Gypsies, Indians, ghosts, witches, coons, clowns, farmers, crones, et al.

Halloween games were played after which Miss Dowdall assisted by Mrs. Lewis Irish and Mrs. Richard Carter, served fruit salad, sandwiches, cake, fancy cookies, doughnuts and fruit.

Guests were seated at a table attractively decorated with orange and black and lighted with candles to match. At each plate were Halloween favors, napkins in the form of a rose and filled with candy.

A company of 16, mostly nearby neighbors, were entertained at a Halloween masquerade Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Buckley of Town street. The guests assembled about 8 o'clock, upon calling at the house found everything in darkness and after ringing the bell, were received by a party from within, who represented a skeleton. In the group was a bridal party, Little Bo-Peep and others in fancy costume. After a social hour with Halloween games and a pantomime, dancing concluded the evening's entertainment. Sandwiches, cake, doughnuts and coffe were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Howes and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney of Town street, were included in an automobile party Sunday, that visited Mrs. Kinney's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kinney of Providence, formerly of Norwich Town.

While en route to Hartford Sunday to call on friends having decided after starting to defer the trip due to the rain, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Paul Gremley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd of Mystic were callers for several hours at the home of Mrs. Brainerd's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 131 N Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

"A Stitch in Time Saves Nine"

— every tiny hole in your silk stockings should be mended just as soon as it appears. Many people neglect these small holes and they soon grow so large that darning is almost impossible or at least unsightly. As we told you before, it is advisable to buy two pair of stockings of the same shade so you can borrow one stocking from the other pair. In this way two pair will last longer than three pair if purchased one after the other.

For silk stockings that will give weeks of extra wear without a thought of mending we recommend our famous

NEW YORK ELECTS GOV. SMITH FOURTH TIME; G. O. P. RETAINS CONTROL OF CONGRESS

In New York Gov. Smith Defeated Ogden L. Mills by Upwards of 260,000 Plurality—For U. S. Senate Wagner, Democrat, Has Substantial Lead Over Wadsworth, Republican—In Massachusetts, Butler, Republican, Concedes Election of Walsh, Democrat—Vote on Prohibition Referendum in New York State Shows Three to One in Favor of Modification.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Slowly accumulating returns from yesterday's general elections developed so many uncertainties that despite home notable democratic gains some of the outstanding contests remained in the doubtful column.

The democrats not only re-elected Governor Smith in New York but picked up one senatorial seat in Massachusetts, defeating Senator Butler, personal friend of President Coolidge and chairman of the republican national committee. Senator Wadsworth of New York also appeared to be in danger.

Two seats in the house of representatives, one in Pennsylvania and one in New York, had swung over from the republican to the democratic column, but most of the congressional districts which had been debatable ground still were to report.

On top of their victories in Massachusetts and New York, the democrats were keeping their senatorial candidates in the lead in Arizona, Missouri, Maryland, Oklahoma, and Kentucky, although the returns were not decisive. All of these states now are represented by republicans. In all, the democrats must pick up nine seats to overturn the present republican majority in the senate.

In Indiana, stirred in the closing days of the campaign by charges of a corrupt republican-Ku Klux Klan combination, Senators Watson and Robinson, both republicans, were leading on incomplete returns, but by comparatively narrow margins.

Illinois and Pennsylvania, on which the senate's "slush fund" committee concentrated its attention, showed wide-differing returns. Rep. William S. Vare, the republican senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania, had a comfortable majority, but Frank L. Smith, named for the senate by Illinois republicans, was faced with paring away down-state a heavy majority rolled up in Chicago by George E. Brennan, his democratic opponent. The Smith managers professed confidence in the outcome.

In Iowa Senator Smith W. Brookhart, unseated at the last session in favor of a democrat, was building up a big lead for re-election.

The slowness of the returns left in doubt many contests for state and local offices. Of the thirty-three states electing governors, only six had reported the result early today, and except for New York all of them were either in the democratic solid south or in undisputed republican territory.

The available figures likewise made it impossible to visualize clearly the whole result of the dryisory prohibition referendums held in eight states. From the first returns, it appeared that New York had given the wets a vast majority, and they also were leading in Montana and Illinois. In Missouri, where the question was on repeal of the state enforcement act, and where the Anti-Saloon league advised the drys to refrain from voting, the first scattered precincts returned a heavy majority against the proposal. A like result was indicated on available figures from Colorado.

Senator Butler's defeat in Massachusetts, conceded by him after he had failed to pile up a sufficient majority upstate to overcome the expected Walsh tidal wave in Boston, will mean that he retires immediately from the senate. He was appointed by the governor of Massachusetts to succeed the late Henry Cabot Lodge, and to serve until a successor was elected. Mr. Walsh will take his place at Washington when the senate meets on Nov. 15.

Senator Butler was the only republican senatorial nominee to be endorsed publicly by President Coolidge who journeyed to Northampton and cast his vote there for his friend and party leader.

Back in the white house last night the president listened for a while to the returns but went to bed before he had heard the outcome in his home state.

GOV. SMITH LEADS MILLS BY OVER 264,110

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Alfred E Smith has been elected governor of New York for the fourth time on tabulations of 7,005 districts out of the 7,113 in the state revealed a lead for the governor of 264,110. This included 2,940 districts out of 3,818 in New York city.

The vote was:
Smith—1,423,672.
Mills —1,159 562.

WAGNER HAS LEAD OF 118,663 OVER WADSWORTH

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Robert F. Wagner, democratic candidate for the senate, held a lead of 118,663 over James W. Wadsworth, Jr., on the basis of returns from 6,900 districts out of 7,113 in the state revealed a lead of 118,663 over Wadsworth, Jr., on the basis of returns from 6,900 districts out of 7,113 in the state revealed a lead of 2,849 out of 3,138 in New York city.

Wagner's vote was 1,196,221 against 1,077,562 for Wadsworth and 186,499 for Cristman.

N. Y. VOTES MODIFICATION OF PROHIBITION LAW

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—With a little less than three-fifths of the state completed proponents of the New York prohibition modification referendum had piled up a lead of 667,529 early today.

Returns from 4,314 districts out of 7,818 including 1,000 out of 3,135 in New York city gave:
Yes—971,342.
No —303,502.

POTHIER RE-ELECTED GOVERNOR RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Governor Aram J. Pothier, republican, today was re-elected by Rhode Island voters, defeating his democratic opponent, Mayor Joseph H. Gainer of this city, by a plurality estimated at midnight to be approximately 10,000.

Governor Pothier's election is the seventh time he has been named by the electors for the post of chief executive. In 135 districts out of 196 Governor Pothier has polled 51,723 votes, Mayor Gainer 44,165. Governor Pothier was re-elected on a platform which had for one of its chief planks the issue of law and order on that basis the Rhode Island G. O. P. state ticket and a big majority of general assembly members have been victorious in the election.

Congressmen Clark Burdick of the first Rhode Island district and Richard S. Aldrich of the second Rhode Island district, both republicans, have been re-elected. Congressman Jeremiah E. O'Connell, democrat, of the third Rhode Island district, according to incomplete returns late tonight, is closely pressed by Louis Monast, republican of Pawtucket, R. I., in the contest for the congressional berth in that district.

SENATOR BUTLER WAS DEFEATED BY WALSH

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—U. S. Senator William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, was defeated for re-election today by former Senator David I. Walsh, democrat. Senator Butler conceded his defeat shortly before midnight.

In the returns from the state outside of Boston, Butler ran far behind Governor Alvan T. Fuller, republican, seeking re-election. No returns from Boston were available up to midnight. The counting of the vote in this city is customarily slow, due to the system of bringing the ballot boxes from all the precinct polling places to city hall, where the returns are tabulated.

Senator Walsh issued a statement in which he said:

"I wish to thank the people of the state for their renewed manifestation of confidence in sending me back to the senate. I feel a great sense of responsibility and at this hour rededicate myself to the great cause of making our nation's government more responsive to the people's will. For this is more than a personal victory. It is a verdict upon the great issues, all of which affected the warning power of the individual citizen.

"It is evident upon the returns that my victory is not a partisan one. It was brought about by the voters of thousands of men and women who rose above party affiliations and turned from partisan appeals. I rejoice in this fact; it will make me free to serve them and I promise all the people I shall let no cloud of partisanship shadow my course, I said the support.

President Coolidge was not an issue in the campaign and I shall support him in all matters that will promote the welfare of the people of the country."

Northampton, President Coolidge's home city, where he and Mrs. Coolidge voted today, gave Governor Fuller a substantial plurality and went to Senator Butler by a narrow margin, the vote was Fuller 2,726, Gaston, 2,660. Butler 2,187,—Walsh 2,121.

In New Bedford, where Senator Walsh charged before the election election that there had been vote buying, gave Butler 11,222 and Walsh 11,946. Fuller carried the city by a vote of 12,794 to 10,107 for Gaston.

The vote throughout the state was heavy for an off year. Great interest had been injected into the campaign by the president's statement urging the re-election of Senator Butler.

BUT FEW ELECTION DISORDERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The agencies of law enforcement downed the gangsters and perpetrators of election frauds here today.

Elaborate precautions by federal, county and city authorities held reports of untoward incidents to an unusually brief list.

Several of the more prominent gangsters were arrested on the streets but they were unarmed and not near polling places, while there were fewer than a half-dozen reports of disorders and none of ballot box seizures which heretofore have marred Chicago elections.

In one precinct a judge was knocked down but the police said he was intoxicated and locked him up until they thought he was sober. Five armed men kidnapped four Negro election workers and held them prisoner two hours on the near north side and later five men slugged a Negro democratic worker and kidnapped another Negro election worker on the southwest side.

Four men, recognized by an election worker as adherents of Al Capone, gang leader, entered a polling place, "sized up" the situation and left, but a call for a re-enforced guard was sent out under fear they would return and steal the ballot box.

In the turbulent 20th ward, in which Morris Eller, republican candidate for sanitary district trustee is recognized as leader, two judges were removed when a committee of Chicago Bar association workers reported they were going into the booths and coaching voters.

VARE LEADS WILES FOR SENATE IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3 (AP)—With returns from more than a third of the state tabulated tonight Congressman William S. Vare, republican candidate for United States senator from Pennsylvania, was leading his democratic opponent, William B. Wilson by more than 173,000 votes. Outside of the city of Philadelphia Wilson was running ahead, however.

Returns from 4,314 of the 8,334 districts in the state gave:
Vare 599,171
Wilson 338,460

These returns included 1181 districts of the 1560 in Philadelphia, the Vare stronghold, which gave the congressman 238,119 and Wilson 56,612.

John S. Fisher, republican candidate for governor, on the ticket with Vare, had a lead over Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, democratic candidate of 417,632 in 4,314 districts of the state. The vote was:
Fisher 617,855
Bonniwell 200,503

These figures included the same 1,181 districts in Philadelphia. These gave Fisher 242,752 and Bonniwell 58,793.

Returns from 1,995 districts of the 3,176 in the state outside of Philadelphia gave Wilson a lead of 9,503 over Vare. The rural districts however, returned pluralities for Fisher and in 1840 districts outside the city he was 129,176 ahead of Bonniwell.

NECK AND NECK RACE FOR GOVERNOR OF WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Wyoming's woman governor, Nellie Taylor Ross, democrat, and Frank C. Emerson, republican, were running a neck and neck race for governor with Emerson leading by 148 votes, with 51 precincts out of 585 tabulated at 8 o'clock tonight.

SAYS WHISKEY RING CONTROLS BOTH PARTIES

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Franklin W. Cirstman, who ran for the United States senate as an independent republican, on a dry platform in today's election, asserted in a statement tonight that the campaign and the election returns showed that "organized whiskey" had control of both the major parties in this state.

"Knowing the people who are associated with me," said the statement, "and knowing of their devotion to the cause of right, I have no hesitancy in saying that there will be no let up in this fight."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE HEARS ELECTION RETURNS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Election returns were received by President Coolidge at the executive offices for more than an hour tonight after his return from Northampton where he and Mrs. Coolidge today cast their ballots. When it appeared that several of the close contests would not be decided for many hours, however, he went to the executive mansion soon after 11 o'clock and retired.

Prompt reports from the various states were given Mr. Coolidge by press associations over special telegraph wires, and even before he reached Washington on his special train from Northampton he was advised by The Associated Press of early returns, but he made no comments.

The president and his party reached the white house shortly before ten o'clock and he immediately went to his office to receive the returns.

The trip from Northampton was without incident.

FORMER PRISON WARDEN CHARGED WITH MURDER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Leading with its main witness, the state today plunged into the midst of its attack on Charles R. Davis, former warden, charged with the murder of James Knox at Flat Top Prison in 1924.

Wiley Pugh, whose statement several months ago to state authorities precipitated an investigation which resulted in th indictment of six persons in connection with the deaths of convicts at prison mines throughout the state was sent to the stand early in the day and his testimony occupied the attention of the court until late in the afternoon.

Pugh told of Knox being beaten and then ducked in a laundry vat while he begged Flat Top officials to spare his life. His story to the jury included a statement which the witnesses attributed to Davis after Knox pleaded for his life.

"You want me to beat you up and put you in the hospital where you can show your wounds to anybody that comes," Pugh quoted Davis as saying. "No, I am going to finish you and bury you on —— hill."

The witness said Warden Davis ordered Homer Anderson, Negro trusty at the mine hospital to prepare a solution of poison and pump it into Knox's stomach after the convict died. Pugh said that the warden's instructions were obeyed and that Davis then threatened the lives of any who told about Knox's death.

CHANGE OF VENUE FOR REV. NORRIS MURDER TRIAL

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 3—(AP)—A change of venue to Austin, the state capital, was granted here late today to Dr. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor, for his trial on a charge of slaying D. E. Chipps.

Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham were among the early arrivals at the polls in the 18th ward, New Haven.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, noted author and spiritualist, paid tribute to the late Harry Houdini as "the world's greatest trickster."

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Robert Dissmann, 53, social democratic member of the reichstag, died aboard the steamship Columbus from heart failure, while returning from a trip to Mexico, where he went to study trade union conditions.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The Chinese delegation at Geneva has been officially advised that the Chinese government is about to present to the library of the league of nations the complete Chinese encyclopaedia which is reputed to be over 200 years old.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The task of making the wedding ceremony of Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid democratic was the chief problem of the king of the Belgians and the duke of Vastergotland, father of the bride, in arranging the program of the coming nuptials.

FLORENCE, Italy, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Chapman, Jr., at their home here was announced. Mr. Chapman is a son of Dr. Frank M. Chapman, New York naturalist, while Mrs. Chapman is the only child of Irvin S. Cobb, who has been in Italy several weeks awaiting the event.

Ten Convicts Were Shot in Public Square

Executions at Ceiba, Honduras, Told by Members of Crew of Fruit Ship.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The story of the shooting of ten convicts in the public square at Ceiba, Honduras, and the suicide of one in the United States consul's office, was related here today by members of the crew of the Vaccaro Brothers fruit ship Amapala which docked late yesterday. An American destroyer yesterday was ordered from Bluefields, Nicaragua, to Honduras on request of the American consul at Ceiba.

Members of the Amapala's crew said that ten of the 200 convicts who escaped, taking three machine guns were captured by authorities, lined up in the square at Ceiba and shot, one after the other.

Any convicts caught are immediately executed, they said.

"The leader surrendered to the American consul," one member said, "and pleaded for just trial at the hands of any authorized tribunal. The consul wired to Washington and received an answer directing him to turn the convict over to Honduran authorities.

"When the wire came, the convict glanced over the type casually, picked up a revolver lying there and shot his own brains out."

FEMININE FINERY IN THE McPHERSON CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Aimee Semple McPherson case, relegated to the background by elections, was a study in baggage today.

While District Attorney Asa Keyes and his aides continued their examination of more than three score pieces of feminine finery taken from a trunk which arrived yesterday from New York, in an effort to find clues, word came from Oakland of still another trunk, which was said to contain as the first is alleged to contain, clothing owned by the Angelus Temple pastor.

The information from District Attorney of Oakland was that he was in touch with a woman who had knowledge of garments bought by Mrs. McPherson in Los Angeles which do not tally with those found in the blue trunk shipped here from the east.

Despite the fact that the sizes of expensive shoes found in the New York trunk did not correspond to the size usually bought by the evangelist, Keyes reiterated that he had sufficient evidence from the luggage to prove that Mrs. McPherson was the woman who spent ten days in a Carmel cottage last May with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant in the case. The New York trunk is declared to be Ormiston's.

Tomorrow final arguments will be heard in the preliminary hearing of Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, the latter a state witness as well as a defendant. Today the two women leaders of Angelus Temple spent a quiet day at the beach and came in later to mark their ballots at the precinct polling both in the shadow of the $500,000 edifice where they hold their revival meetings.

SUPPRESSING OPPOSITION TO FASCISM IN ITALY

ROME, Italy, Nov. —(AP)—Fascist Italy, always stirred to delirious enthusiasm by the utterances of its leader, Benito Mussolini, is now seeking with deadly determination to suppress all opposition to fascism. Also, the most stringent measures are being prepared to discourage any further attack against the life of the duce or criticisms against his policy.

The intense feeling engendered throughout Italy by the attempt of the boy Zamboni to kill Mussolini at Bologna, has been accentuated by the latest word from that city confirming the suspicions that it involved a far-reaching plot. Instead of being merely a misguided gesture by a deranged youth,

The police on the eve of the demonstration at Bologna put two thousand suspected persons under strict surveillance and seized a large number of manifestoes reading "The duce will not leave Bologna alive."

In the past twenty-four hours scores of individuals have been arrested; some of them were released after questioning, but others are under heavy guard. It is asserted that the authorities consider they have found the real source of the crime, but the strictest secrecy is being maintained.

An alleged communist plot against the government is said to have been discovered, ten of those implicated being taken by the police, together with a thousand manifestoes. Seventeen communists have been arrested at Empoli.

LAWYERS CITED TO APPEAR FOR FRACAS IN COURT ROOM

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—(AP)—David J. McCoy, attorney, and Louis Sperandeo, assistant prosecuting attorney, who were in an altercation in Common Pleas court room last Friday during which an ink well was thrown spattering the judge's bench, the walls, and records, were cited today to appear before Judge Walter M. Pickett for contempt of court, on Friday after short calendar.

The two lawyers had been verbally at odds throughout trial of a civil case and when Judge Pickett left the bench they were close to a bodily clash when a deputy sheriff stepped in. The latter had his uniform and linen well blotched with ink. Other attorneys intervened so that the men did not touch each toher.

MIAMI BEACH FIRE DEPARTMENT ON STRIKE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Twenty-seven members of the Miami Beach fire department went on strike today, protesting in a petition to C. A. Benshaw city manager, against "the autocratic methods of J. S. Stephenson, director of public safety."

The petition further alleges that the men were "subjected to household servitude and made to clean and repair private automobiles of our superior officers." They agreed to return to duty only after an unbiased committee from the city council had made a comprehensive investigation.

After the walkout, the city manager called on the remaining men to do duty.

Early Returns From Canadian Elections

Fourteen Members of the Mackenzie King Cabinet Returned to Parliament by Acclamation.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Fourteen members of the MacKenzie King cabinet were today re-elected to their seats in parliament by acclamation. These bye-elections were held in accordance with the procedure in Canada which makes it necessary for the members holding ministerial position to go before the people for re-election.

Premier King, himself, and Ernest LaPoint, minister of justice, both of whom are overseas, were among those acclaimed. Premier King represents the constituency of Prince Albert, and Mr. LaPointe, Quebec, East.

PUZZLING LEGAL QUESTION IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 2—(AP)—On the eve of the first trial in the four-year old Hall-Mills death mystery, the two judges who are to preside still were undecided whether legal impediments will cause a postponement until the next term of court.

The question puzzling the two judges is the outgrowth of the demand of State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, for a "struck" jury. Several weeks ago, at his request, the formalities of selecting a "struck" jury resulted in the selection of a panel of thirty-six, talesmen selected by a theoretical intelligence test. At that time Judge Cleary and Justice Parker convened court and permitted the defense and the state to challenge prospective jurors. Justice Parker then said that the law allowed only five challenges for each side in the final selection of the jury.

The selection is to begin tomorrow morning, but today it was learned that with the special panel reduced to twenty-eight by the striking out of the names of ineligibles—persons dead or removed from the state—there has arisen the danger of exhausting the special panel without getting a jury. Judge Cleary pointed out that if the state and the defense use tomorrow their total of ten challenges, only eighteen talesmen will be left if more than six of the remaining eighteen are challenged for cause the result will be an incomplete jury.

MRS. G. ROOSEVELT DICK KILLED DURING FOX HUNT

BROOKVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 2.—(AP)—During horsemanship cost Mrs. Gladys Roosevelt Dick, cousin of the late President Roosevelt, her life today during a fox hunt by society people of Long Island.

Forcing her mount to attempt a leap over a dangerous five foot barrier against which she and others had been warned, Mrs. Dick was instantly crushed to death when the horse caught a foot in a rail of the fence and, tumbling head down, pitched completely over and landed on the woman rider. Three huntsmen already had cleared the fence.

Fairman R. Dick, husband of Mrs Dick, was riding with another group of fox hunters. He was overcome by the tragedy and was taken to Sagamore Hill by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, the Dick home is at Glen Head, Long Island.

NEW RULING ON LIQUOR LAW IN ONTARIO PROVINCES

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Persons found in possession of liquor not purchased from the provincial liquor commission which it is proposed to form if the conservative government is returned to power in Ontario on December 13, will be "sent to jail."

Announcement to this effect was made today by Premier G. Howard Ferguson, who explained that under the system of government control and sale of liquor with local option to be put into effect if he is successful at the polls, purchases of liquor would be endorsed on the personal permits to be issued by the commission. This safeguard, he said, would be effective in stopping illegal importation of liquor.

CHARTER DENIED PALAIS ROYAL HOTEL COMPANY

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, acting on the advice of the attorney general's department, has denied a charter of incorporation to the Palais Royal Hotel company, seeking to deal in wines and liquors at 648 Washington street this city. The papers of incorporation stated the firm's intention to engage in the business of innkeepers, dealing in wines and liquors, the latter trade, however, to be carried on outside the United States.

7-YEAR-OLD GIRL FOUND MURDERED WITH THROAT CUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—Vera Dempsey, a 7-year-old girl, was found murdered in her home in Upper Park avenue this afternoon. Her throat was cut from ear to ear, and she apparently had been the victim of a criminal assault.

The body was discovered by a six-year-old sister of the slain girl.

Later Charles P. Alberecht, subway motorman, said to have shared an apartment with the dead girl's uncle, was arrested, and, police said, confessed to killing the child.

AN EXPELLED MEMBER RETURNED TO VA. SENATE

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Alfred G. Smith of Norfolk county, who was expelled from the Virginia state senate at the last session today was returned to that office without opposition.

The charges which led to Smith's expulsion were filed by the Norfolk-Portsmouth Bar association, alleging he had fraudulently obtained his license to practice law in Virginia and that a number of years ago he had been convicted of forgery in South Carolina under the name of Reynolds.

GRATIFYING REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN CONNECTICUT

Entire Republican Ticket Elected by Tremendous Pluralities—Trumbull For Governor and Bingham For U. S. Senate Will Have Pluralities of Upwards of 80,000—Five Congressmen Were Reelected and all the Sheriffs Were Returned to Office—1927 Assembly Apparently Will Be Even More Strongly Republican That the One Which Sat Last Year.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 3—(AP)—The republicans swept Connecticut in today's election much after the fashion of two years ago, and the total vote cast and the margin for Governor John H. Trumbull and U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham were fully as impressive as those they received two years ago.

The entire republican state ticket was elected by tremendous pluralities, the five congressmen were re-elected, all the sheriffs of the party got their terms of office extended another four years and the general assembly for 1927 apparently will be even more strongly republican than the one which sat last year.

At midnight with 164 of the 169 towns counted and reported the vote for Governor Trumbull was 181,444 and for his democratic opponent, Charles G. Morris, 100,433.

The same towns for U. S. senator gave Hiram Bingham 179,386 and his opponent Rollin U. Tyler, 100,746.

The state senate in 1927 apparently will consist of 34 republicans and a single democrat, Senator Lawlor of Waterbury being re-elected as the sole representative of his party in the upper body.

State total for governor with four towns missing is Trumbull 184,690; Morris, 103,392.

State totals for U. S. senator with four towns missing are Bingham 183,613; Tyler 104,037.

MORRIS CONGRATULATES GOVERNOR TRUMBULL

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 3—(AP)—Charles G. Morris, democrat, defeated today for governor of Connecticut by Governor John H. Trumbull, his republican opponent up for re-election, said:

"The decision of the voters of this state has been made. Democrats who believe in popular government must be the last to protest when the people do not accept our offer to enter their service. To my mind it is only a question of time when the people of this state will tire of the burdens imposed on them by a centralized government and revolt as other peoples have revolted against such governments. Evidently the time has not yet come.

"I wish, personally, to offer my congratulations to Governor Trumbull and express my sincerest wish that he shall find satisfaction and success in the duties of the office to which he has been elected."

ELECTION STATEMENT BY SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham, re-elected today, made the following statement tonight:

"The result in Connecticut appears to be a magnificent vote of confidence in the republican party and its leaders. The size of the vote is due to the faithful workers who strove hard to overcome general apathy and to get out the voters.

"I am deeply grateful for their efforts and for the great opportunity to be useful which my beloved state has given me.

(Signed) "HIRAM BINGHAM."

THREE CITIES ELECT DEMOCRATIC MAYORS

DERBY, Nov. 3—(AP)—Mayor Conway, democrat, re-elected by 672 majority over Beach republican.

STAMFORD, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Alfred N. Phillips, Jr., who was mayor of this city from 1923 to 1925, was elected is that office today over George P. Rowell, republican. The margin was 691 votes. The democrats elected five of the nine councilmen.

ANSONIA, Nov. 2—(AP)—Michael J. Cook, democrat, elected mayor by 268 votes, defeating Carlor H. Storrs, according to semi-official figures.

ARREST OF PLOTTERS OF REVOLT AGAINST SPAIN

PERPIGNAN, France, Nov. 2.—(AP)—More than thirty Spaniards and Italians have been arrested along the frontier and a well organized plot of considerable extent to forment a revolution in Spain has been brought to light.

The French police are silent on their activities, but it is known that they have located ammunition depots and stores of arms near La Rerdana, not far from the frontier, and also quantities of field telephones and other equipment for war.

The police say that members of the revolutionary group have been crossing into Spain on the pretense of being visitors.

Tight control has been clamped down on the border and all trains are being subjected to rigid examination, while the frontier customs posts along the roads have instituted rigorous measures.

The number of Italians taken by the police is said to have been comparatively small, but further arrests are expected. Police from Paris, Marseilles and other centres have been detailed to assist the frontier guards in the round-up.

LIVING AS BACHELOR, HAD WIFE AND CHILDREN

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 2.—(AP)—While voters here were re-electing Curtiss S. Bacon, since 1908 democratic judge of probate, endorsed by both parties this fall, it became known that while he had been living here as a bachelor, he has a wife and children in Larchmont, N. Y.

In February, 1916, Judge Bacon was married in New York to Miss Eva Van Sicloh of that city. They immediately established a home in Larchmont, and in course of time two children, a daughter now nine and a son, seven, were born to them.

Meanwhile Judge Bacon lived here alone in his ancestral home, to which he will now bring his family.

NO BROADCASTING OF THE HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Radio station W R N Y announced tonight it will not broadcast the Hall-Mills murder trial, which opens tomorrow morning in Somerville, N. J.

Charles D. Isaacson, in making the announcement said that, although all arrangements had been completed for the broadcast and 5,000 letters from radio fans received in approval of the plan, "some influential people thought it was a bad thing to do and we decided there was enough public opinion against it to warrant abandoning the plan." Mr. Isaacson did not name the "influential people" other than saying they included prominent ministers, club women and men.

BUS ACCIDENT CASE TRIED AT SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 3—A short calendar session of the Windham county superior court was held here today with Judge Alfred C. Baldwin on the bench. There will be no court session Thursday or Friday, as Judge Baldwin will then be presiding in Litchfield. A meeting of the Windham County Bar association will be held here Friday.

The following short calendar matters were taken up today. The case of the Independent Refining Company vs. E. A. Buck Company, allowed to stand. Alfred Rooney vs. Charles Robitaille, motion for judgment by default, an answer was filed by Attorney Back. Willimantic Lumber & Coal company vs. Austin John Howell, continued one month. Continuances for one week were ordered in the cases of S. E. Aaron Company vs. George A. Vaughn Corporation, argument of demurrer; Silas A. and Mary T. Frost vs. Esther Clancy, Mary E. Clancy, Agnes Rosenquest, hearing in foreclosure and on limitation of time for redemption; Isaac C. Keach, Angeline Keach, assignee vs Eileen S. Anderson, et als. Attorney Bradford stated that an answer had been filed in the case of Eleanor Howard Dean Pearse et al executors vs. Waldo E. Pratt et al. trustees and the Town of Woodstock.

The case of George Krupowitz vs. Town of Ashford, a hearing on demurrer, was first heard. On December 12, 1925, Albert, twelve year old son of the plaintiff, figured in an accident when he found a dynamite cap in the road and exploded it, causing painful injury and the loss of several fingers. The town was charged with being negligent in allowing the dynamite cap to remain in the highway. The suit against the town of Ashford was brought for $20,000. Judge Baldwin took the papers and reserved decision.

The court found for the plaintiff in the case of Frank F. Brown vs. Mary Nowak, default and judgment. The plaintiff was allowed to recover the bill with interest from November 1, 1924, to the amount of $215.74.

Decision was reserved in the uncontested divorce case of Harry B. Ricard vs. Elizabeth Cunningham Ricard. The charge was adultery. Lawrence Ricard and Clifford McCarthy appeared as witnesses.

The case of Estelle H. Remington vs. the Willimantic and Hartford Jitney Association, Inc., was then taken up and the trial lasted until 6.05 o'clock in the evening at which time Judge Baldwin took the papers and stated that he would reserve his decision. Attorney Perkins appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Keefe for the defendant company. The case is the outcome of an accident on the evening of February 11, 1926, when a large bus driven by Harold Cahill, an employe of the defendant company, left the highway and after plowing through a snowbank came to a stop against a tree on the Hartford-Willimantic highway in the town of Andover. Mrs. Remington, charging negligence on the part of the driver, sustained a broken right wrist, bruised breast and other minor bruises. She could not perform her household duties for several months and was otherwise inconvenienced.

In the case of R. G. Remington, husband of the plaintiff mentioned, also a passenger on the bus, the action was for loss of service and cost of medical care of his wife.

Plaintiff sought to establish that the bus driver had been negligent in attempting to pass another car at an inopportune time and place and that, as a result of this carelessness and the speed of the bus, the vehicle went through the snow for 73 feet and crashed into a tree, causing injuries to Mrs. Remington. The defense admitted that the bus driver was maintaining a schedule and that he did not attempt to pass the second car mentioned until the bus horn had been sounded and a clear road secured. The responsibility for the accident was placed on Mrs. Ferne Welch, of 70 Pleasant street, this city, who was driving a Hudson coach which the bus was about to pass when it went into the snow, the Welch machine turned back to the left of the road as the bus was about to pass.

Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink of Andover testified as to the measurements he had taken at the scene of the accident.

Mrs. Ferne Welch stated that the bus had nearly succeeded in passing her car when it went into the snow. She stated that the bus was traveling fast.

R. G. Remington placed the speed of the bus at about 40 miles an hour.

Arthur J. Lewis, mechanic, testified to the condition of the bus after the accident and stated that the speedometer on the machine was not connected. Mrs. Remington told of the manner in which she was thrown in the crash and of her difficulties brought on by the broken wrist.

At this point the plaintiff rested; the defense called on the following witnesses: Miss Helen Boynton of Coventry, who sustained a sprained ankle but corroborated the testimony of Cahill that he had to choose between the snow-bank and striking Mrs. Welch's car. Miss Olga Lindholm and her sister, Miss Mary Lindholm of Andover and Mr. Cahill. Upon the adjournment of court at 6.05 o'clock Judge Baldwin announced that the session Wednesday forenoon will open at 10 o'clock.

A formal program was omitted at Willimantic Rotary club luncheon in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday noon, due to election day. The two leading political candidates from the club, Charles B. Pomeroy and Aime J. Martineau, opposing candidates for representative, occupied seats of honor. D. W. Perry of New Britain club was a guest. President James P. Bath presided. Roland B. Jordan, chairman of the committee, announced that to date sixteen members had signed up to attend the Danbury Rotary club charter night in that city this (Wednesday) evening. A bus will leave here at two o'clock in the afternoon and a few guests from the Danielson and Putnam Rotary clubs are expected to join the group here. Beginning November 1st, 100 per cent attendance bars will be presented members every four months.

A Ford and a Studebaker car were damaged when they struck almost head-on, in front of the Grange hall in the village of Andover about eight o'clock Monday. The cars were operated respectively by George Ladd and Edward Lindholm both of Andover. In the Lindholm car were Misses Olga and Mary Lindholm who were somewhat shaken up. Ladd was turning to the left on the highway when the cars crashed. Both drivers notified Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink that they would settle their own damages.

GALES FERRY

Under the auspices of the Men's class and the Epworth League of the M. E. church, a Hallowe'en party was given on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker, Friday evening. The grounds were effectively lighted, with electric lights of various colors, the garage had been converted into a bower, of autumn foliage with branches of oak, leaves, and was brilliantly lighted. A huge fire burned in the rear, of the residence and seats were placed in groups around the grounds. A parade of witches, imps, harlequins and ghosts, marched and counter-marched at the opening of the program, and prizes, were given for the most appealing costumes. The judges were Mrs. Ruth Eustic, Mrs. Main and C. E. Colver. A ghost story, The Golden Arm, was read by Miss Adeline Povey. Mrs. Walter T. Clark, in gypsy costume, told marvelous fortunes in a corner of autumn leaves. The chamber of horrors, was in the ell of the house of Mrs. Ellie M. Stoddard, adjoining the Parker grounds and only one entered at a time. This place was under the direction of Mrs. Packer, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. J. Edmund Norman, Mrs. J. A. Birch, Mrs. De Rusha and Mrs. Alton Stoddard. Hallowe'en stunts included bobbing for apples, and others. Roasted frankfurters and rolls, marshmallows, doughnuts, popcorn and coffee was served by Mrs. Colver, Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. Birch and Misses Parker and Harold. Those assisting in the decorations were Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Charles Hoyt, Miss Satterlee, Mrs. Norman and Mrs. Stoddard. The games were under the direction of Rev. W. D. TWO FAMOUS WOMEN BORN IN SAME YEAR

Queen Victoria and Lydia E. Pinkham

MRS. ANNA McHENRY
1005 E. PLUM STREET, MARSHALL, ILLINOIS

In the year 1819, two babies were born whose lives were destined to have a far-reaching influence. One was born in a stern castle of Old England; the other in a humble farmhouse in New England.

Queen Victoria through her wisdom and kindliness during a long and prosperous reign has become enthroned in the hearts of the British people. Lydia E. Pinkham through the merit of her Vegetable Compound has made her name a household word in thousands of American homes.

Marshall, Illinois.—"After my second child was born, I never saw a well day for five years. My father was telling his druggist about my condition, and the druggist insisted that father take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have me try it, as it had helped his wife. I had given up, but to please father and mother, I commenced taking your medicine and in a week I had begun to feel better. When I passed through the Change of Life, I was taking the Vegetable Compound and I had no trouble of any kind."—Mrs. Anna McHenry, 1005 E. Plum St., Marshall, Illinois.

Another Woman Helped

Philadelphia, Penna.—Mrs. Caroline Nagy, of 2717 Sears St., in a recent letter to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., says that after her child was born she was in a very weak condition. She could not seem to regain her health and went to her mother for advice. She told her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it had helped her when in like condition, and it has helped her mother also. So Mrs. Nagy started taking it. She felt better after taking the first bottle,—after taking six bottles her weakness and other troubles disappeared, and she is never done praising the Compound.

In some families the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DANIELSON

FUNERAL HELD TUESDAY FOR WILLIAM A. DARLING

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 3—At 3 this afternoon at the Union Baptist church in East Killingly funeral services for William A. Darling were conducted by Rev. W. D. Hetherington. The service was attended by numbers of relatives and friends. Burial was in the Bartlett cemetery. The bearers were Jesse Smith, William I. Lewis, Claude Moran and Arthur Carroll. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

William A. Darling died Saturday. He had been a resident of East Killingly since his boyhood days, coming there from his birthplace—Plymouth, Mass. He was 64 years of age. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Darling and of old New England stock. His health had been failing for more than a year. Mr. Darling leaves his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Lily Moran, and a granddaughter, Miss Ada Moran.

Sitting about fanning about politics and old-time politicians and their ways and methods and those with whom they had to deal, men who know much of local history and ye olden practices expressed their satisfaction Tuesday that vote buying is practically an extinct practice insofar as this town is concerned. A candidate may do a bit of it secretly nowadays, but it is ancient stuff and in the background of things. Party organizations frown on the practice and will have nothing to do with it. So, too, has passed many of the old-timers who expected $3 before they could be induced to go in and vote—and the Lord only knows how they voted after got their money. These sellers of votes came to be catalogued almost as accurately as are those who are on a caucus list today. They would loiter about the polling place all day, chewing on a wad of tobacco or smoking a pipe—holding out until the last gasp for the two bucks they felt the powers owed them for exercising the right of a sovereign American citizen. More often than not they got the money, for politics were in a hectic state most of the time twenty years ago, and no chance to win was overlooked by battling candidates and their backers. Many are the laughable yarns about these railbirds and their schemes for getting paid to vote. They have passed as have the snows of yesteryear. A few of the species may remain, but one sees little of them and hears less. They know that the $3 game is over the dam in these latter days, and that their only chance is to find some easy mark of a candidate, and such a person is a rare bird, who can be inveigled into giving them money for something for which they should be sent to jail.

Attorney E. L. Darbie had no word of praise Tuesday for those who were cutting Benjamin W. Alling, who won the nomination for attorney general from him in the recent republican state convention. "Vote straight" was the former speaker's edict to those who told him what they were going to do as a tribute of loyalty to him. And that's what anyone of fair mind would rate as playing the game fair.

By the end of this week Former Warden Walter Anderson will have completed a draft of the proposed new borough charter. His offering for the consideration of the voters, as a member of a special committee appointed on a charter redraft, will embody a number of new features and the preservation of the best of the provisions of the old charter. Mr. Anderson has drawn on the charters of the cities of Norwich and New London for some of the clauses contained in the draft he has prepared. A feature of this proposed charter is the orderly manner in which its clauses are arranged. A grouping system under which all the duties of the warden may be found in one place, the duties of the warden and court of burgesses in another and so on throughout the entire instrument will make it particularly easy for one to find what one is seeking with a minimum of effort and time. In due time this proposed charter will be presented to the voters for their consideration.

DANIELSON HAD SMALL HAIL STORM TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 2—A bit of hail pattering against the windows during one of the showers of this afternoon recalled the dismal prophecies that 1927 may be a year without a summer. And the admonitions to buy foodstuffs while they are cheap and horde them against a time of scarcity. Well, Danielson isn't going to worry about next year's growing season. It has been discovered that a great amount of foodstuffs can be grown indoors. This being the case, people here are prepared to grow corn and potatoes in their garages next summer if it comes to a real pinch—and let the old bus stand out in the snow.

Our savings department depositors are reminded that a dividend at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent. per annum was payable Nov. 1. Deposits made in our savings department the present week will draw interest from Nov. 1. The Danielson Trust Co.—Adv.

For reasons that would be difficult to classify, there appeared to be more interest in the outcome of the senatorial contest in Massachusetts than in any other out of the state feature of Tuesday's general election.

Old railroad ties are much sought after by those who practice economy in obtaining fuel in Danielson, yet for several years past the New Haven road has made a practice of destroying this discarded material by burning beside the tracks in wasteful bonfires, this from the viewpoint of the man who would buy the old material.

This evening in an assembly room of the Westfield Congregational church the newly organized Tatapochon Camp Fire girls will have their first ceremonial meeting.

It is claimed there will be more native turkeys available for Thanksgiving this year than for a great many years in this immediate vicinity. This does not mean that turkey raising has been revived to any great extent, but it is more general now than for a long time.

Next Sunday Dr. Milton S. Rees will open a series of evangelistic meetings in Danielson in which several churches are co-operating and which are expected to prove of very special interest.

In a recent address before members of the Rotary club, Postmaster E. H. Keach pointed out that business conditions here are generally expanding, this statement based on the fact that the business of the Danielson postoffice increases at the rate of about $1,000 a year, and postoffice receipts are a good barometer.

A prominent resident of the town of Plainfield has suggested that it would be a matter of convenience and help facilitate voting if the town were divided into voting districts, as is Killingly. Plainfield has grown very materially in the past dozen years and has a heavy voting list.

Every Wednesday evening Walter G. Bruce, agricultural instructor at Killingly high school, is conducting an evening school in poultry growing and fruit culture at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bartlett at East Killingly. Mr. Bruce hopes for an enrollment of 30 for the school in that community of the town, and would establish a similar school for Danielson and Brooklyn if enough interest were manifested.

This week the Civic federation is busy with plans for its annual Tag day to be held on Saturday of this week. A corps of workers will solicit the public that day for contributions to this fund, which has a particular hold on the people of the borough.

Howard A. Elliott of Hartford was a visitor here on election day with Attorney E. L. Darbie.

Of the hunting season, but three weeks remain, November 28 marks the end of the bird shooting period for this year.

Thursday at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Hopkins, in Worcester, Mrs. Elsie Hopkins Young of Danielson and J. Arthur Atwood of Wauregan will be united in marriage.

A special effort was made during Tuesday to get out the women voters of the town of Killingly, and these electors responded by going to the polls in large numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle F. Wood and son of Providence have been visitors here with Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wood.

The Windham County National bank is fully equipped to handle all financial matters and offers its services without charge.—Adv.

Mrs. Fred Hunt and members of her family recently have been visitors from Potter Hill, R. I., with Mrs. Hunt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jaegar of Dayville.

Wives to Burn, a comedy recently presented at the Orpheum theater by the American Legion, netted about $125 for the Memorial building fund, which now is in excess of $600.

Tuesday provided a combination of alleged "democratic" and "republican" weather. A few hours of rain during the forenoon was followed by sunshine and mild weather in the later hours of voting.

Representative-elect Arthur W. Williams, one of the republicans who will represent Killingly in the legislature during the session of 1927, will resign as a member of the state police department. Officer Williams has been on duty at the Danielson barracks for several years.

Few who claim residence here, but live away from Danielson, came home to vote in Tuesday's election, though many need to do that in years gone by.

Members of the Nazarene church gathered at the home of Grant Jessup in Elmville Tuesday evening for a cottage prayer meeting.

"Thank you," central telephone operators are now saying to subscribers as they give in numbers for calls. This is in accordance with a new rule of the telephone company, in effect the first of the month.

Because the town was voting by districts Tuesday, there was not such a hive of activity about the town hall here as is usual on town election day. Dayville and East Killingly shared on Tuesday in handling the vote of the town.

COLCHESTER

VETERAN FIREMEN'S ASS'N TO BE ORGANIZED SOON

(Special to the Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Nov. 2.—The members of the old Hayward Fire company, organized in 1834, living in town are to form a Veteran Firemen's association. As there are several of the original company here, they will hold a meeting at an early date to organize. The Central Conn. Power and Light Co. has given them the privilige of using the transformer station on Norwich avenue to house the old hand engine in. The building will be overhauled and put in good shape and the members will use it for a club house. A number of honorary members will be taken into the association, as several from here belonged to fire companies in other places.

Attorney Jeremiah D. Shea of New Haven, was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Shea, on Lebanon avenue the past week.

Colchester Fire Co., No. 1, held a confetti and streamer dance in New Park hall, Saturday night. There was a large attendance. A number of out of town parties were present.

The warden and burgesses held their November meeting in the parlor of the engine house, Monday evening.

William Hyman of Norwich was in town Monday.

Oliver Woodhouse lodge, No. 40, Knights of Pythias, met Tuesday evening in Pythian hall. A good number was present. The reports of the representative to the grand lodge session held in New Britain, was given by Representatives Myron R. Abell and F. E. Baker.

The members of Col. Henry Champion chapter, D. A. R., held a lunch and tea party, Tuesday, at their house on Norwich avenue.

H. Levine has returned from a few days' business trip to New York in the interests of the Levine & Levine Cloak Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strong were in Hartford, Monday.

Charles T. Williams was a Norwich visitor Tuesday.

Louis Chapman and family of Salem have been guests of Mr. Chapman's brother, A. H. Chapman, on Norwich avenue.

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 2.—Bids have recently been opened by the state highway commissioner for the construction work for the 44 foot span concrete girder bridge over the Little river on the Putnam-Woodstock road and 1,300 linear feet of road. The lowest bid was that of Charles Haggerty of Webster, who built the Memorial bridge over the Quinebaug at Putnam. The bids were as follows: Charles A. Haggerty, Webster, Mass., $32,445.25; L. E. McLaughlin, Inc., New London, $33,756.00; F. D. Miller & Co., Norwich, $33,214.00; Miller Bros. Construction Co., Hartford, $34,062.50; The Immick Co., Meriden, $35,144.26; Arborio Road Construction Co., Hartford, $35,369.25; N. Benvenuti, New London, $39,638.00; A. W. Byrne and Son, Hartford, $40,295.00; Walter H. Barker, Taunton, Mass., $45,759.71.

Out of 28 candidates for legislative posts who were being voted for Tuesday, four were from Windham county and had been nominated by the democratic party. Mrs. Dorothy J. Bartlett of Putnam was the candidate for state senator from the 28th district. Annie R. Bates of Pomfret, Lucy Barrett of Woodstock and Sadie C. Kimball of Scotland were candidates for representatives.

William Aldrich and Emile Bremis, the two Putnam boys so badly injured at Bloomington, Ills., several weeks ago, are both recovering and Aldrich is not badly hurt as at first thought. According to a letter received from them, undaunted by their mishap, they hope to continue their journey through to the Pacific coast, although by what means they did not indicate. On Labor day the two boys left Putnam in an antiquated flivver bound for Los Angeles by easy stages. At Bloomington the car turned turtle and injured both of them. It was at first thought that young Aldrich was fatally injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brown of New York have been the recent guests of the Misses Boult and Sigerens at Brink-to-High in Pomfret. Mrs. Brown, who is a Greek, is well known as a writer and lecturer under the name of Demetra Vaka. Two of her books which have stirred up interest in the past are "Haremilk and "The Unveiled Ladies of Stamoul." Mr. Brown is also an author of note and in collobration, Mr. and Mrs. Brown have written "In the Heart of the German Intrigue," an authoritative document on the war situation.

The funeral of William Gibson, who was found dead in his room on Saturday morning was held Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Brunt Cushman recently gave a large christening party at Eastlands in Pomfret. Charles Van Brunt Cushman, Jr., received his name in the large hall at Eastlands, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Frank H. Bigelow of Christ church, Pomfret, and the godparents were Mrs. Joseph Clarke Hoppin and Malcolm Douglas. The hall was decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums. Afterwards tea was served in the dining room, Mrs. Dexter Thiott and Mrs. Hodgson pouring. The table decorations were snapdragons. About 100 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Durfee and son and Mrs. Ida Bard have returned from a visit with Dr. and Mrs. George L. Abbott at Bethel, Vermont.

When Dartmouth men from all over New England paid homage to the memory of Dartmouth college's "grand, old man," William Jewett Tucker, president emeritus, who died on September 29th, at the Old South church, in Boston, the services were led by Rev. Boynton Merrill, '15, formerly pastor of the Second Congregational church at Putnam. President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth was the principal speaker. Rev. Howard J. Cridley, '06, and Rev. Mr. Merrill were other speakers.

PUTNAM MEN STAR IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL GAMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 2—Several Putnam football players received favorable mention in the college football games of last week. Jack Cronin of this city was one of the outstanding stars for the Boston college, which defeated West Virginia Wesleyan, 27-2. Chandler Morse, left end of the Amherst team, scored a touchdown when they defeated its town rivals 21-7. "Pop" Williams of Danielson played fullback on the team of the Connecticut Aggies when they defeated New Hampshire 3-0 and was one of the two backs whose playing resulted in the most gains for Storrs.

The activities committee of the American Legion post of Grosvenordale is planning for the staging of a minstrel revue as part of the winter programme of activities. The show is to be under the direction of John P. Heald of Webster who directed the big Legion minstrel show of last winter. The date has not as yet been decided as they are just about to begin rehearsals.

The Sunnyside club of the First Baptist church held a most enjoyable meeting at the home of Miss Edith Bowen on Laurel street last night.

The November meeting of the Ladies' Guild of St. Philip's Episcopal church was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Leonard Mellor on Grove street. Plans were discussed for the coming winter.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks installing the new organ at St. Mary's church and when completed it will be one of the finest organs in New England. It is rumored that when fully in position the organ will be dedicated with a recital by a well known organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Cross are moving into the F. E. Clark house on Grove street, the tenement recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Mellor. Mr. Cross is the new track supervisor of the New London division of the New Haven road.

Miss Alice Litchfield of Brooklyn, Conn., was recently injured at Danielson, when in hitching her horse her foot was caught in the hitching strap and she was thrown to the ground. Miss Litchfield was later brought to the Day Kimball hospital and an X-ray taken where it was discovered that there was a fracture of the pelvic bone. A cast was put on and she was later removed to her home.

Among those who saw the Army defeat Yale at New Haven were the following from Putnam: D. F. X. McEvoy, Ralph C. Jenkins, Vincent L. McEvoy, William F. Wheaton, Miss Sybella Gilman, Miss Elizabeth Rafferty, Henry A. Wheelock, Ralph C. Bradford, Daniel B. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Robinson and Albert Robinson.

Miss Alma Potter of Grove street entertained 16 of her young friends at a party Monday night. The party was in the form of a Hallowe'en one and a treasure hunt and other games were enjoyed. All of the guests were in costumes. Refreshments were served by the young hostess.

Mrs. George L. Padgett has returned from New York where she was called two weeks ago by the death of her only brother, Harry Sloan, the well known theatrical manager.

Miss Alice Treat of Frankfort, Me., is the latest addition to the nursing staff of the Day Kimball hospital.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia, should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

The recent death of Louis Filligar removes one of the residents of the village whose life has been spent in this vicinity and who was for many years employed by the Totoket Manufacturing company. Mr. Filligar was a lover of field and stream and will be missed by those of his associates who enjoy outdoor sports.

M. B. Lafreniere is secretary of the Totoket Hose company, filling a vacancy caused by the recent removal from the village of Fred Lavallie.

The new garage of A. Z. Babbitt is rapidly nearing completion. The work is under the direction of Frank Filligar.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Versailles church, recently held the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. W. Perkins; vice president, Mrs. H. A. Richards; secretary, Mrs. F. H. Topliff; treasurer, Mrs. G. W. Cole; directresses, Mrs. C. H. Boyens, Mrs. A. R. Boutilier. The success of the past year is another milestone in the long list of successful years of the society. The reports show an expenditure of nearly $900 during the past year, the larger proportion of which has been spent on church improvements, this society being one of the strongest supports of the church work for years. A manifestation of the efficiency of the society was evidenced at the recent 50th church anniversary, when the society so hospitably entertained the visiting guests of the exercises.

As a result of her re-election, Mrs. C. W. Perkins, the president, enters the 13th year of continuous service in this office. During the 13 years of service she has presided over every meeting of the society. The success of the organization has been the direct result of the fine co-operation between the society members and their president.

PRESTON

The grange met Tuesday evening. Mrs. Emma Bennett was obligated in the first and second degrees. The lecturer, Miss Evelyn Butler, presented the following programme: Paper, Memories, Brother Clark; readings, Belle Rude, Charity Pendleton, Arlene Bennett; solo, Howard Zabriskie. At the close of the meeting doughnuts and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Browning were in Hartford, Wednesday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Main.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church met at the church Wednesday afternoon. The time was devoted to sewing. Light refreshments were served.

The W. W. C. met with Mrs. Nathan Hall, Saturday afternoon.

Rev. J. B. Aldrich of Norwich, was the speaker at the Baptist church on Sunday morning.

A Halloween party at the Baptist church Friday evening was given by the girls' class, Mrs. C. C. Zabriskie, teacher. The church was prettily decorated with orange and black crepe paper. The programme consisted of stunts and games. Pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee was served.

Mrs. Nellie Main is spending a few days in Hartford, the guest of her son and his family.

Miss Edith Bennett of Stamford is visiting relatives in town.

"The kind your mother used to bake with"

Glenwood ranges have made cooking easy for two generations of housewives who have made New England baking famous.

The Famous Model "C" Glenwood

"It's a Glenwood" that's all the guarantee you need

THE one word "Glenwood" on the oven door of any range you may buy is a guarantee in itself. You don't need any further assurance of its worth. One of the oldest range manufacturers in New England stands back of that name to see that the range gives you the kind of service you have the right to expect. You can take that for granted, always.

The "C" model coal range shown here is just the right size for the average family. Its big, square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and all through. It has six covers in the cooking top and is finished in either black and nickel or in pearl gray porcelain enamel that you can wipe clean in a jiffy with a damp cloth.

Come in and see our new Glenwoods.

THE ELECTION RESULT

In the election of Tuesday Norwich gave evidence that it was mindful of its duty and stood with the rest of the state in upholding the excellent type of state government that has been provided under republican administrations.

Not as large a majority as two years ago was expected, but there is much satisfaction to be found that in comparison with four years ago there was a wholesome change. The rolling up of a healthy republican majority in place of the democratic majority of 1922 indicates plainly the recognition of standing with the majority party.

The Norwich vote was a handsome endorsement of the republican candidates and republican policies, an apparent desire to uphold federal as well as state administrations, and in its initial endeavor not a little credit is due to the work of the reorganized town committee.

At midnight it was certain that Connecticut had exceeded predictions and the result was highly creditable to Governor Trumbull, the rest of the state officers, Senator Bingham and the five members of congress from this state.

Nationwide, slow counting at that hour left the outcome in many of the states uncertain and the effect upon the next congress undetermined. As far as Connecticut is concerned, however, there cannot fail to be a high degree of satisfaction with the outcome, which jibes exactly with the demands of the situation. Norwich and Connecticut have seen their duty and met it. The voters have not been misled by unjustified and ineffective attacks upon a high commendable state government.

MUSSOLINI'S POSITION

In connection with the attempt upon his life, it is reported that Mussolini was calm and showed no evidence of excitement or fear. This is in keeping with the attitude he has previously shown and yet it cannot help befing felt that he recognizes the danger which surrounds him. With six attempts upon his life it cannot be otherwise. Good fortune, excellent protection or nervous would be assassins have certainly favored him. The gravity of the situation cannot be gainsaid.

Mussolini may seem to treat it lightly, but he must know, quite as well as those did who rushed to his protection and to the despatch of the gunman that in some unguarded moment he is going to be picked off unless different conditions prevail.

It is inevitable that a person in his position should make enemies, but it is a most unfortunate situation when those with such enmity consider it necessary to seek redress through an assassin's bullet. It doesn't appear as yet that the purpose of such attacks is to frightan Mussolini to the extent of forcing him out of the office of dictator. If that might have been the original purpose he has shown long since that he was not going to be frightened. He understands the risk that goes with the office, the determination of his opponents and he should recognize the need of even greater self protection.

It is appalling to think that a leader of Mussolini's type can expect nothing different. Royalty has constantly suffered such a menace and it is invariably men of the Mussolini type, men who do things and prove themselves real leaders, that arouse the most desperate and persistent opposition.

The fact that Italy's dictator is fearless isn't alone going to keep him from harm at the hands of enemies who have been provoked by his acts and who see red whenever he appears. He hasn't exactly disregarded warnings but he has failed to take precautions that will prevent attacks upon his life.

HALF CENTURY OF FORESTRY

In the early days of this country there were so many trees that there was no thought of cultivating them. Rather was there, greater interest shown in cutting them down and getting a clearing for the building of homes and the cultivation of crops.

Times changed as they are constantly changing. When the years 1876 arrived the agitation in behalf of forestry situation in the United States was authorised by congress. That, if your arithmetic is good, was 50 years ago and since that time more and more attention has been given to the proper utilization of our timber resources, to the prevention of waste and to the reforestation of cut over land. Conservation has been more and more practiced because it was necessary. We were using our timber faster than we were raising it. We were headed for the exhaustion of our supply because we were going ahead blindly and making no provisions for the future. Because our forests seemed to cover vast tracts of country they seemed exhaustless, but we soon found out as the result of surveys that we were giving no attention to the steadily increasing demands.

Today, at the half century mark of forestry work, an entirely different view is taken. We have been brought to realize the state of affairs, the need of guarding our resources and making provisions for more with the same regularity that we plan for other crops. We have even been brought face to face with the necessity of checking and preventing the forest fires which have swept over as many as 20,000,000 acres in a year and done damage to the extent of $38,000,000. We have seen the timber supply of certain states almost exhausted and in this state alone are paying at the rate of $3,000,000 in freight a year for lumber brought from other points.

The half century mark of forestry finds a healthy interest taken in this work, but with plenty of opportunity for even greater efforts when we stop to realize that there are 31,000,000 acres of idle land fit only for the growing of timber. How much better it would be for the owners if it were so utilized.

UNDERGROUND DISASTERS

We express horror over the fact that lives are lost in mines as the result of explosions and yet lives are constantly being sacrificed above ground on our highways, at railroad crossings, in fires for no better reason that frequently characterizes the mine disasters.

At Nanticoke, Pa., nine miners are reported killed as the result of an explosion which occurred as the miners went to work. It is a hard coal mine where less gas can be expected, but even in such instances provisions are made for the protection of the miners by requiring them to carry safety lights, prohibiting them from exposing the flame and forbidding them to strike matches.

Through an investigation it is hoped to learn the exact cause of the explosion and if there are any survivors who actually know the chance to impress the lesson all the more strongly upon that mining region will be available. The impression is gained that the trouble was caused by carelessness on the part of some member of the mine gang, who either struck a match as he entered the working chamber or else uncovered his safety lamp with the result that he not only paid severely for his indiscretion but caused others to pay the same heavy penalty that was imposed upon him.

It is much the same as what happens at a railroad crossing when a bus driver refuses to stop, look and listen, drives his load of humanity onto the track and is immediately struck by a locomotive. A little caution and there would have been no trouble. A little care in the presence of danger is not asking too much. Even if the individual is willing to take the chance himself he ought not to be so thoughtless as to inflict unwarranted risks upon others. One reckless person can quickly upset all the precautions that are ordered and obeyed by others. Mine disasters are frightful and too frequent even when they can be classed as unavoidable. It is distressing when they have to be charged up to a disregard for rules and criminal carelessness, regardless of where the blame lies.

WANTS NO CHANGE

It seems a bit pathetic for the mayor of Herrin to have found it necessary to assure the voters of that community that they would be given police protection if they wanted to vote. It sounded a bit like Mexico. It indicated that if they did vote they might expect that trouble would be encountered but that police would be there to suppress it. And yet if the same protecting authority did no better for the voters than it has done for many others who have not been casting ballots there was a chance to anticipate a bloody battle at the ballot box.

Herrin stands as one of the hot spots that needs more than a temporary cleaning out. It has shown constant disregard for law, no respect for life and liberty, and regardless of its reputation and the disgrace it has brought upon itself and the state such measures as have been taken to put an end to the undesirable conditions there have not prevented repeated outbreaks.

Herrin has talked about cleaning up but it hasn't cleaned up. There are evidences that the old feelings and feuds still exist ready to burst into flame at the least provocation. While there may be indications on the surface that all is well, the recent demonstration and the measures which the mayor of the city promised to take prove the contrary.

Indications point strongly to the fact that either Herrin isn't able to handle the clean up job or doesn't want to and yet in spite of that situation the state of Illinois seems to sit complacently by and tolerate much the same deplorable condition that features too many of the southern states where lynch law is practiced without much, if any, interruption. Herrin is what it is because it wants no change and no one else undertakes to force it.

THE PERFECT APOLOGY

(Miss Nannie Lee Robinson, the southern "ahl" student, is again doing her stuff.)

"Hello-o-o, Mr. Armstrong, is that you?

"It most assuredly is. Who else did you think it was?

"Now, if I'd thought you were goin' to ain't right in bein' mean to me I wouldn't even have thought of ringin' you up—not for a single minute.

"Why, Mr. Armstrong, I don't see how you can talk like that to me. I'm just goin' to hang the receiver right up. I wouldn't, even want to treat anybody mean, and if I was goin' to I most assuredly wouldn't do it to you.

"Why—because—why, just because—I reckon.

"Well, then, if you must know—just because—I like you too much. That's all that is to it.

"But that's just what I phoned to tell you. I didn't think about doin' it at first because I thought you'd know—you're so kinda understandin'.

"I mean you're so kinda different from other people — usually I don't have to explain and explain—you kinda seem to know and understan' without me havin' to talk and talk.

"Now, I want to know if you're goin' to sta't in actin' mean to me again. Because if you ah, I'm goin' to hang up the receiver right this minute. I just don't know what to make of you when you talk that-a-way. Now you just sit right down and tell me what you mean when you say that what I did to you is goin to take some explain.

"But I neveh did a thing to you—not intentionally anyway.

"Well, I reckon the' ain't any use talkin' to you, so I'm just goin' to hang up the—

"But that's just what I've been tryin' to do, only you won't listen.

"Why, to explain how it was that I went to the movie that night when I'd told you I was too sick to go anywhe'—

"But I was sick—just as sick as I could be—but, of co'se if you don't believe me, that's all the' is to it.

"Well, then, I don't think you ought to ac' like you don't.

"Well, of co'se, if you didn't mean to—well, this is how it was. Just a little while after you phoned it seemed like I just had to go out and get me some fresh ai'eh, and so when I started out the door that boy that I was tellin' you about the otheh day that's at the sht school happened to be passin' and—

"Well, maybe he was comin' in—I didn't ask him.

"But how could I tell if I didn't ask him?

"Well, I just don't know and that's all the' is to it—but anyway he said he'd go walkin' with me, and I just let him because I thought maybe I'd get faint or something and it would be bettah for me to have somebody with me—and then I started to feel a lot bettah—I reckon it was the fresh ai'eh or somethin'—and so when we passed the movie theayter he was goin' to go in and see the show they were showin—he's just sold to the manager—actress they were featurin'—I never saw anything like how he raves about her—and, of co'se, I did feel a lot bettah and I didn't think it would be polite not to go with him—you can see yourself—I couldn't but his feelin's and so I just had to make out like I wanted to — an' everything would have been all right if you hadn't happened to see us comin' out—I was goin' to phone you the next day and tell you all about it.

"Well, I just don't see how you can keep on bein' mad about it—I'm just sick you feelin' like you do—

"I celtinly am. You know you're the very last person in the world I'd hu't the feelin's of—

"Well, it's celtinly true and that's all the' is to it. If you don't want to believe me, I'm just at your me'cy—

"Of co'se I'm cryin' just a little bit—thinkin' I've lost me such a good friend as you ah and all——

"Haven't I really? And you're not just so mad at me you won't even speak to me or anything?

"Well, then, I tell you what you do. You come on up to see me tonight and let me talk to you right face to face and I just know you'll believe every single wo'd I say to you—because it's all true, you know.

"Well, you celtinly ah the sweetest thing!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

TO CONTROL CHILDREN UNDERSTAND YOURSELF!

By Arthur H. Ruggles, M. D., Providence, R. I. Member Gorgas Memorial Institute.

Every parent should have at least some knowledge of how nervous breakdowns occur, how to promote mental health and how to increase the mental efficiency of their children.

One of the first steps in this important program is for parents to understand themselves, to learn to control and direct their emotions, so that display of temper, exhibition of personal fears, indecision and selfishness are not part of the daily environment of their children.

Children are tremendously imitative and prone to follow suggestions, especially suggestions brought before them daily by their parents. Therefore suggestions should be helpful and constructive. Let me give you an example:

The tired father comes home at night. When he sees there is custard for supper his statement that he does not care for custard is usually followed by the refusal of the custard by one or more members of the family.

The next day the mother announces to one of the neighbors, in the hearing of the children, that the children will not eat custard. The suggestion has been given and the fact related. Therefore, from then on, the children do not eat custard.

This may seem a simple thing but most of the food dislikes in children have their origin in suggestions given them by their parents.

If a child gets its way by a display of crying crying will soon become the habitual reaction when the child wishes to make a point.

Certain parents do not mix well with their fellows and the children pattern after them; not wanting to meet new children, not wanting to go away from home; and the seed of seclusiveness and social isolation has been sown.

If continued, this may lead to difficulty in adjustment with people, and may, in extreme cases, be the beginning of real mental disease which has its basis in exclusiveness and getting away from reality, into morbid day dreaming.

One of the most common commands given to children is, "you must do this or so, because I want you to do it." Is this a sufficient reason for the inquiring mind of the child? Wouldn't the chances of success be much improved if the parent told several good reasons why the child would gain if it would do the thing in question? And yet how seldom is this constructive method used in the home training of children.

A simple rule of mental hygiene in the home is to set a good example of emotional control. Think out your problems before you speak. Do not make many rules but when you do, be prepared to give a helpful reason why they should be followed. Wise rules once made must be carried out, otherwise all force of child training is lost.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

The hitching-post days are rapidly passing in every city in the country. With the rapid growth of automobile traffic the streets are becoming too valuable to use for storage purposes. There was a time not more than twenty years ago when a proposal to limit the practice of standing vehicles along the curbing would have been unthinkable.

Times have changed. It is no longer impossible for more than a small per cent of the drivers who would like to stop at the curb to find a place there. It is coming to be the common opinion among public officials that the parking privilege which is exercised by the small majority of persons who happen to arrive early, offers too much hindrance to the general public that must use the crowded streets for business.

The use of a street for parking purposes generally reduces the amount of traffic which can pass by two lanes, and this is often fifty per cent of the capacity of the roadway. Because of this situation many cities are finding it necessary to widen streets at a great expense. Often the existing street would be wide enough if parking were restricted.

Parking is, of course, a convenience to those drivers who are able to find accommodations at the curb. When the street is not heavily travelled and its full width is not needed for moving traffic, parking should be permitted with proper restrictions.

The storage of vehicle is at best, however, a cheap use of a highly specialized and improved property dedicated and designed for public travel. Parking should always be subject to restriction, and should be prohibited entirely wherever it interferes with moving traffic.

In designing parking regulation public officials will naturally look to changes which do as little harm to private individuals and business owners and as much benefit to the general public as possible. Primary attention should be given to the principal streets through the business district and those leading out from it. If these arteries of travel become clogged through parking or other obstruction the business of the city will have to bear the burden.

Special attention should be given to parking conditions along streets which form connections for county or state highways. Through traffic moving on these streets is usually of negligible benefit to local merchants, and should be passed along as rapidly as possible. Many small cities have gained bad reputations by permitting through streets to become choked with parked vehicles.

Parking restrictions and especially prohibitions are rarely popular when first introduced but if these are wisely designed the improvement in conditions soon justifies them.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Duke of Brabant, also known as Prince Leopold, who is to be married at Stockholm today to Princess Astrid of Sweden, is the eldest son of King Albert and heir apparent to the throne of the Belgians. The prince is 25 years old today. While still in his teens he served with distinction in the Belgian army during the war and was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor by the French government. He accompanied his father and mother on a tour of the United States in 1919 and the next year he made a tour of several of the South American countries. The prince is said to have inherited the practical sense and democratic ways which have made his father one of the most popular monarchs of Europe, together with the love of learning which characterizes his mother.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, L.H.D.

Solace For Old Age and the Sick

Reading is often the only pleasure of the sick, bringing to their rooms the heroes of all ages and the scenes of all climes so that they may forget their sufferings, in sailing the ocean with Columbus, or leaving the smoke and turmoil of the city they may wander with Thoreau in leafy nooks by the crystal waters of Walden. Sitting in a poor room, ill-fed and ragged a man may entertain Sir Walter Scott or Lord Macaulay and dismiss them without ceremony when he tires of them. The fact that we can stop the talk of a book at will is one of the greatest advantages of reading. Lord Macaulay might have bored one but his books never do.

Reading is the great solace of old age and is one of the few pleasures which increases as the years go by.

Stories That Recall Others

Mild Metaphors

Harry, son of an auto repair shop proprietor is only five but he is most precocious when it comes to a knowledge of automobiles and their parts, but he knows absolutely about mules. He was visiting his grandfather on the farm and they were on their way to the barn to feed the mules. Striding along beside his grandfather he said: "We're going to the garden to feed the mule parts, aren't we?"

Couldn't Fool Him

A business man who is only 40 but whose hair is almost white and who by some turn of fate has some rather deep wrinkles has been the subject of a good deal of joking on the part of friends recently. To be frank about it this man appears to be about 15 to 20 years older than he is. Also to make this story clear he bears the same time as his grandfather. The other day in an elevator he was approached by another man apparently 65 or 70.

"Well, how are you, Bill?" exclaimed the elderly man peering through his glasses. "How are you anyway, and I want you to tell me how you keep looking so young."

"I didn't know I looked so young," replied the business man.

"Well, y'do," said the elderly man. "An you must be about as old as I am because I recollect when—"

"Say," broke in the business man, "you don't know who you're talking to. You think you're talking to my grandfather."

"You can't fool me," came back the elderly man as he left the elevator. "I know who I'm talkin' to. You're ol' Bill So and So an' y' can't fool me for a minute. I want you to tell me some day what keeps y' lookin' so young."

5,000,00 WORKERS ARE IDLE IN EUROPE

About 5,000,000 workmen are unemployed in Europe, according to the latest statistics, most of them receiving doles from their governments, at heavy cost to budgets. The unemployed are distributed as follows: Britain, 1,243,000; Germany, 1,060,792; Russia, 1,000,000; Poland, 359,000; Austria, 223,656; Czechoslovakia, 47,384; Switzerland, 20,522. In Denmark, 31 per cent of the workmen are unemployed; in Norway, 23; in Sweden, 19; in Holland, 15, and in Hungary, 16 per cent. This joblessness is attributed to various causes. Britian's is said to be due to monetary stabilization, coupled with high taxes, high production costs and antiquated equipment. Sweden is in somewhat the same class. High costs and shortage of capital, resulting from stabilization after extreme inflation, explain the cases of Germany, Austria and Poland. Denmark and Norway suffer because they are in the act of deflating. Stabilization, with low costs and plenty of capital makes Switzerland, Italy and Czechoslovakia relatively well off. France and Belgium, still inflating, have practically no unemployment.

IRISH POLITICS STIRRING; KING'S OATH AN ISSUE

Activities of at least six political parties are concerned with the general election in the Irish Free State, which must be held not later than the summer of 1927. The People's party which numbers half a dozen members of the Dail, has put on its program the abolition of the oath of allegiance to King George. Mr. De Valera's party is concentrating on this same issue. His candidates, instead of going forward on a policy of boycotting the Irish Parliament as hitherto, will declare themselves willing to take their seats if the oath obstacle is removed. The government party is divided on the question of protection, some remaining content with the tentative experiments instituted, while others desire a policy of wholesale protection. The leader of the protectionists is J. J. Walsh, postmaster general, who says he would not invest a penny in any Irish industry not protected by a tariff. Both the Farmers party and Labor hope to increase their representation in the Dail, and there will be many candidates going forward independently in the interests of the business community.

ELECTRIC CHAIR HORRIBLE IN EYES FILIPINOS

In the view of Filipino natives the electric chair, by which a new law decrees condemned murderers shall be executed at Bilibib, the state prison in Manila, is a horrible instrument of torture, by the side of which the Spanish garrote was mild and humane. Holding this attitude the native officials mitigate the rigors of the chair. The condemned are put under an anesthetic and in the sleep thus induced they are placed in the chair, strapped down and electrocuted. It is because the letter of the law must be complied with that the anesthetic is not made of lethal dose sufficient to produce death. Legal executions lag too much for Filipinos. They prefer immediate personal vengeance and when it is delayed they incline to mercy.

COAL MINERS PRODUCE OWN DRAMATIC PLAYS

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Nov. 2 (AP)—After a day in the coal mines, or the kitchen, the miners and their wives of this district turn to the drama in their pursuit of education and culture.

Tom Tippett, educational director of sub-district number 5, said the miners already have produced half a dozen one act plays, all acted by coal miners and their families.

"We are now working on a new one, The Price of Coal, dramatizing with telling effect the cost of coal in human life. We will travel to other Illinois mining towns with the plays this winter spreading if possible, the idea 'Labor-Drama.'

"We feel that our pioneering in the field of play has met with success. We have learned that play, directed by a competent person, has a tremendous appeal to these hard working folk. Hazel MacKaye of the Brookwood players, is directing our dramas.

"It took three months to get two plays ready for production. One of them had to do with the tragedy of poverty in the southern hill country; the other was just good fun into which we introduced a labor slant. The men and women in the cast, who on the very day of the play had done their regular work in the mine or in the kitchen, gave a performance that surprised everybody.

"New recruits came to the classes and we obtained Miss MacKaye to produce our new plays."

Four-Century Watch

A watch which is 411 years old and still keeps excellent time is owned by H. B. Cheney of Penacook, N. H. It is a coin silver watch and according to family history was purchased in Liverpool, England, by Mr. Cheney's great-grandfather, who passed it on to his son. The present owner of the watch came into possession of it 40 years ago. He is now 91 years old. Mr. Cheney did not realize the value of the watch until a visitor to his home took the watch to clean it and found that it had the date of manufacture engraved upon the works.

CHIEF BUFFALO BEAR SUES TWO MOON MERIDAS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Davis Araphoe, known as Chief Buffalo Bear, today brought suit against Two Moon Meridas of Waterbury, alleging breach of contract and asking for $5,000 damages.

The allegation is that Two Moon engaged Buffalo Bear to go on a lecture-medicine selling trip to Florida on Oct. 15, the latter with Princess Buffalo Bear to do the talking and Two Moon to do the selling. At Atlantic City the men separated and now Buffalo Bear wants the money called for in the contract.

OBITUARY
George Falconer

The death of George Falconer, golf professional for four years at the Norwich Golf club occured in this city Tuesday morning at 6:50 o'clock. He was taken seriously ill last spring after returning here from spending the winter at his home in Aberdeen, Scotland, and although given every medical attention failed rapidly.

Mr. Falconer was born in Aberdeen 36 years ago and received his early education in that city. Like most Scottish youths he took up golf, the national game in Scotland, at very young and quickly became adept at it. He won the Simpson and Yule cup, a trophy emblematic of the championship of the Aberdeen district, at the early age of 16 years. He was a member of the British Royal Air force during the World war and had completed his training and with rank of second lieutenant had been transferred to the Dover field preparatory to being sent to France for active duty when the armistice was signed.

He came to this country in 1920 and was made assistant to George McLean, professional of the Country club at Great Neck, L. I., where he remained a year. The following year he was assistant to Mr. McLean at Grassy Sprain, Yonkers, N. Y., staying there a year and then came to Norwich to accept the professional berth at the Norwich Golf club. He served for four years and would have continued indefinitely in that capacity had not illness forced him to give up his duties.

From the beginning of his connection with the club he was very popular and by his sterling qualities won the warm esteem and abiding affection of all its members.

As a golfer Mr. Falconer was skilful and had his physique not been so frail he probably would have been a factor in tournaments in which golfers of national prominence were entered. His strength was not sufficient to carry him through gruelling competitions and he was rarely seen in tournament play. He was also an excellent teacher and his unremitting patience and the careful attention he gave his every pupil were always in evidence.

During his illness a benefit exhibition match was given by four well known golfers, Cyril Walker, George McLean, Tom Kerrigan and James Donaldson, all old friends of his, at the Norwich course and the wide esteem in which he was held was reflected in the large fund that was raised to enable him to go to Arizona or some other southwestern state where the climate was more conducive to help him in his sickness. His strength was ebbing so rapidly, however, that it was not considered advisable for him to make the trip.

Mr. Falconer leaves a wide circle to mourn his loss. He is survived by his father, William George Falconer of New York, who arrived in Norwich Tuesday morning. A cousin, William Falconer, who was in charge of the shop at the golf club for a time, died in New York 18 months ago. He has two uncles in this country, Alex Geddes of Shelton and John Geddes of Tampa, Fla.

ARCANUM CLUB NIGHT WITH FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Club night in connection with the evening of election day was held Tuesday at the Arcanum club with the evening of election day was held Tuesday at the Arcanum club with a roast turkey banquet at 6.30, followed by an entertainment. There was an attendance of about 150.

For the entertainment the 1927 dance revue was put on under the personal direction of A. J. Clements of Hartford, twenty fine numbers comprising their programme. Ernest Wardell, Scotch comedian, appeared in entertaining offerings in his line. The arrangements were by the entertainment committee A. C. Brown and John Durnan.

Election returns were received by radio.

Through the invitation of the Bridgeport Art league, Carleton Wiggins of Old Lyme and New York, plans to hold a One Man Show in the galleries of the Bridgeport Art league, sending 30 paintings for exhibition, from Nov. 4 to Nov. 28.

NORWICH GIVES MAJORITIES FOR LOCAL AND STATE REPUBLICANS

Norwich turned in a republican majority of approximately 650 Tuesday for state and local candidates on a total vote of 7,531, which was a little more than 70 per cent of the 10,520 men and women who are on the qualified lists of voters.

Four out of the six districts in the town were in the republican column, only Greeneville and Taftville, the third and fifth districts respectively, standing in the democratic column. In the first, or central district, the republican majority on the vote for John H. Trumbull for governor was 420, in the second district 197, in the third, or Greeneville district, the democratic candidate for governor, Charles G. Morris, had a majority of 57 and in the fifth, or Taftville, district, his majority was 132.

LEE ROY ROBBINS
Re-elected Senator

Representatives and Senator

The republicans re-elected their two representatives to the general assembly, Charles W. Cassidy, who polled 4,059, the highest vote cast on the republican side, and George G. Engler who had an even 4,000 votes. Their democratic opponents, Joseph F. Williams and Arthur J. Roy had 3,330 and 3,405 votes respectively.

Lee Roy Robbins was re-elected senator from the 19th district, receiving 4,019 votes to 3,379 for his opponent, Charles V. James.

Mayor Waters Ran Ahead

Mayor Milo R. Waters, who was on the democratic ticket for lieutenant governor, ran about 50 ahead of his party ticket in this town but was 628 behind his republican opponent, J. Edwin Brainard.

Hiram Bingham, candidate for United States senator, polled the second largest vote on the republican side, leading his opponent, Rollin U. Tyler, by 665, and Sheriff Sidney A. Brown was only one less than Senator Bingham in the vote he received against Joseph A. Vargas.

Hermon J. Gibbs of Yantic, running on the democratic ticket for congressman against Richard P. Freeman of New London had 3,444 votes cast for him, the highest of any democratic candidate in the town.

The number of electors, men and women, registered in the districts and the number voting is shown as follows:

Rainy Day In Morning

The morning of election day opened rainy with the result that voting was quiet until after noon when the weather cleared for the rest of the day, and there was a pretty constant stream of voters to use the voting machines in the six voting districts. The women especially chose the afternoon hours.

In the first district, when the polls opened at 6 o'clock, the first man to vote was William F. Hill and the first woman Ruth Washington of 105 Williams street. By noon 903 men and 505 women had voted and when the polls closed at 8 in the afternoon, 1,689 men and 1,383 women had voted. The last man to vote was Frank J. Aubrey and the last woman Rose M. Breckenridge.

In the second district 710 men and 473 women voted, the last two to vote being Abbie B. Swan and Patrick J. McCarthy. The first woman to vote was Elizabeth Hoegland and the first man Hamilton Payne. During the first hour 76 men and 18 women voted.

In the third district the first man to vote was Fitch A. Dolbeare and the first woman Anna Hensen. The oldest voter in the district, John Service, who is 88, and who voted for Lincoln, cast his ballot as usual. There were 662 men and 487 women who voted in the district.

In the fourth district the first woman to vote was Maude L. Dawley and the first man Thomas P. Sheehan. There were 425 men and 366 women who voted in the district.

Raymond Benoit and Miss Susie Malone were the first to vote in the fifth district where 304 votes had been cast up to 10:45 and the total to vote were 609 men and 286 women.

In the sixth district Hugh Berryman and Alice W. Prodell were the first to vote and 198 votes had been cast up to 11 o'clock. When the polls closed 323 men and 213 women had voted.

Counting the Results

In the central district polling place in the town hall, where the final results were assembled, Moderator M. E. Jensen closed the polls promptly on the hour of 8 just as the last man and last woman had filed past the checkers' desks and cast their ballots.

With the assistance of Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, the moderator then proceeded to take the count from the three machines that were in use here. The first machine tallied, which always shows republican majorities, held true to form and each of the other machines added something more to the republican advantage as the count went on. There were 1,248 voters who used the first machine, 1,125 the second and 648 the third.

In 20 minutes the vote was taken from the three machines and very shortly afterwards the sixth district reported with its figures. The second district officials were right on the heels of the sixth and soon afterwards the fourth and fifth district came in.

The third district officials were very slow in reaching the town hall with their figures, being over half an hour behind the others and the final total vote was delayed thereby and was not completely tabulated and ready to announce until 7:15, when Moderator Jensen announced the vote of the town by reading the figures to three or four officials who still remained at the town hall.

Election Officials.

The election officials in the different districts with the exception of the regular registrars, follow:

Central — Moderator, Martin E. Jensen; checkers, James P. Sheridan and John B. Oat; challengers, Harry House and Barbara Allen; machine tenders, Frank W. Brewster, Albert A. Clark, Walter C. Foster, Charles Rodden, Joseph P. Monaher, Thomas Fields; doortenders, Byron Mathieu and John O'Sullivan.

Second or West Side district—Walter M. Cowan, moderator; Anna F. Ward and Leslie L. Brewer, checkers; Catherine Crimmins, Eliza B. Dolbeare, Elizabeth F. Ward and Charles A. Turner, challengers; Daniel J. Barry, John P. Crimmins, Charles S. Stamm and Harry N. Howard, machine tenders; and John O'Connell and Marvin L. Bailey, doorkeepers.

Third or Greeneville district—John O. Kelley, moderator; George W. Armstrong and George P. Nolan, checkers; Allen Brown, Margaret Delaney, Elizabeth W. WATERFORD TOWN COURT NET RECEIPTS $1,782.80

The Waterford town court has netted the town treasury $1,782.80, according to the report of Town Treasurer Walter I. Barrett, in his statement of town accounts for 1925 and 1926. That sum does not include the fines in cases appealed to the court of common pleas and fines paid at the county jail, which were paid directly to the town treasurer by the clerk of the court of common pleas or through the sheriff's office. The total revenue of the Waterford court, over and above all expenses, will run in excess of $2,000, which sum would have been lost to the town under the former justice system.

In his report for 1926, Treasurer Barrett acknowledged receipts of $1,542.67, and in 1925 $2,294.53, or total receipts of $3,937.20. The total of town court orders since operation of the court is $2,154.40, leaving a net balance, exclusive of appealed cases, etc., of $1,782.80.

Although the court was not established as a means of revenue, figures from the treasurer's report conclusively show it to be not only self-sustaining, but productive of revenue.

Two Facts about Suntone

the beautiful new wall coating

1. Every shade chosen by a jury of women and color experts.
2. The Munsell Process developed to guarantee exactly the same shades next year as well as today.

First, from 7 shades finally submitted 87% of the jury voted for Suntone white.

Then this jury picked the 18 Suntone colors.

AGGIES EXPECT EASY VICTORY OVER COOPER UNION ON SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 3.—With the New Hampshire contest tucked safely away in the victory column, Connecticut Aggie followers are now looking towards the three remaining games of the schedule in high hopes that their eleven can win them all. Cooper Union next Saturday, after which comes Rhode Island and Rensselaer on successive week ends, all at Storrs, completes the state college season for this year. This far Connecticut has won four games and has only one defeat to mar an otherwise perfect record.

Cooper Union, unless springing the unexpected, should give the Aggies little trouble next Saturday. The New York eleven was defeated by Trinity early in the season, a team that Coach Dole's men licked decisively by a 54-0 score. Admitting, of course that comparative scores are tricky and unreliable as a basis for comparison, the records of the two teams to date would indicate that Connecticut will enter the game a favorite to win.

Coach Dole has been letting his varsity eleven take things easy this week before starting preparations for the Rhode Island contest a week from Saturday. That is the next objective game on the state college schedule, and it promises to be a difficult one. Then comes the final game with Rensselaer, which will be another stiff argument.

Because of the fact that several members of his starting eleven are bothered with minor injuries, and because he wanted to give the regulars a good rest following the gruelling New Hampshire battle, Dole has been letting his first string men down easy this week. Scrimmage from now on will be confined to the dummy variety, and every effort will be made to keep the eleven at the top form it apparently obtained in its game against New Hampshire last Saturday.

The play of several men in that game was particularly gratifying to Coach Dole in that it showed without question that they had developed from green to experienced players. With the exception of the center trio of Captain Daly, Zollin and Lorentzen, the Aggie line was made up of men receiving their first taste of varsity football, three of whom were sophomores. Yet these men, the two tackles and two ends, played a fast and aggressive game against New Hampshire, outplaying their heavier and more experienced opponents at every turn.

Andrew Sayers of Hartford, captain of the 1925 from eleven, played a great game at right tackle. He met the New Hampshire off tackle play well behind the line of scrimmage, spreading the interference and when not making the tackle himself leaving the runner wide open for his teammates to bring to the ground. It was the best exhibition of tackle play that has been seen in a Connecticut Aggie game this season, including opponents also. Pressing Sayers closely for honors was Kenneth Wilson, of Springfield, Mass., another sophomore tackle on the left side of the line. He was particularly effective in covering punts in addition to flawlessly covering his assignments in the line.

The Aggie ends, Howard Kennedy of New Haven and John Callahan of Revere, Mass., also showed that Connecticut followers need worry little about a weakness of the wings. Such a weakness existed early in the season, as the Wesleyan game demonstrated, but each week has seen a steady improvement and against New Hampshire the ends played like veterans.

The net result of all this is that as the end of the season approaches Coach Dole finds that his supposedly weak links in the line have developed into first class tackles and ends, and now the Aggie line of 1926 looks only as strong as any that has represented the state college, and considerably stronger than the average. For fight and aggressiveness, none in the history of the college have surpassed it.

HORWEEN OFFERED A LONG-TERM CONTRACT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Arnold Horween, '21, Harvard's new head coach of football, has been offered a new contract "extending over a period of several years," William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard announced tonight. Horween, he added, is not expected to give a decision on the offer "for a little while."

"The director of athletics, through the committee on the regulation of athletics at Harvard, has asked Arnold Horween, head coach of Harvard football, to continue in this position with a contract running over a period of years," said the director's statement.

"The committee is very anxious to retain Mr. Horween's services and has offered him this contract. Mr. Horween has not yet given any definite answer and probably will not do so for a little while. It is hoped, however, that he will react favorably and remain at Harvard."

Although neither Horween or Bingham would comment further on the offer, Harvard football followers took it as an expression of faith in the young coach's policy which in his brief regime at Cambridge this fall already is credited with having started the Crimson on an upward swing in the football world after several lean years.

FOOTBALL INTEREST FOCUSES ON ARMY AND NAVY TEAMS

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Army and Navy football elevens will plunge into the last half of the gridiron drive next Saturday with prospects of grappling on Nov. 27 for the mythical championship of the east.

Battles of Nov. 13 will measure the significance of the annual service team struggle. On that day, the powerful Army eleven, which so easily brushed aside Yale, will face Knute Rockne's unbeaten Notre Dame machine, while the middies will tackle Georgetown. Both will have preparatory games this week for the two struggles, with the cadets opposing Franklin-Marshal and the future admirals to meet West Virginia Wesleyan.

Should the Navy add Georgetown to a string of victims which already includes Princeton, Colgate, Michigan, Drake and Purdue and should the West Point team bowl over Notre Dame, football critics feel that the Chicago classic would bring together the two most formidable service teams in the history of their gridiron rivalry.

Of five other unbeaten teams which enter the race with Army and Navy for honors in the east, only one candidate appears reasonably certain of keeping its string of triumphs intact. Lafayette apparently hurdled the last tall barrier in its path by coming from behind to upset Washington and Jefferson last week. With Rutger, Susquehanna and Lehigh still to come, the schedule of the Easton, Pa., university, held no serious threat of disaster, for all three teams frequently have been defeated this season. Lehigh, traditional foe of Lafayette, has not yet won a single game.

But there were titanic struggles ahead of New York university, Boston college, Brown and Holy Cross, as well as before Army and Navy.

MICHIGAN-WISCONSIN BATTLE FEATURE OF BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—(AP)—Half a hundred extremely critical spectators will watch Michigan and Wisconsin battle on the football field at Ann Arbor on Saturday.

The contingent will be the Ohio state football squad, which is taking advantage of an open date to watch the Wolverine team which it will try to wreck a week from Saturday at Columbus. Michigan, its quest for national honors sidetracked by the Navy, is anything but a confident bunch this week, though a favorite to beat Wisconsin.

Chicago's bedevilled Maroons, trampled by the big ten horde, prepared tonight with spirit for Illinois, but drilled again on defense. Scarcely hoping for more than a "good showing" against the Illini.

A big ten title aspirant should be eliminated when Purdue meets Northwestern. Purdue is unbeaten, but tied by Wisconsin, in the conference, while Northwestern has two victories.

Minnesota will go to Iowa a favorite, although it has not won a game since 1914 on Iowa field.

Indiana meets Notre Dame, and, like Chicago, finds the week another one of defensive drill.

ROSENBERG AND GRAHAM MATCHED FOR TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, was matched today to defend his world's bantamweight title at Madison Square Garden January 7 against Bushey Graham of Utica. Sanction for the match will be sought at a meeting of the New York athletic commission Tuesday.

Rosenberg has been in ill favor with the New York boxing authorities on account of his failure to defend his title against outstanding contenders. Graham has been elevated to the position of recognized challenger in New York by the commission.

Jess McMahan, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, said tonight that Rosenberg will ask that the New York commission restore him to good standing and permit him to engage in two or more bouts before the title test in January, the commission retaining the receipts of these matches until after the meeting with Graham January 7, as a guarantee of good faith.

BASEBALL PROFITS ARE OVERESTIMATED SAYS RUPPERT

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—(AP)—Asserting that the club would have lost money had the last world's series been decided in five games, Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, today said that the profits from baseball in general are greatly overestimated.

A copyrighted article in the New York Evening Post quotes Ruppert as revealing that "we do not make much from a six-game series" in the course of an interview, during which he saw no basis for suspicion in the fact that the last three world's series have gone the seven-game limit.

"Nobody is quicker to investigate rumors of scandal than the owners themselves," continued Ruppert. "We realize we must keep the game clean in order to protect our own property."

Ruppert was quoted as asserting that he had never taken a cent out of baseball, but had invested his profits in developing the game, pointing to an expenditure of $200,000 for players last year.

GEORGIA UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL TEAM APOLOGIES TO COACH

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 2—(AP)—A majority of members of Georgia university football squad, suspended yesterday for infraction of training rules were out for practice this afternoon, having apologized to Head Coach Woodruff and signified their desire for another chance on the team.

The return of the suspended men, whose names their mentor declined to divulge, seemed to inject new life into the squad and it romped through what Coach Woodruff termed one of the best practices of the season in preparation for the game with Auburn on Saturday.

ACADEMY PREPARING FOR GAME WITH WILBY

The Academy football squad had a light workout Tuesday afternoon in preparation for the game with Wilby on Saturday. The field was rain soaked and there was no skirmish the work being only signal drill and a rehearsal of the plays used against Chapman Tech last week. The squad will get a stiff workout this afternoon with a long scrimmage.

ACADEMY CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM RUNS AT SUFFIELD TODAY

The initial meet for the Academy cross-country team will take place today at Suffield when the Academy harriers will run against some pretty tough country according to all reports. Those to represent the Academy will be Capt. A. Krohn, Robinson, Greene, R. Carpenter, J. Sadinsky, F. Sullivan, Dion and H. Sadinsky. The team will be accompanied by Coach Matthew Sheridan and Manager Spotten.

KINSEY WINS MEXICAN TENNIS SINGLES TITLE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3—(AP)—Robert Kinsey of California won the tennis singles championship of Mexico today, defeating Louis Thalheimer, of Dallas, Texas, 6-4, 11-9, 5-7, 6-7, 7-5, 8-6.

Thalheimer sprained his right knee and fell several times.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy

Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug-store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

BIGELOW REAPPOINTED HARVARD HOCKEY COACH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 2—(AP)—Reappointment of Edward L. Bigelow as Harvard hockey coach for the coming season and approval of the Crimson's baseball schedule were announced tonight by the committee on the regulation of athletic sports. Bigelow, who captained the 1921 Harvard hockey team from center ice, has been coach for two years. The baseball schedule was announced as follows:

April 9, Boston university; 13, Springfield college; 16, Bates; 19, William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.; 19, open; 20, Army at West Point; 21, Navy at Annapolis; 21, Catholic university at Washington; 22, Georgetown at Washington; 23, Columbia at New York; 27, Bowdoin; 29, Pennsylvania; 30, Amherst; May 3, Wesleyan; 5, University of New Hampshire; 7, Brown; 11, Holy Cross; 13, William and Mary; 14, Williams at Williamstown; 17, Maine; 19, Providence college; 21, Princeton at Princeton; 24, Georgetown; 27, Villa Nova; 28, Princeton; 30, Brown at Providence; June 1, Colby; 4, Holy Cross at Worcester; 7, Vanderbilt; 8, Princeton (if tie); 11, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 16, Dartmouth; 18, Tufts at Medford; 21, Yale at New Haven; 22, Yale at Cambridge.

RITOLA WINS 10-MILE TITLE FOR FOURTH TIME

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 2—(AP)—Willie Ritola of the Finnish-American A. C. today won the national 10-mile A. A. U. championship for the fourth time, equalling the feat of his compatriot, Hannes Kolehmainen.

The fleet-footed Finn came from behind to save the race in the last mile and a half after a cramp had forced him to yield the pace-making position to Gonsales Moreno, an army runner, during the seventh mile. The latter finished second, 50 yards behind Ritola, while Ove Anderson, another Finnish star, was third and Jimmy Hennigan of Dorchester, Mass., fourth.

Ritola, who won the event in 1922, 1923 and 1925, was clocked in 53 min., 30 1-5 seconds.

Record time for 10,000 meters was [illegible] by Harry Hinkel of the New York A. C. in winning the seven-mile walking title. Hinkel bettered his own former mark of 59 mi. 6 seconds by hiking over the distance of 47.03. He then pushed ahead to cover the seven miles in 57:59 4-5, leading Michael Pecora of Hazelton, Pa., by 20 yards. Mark Weiss of the Newark A. C. was third.

HARVARD FEARS THE ATTACK OF JAKE SLAGLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—(AP)—The threat of Jake Slagle, a passing, running, kicking Tiger man from Princeton, is hanging over Harvard this week. Slagle is back in harness after three weeks of idleness due to injuries and as he fits himself into the machine Dill Roper is building for Harvard and the opening of the Big Three series Saturday, the Crimson drills are pointing right at him.

The short passes Slagle throws just behind the rushline and the dazzling open field dashes that have aided in both of Princeton's crushing victories over Harvard in the past two seasons, are fresh in Crimson minds as Harvard battles to keep down overconfidence. Harvard so far this season has shown no real defense against a forward passing attack such as Princeton and Slagle will throw, the coaches say, and the surge that brought Harvard along at headlong speed after a dismal start will batter against a different Princeton defense than that which has stumbled so badly this season.

DODGERS BUY SEVEN PLAYERS FROM MINORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers in the National league have purchased seven players from minor leagues and recalled seven, the reserve list discloses.

"Jigger" Stats, former Giant and Cub outfielder, heads the list. He was purchased from Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast league. Hendricks, an outfielder once with the New York Yankees, was purchased from New Orleans.

Other newcomers are: Barrett, outfielder and Griffin, pitcher, Memphis, Tenn.; Clarke, pitcher, Terre Haute, Ind.; Nietzke, outfielder, Birmingham, and Rhiel, infielder, Atlanta, Ga. Players recalled are: Bisonnette, first baseman; Cantrell, pitcher; Moss, pitcher; Corgan, infielder, all of Jersey City; Elliott, pitcher, Seattle; Patridge, infielder, Nashville, and Strelecki, pitcher, Jackson, Miss.

NOTRE DAME LOOMS AS NATIONAL GRID TITLIST

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—(AP)—Notre Dame's admission to the Big Ten.

Today it was reported that five of the six votes necessary for the action are assured when the faculty representatives of the western conference meet here in executive session November 26 and 27.

For many seasons, Rockne has observed all the conference rules for his teams which can usually find midwestern competition of interesting calibre only in the Big Ten.

The admission of Notre Dame is taken to carry with it the enlargement of the conference to the Big Twelve, the desirable even number of members being achieved by voting in of Michigan State which has been campaigning in the east this fall. The readmission of Michigan in 1917, after an eleven years absence, was the last change in the historic athletic circle.

"DINK" FREER, SPORT WRITER, DIES SUDDENLY AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 2—(AP)—William T (Dink) Freer, well known sports writer and special "article" man in the Connecticut newspaper world, was found dead in his bed at a hotel here yesterday morning. He had been in failing health for more than two years, though he had been working at the newspaper business up to the last.

"Dink" was best known as the first sports editor of the Hartford Courant, some twenty-five years ago, when that newspaper first adopted the sporting page. He never wrote stories for the paper, always "articles." He had a keen vein of humor, which brightened up all of his newspaper writing. A quarter of a century ago he was the correspondent of the New York World. Of late he had been writing special articles for the Hartford Times.

RICKARD MAY BUILD ARENA IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—(AP)—Tex Rickard, New York promoter, is here to look over prospective building sites for a contemplated structure similar to New York's Madison Square Garden to hold athletic contests and to cost between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Rickard says he is unable to reveal all his plans at present and that it may be several days before a site is picked. He came here several months ago to inspect building sites and had almost decided on a location when it was found that all the necessary land could not be obtained.

LEWIS AND STECHER ARE OFFERED $75,000 FOR BOUT

CHICAGO, Nov. 2—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher have been offered $75,000 for a finish wrestling match here, to decide, if possible, their championship claims. The offer was made by John Erbse, veteran promoter.

MARKS, CHICAGO HALFBACK MAY GO INTO MOVIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—(AP)—Another football star may enter the movie field if Wally Marks, captain and star halfback of the University of Chicago football team successfully passes the screen tests which are to be made on Thursday and Friday, Carl Laemmle, Jr., son of the head of the Universal Film company believes that Wally will be an ideal type of "college" movie hero.

Regardless of the tests Wally insists that he would sign no picture contract until after his graduation in June. Also he said he would never play professional football.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Harvard, Yale, Brown and Cornell on successive Saturdays in the 1927 Dartmouth football schedule presage a strenuous season for the Big Green warriors.

A battle of bands between the halves should rival in thrills the meeting of undefeated New York university and Carnegie Tech in the Yankee stadium Saturday. The Skibos boast a picturesque outfit of sixty pieces with the musicians sporting kilts and blowing the meanest of brasses. N. Y. U.'s band, starting the season with forty members, has grown steadily with each win, until it now numbers 90. The saxophone market is due to burst wide open if the Violet makes Carnegie the seventh straight victim.

While Gene Tunney basks in Bermuda sunshine resting from the round of entertainments that wore him down after Jack Dempsey failed to do so, the former heavyweight king is packing trunks for a jaunt to California and the training siege that is to determine his comeback possibilities. Jack failed to call on the New York commission yesterday for a boxing license as friends said he would. He is visiting in Wilmington, Del.

Pinch hitters of the gridiron gain in prominence yearly. Harvard started the custom when Karl Pfaffman used to slip into games to boot a field goal and then slip right out again, to come back when needed. Paster Fields rarely starts a game but for three years he has starred in the Pennsylvania backfield. When Penn wavers and needs a Spark Plug, Fields is rushed into the gap.

Crusader, famous son of Man o'War, eliminated any doubt as to his right to the kingship of three year olds this season when he romped away with the $25,000 Riggs Handicap at the Pimlico opening. Crusader was beaten at a mile this season but over the mile and half route the big colt proved himself supreme by lugging 130 pounds to a romping victory over Mars, Gaffaman, Display, Blondin and other good ones. Crusader now stands tenth among American turf winners with $162,650.

PARTY SONG OF FASCISTI HAS A CURIOUS CAREER

"Giovannezza," or "The Marseillaise of the New Age," as the Fascisti describe their party song, has had a curious career. The song was not composed with any political intention. In fact, like the tune of "The Star Spangled Banner," it was originally a drinking song. The composer, Giuseppe Blanc, dashed it off in 1909 while a student in the Civic School of Imvrea, at the request of the law students, who wanted a song for a drinking party with which they intended to welcome the coming vacation. Its original refrain began with the word "Commiato" (vacation) instead of "Giovannezza," (youth). Later it was interpolated in a musical comedy, became popular and was adopted by the arditi, or Italian shock troops, during the World war. It was especially the arditi who rushed to d'Annunzio's colors when he was about to seize Fiume, and, of course, they took their song with them. The fascist movement, which branched off from the d'Annunzio crusade, adopted the song. Now it is heard oftener than all the other patriotic songs of Italy put together. Sig. Blanc is now a popular composer of operettas and musician laureate to the fascist party.

Makes Test Positive

From recent medical observations it would seem that an attack of scarlet fever tends to destroy the diphtheria antitoxin present in the circulation, causing the Schick test to become positive.

So Different

When you smoke Lucky Strikes for the first time, you instantly note their difference from other cigarettes.

That's because—in addition to the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged, perfectly blended—"IT'S TOASTED."

Even without toasting, Lucky Strike tobaccos would make them the best cigarettes.

Toasting is a costly added process, not a mere slogan. Lucky Strike smokers enjoy:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

"It's toasted"

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

WESTERLY

WESTERLY VOTING RAN LIGHT TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 2. — Although election day in Westerly and Pawcatuck began with pleasant weather, clouds gathered and rain fell heavily in the forenoon, and voters did not turn out during these hours in as large numbers as anticipated.

In Westerly the polls opened promptly at 9 o'clock with the voters of the first Westerly voting district casting their ballots on the east side and in the second voting district on the west side of the Westerly town hall. Sample ballots were posted and Clerk John J. Dunn of the first district read the call with about 25 voters in the hall.

At the first voting district meeting Ira B. Crandall acted as moderator and John J. Dunn as clerk. Other election officials and workers were republican supervisors, James H. Hodgson, Miss Julia H. Turano; democrat supervisors, Bernard Welch, John W. Casey. Gate tender, Howard W. Swan. Outside the railing were checkers, Percy Kinkaley, republican; Dominic Genarella, democrat. The first ballot was cast by Anna Thornton Williams.

At the second voting district meeting Lewis Stanton was the moderator and Miss Mabel A. Saunders clerk. The other election officials were republican supervisors, Everett Barns, Miss Bertha M. Brown; democratic supervisors, Henry S. Hughes and Frederick E. R. Simons. Gate tender, Alexander Aitken. Outside the railing were John H. Farnsworth, republican; William Murray, democrat. The first ballot was cast by Mrs. Olivia E. Gavitt.

New records were established for low number of votes cast when at the noon hour only 178 votes had been cast in the first voting district and 300 in the second voting district. With the clearing of the weather which came shortly after noon, party workers redoubled their efforts, for this year for the first time in state election in Westerly the polls remained open until 7 p. m.

Wendell J. Battye of Pawcatuck left Westerly on Tuesday morning for a business trip to Woonsocket, R. I.

Returning from a week end visit with Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Snyder at their home in Westerly, William McBride motored back early Monday morning to his home in Brewster, Conn.

Harold Barnes, Clifford Barnes and Hugo Schmidt, all of Westerly from where they have been gone eight days on a motor trip to California, arrived last Wednesday at Albuquerque, N. M., according to a card received from them by Howard H. Barnes of Westerly. Driving all day and all night the previous 24 hours they travelled 448 miles.

Mrs. William McBride of Brewster, Conn., is visiting for a few days with her sister, Mrs. Walter H. Snyder in Westerly.

Edward E. Carpenter of the Shore road was a business caller in Pawcatuck on Tuesday morning.

Judge Frank H. Hinckley of Mystic was a visitor in Pawcatuck on Thursday afternoon to hold session of Stonington probate court for Pawcatuck, in the court rooms in the Walton block.

Mrs. E. M. Wempse of New York and Mystic was a business visitor in Westerly and Pawcatuck on Tuesday morning.

Regular session of Westerly probate court was held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the probate court rooms of the Westerly town hall with Probate Judge Edward M. Burke on the bench. Business was disposed of as follows:

Estate of Ellen W. Blake. Petition received from Washington Trust Co. named as executor for the probate of the will of the testatrix who died a resident of Westerly on Oct. 2, 1926, and that letters testimentary be issued to them.

Will read, giving Pawcatuck Congregational church $500 to be known as the "E. W. Blake Fund," the interest of which is to be for the use of the poor. Witnesses to will, Harry E. Agard, Harold D. Livingstone and Charles D. Maxson. Codocil read, witnessed by H. D. Livingstone and Charles D. Maxson, the latter appearing in court as witness. Will and codocil proved and with non-objection, admitted to probate. Washington Trust company confirmed as executor of will. Bond fixed at $30,000 without surety. Charles D. Maxson was named appraiser.

Estate of Matthew McGrath. John F. Gallagher appeared in court as attorney for executor, John J. Dunn, and Attorney James J. Sullivan of Boston appeared for legatees. At suggestion of Attorney M. Walter Flynn, Jr., case was continued two weeks to Nov. 17th at 11 a. m. in probate court rooms.

Estate of Mary B. Thompson. Petition, received from Frank F. Dodge of Stonington borough and William F. Dodge of Westerly that they be appointed administrators of estate of which their father, Edward M. Dodge was administrator at the time of his death, a also estate of Ophelia Dodge, his wife and daughter of Mary B. Thompson Petition granted and Frank F. Dodge and William F. Dodge were confirmed as administrators de bonis non with surety an honorary bond. Lafayette F. Freeman was appointed appraiser.

Estate of Robert L. Currie. First and final account of John Currie, administrator, represented by Attorney John I. Dunn, continued until Nov. 16th.

Estate of Daniel L. Lyon. Petition received from executors of will, Elizabeth T. Belknap and William H. Lyon of Chicago, for a six months' allowance for family. Petition granted and $15,000 allowance for six months ordered.

The various propositions submitted to Rhode Island voters for their approval or disapproval Tuesday on the state ballot in the total of bond issue sought amounted to $7,660,000.00.

A Massachusetts woman visiting in Westerly made use Tuesday of the absentee mail ballot which she made out before a notary public and then took to the Westerly post office and with special delivery stamp sent it to a Massachusetts city. The ballot was sent to her by her son, who resides in that city.

MISS GAVITT'S FUNERAL, WHERE SHE HAD LIVED 85 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 2—Funeral services for Miss Rhoda Gavitt, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at her home, corner of West Broad and Liberty streets, where she had resided for 85 years. Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church conducted the services. Miss Gavitt was not only an active church worker but was also interested in all community welfare.

Burial was in River Bend cemetery, the bearers being Stephen E. Crouch, William Black, Merton Webster and Frederick Congdon.

The last week end the cement floor for the second floor was poured at the new light and power office building of the South County Public Service company at 45 High street. The brick side walls are now to the top of the third story and higher than the New Park hotel, Walton building, adjoining.

Most of the steel work has been placed in position on the Nardone building, in process of construction at the junction of High and Canal streets, and as much of the brick walls as the plans call for are in construction on the second story. On the roof of the one-story part three skylight hatchways have been constructed to let light into the Canal street store, which has a 150 foot depth, back from the street.

Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. M. Agnes York, worthy matron, held a meeting Tuesday evening in the Masonic rooms on High street. The business session was followed by degree work, the serving of refreshments and a social hour.

UNCASVILLE

The Montville social union was entertained recently by Mrs. Lynch. Work was done on aprons and rug rags. Mrs. Lynch served a lunch of sandwiches, cake and tea. Ten were present.

Mrs. Hattie Church of Norwich is the guest of Mrs. Fitch Rogers.

Mrs. Laura Chapman has closed her house for the winter and will stay with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Furber.

Miss Nellie Starr, president of the local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union attended the 51st state convention held in Bridgeport during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beard have returned to their home in New York. They spent the summer with Mr. Beard's aunt, Miss Caroline Parker, of Dolbeare Hill.

If you imagine that this is an unsympathetic world, tell people that you have a cold and listen to their suggestions.

NOANK

Fred Lewis of Norwich, a great hunter and a sure shot is spending a few days with Wilmoth Bogue. They planned to go duck hunting Monday and with their decoys set out for the water, waiting for the ducks to fly and land. Lewis was to shoot the first one and Bogue the next. The ducks came flying down over the decoys. Lewis shot and missed the bird and shot the heads off his decoys. Bogue shot at his duck and got it. After hunting all day the two only got one duck, although six ducks flew over them. The man from Norwich said it was the first time he missed in five years.

John Scroggins has been laid up for five weeks with a broken wrist from playing football with the western team in New London the first of the season. His wrist is all right now, and he is ready to play in the backfield again with his team. He was intending to play Sunday but the rain came down so hard that the game was called off. His teammates call him Big Bill Scoggins, the deer, for he is a fast runner, one of the fastest on his team.

Lobstermen have found that blackfish have struck on again, so they fish in their spare time waiting for the tide to chance. Some good catches were made Monday. The boat Earl got 217 lbs. of blackfish and boat Nimrod had 200 lbs. Other boats found the fish biting well. The blackfish stay until snow flies and then they leave for parts unknown. The fish are sold to local markets.

The members of the Nugget basketball team held a meeting at the home of Hubert Ellis. Plans were made for the season. A committee was named to interview the selectmen at their office in Midway; this committee is Elihu Rathbun, Keith Ebbets and Hubert Ellis. The color of the team's suits will be orange and black. No captain or manager has been elected yet. At the next meeting they will vote on captain and manager. Elihu Rathbun made a brief speech, also read the report of last year. He declared that Noank will see a winning team this year, as the members are going out for the eastern Connecticut championship. After the meeting hot dogs and coffee were served by Charles Ellis.

Kenneth Steele spent a day in Montville this week.

George Lane is having his property repaired and repainted.

Alden Brooky has left for Edgartown, Mass.

Mrs. H. Park has returned from a visit with Providence relatives.

The veranda on the cottage owned by W. O. Gurnet of Hartford, a summer resident of Groton Long Point, has been repainted.

White Oak Coal

A Ton of Coal That Costs Less— and Gives Far More Heat

NEW RIVER SMOKELESS WHITE OAK COAL COAL

IF YOU PAY THE COAL BILL YOU SHOULD INVESTIGATE the coal that is revolutionizing the buying habits of New England coal consumers.

Thousands of satisfied users are now burning White Oak. They would have no other. They are cutting their coal bill from one-quarter to one-third, and are getting more heat per ton.

Fuel experts recommend White Oak Coal. After exhaustive tests last year a responsible body of recognized authorities publicly put their stamp of approval on White Oak type coal, saying that because of its heat value, if sold at two-thirds the price of New England's usual fuel, the purchaser actually gets twice the amount of heat for his money.

Try White Oak Coal. You will find it clean, lowest in ash, free from clinkers, and economical to burn. Time and time again, it has proved in actual use that it will produce 20% more heat per ton than the average grade of coal.

Now is the time to fill those empty bins. Order White Oak. It means that you put less coal in—you get more heat out—and you pay less money.

Investigate and consider well White Oak Coal

Why YOU Should Burn WHITE OAK COAL

1. Low volatile.
2. Kindles quickly.
3. Costs less per ton.
4. Low in ash waste.
5. Burns slowly, lasts long.
6. Gives more heat per ton.
7. It is clean, and smokeless.
8. Entirely free from clinkers.

The New England Governors' Fuel Committee recommends that "Low Volatile or Smokeless Bituminous Coal should be specified in making purchase from dealer."

NORTH LYME

Mrs. Walter M. Gillette, of Cluster visited Miss Emily Stark last week and called on friends on the East road, Thursday.

Mrs. Ida Draper, Miss Emma Tiffany of Providence, R. I., C. R. Tiffany and Mrs. Lucy Wetmore of Wallingford spent several days the past week with Mrs. William Sisson.

The pupils of the North Plain school held a party Friday; games were followed by a Halloween program attended by the older people of the community.

Saturday evening, a community Halloween party was held at the schoolhouse, attended by about 60 persons. Games were played; there were recitations, drills, and a short play. Sandwiches, cake, and coffee were served.

Several attended in poverty costume. Thomas Tucker received the prize for the funniest costume for men; W. M. Sisson Jr., was second; Walter Seidel won first prize for the boys, and Dorothy Sisson for the girls. The former teacher, Mrs. H. W. Davis attended, also other guests from Lyme, Meeding and New Haven.

The party was given by the Girl Scouts and proved very enjoyable.

Miss Marion Stark, of Portchester, N. Y., Miss Jennie Stark, of New Britain and Miss Charlotte Stark of Willimantic were week end guests of J. W. Starks.

Miss Marion and Jennie Starr expect to visit their sister, Mrs. Walter O'Sullivan and attend the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia the next week end.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Did you ever notice that? It's the truth. No matter how unwelcome the guest may be, we always try to appear our best. And it is just as true of we humans as it is of Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Never had Danny Meadow Mouse had a worse shock than when he was picked up by the tail by young Ringneck the Pheasant, who had mistaken that tail for a worm. Not only had he given Danny a great fright and a sore tail, but it had completely upset his plans to break the news of his homecoming to Nanny Meadow Mouse. So Danny went off by himself to nurse his tail and sulk and try to get his nerves calmed down and his temper restored.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Meadow Mouse," said the stranger

After a while, when Danny felt better, he softly stole back to where he could see the house of Nanny Meadow Mouse up in the bush. Presently he saw Nanny come to the door and put her head out. There she sat, looking this way and that way. "She looks," thought Danny, "as if she were watching for some one. I believe she is. Yes sir, I believe she is."

Now this wasn't so at all. Nanny had come to the door and was looking about to make sure that the way was clear for her to leave her house in safety. She wasn't expecting any one, or looking for any one. But Danny didn't believe this. He was jealous. He hadn't forgotten that Skimmer the Swallow had told him that there were two strange Meadow Mice living on the Green Meadows. So Danny glared angrily all about. At first he didn't see anything. Then he heard a leaf rustle a short distance away, and into plain view stepped a handsome young Meadow Mouse. As Meadow Mice go, he really was handsome; and he was young. Danny looked up at Nanny. Nanny was looking down at the Meadow Mouse. Danny didn't like the way she looked at him. She looked at him as if he were good to look at. Danny didn't think he was good to look at at all. Of course, the handsome young Meadow Mouse saw Nanny looking down. Danny could tell this by the way he appeared. "Good afternoon, Mrs Meadow Mouse," said the stranger.

"Good afternoon," replied Nanny. "If you are feeling as fine as you look you are feeling very fine indeed."

"I am feeling very fine," replied the stranger. "I hope you are feeling just as fine. Do you know, Mrs. Meadow Mouse, you are very handsome."

Danny wanted to rush out and bite the stranger. Not that he didn't think that Nanny was handsome. He did. He always said that Nanny was the handsomest Meadow Mouse he ever had laid eyes on. But it was one thing for him to say it, and quite another for a stranger to say it. No, Danny didn't like the looks of that stranger one bit. "I wish he were smaller," he kept saying over and over to himself. "I wish he were smaller, I-I-I'd bite his head off!"

Now, of course, that wasn't a nice thing at all for Danny to say, or even think. But thinking it didn't hurt the stranger any, for the stranger didn't even know it. "Yes, Mrs. Meadow Mouse," said the stranger, "you are the handsomest Meadow Mouse I ever have seen. Do you mind if I pay you a call?"

Nanny looked flattered, but she didn't have a chance to say anything. No, sir, she didn't have a chance to say anything. There was a sudden rush of small feet, a squeal of rage, a thump which knocked the handsome Meadow Mouse flat on his back, where he rolled over twice before he could get to his feet. Then Nanny had just a glimpse of her caller, apparently running for his life, with a very angry looking gray Mouse at his heels. And there was something about the latter that was strangely familiar.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Everett Winsor of Plainfield is sawing for A. E. Hall.

Mr. nd Mrs. Harry Dean of Central Village visited local relatives Saturday.

Several local children dressed up for Hallowe'en and called at A. E. Hall's during the evening. Visitors and those visited enjoyed the call and all got a thrill from the spooky looking ghosts and goblins.

Mr. and Mrs. eGorge Slater entertained William Hughes and family of Providence Sunday.

Ruth Coffey spent Friday with Mrs. Cosmer Young of Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Barlow and son, Ernest, of Danielson spent the week end with Mr. Barlow's parents.

Mrs. P. H. Coffey and Mrs. A. E. Hall were entertained at the home of Mrs. William Dean in Central Village Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Milan Whitaker has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. Charles Geer of Lebanon for a few days.

Highland grange is to neighbor with Killingly grange at its next meeting in Danielson. Highland grange will furnish the program.

Ada Spaulding of Auburn, R. I. visited Sunday with Mrs. P. H. Coffey.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Spencer Jordan and Franklyn Wetherell returned Sunday evening from a trip to Philadelphia, where they attended the Sesqui-Centennial.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Linderman attended the funeral of Mrs. Melvin Allen in Ellington last Saturday. Burial was in Union.

Mrs. Christine Anderson is visiting relatives in Hartford.

A meeting of the Woodstock League of Women Voters was held last week Wednesday with Mrs. L. H. Lindeman. Mrs. Clinton Taylor had Current Events, also led the discussion dealing with the coal situation. The closing period was given to the practice of parliamentary law which was very instructive. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

The second Union social was held last Friday evening and was attended by nearly 300. A harvest supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Everett E. May. Mrs. N. D. Baker, Mrs. Frank Foskitt, Mrs. Chas. Killam and Mrs. C. H. Potter, the decorations being typical of Halloween. The entertainment was given by the North and Hill parishes and was greatly enjoyed.

Money isn't the root of all evil. What's the matter with your neighbor's chickens in your garden?

Things You Must Do for Colds

A cold calls for four helps, all at one time. And each should be the best. One must stop the cold, check the fever, open the bowels and tone the entire system. Do them all.

HILL'S combines these four effects. Each is accomplished by a modern discovery, the best men have found of its kind. One of the world's largest laboratories has embodied them all in one tablet, in a way to bring no ill results.

HILL'S is the perfect help for colds. It is so efficient, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it. The use has grown and grown, until millions have come to employ it.

If you have a cold, start Hill's at once. By tomorrow you will see the results. You will never again rely on lesser help when you learn what HILL'S can do.

FORMER NORWICH HOSP. PATIENT, W. A. WILLEY, SUICIDES AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3.—Presumably despondent because of ill health and his inability to obtain steady employment, Walter A. Willey, 35, a machinist, committed suicide this afternoon at his home, 426 Broad street, by inhaling gas. He is survived by his wife and two small children and by his parents, brothers and sisters, who reside in Worcester, Mass. He was a patient at the Norwich State hospital earlier in the year, being released last August when members of his family agreed to be responsible for the safety and conduct of Willey.

Willey recently communicated with his brother in Worcester for the purpose of seeking employment. He received a letter a day or two ago in which he was assured of a position if he came to that city. About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Willey left his home after having informed his wife that he was going to Worcester to work. That was the last Mrs. Willey saw of her husband until she was summoned home this afternoon and found the dead body of Willey on the kitchen floor. Willey, it is believed, never went to Worcester but remained away from home last night. He was not in his home this morning when Mrs. Willey went to her employment with a family on Ocean avenue, neither did his two children find him in the house this afternoon when they prepared to start for school. It is believed that Willey remained away from his home until after his children had left and then entering the apartment, went to the kitchen where he placed a garment over his head and in such a manner as to provide a hood over two burners of a gas cooking range. Then turning on the two cocks and with head bent close to the burners, he inhaled the fumes of the deadly poison as it entered the room. The poisonous fumes gradually produced a state of unconsciousness and caused Willey to collapse and fall to the floor where he expired. About 2:30 o'clock, Willey's brother-in-law, Harry Hick, occupying another part of the house, detected the fumes of gas and decided to investigate. He succeeded in entering the Willey apartment and going to the kitchen found Willey dead on the floor. Mrs. Willey was summoned and she had the police notified. Patrolman George Ackell was dispatched to the Willey house and summoned Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman, who pronounced death resulting from suicide.

Frank S. Clark has sold to Henry H. Coogan a building lot on Pitch avenue.

Merle J. Chandler and Helen S. Chandler have sold a house and lot on Nameaug avenue to Almira F. Lovell.

John Higgins, 166 Park street, was arrested by Constable Frank Peabody this morning in Waterford charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Higgins, who has been arrested for the offense before, was driving his auto in a manner that endangered his own life as well as those of others, it is alleged.

Patrolman George McCaskey is confined to his home on Maple avenue, by illness.

Mrs. Benjamin Roberts of 107 Moore avenue and Mrs. Carl Hines and infant daughter, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt of North Adams, Mass., spent yesterday with relatives in New London, making the trip here by automobile.

A Halloween and surprise party was given Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Demers at their home in Crystal avenue Saturday night. Halloween games were played and later supper was served. Violin solos were given by Raymond Gregson of Norwich. Dancing was enjoyed. Mrs. Demers was presented a luncheon set. Her guests were Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Julia Sullivan, Miss Dorris Donovan, Miss Lena Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brophy, Mr. and Mrs. Bauman Senior, Frank Lynch, all of Westerly, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gregson of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. James Coulson, Mrs. Abbie Sullivan, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Edward Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thorpe, of New London.

At the meeting of Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R., at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon Miss Nettie Bishop, registrar, reported the present membership 317. Mrs. Sidney H. Miner, regent, gave a brief report of the state meeting at Hartford in September. It was voted to give $7.50 toward the scholarship fund which is used to send a Connecticut girl to the International college at Springfield. Mrs. Gladstone H. Stevens, Mrs. Albert Hewitt and Mrs Joseph Rabitaille, with Miss Marion Ames, at the piano sang several selections. Miss Clemmie Henry, secretary of Maryville college in Tennessee, addressed the society. She said that twenty-one years ago the Daughters of the American Revolution began making contributions to student help work at Maryville college. To date they have contributed $1,550.

At its meeting in the club rooms last night the Crowley club made up the schedule for the coming month. Nov. 10 bowling will start with Miss Esther Cranker and Miss Julia Sullivan in charge. The next bridge will be held Nov. 12, and the following one on Nov. 26. Miss Mary Shea will be in charge of the first and Miss Mary Moriarty of the second. Tuesday, Nov. 9, will be a roller skating party arranged by Josephine Hogan, Mary E. Murphy, Marion Turnbull. The monthly dance will be held Nov. 18. The Ganes committee is Katherine Reidy, chairman; Gertrude Keefe and Ellen Merrick. The dance will be held in Palace ballroom. The nominating committee is Julia Sullivan, Josephine Hogan, Phyllis Murray, Eleanor Dray and Katherine Hinton. The fifth annual banquet of the club will be held tomorrow night in the new Garde ballroom.

Miss Marguerite R. Woods of Algee Place has returned home after spending the past three months with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Woods at their summer home at Bayport, L. I. Mr. and Mrs. Woods have closed their place at Bayport and have turned to their winter home at Forrest Hills, L. I.

STOLE TRINKETS FOR GIRL, BARBU SENT TO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3—His Barbu's was a unique case given a hearing in the police court this morning. He was charged with breaking and entering a store in the night season and pleaded guilty. The crime might have brought a sentence of five years in state prison, but when the facts came out the complaint took on a different aspect in that there seemed to be a lack of common sense displayed by the accused man. He said he was on Bank street and picked up a girl. She had a craze for jewelry. They talked a while and he went to the store of Wolf & Lampert, pawn brokers, smashed a window and reaching in took out two articles, the aggregate value of which was $5. Barbu said he was not intoxicated, though he had taken four drinks during the time from 6 to 8 o'clock. The attention of the police was attracted by the breaking of the window and Officer Wells hurried there. Barbu had started away, but did not get far before a naval man stopped him and then the officer appeared and Barbu was arrested. Barbu served six years in the navy, he said. He was sent to jail for three months.

SLAVE OF DRINK, IN COURT. A LESSON FOR TOPERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3—A former truckman in court today for intoxication, that he might be swayed from the habits he has formed and made to see the error of his ways. He is said to have already gotten rid of a sum of money which might be regarded as a competence by many people, and rumor has it that of late he has endeavored to collect on an insurance policy he holds, that he might get that money also to spend for liquor. He was sentenced to jail for a stay of ten days. Then the execution of the sentence was suspended upon His promise to abstain from liquor. He was turned over to the probation officer, that the latter may endeavor to influence him.

Coast Guard sailors in general figured as defendants before the court today. They were intoxicated and committed various offenses because of their condition. Two of them were fined and another was sent to jail.

The funeral of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cornet of Waterford, who died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital two days after birth, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 111 Broad street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles Smith of Uncasville. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

Coastwise freight steamer Gaston, owned by the Fort Newark and New England Steamship company, which was disabled in Long Island sound yesterday morning and rescued by United States coast guard patrol boats and brought into this port yesterday afternoon, cleared under her own power for Boston this morning. Temporary repairs were made here, which permitted the steamer to continue to her destination. The cause of the trouble that disabled the steamer was water finding its way into the tubes that led the oil to the engine.

The board of selectmen of the town of Groton held a meeting in town hall, Poquonoc Bridge last evening, when it was voted to award a contract for the construction of a bridge at Groton Long Point to Maile Tryon of Noank. The estimated cost of the structure is $795. The bridge will be 24 feet square and will replace the present bridge, which is 24 feet by 15 feet and is in a damaged condition due to the elements.

Harry Nellan of 82 Walden avenue, reported to the New London police this evening that his Ford four-door sedan was stolen in New York last Thursday and that he had reported the theft to the New York police. The auto carries Connecticut registration, N-6692.

Binoculars belonging to the federal government were reported to the New London police this afternoon as having been stolen from U. S. S. Chewink, moored at the submarine base wharf. The binoculars had the inscription, "Crown Optical Company, Rochester, N. Y., Military Stero, 6x30, No. 8012, U. S. N."

Police Sergeant John Cavanaugh left here tonight for New York where tomorrow he will receive as prisoners, Kenneth Davis, former Salvation Army lodger and Charles Hummell, 226 Jefferson avenue, former restaurant worker and United States coast guardsman. The prisoners will be brought back to New London and will be presented in the police court, presumably Monday morning, charged with automobile theft. Davis and Hummell were presented in court in New York this morning on a charge of theft of stolen goods, but that charge was nolled as this city wanted the prisoners on the more serious offense. Davis and Hummell stole the Buick sedan owned by William McGarry.

DEATH OF JOHN W. BABCOCK WHO HAD REACHED AGE OF 82

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3.—John W. Babcock, 82, one of the oldest residents of Uncasville, died at his home this morning. Mr. Babcock had been in feeble health for a long time and infirmities due to advanced years had reduced his physical strength greatly in the past few weeks.

Brainard lodge worked the Master Mason degree in full form this evening, with past masters in the chairs. The attendance was very large, and represented the order from all sections hereabouts. The right side of all the streets approaching the Masonic temple were filled with autos during the evening, the machines even reaching into streets where parking is restricted.

Never was there an election held in New London when apathy was more evident than it was today. The morning hours dragged at the polls for there were few voters, and the afternoon early was not little better so far as interest was manifested. The larger part of the votes cast came at the end of the day. The number of women voting today was smaller than has been noted since the franchise was given to the women. There was absolutely no excitement about the polls. Many democrats kept away from the polls, holding that the party had no organization and that there was little at issue between them and the republicans. And the story of New London was repeated generally from sections of the state from which early evening reports were received.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Bessie Love in Young April with Rudolph and Joseph Schildkraut that has proven one of the most popular pictures in weeks and Wives At Auction with Gaston Glass and Edna Murphy will be shown for the last times today. Making a program of both quality and quantity that it would be hard to equal. Tomorrow comes the long awaited sensation, The Quarterback, with Richard Dix and Esther Ralston, Dix whose engaging personality has brought him to the crest of screen popularity sets a new record for laughs in The Quarterback, a romantic comedy with an underlying note of seriousness. It's whirlwind finish introducing the most exciting football game ever screened, played as it is on a rain drenched field. Esther Ralston the kind of blond gentlemen are supposed to prefer is Dix's leading lady you know the kind of a team these two make, why say more, see The Quarterback and to make the most outstanding program of the season the management has added another fine attraction in The Little Irish Girl. With the charming and beautiful Dolores Costello who sky-rocketed to stardom after her screen debut with John Barrymore in the Sea Beast. The Little Irish Girl is a tingling mystery drama filled with action, suspense and delicious comedy and then we have Gene Tunney in chapter nine of his great adventure serial, The Fighting Marine that grows even more exciting as it nears it's conclusion. The Palace Topics Events brings the latest world wide news and completes just about the finest screen program one could find anywhere.

Bread Theater

Anna Q. Nilsson returns to the delightful boyish garb of Ponjola in Miss Nobody, which comes to the Bread theater today and Thursday as the main attraction of a double feature bill.

In Miss Nobody, however, Miss Nilsson is not the polished English gentleman of Ponjola. She is a hobo. Determined to strike out for herself rather than be dependent upon the generosity of worthless friends after her father's fortune goes by the board, she turns to vagabondage.

Miss Nobody is an adaptation of the celebrated Tiffany Wells novel, Shebo, which achieved great popularity in book and serial form.

Walter Pidgeon, Louise Fazenda, Arthur Stone, Mitchell Lewis and Clyde Cook are featured in Miss Nilsson's support, all the male members of this coterie assuming hobo holes. Twice as many other noted players form the remainder of the cast.

Acta Otis who also appears in support of Miss Nilsson in Miss Nobody, was an art model before the pictures claimed her services.

She posed for the famous Dagger Child and later added to her fame by becoming the Coco Cola girl, whose likeness was blazoned over the world.

Whispering Wires, Fox Films great mystery melodrama is the second feature. Anita Stewart and Edmund Burns head a glittering cast. The film is based on the noted stage play of the same name.

Broadway Theater

The name of Mary Pickford and the word "humor" are almost synonymous. Critics declare her one of our greatest—if not our greatest—cinema comediennes. In Sparrows the subtle and delicate touch of fun will be a much-desired boon to those feminine members of the audience who, despite their love for Mary, are reluctant, nevertheless, to ruin the mascara so indispensable in this modern age. The comedy in this picture is distributed with that artful touch which relieves the tensity of the drama. Often it accents the pathos by its very proximity. The Mary Pickford pranks—always inimitable—are present even in the most critical moments. Even with her bevy of little tots scampering like frightened birds across a limb that cracks under their weight and threatens to pitch them into the terrifying maws of snapping alligators, Mary finds occasion to inject a laugh, thus relieving the tension. Complete satisfaction comes with her triumph over the adversity of man as well as nature, beast and reptile, and in th happiness which she ultimately bestows upon her entire brood. Today is the last day to see this film masterpiece and vaudeville show. Bring the children, they are sure to enjoy this show.

"The Gorilla"

Those who go to the Bradley theatre in Putnam, Conn., next Monday night are promised a mirth-provoking entertainment in "The Gorilla," Ralph Spence's "chilling, thrilling, killing" mystery, described as the "funniest show on earth." Every device and trick known to the mystery play is exploited in a most amusing manner. It is a travesty, rich in funny lines and laughable situations. "The Gorilla" is the outstanding popular hit of New York, Chicago, Boston and London in each of which cities it has been playing before record breaking crowds for months.

Normal Weight for Every Child

Mothers who have been attending the Well Child Conferences in the state are learning that their children can gain in weight if a health plan is being followed. Such lessons are learned at the Moosup monthly well child conference. The conference this month will be held on Thursday afternoon, November 11th, in Franco-American hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Before giving advice a wise man prepares to dodge the consequences.

POETRY

The Scout Wind

Say, did you meet the scout,
The wind scout,
The gay scout
That Autumn sent ahead,
To tell us she is coming,
The happy news to spread?

Although I could not see him
I saw his cold feet make
A myriad crisping tracks upon
The warm and drowsy lake.
The water seemed to shiver,
The willows shuddered too;
But the sky above—as if in love—
Beamed down a brighter blue.

The Northand Wind, he knew
All he could do,
The while he blew
Was blow but half a day,
And set our pulses thrilling,
And then he must away.

But, oh, the Scout Wind took me
Breathless, I could not speak;
He seemed a bandit lover as
He kissed me on the cheek;
Straightway my heart fell dreaming
Of scarlet bordered hill
And all the sweet, cold loveliness
Of Autumn evenings chill.

O Herald from the sky
A-riding by,
I know not why
You've changed the world for me!
A-weary of the summer
I long for autumn glee.

I want the reckless glory
Of gold and crimson leaves,
To list the Scout Wind's brothers
Singing round the sheaves.
I love the Autumn sunshine,
I love the Autumn rain;
And life, it were a tasteless dish
Without a spice of pain.
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

A Charge

If thou has squandered years to grave a gem
Commissioned by thy absent Lord, and Wife
'Tis incomplete,
Others would bribe thy needy skill to them—
Dismiss them to the store.

Should'st thou at last discover Beauty's grove
At last be panting on the fragrant verge,
But in the track,
Drunk with divine possession, thou must Love—
Turn, at her bidding, back.

When round thy ship in tempest Hell appears,
And every specter mutters us more dire
To snatch control
And loose to madness thy deep-kenneled Fear—
Then to the helm, O Soul!

Last, if upon the cold, green-mantling sea,
Thou cling, alone with Truth, in the last spar,
Both castaway,
And one must perish—let it not be he
Whom thou are sworn to obey.
—Herbert Trench.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

She—Let's do something unusual.
He—All right, you pay for the movie tickets.—Life.

Jimmy—Gosh! I wish I was twins.
Mother—Why?
Jimmy—So I could send the other half to school while this half went fishing.—Punch.

Waiter, to Manager: The gentleman says his soup isn't fit for a pig.
Manager: Then take it away, you idiot, and bring him some that is!—The Progressive Grocer.

He had been kept waiting as usual. When she arrived he said: "Well, sunshine, I ought not to complain. So far you have always managed to get the day and the month right."—Exchange.

Fawlen—Do you believe in love at first sight?
Archer—Certainly not!
Fawlen—Well, don't be discouraged. I'll let you see me again.—Stanford Chaparral.

A small boy, sent to a druggist's, went into a hardware store by mistake and handed the merchant the following note:

"My baby has eat up its father's parish-plaster. Send an anecdote quick, as I am a bit historical."—Good Hardware.

A woman (over the phone)—"My dear, do come over and see my new gown. Everyone says I look awfully well in it."

Her best friend—"I'll come at once, dear. It must be a wonderful gown."—American Legion.

Seafaring men, as a rule, close their minds against everything but the sailor's life. This was illustrated in an emphatic manner recently when a tourist walking near the Liverpool docks asked a sailor where the post-office was.

"I dunno, guvnor," said the sailor. "What's the color of her funnels?"—Tit Bits.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Pictures were the first form of writing used by primitive man.

The California condor has a wing spread of from nine to twelve feet.

The quality of wool is materially affected by the kinds of feed given to the sheep.

There are 11,000 radio receiving sets in Chile, of which the United States supplied 8,000.

Fire losses in this country totaled $570,000,000 last year, and are likely to mount higher this year.

Grasses that grow in the shade are less nutritive for cattle than those that grow in the sunlight.

The Roman Emperor Nero had snow brought down from the mountains to cool his wine in warm weather.

Fog horns that automatically begin to blow whenever a thick mist gathers, operated by action of the damp air on calcium chloride, which sets the device in motion.

When the automobile of Mrs. M. O. Douglas of Grand Junction, Colo., ran out of oil while she was transporting a load of cream, she filled the crankcase with some of the cream. She completed her trip and the unusual lubricant served so well, it remained in the car for the journey home.

An appropriation of $500,000, to be used exclusively in research work, the realization from which are expected to usher in a new era for the use of gas in industry, has been made by the American Gas Association. This sum is to be collected and expended over a period of five years, said Alexander Forward, its secretary-manager.

A giant salamander was recently presented to the prince regent of Japan by the head priest at the Enyo temple, at Asakura. The amphibian is more than four feet long and has been living in a pond in the temple grounds for 180 years, it is reported. Salamanders of this size flourished in large numbers in past geologic ages, but are now nearly extinct, while turtles have been known to live for a century or more, this is said to be the first recorded instance of an amphibian attaining such longevity.

Dressed in white flannels, J. Russell Draper, of East Orange, N. J., was forced by Police Chief Beatty, of Interlaken, N. J., to go over a mile of muddy road and remove every scrap of litter on it. Draper had thrown some newspapers from his car as he passed through the village, and the action aroused the chief's ire. At one point Draper dropped his papers and told the chief that he'd rather take thirty days in jail than continue. The chief was willing, but Draper reconsidered and went on with his task.

POULTRY

PUT YOUR HENS IN LAYING TRIM

This Guaranteed Way

Go to any dealer named below and get enough Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a to last your hens 30 days.

Mix one pound Pan-a-ce-a with every 50 pounds of mash. Then see the change come over your flock, see the combs and wattles begin to turn red, listen to the song, scratch and cackle — that's when the eggs begin to come.

You get more eggs—or you return the empty container to the dealer and get your money back.

Costs little to use: One egg pays for all the Pan-a-ce-a a hen needs for six months.

For Roup: Use Dr. Hess Roup Tablets.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. COOLIDGE IN NORTHAMPTON

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. Nov. 2—(AP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge today paid a visit of three hours in their home city and cast their votes to emphasize the appeal that the chief executive had made to all voters to go to the polls today.

A steady rain which began shortly before their entry at 9 o'clock on the special train from Washington made the morning uncomfortable, but failed to cloud the smiles of scores of old friends of dim the cheers of thousands who attended their every movement about the city.

Giving pointed illustration to his declaration of the first duty of every citizen, the President and Mrs. Coolidge went straight from the train to the voting place in Memorial hall, a short distance up Main street.

There, for a moment, as they entered the gate of the Ward 2 poll they were simple citizens: "Calvin Coolidge" and "Mrs. Grace Coolidge," Herman Hockemier, inspector of voting, told the tellers as he handed out the ballots, they entered the booths where already stood other citizens, for the moment on a parity. Mrs. Coolidge finished marking her ballot first and turned back with a smile. The president soon joined her and the ballots were passed through the machine as cameras clicked and the crowded hall gave attention.

Then the President and Mrs. Coolidge drove to their home on Massasoit street, a mile away, where awaited Mrs. Limyra Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge, and Mrs. Alice Reckahn, her housekeeper. During their hour at home several of their more intimate Northampton friends entered to chat for a while.

Then the city and county claimed them. They drove back down town to the high school where they greeted 2,000 residents and students in a reception lasting three-quarters of an hour. Just before noon, they waved a final parting from the rear of their car as the special train began the run back to Washington.

The trip up, begun late last night, had been without incident except for the slight accident on the Maryland crossing. The party, which included the president and his wife, Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, who is also a Northampton voter, and aides, attaches and newspapermen, slept soundly and had breakfast on the train. United States Senator Frederick H. Gillett had voted promptly at 7 o'clock in Springfield and joined the president when the latter arrived there an hour later. Congressman Henry L. Bowles also joined the party there.

REPUBLICAN HOUSE IS PRACTICALLY ASSURED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Only a little more than half of the new house of representatives elected today had been accounted for in the returns received up to midnight.

The exact number was 218, including 130 democrats and 88 republicans. Only a net gain of two out of the 26 the democrats need to gain control of the house has been recorded—one in New York and one in Pennsylvania.

With returns from the doubtful senatorial contests coming in only slowly none of these had been decided definitely, although both the New York Times and the New York American in early editions stated that Robert Wagner, democrat, had won over Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr. The New York Herald-Tribune, a staunch republican paper, conceded the race was close.

With a third of the Massachusetts precincts outside of Boston heard from, Senator William M. Butler, bearing the personal endorsement of President Coolidge was 26,000 ahead of his democratic opponent, former Senator David I. Walsh. Boston, regarded as a Walsh stronghold, still was to be heard from.

Senator Frank R. Willis, republican, had forged ahead of former Senator Atlee Pomerene, democrat, in Ohio, returns from an eighth of the state giving him 66,988 to 61,782 for his opponent.

Returns from one-fifth of Missouri gave Representative Harry B. Hawes a lead of approximately 26,000 over Senator George H. Williams, republican, in the contest for the unexpired term of the late Senator Selden P. Spencer. Hawes had 96,308 and Williams 70,374.

Representative William S. Vare of Philadelphia, had a commanding lead over former Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson in the Pennsylvania senatorial fight. With about an eighth of the state in, the republican candidate was more than 90,000 ahead.

George E. Brennan, democratic national committeeman from Illinois, was 16,000 votes in front of Frank L. Smith, republican, in the Illinois contest for the senate, but most of the returns were from Cook county, a Brennan stronghold, and Smith's friends said the lead there would be more than off-set by the down state vote.

An hour before midnight no returns had been received from the senatorial races in California, Washington, Oregon and Idaho, and only the most meagre returns had come from Utah, Nevada, Colorado and Arizona. This same situation prevailed with respect to Maryland.

Although the democrats had gained only two seats in the new house out

ONE AMERICAN TURNS TO ANOTHER COUNTRY

It is common for people of other lands to come to America and become citizens of the United States, but we seldom think of Americans taking out naturalization papers and so becoming citizens of some other country. Yet one famous American writer did just that.

This writer was Lafcadio Hearn, who was really an American, although he was born on a Grecian island of an Irish father and a Grecian mother. At the age of 18 he ran away to London, and then came to this country, where he worked on a number of newspapers. Later he was sent to Japan to write articles for a magazine. He became so fond of that country that he spent the rest of his life there, adopted the Buddhist religion, became a Japanese citizen, dressed in the costume of the country and married a Japanese wife.

Hearn thus became almost completely an Oriental, and better than any other Occidental he has told us about the people of the Far East. Having himself become one of them, he was able to understand them more fully than any other Westerner.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Wednesday, Nov. 8, 1922

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was central over Lake Huron Monday night has moved eastward to the Massachusetts coast attended by rains and snows in the north Atlantic states.

A disturbance now over the Gulf of Mexico probably will advance northeastward along the Atlantic coast. As a result, rains are probable over the greater part of the Washington forecast district within the next 36 hours. The weather will clear during Thursday, however, over the middle and southern section east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will not change materially during the next two days.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate to fresh mostly west and northwest and overcast weather, light rain over north portion Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate northwest and north becoming northeast over south portion and overcast weather Wednesday; local rains over south portion.

Forecast

For southern New England: Fair Wednesday; Thursday probably rain; not much change in temperature.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Tuesday:

	Ther.	Bar.
7 a. m.	41	30.00
12 m.	53	29.99
6 p. m.	50	29.90

Highest 52, lowest 46.

Comparisons

Predictions for Tuesday: Light rain, fair and cooler at night.

Tuesday's weather: Rain in morning, followed by fair, southwest wind. Some cooler at night.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the G. G. class of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church school held a Halloween party Saturday evening in the barn at the residence of Miss Mildred Phillips, one of the members of the class. The barn was decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins and in one corner stood a gypsy fortune teller's tent, where palmistry was practiced throughout the evening. There were a number of invited guests and all came in novelty costumes. Games were played and refreshments were served by members of the class.

Delphis Jarry, Mrs. Natalie Phaneuf, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Provost and son Lawrence, Jr., of New Bedford, Mass., were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belval and Mrs. Mathilda Canon of Riverside Grove.

The funeral of Mrs. Axel T. Aberg was held Monday afternoon from her late home at 82 North Third avenue at 2 o'clock with services at the Taftville Congregational church at 2:30. The pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis officiated, and there were many friends and relatives present. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Allan Bogle, William J. McNally, John Volkman, Adam Leupold, Walter S. Grant and George Muddeman. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. Mr. Crowdis read the committal service. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Monday being All Saints day and a holy day of obligation in the Roman Catholic church throughout the world, special masses were celebrated at Sacred Heart church. Low masses were read at 5:30 and 7, and a high mass sung at 8 o'clock. The Sacred Heart school was also closed in observance of the day. Tuesday was All Souls day, and masses of requiem were celebrated at the church at 5:30, 7 and 8 a. m.

A Ford touring car bearing the registration N-1921 while turning from Norwich avenue to Providence street on Monday afternoon, skidded, and collided with the curbing on the north side of the street, completely demolishing one of the rear wheels.

SPANIEL FIGHTS COON WHICH CI'LEY SHOOTS

Frank A. Cilley of 29 Treadway avenue had a fine 14 pound coon as a reward for a hunting trip Tuesday morning in a rather unusual way. He was out beyond Preston City between 8 and 9 o'clock with his trained cocker spaniel when the dog surprised a coon on the ground and promptly mixed it up in lively fashion with the animal. For a while it was doubtful whether coon or dog would be the winner, but Mr. Cilley finally succeeded in getting the animals apart and the coon took to a tree where Mr. Cilley shot it.

Have Reached Havre

The French liner Rochambeau, on which Mr. and Mrs. S. John O'Herron (Helena E. Coughlin) are passengers, on a honeymoon trip to Europe, was reported Tuesday as having reached Havre Sunday.

SHELTERING ARMS HANDSOME NEW BUILDING IS FORMALLY OPENED

The public of Norwich responded in large numbers Tuesday to the opportunity to inspect the new Sheltering Arms building at the head of McKinley avenue. The home has been occupied for some time by the "family," but this was the formal opening for public inspection of the building. The reception hours were from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening.

Visitors were shown all through the finely appointed building which radiates an air of cheerfulness and quiet home comfort, whether it is in the comfortable, sunshiny rooms where the 31 present members of the "family" live, or in the attractive dining room, or the cheerful sun parlors at either end of the building on both floors. The building gives the impression that it is adapted with unusual felicity to make the declining years of its family members peaceful and comfortable.

Mrs. Bessie Beckwith, who has been matron of the home for the past four years, and connected with the Sheltering Arms for the past 10 years, has her "family" well settled in the new structure.

Much of the furniture of the home is antique furniture which has been presented at various times and in various states of repair but all has been reconditioned under the direction of the equipment committee. All the furnishings of the house which have been purchased have been bought from or through Norwich business houses.

The rooms were bright with an abundance of flowers Tuesday, these having been donated by friends of the Sheltering Arms.

The reception committee for the day consisted of members of the Sheltering Arms committee and the building committee. The various committees follow:

Sheltering Arms — Mrs. Allan Cleworth, chairman, Mrs. George W. Carroll, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones, Mrs. Archibald Torrance, Mrs. Charles H. Preston, Mrs. W. Russell Baird, Mrs. Walter T. Camp, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Prentice, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton, Mrs. LaRue Bliven, Mrs. Walter R. Turner, Miss Alice L. Bennett, Mrs. C. Chester MacGregory, Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, Mrs. Charles E. Lee, Mrs. C. A. Gager, Mrs. Eben Learned, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Miss Elizabeth Hall.

Building—Wallace S. Allis, chairman, Shepard B. Palmer, sub-chairman, Miss Adelaide Butts, Mrs. Charles T. Bard, Miss Mary Paddock, Mrs. F. W. Cary, Mrs. Charles H. Preston.

Equipment—Mrs. F. W. Cary, Mrs. C. H. Preston, Mrs. Walter T. Camp.

Decorating—Mrs George W. Carroll, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones, Mrs. Archibald Torrance and Mrs. Charles H. Preston.

Memorials.

Various rooms, donated by friends of the United Workers, and others, show bronze plates with inscriptions showing the purpose of the gifts.

The reception hall was given in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers Huntington, president of the United Workers from 1895 to 1906.

Three double rooms were given in memory of Arthur and Mary Brewer, while still another double room was presented in memory of Andrew J. Woods.

The single rooms were given in memory of Charles Henry Brown; Mrs. Harriet Clark Tourtelotte; Charles E. Meech and Martha M. Lester.

Mrs. Hugh H. Osgood has given the men's wing, which consists of five single rooms and a bath.

Maids and Janitor Suites.

Besides the comfortable provisions for the welfare of the "family" members on the two main floors of the building, there is adequate provision for those employed in the home, the maids and janitor. There is a suite of three maids' rooms with sewing room, sitting room and bath as well as a janitor's suite consisting of sitting room, bed room, toilet and shower.

The general contract on the building was by W. S. Spencer of this city, the plumbing and heating by Harold C. Dahl, the electric fixtures by the Eaton Chase Co., the electric wiring by O'Neil Electric Co., and the painting by Henry F. Beausoliel.

OTTO HOELCK LEADS IN DUWELL PINOCHLE

With a score of 8,180 for the evening, Otto Hoelck went into first place in the Duwell pinochle tournament, Monday night, with a total of 21,940, nearly 1,000 points above Henry Swatzburg, who is in second place. The other feature of the evening's play was the meteoric rise of John Riley who went from 32nd to 18th place in the standing. Four players failed to show up Monday evening, and as the committee was unable to furnish substitutes it was found necessary to draw a table and give the missing players low score for the evening. The scores to date:

O. Hoelck 22,640, H. Swatsburg 21,-780, Jesse Brayman 21,530, E. Cramer 21,420, C. Perkins 21,470, F. Labrie 21,-160, G. Lynch 21,050, F. Moll, 21,020, J. Fumigraro 20,950, John Brayman 20,860, L. WINDHAM GAVE SOLID REPUBLICAN VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 2.—The republicans walked to victory in the town of Windham today with an average lead of 400 votes maintained throughout the ticket, with an enlarged margin of 1,070 majority for Charles A. Gates over A. Hale Bennett for the office of sheriff. The prestige of Frank P. Fenton, democratic candidate for representative alone threatened a break. Fenton was defeated by A. Linn Weatherhead by 94 votes. The republicans carried all but the normally democratic third district with Sheriff Gates solely continuing to carry a majority, thus once more attaining the distinction of carrying all of the four districts of the town, when about 1,100 out of 6,400 voters in the town cast their ballot.

Senator Urgele Lafrance, seeking re-election made an excellent run here where the figures gave him a majority of 500. As was anticipated, trouble did develop over the new ruling as regards designating by an "X" mark, each of the two candidates for representative being voted for in splitting a ticket. It is possible that a recount may be asked for. The first district counters followed the ruling and was some two hours ahead of other wards in completing their work. Much difficulty developed when Chief Moderator George L. Gifford attempted to find out whether or no various districts had counted the votes for representatives according to law. It was finally established that the only legal way to find this out is to call for a recount as the ballot boxes had already been sealed.

That a recount would be taken could not be determined, but friends of Mr. Fenton believed that he might be elected on a recount.

Another delay came about when a clerical error in transposing figures by the second district counters was discovered. This was finally settled and Moderator Gifford made final announcements shortly after 11 o'clock.

The result of the vote was as follows:

Governor, John H. Trumbull, r., 2227; Charles G. Morris, d., 1849; lieutenant governor, J. Edwin Brainard, r., 2235; Milo S. Waters, d., 1827; secretary, Francis A. Pallotti, r., 2236; David M. Richman, d., 1838; treasurer, Ernest E. Rogers, r., 2237; Peter M. Kennedy, d., 1827; comptroller, Frederick M. Salmon, r., 2227; J. Francis Browne, d., 1833; attorney general, Benjamin W. Alling, r., 2227; Frederick M. McCarthy d., 1827; United States senator, Hiram Bingham, r., 2214; Rollin U. Tyler, d., 1857; representative in congress, Richard P. Freeman, r., 2236; Hermon J. Gibbs, d., 1834; sheriff, Charles A. Gates, r., 2584; A. Hale Bennett, d., 1514; senator, Urgele Lafrance, r., 2230; Oscar F. Atwood, d., 1781; judge of probate, Otto B. Robinson, r., 2203; James J. Lee, d., 1892; representatives, A. Linn Weatherhead, r., 2096; Frank F. Fenton, d., 2003; Charles E. Pomeroy, r., 2115; Aime J. Martineau, d., 1949.

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by the Connecticut Commissioner of Agriculture.

Native apples are offered freely throughout the city in several varieties, grades and prices with western apples moving slowly at $2.50 per box. Moderate supplies of California grapes sell at $2.00-$2.25 per box and liberal supplies of New York Concords 20c-22c for 2 qt. and 75c-85c for 12 qt. baskets. Cranberries are slightly easier but oranges remain firm.

Vegetables are being offered in normal quantities at practically unchanged prices. Cauliflower is less plenty, cabbage and onions a little firmer but selling at same prices. Potatoes remain firm and sweets easy. Limited lots of native spinach meet a moderate demand at 75c-85c per bushel.

Poultry is a little easier especially roasters and eggs remain unchanged with all grades firm and fresh stock scarce. Butter also remains firm.

Dressed meats and grains remain steady.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Lillian Burgess has left for Pocasset, Mass., following a week's visit with Miss Natalie King Gibbs.

Mrs. Elida A. Worth is passing the week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Hall, on Long Island.

Mrs. Arthur F. Howard and Miss Lucille L. Howard of Lincoln avenue have returned from New Haven, after a week end visit.

The informal social club of ten, which notes every holiday with a dinner, was entertained Saturday evening at a Halloween party by Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Crowell of Elmwood avenue.

A Beethoven afternoon Tuesday formed the opening meeting for the season of the B Natural club, at the home of Mrs. William F. Bailey on Slater avenue. In serving refreshments later, Mrs. Bailey had the assistance of Mrs. Albert J. Bailey.

Mrs. Clifford Smith of Chicago was the honor guest for whom Mrs. Charles W. Taggart of Broadway entertained with a supper bridge of three tables during the week. At cards, the prizes were won by Miss Marion A. Bliven, Miss Elizabeth Sevin and Miss Gladys L. Peckham; Mrs. Smith receiving the guest prize.

NORWICH TOWN

The November meeting of the Dorcas Home Missionary society, Mrs. William Weaver, president of the First Methodist church, is to be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James B. Aldrich of West Main street, a former president of the society. This also is to be the thank offering meeting.

"Zions Herald Day," was observed at the Methodist church Sunday morning, when the pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten, preached from Luke 10: 25. He said unto him, what is written in the law? how readest thou? with special reference to the last clause. Rev. Mr. Whitten conducted the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, in the absence of the appointed leader. The topic assigned to this meeting was, What Are the Good Points of the Various Races in America? (missionary meeting).

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service of the First Congregational church, Sunday evening, the leader was Miss Grace Wheeler. At this meeting the postponed address on The Constitution of the United States by Principal Henry A. Tirrell of Norwich Free Academy, was given before an attendance of about 25. Although a smaller company than was expected, due to the rain, those present enjoyed the very interesting and highly instructive talk by Mr. Tirrell.

Monday the Feast of All Saints masses were celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 5 and 7 o'clock in the morning. Today (Tuesday) the Feast of All Souls, masses will be at 7 and 8 o'clock this morning. The last mass will be a high mass. For the first Friday of the month mass will be at 7 o'clock in the morning, with devotions in the evening at 7:30, in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. During the 10 o'clock mass Sunday morning, at the offertory, Mrs. Morgan Cronin, soprano, sang Ave Maria by Chase. She was accompanied by the church organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Miner (Hazel Cruthers) returned Saturday, Oct. 28, from their wedding trip and are located in their new home on Huntington avenue.

INSURGENTS LIABLE TO CONTROL NEW CONGRESS

Democrats Gained Seven of Nine Seats Constituting the Republican Majority in the Senate—Also Reduced by 13 the present Republican Majority in the House—Republican Insurgents in Congress Added Two New Members in the Senate—Small Republican Majority Puts the Insurgents in Menacing Strategic Position.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—The shadow of an insurgent hand on the control levers of the new congress took increasing shape tonight with lowly mounting election returns.

As far and near districts sent in their belated vote the democratic inroads into the working majorities of the republicans had reached such proportions that it became certain that the western insurgents would hold the balance of power in the senate and possibly in the house.

Besides gaining seven of the nine seats constituting the republican majority in the senate, the democrats reduced by 13 the present republican majority of 36 in the house.

These gains added to the capture of the governorships in two normally republican states—South Dakota and Colorado—lifted the banner of democracy to the highest pinnacle it has reached since the Wilson administration was returned to office 12 years ago.

A number of senatorial, congressional and gubernatorial contests still remained to be decided early tonight, with the republican candidates having the edge in the senate fights in Indiana, Oregon and California and the democrats far ahead in Kentucky.

Some close contests also were being furnished in the less than two dozen house races which still were to be decided, while democratic governors in two states, Mrs. Nellie Ross in Wyoming and Governor Hunt in Arizona—were being hard pressed.

Republican insurgents in congress not only held their own, but they added two new members in the senate in Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, and John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin. With the republican majority whittled to a bare two or three this group will hold a strategic position in the seventieth congress.

Returns rolling in during the day bowled over four other republican stalwarts in the senate besides Butler, of Massachusetts; Wadsworth, of New York, and Harreld, of Oklahoma. Richard P. Ernst lost to Alben W. Barkley in Kentucky; George H. Williams was defeated by Harry B. Hawes in Missouri; O. E. Weller went down before Millard E. Tydings in Maryland, where Governor Ritchie, democrat, was re-elected for a third term, and Ralph E. Cameron fell before Carl Hayden.

Senators "Jim" Watson and Arthur R. Robinson were gradually increasing their leads in Indiana, while Frederick Steiwer, republican, had a comfortable lead over Bert J. Haney, democrat, and Senator Robert N. Stanfield, independent republican, in Oregon.

Returns drifting in during the day gave Senator Tasker L. Oddie a victory over Raymond T. Baker in Nevada, but the contest in California between Senator Samuel M. Shortridge and John B. Elliott, democrat, still was tied for the undecided class, although Shortridge had what appeared to be a commanding lead.

Leaving aside the four contests on which decisive returns are yet to be received, the democrats have elected 14 senators and the republicans a like number. This give the democrats a total of 47 in the new senate, or two less than a majority, while the republicans have 48 and are certain to elect a senator from Maine on November 29.

Should all four of the seats in dispute go to the major party it still would fall one shy of a bare majority in the new senate, and so Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, would be placed in the position theoretically at least, of controlling the deciding vote on senate organization and other questions.

With 14 districts still to be heard from early tonight, the democrats had succeeded in electing 191 members of the house; the republicans 229 members; the farmer-labors one and the socialists one.

On the face of these figures, the democrats had made a gross gain of 15, all from the republicans, but had lost two to the dominant party, leaving a net gain of 13. Besides the two seats they took from the democrats, the republicans captured one from the socialists, so that its net loss was 12.

The state in which the democrats made their gains were New York 3; Illinois 2; Missouri 2; Pennsylvania 2; Maryland 1; Nebraska 1; New Jersey 1; Ohio 1; Oklahoma 1; West Virginia 1.

The republicans gained one each from the democrats in Kansas, and Rhode Island and one from the socialists in New York by virtue of the fact that Representative Laguardia, now holding his seat as a socialist, ran on the republican ticket.

The three seats which the democrats picked up in New York leaves the delegation from that state divided, 25 democrats and 19 republicans, with both senators from the empire state democratic.

In Pennsylvania two seats are taken from the now present solid republican delegation, making the division 24 and 2. By adding two in Illinois, the democrats have seven against 20 for the republicans while in Ohio the ratio is seven democrats and fifteen republicans.

ELECTION RESULTS IN NORTH ATLANTIC STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Returns from yesterday's elections in North Atlantic states received today from isolated districts showed no reversals of early forecasts.

In New York, the victory of Governor Alfred E. Smith for a fourth term became even more apparent, when, with only 223 upstate districts missing he had a plurality of 372,906 over his republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills.

Carried along on the Smith tidal wave virtually the entire state democratic ticket was elected, with the possible exception of that of attorney general. Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner with only 217 upstate districts missing had a lead of 127,077 over Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., his republican opponent.

Senator William M. Butler, personal friend of President Coolidge, lost his seat in Massachusetts to Former State Senator David I. Walsh, democrat, by about 40,000, while Governor Alvan T. Fuller, republican, receiving a vote of 145,000 over William A. Gaston democrat, was reelected.

In New Hampshire, Senator George H. Moses was returned for his second full term by a majority of 29,413 over his democratic opponent, Major Robert C. Murchie. In the governorship fight, Huntley N. Spaulding, chairman of the State Board of Education, was elected over Major Eaton D. Sargent.

Governor Aram J. Pothier, republican, Rhode Island, was reelected to that office for the seventh term, defeating Mayor Joseph H. Gainer by 13,288.

Vermont elected as governor John E. Weeks, republican, a former judge and commissioner of public welfare, while senator Porter H. Dale, republican, was reelected.

The republican party made a clean sweep in Connecticut where Governor John H. Trumbull and United States Senator Hiram Bingham were reelected.

THREE NEW MEMBERS FOR UNITED STATES SENATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Three new faces will be seen in the senate next month as a result of the election yesterday.

David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, will again be on the democratic side with the seat of William M. Butler, vacant; Harry B. Hawes will be present in place of George H. Williams, of Missouri, and David W. Stewart, of Iowa, will occupy the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Albert B. Cummins during the summer recess of congress.

SIX REPRESENTATIVES ELECTED TO THE SENATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—All six of the members of the house of representatives who sought senate seats yesterday, were successful.

Carl Hayden was elected in Arizona; Millard E. Tydings won in Maryland; Alben W. Barkley won in Kentucky; Harry B. Hawes won in Missouri; Elmer Thomas was in Oklahoma and William S. Vare was elected in Pennsylvania.

SMITH DEFEATS BRENNAN FOR SENATE IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Failure of George E. Brennan, leader of Illinois democracy to accumulate expected pluralities in Chicago on his stand for modification of the prohibition law, gave to Frank L. Smith, republican, the United States senatorship now held by William B. McKinley.

The Smith extended his lead to more than 45,000 with nine-tenths of the vote counted.

The republican candidate, running as a dry, accumulated down-state the large vote he expected while holding Brennan's Chicago plurality to less than 30,000, against the 140,000 plurality which democratic managers claimed until early today.

ELECTION CLAIMS MADE BY THE WETS AND DRYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—(AP)—The wets and the drys were as far apart today in their interpretation of yesterday's election as it reflected prohibition sentiment as they are on the actual issue.

"In every state where the drys had a fighting chance, except Massachusetts, they won in the senatorial contests, according to reports received at our headquarters," said Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon league.

"The result of this election should insure Volstead act revision within constitution limits," said Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, a leader among the wets.

Mr. Wheeler, said that "even in Massachusetts, Governor Fuller, an outstanding dry, was re-elected governor by about 200,000 majority against Mr. Gaston, who said that rum was the only issue before the people."

"This shows that the liquor issue was not the dominant one in the defeat of Senator Butler," he said. "The wets got only nine out of the 35 senators elected.

Senator Edge insisted the returns showed more of a wet ratification than a democratic victory.

"Democratic claims that the result is a condemnation of Coolidge economic policies is ridiculous," he said. "State issues and the wet and dry issue have accomplished the result."

AIMEE McPHERSON BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, ordered held for trial on criminal conspiracy charges today, approached her pulpit in Angelus temple tonight with the judge's statement ringing in her ears that she lay under "strong suspicion" of guilt.

In binding over to the superior court the religious leader, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and her chief accuser, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, Judge Samuel R. Blake, youngest jurist in Los Angeles, said:

"After a full examination of the entire evidence there is sufficient cause to believe the defendants guilty."

Judge Blake fixed bail at $2,500 for each defendant.

The evangelist went white as she heard the decision that sent her to the superior court for trial on the charges she conspired to manufacture evidence supporting her story of kidnapping last May and to refute the allegation that she spent ten days in a Carmel cottage with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant.

Mrs. Kennedy smiled at the court's words. Both women declined to make statements, but as they left Mrs. McPherson turned to friends about her with the impassioned declaration:

"As my God is my judge, I am innocent of these charges."

Coast Guard Boats Were Rum C[illegible]

Six Boats at Boston Ferried Liquor From Rum Row at Uniform Price of $1 a Case.

BOSTON, Nov. 3—(AP)—Six Boston Coast Guard boats, ferrying liquor from rum row at a union price of $1 a case, have led to a federal investigation that has revealed Coast Guard boats as regular rum carriers, with some of their officers as part owners in rum row vessels, according to a copyrighted story in the Boston American tonight.

The facts have been revealed by a confessed Coast Guard participant to National Coast Guard Commander William J. Wheeler, in a series of secret examinations of coast guardsmen at the Hotel Essex here, the story says. Commander Wheeler has returned to Washington, with his reports and his assistants have uncovered a new trail to Providence, R. I.

Details of the manner in which the coast guardsmen landed their liquor were printed by the paper in an interview with a member of one of the patrol boats involved in the investigation.

"My boat and three others in our patrol running out of Base 2" (South Boston), "would spend four days on rum row," he said. "After we left port the skipper would tell us the name of the boat we were to unload or assist in getting the booze off into speed boats.

"When we got out to rum row the George and Earle, one of the best known rum runners that comes to rum row would greet our skipper. On one occasion, seven speed boats from Plymouth came up alongside the George and Earle and we helped unload 1,300 cases of liquor off this ship to the speed boats. On this particular load our skipper got $1,300. Our crew numbered eight, counting the skipper. The crew got $200 to split among seven, while the skipper had a grand for himself.

"Believe me things were rosy. After we got through work we would celebrate. Night after night our crews have been so drunk that we did not know whether we were in rum row or some place else.

"I have known occasions when a coast guard boat would accompany as many as seven speed boats from rum row into Plymouth harbor to see that they were escorted safely in.

"We unloaded an average of 1,500 cases a night, so you see all the boys were fixed pretty good financially."

The coast guardsman blamed the "leak" on friction among the men who "didn't see why they should unload liquor for nothing for one of the officers of the base when they could split up from $500 to $600 among seven men for a night's work."

The radio operator on the I'm Alone, another rum runner, was understood to be the department of justice agent who secured the evidence against the coast guardsmen, the man said.

"I was always suspicious of that boat because one day I saw one of the crew taking pictures of our patrol boat unloading the George and Earle. These pictures have been turned in as evidence to the investigators."

REVOLT WAS BLOCKED BY FRENCH POLICEMAN

PERPIGNAN, France, Nov. 3—(AP)—The Catalan revolutionary movement, which ended here yesterday with the arrest of 98 conspirators, went on the rocks because a French policeman spent a year watching the movements of the plotters, and had everything ready when the time for action arrived.

To make matters even worse for the plotters, mostly youthful Catalan intellectuals, the revolutionary leaders got mixed in their dates and for a time lost thei rway among the foothills of the Pyranees well inside the French frontiers.

The French policeman, who had his shark in guiding the revolutionary movement in the way in which he thought it ought to go, was Commissary Bringer of the first brigade of the Paris police. Bringer ferreted out the headquarters of the "State at Catalan" which was bold enough to post its colors on a building in the Bois Colombes a suburb of Paris. For more than a year he followed the activities of the revolutionary leaders whose ostensible object was the separation of Catalonia from Spain.

PREDICTS RETURN TO LOCAL OPTION LIQUOR LAW

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Return to local option was seen today by Chester P. Mills, prohibition director for this district in the passage of the referendum.

"The referendum indicate a tendency on the part of the country to revert to the status of 1916, when prohibition was rapidly gaining ground through the medium of local option," he said.

"I believe the country as a whole realizes that prohibition is responsible for the present prosperity in the country. Prohibition, however, to be effective must be supported by the people of each community. The federal government can and should be charged with the control of liquor sources and the flow of liquor between states.

"The contempt and utter disregard of this law cannot continue in a law-abiding and self-governing country such as ours."

OBITUARY

Rev. J. Ffank Chase

BOSTON, Nov. 3—(AP)—Rev. J. Frank Chase who for nearly twenty years directed the campaigns of the New England Watch and Ward society against various vices, drugand liquor selling and gambling, is dead. He had held the post since 1907 and had been prominent for years in various social reform movements. Death came after a week's illness from pneumonia.

While his activities had often brought him into the public eye, he became involved in a case of national note early this year when he moved against the sale of an issue of a magazine, the American Mercury. He alleged that certain articles were "obscene, indecent and impure printing, manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth." H. L. Mencken, editor, was arrested when he came to Boston an dsold copies on the street for a test case but was found not guilty when Judge Parmenter in municipal court found that the issue contained nothing salacious.

A newsdealer in Cambridge was arrested on a similar charge, however, and was found guilty and fined. Mencken obtained a temporary injunction to prevent interference by Mr. Chase and the society with the sale of his magazine and filed suit for $50,000 against [illegible]

From 40 to 50 Miners Buried by Cave-in Section 300 Feet Long and 200 Feet Wide Dropped 600 Feet in Michigan Mine.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Nov. 3—(AP)—Between 40 and 50 miners are believed to have lost their lives in a cave-in at the Barnes-Hecker Iron Mine at North Lake, 8 miles west o there today. A section of the mine surface, 300 feet long and 200 feet wide fell to the first level of the shaft, a drop of 600 feet and is believed to have trapped the entire shift working in that section of the mine at the time.

The section which caved in consisted of swamp ground and fell with a sucking thud which was heard for miles. The muck and water soon flooded the entire level, cutting off any chance of the men to escape, it is believed.

Two hours after the disaster, the muck and water was reported to have broken through the other levels and to be rapidly rising again to the top of the mine. At five o'clock it was within 135 feet of the surface, precluding any slight chance of escape for any one in the mine.

One party of rescuers who were able to approach the first level before the waters filled that section reported seeing the bodies of five miners swirling away in the slough through an outlet to the lower level.

The rescue party was forced to turn back owing to the speed with which the tunnel filled with mud and water.

Officials of the mining company said there was one possible outlet for the men. This outlet leads to a nearby shaft from the third level of the Barnes-Hecker mine. If the men could have reached this outlet and blocked a level in the adjoining shaft there was a bare possibility of their escape. This hope was admitted to be exceedingly slight, however, and was practically abandoned early tonight as the shaft also began filling with water which had worked itself through the outlet.

The Barnes-Hecker mine is operated by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Mining company, and is known as a "wet" mine. The iron ore removed from it is referred to as "soup" ore because of the mixture of water and seepage.

TESTIMONY OPENS IN THE HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Four years after the double-killing upon which they are based, the first of the Hall-Mills trials was opened today in the little county courthouse here modernized to accommodate a human drama already allotted a page in American criminal annals.

Opening its case, the state moved with contrasting swiftness.

John L. Dixon, of North Plainfield, N. J., hitherto unmentioned even in the list of more than 100 prospective witnesses, was called to deliver the first blow at a defense alibi.

He told how he had stepped from his home at about 8:30 o'clock on the night that the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were shot down.

Willie Stevens, one of the defendants at the door. Stevens, who with his brother, Henry, and his sister, the minister's widow, are on trial for murder, has asserted he spent the entire evening in question at the Hall home. His statement to this effect has been supported by Mrs. Hall.

Dixon testified that Willis told him he had just been set down from his sister's automobile and that he understood Willie to believe himself near the Parker house, a home for the aged about 500 yards from the supposed scene of the murders.

Willie was afoot, Dixon said, and appeared excited. After directing him to a trolley line, Dixon said he lost sig htof Willie, not seeing him get on a street car. Dixon's testimony was corroborated by his wife, who said she shook hands with Willie and found his hand as soft as a woman's and cold and clammy.

SCOVILL MANUFACTURING CO. TO INCREASE CAPITAL

WATERBURY, Nov. 3—(AP)—The Scovill Manufacturing company of this city, plans an increase of $4,425,000 in capital stock, which will be issued as a stock dividend, and a reduction in the par value of the capital stock from $100 to $25 by a corresponding multiplication in the number of shares. The increase in capital from the present figure of $27,700,000 to $32,125,000 is to be made by a transfer from the corporate surplus to the capital account.

Under the new plan the number of shares in the concern will be 885,000 as compared to 177,000 at the present time. This will reflect itself in a reduction in the market value of the shares to such an extent that they will be available to small investors. The proposed movement is in line with the present day developments among the larger industrial and public service corporations.

A meeting of the stockholders will be held on November 16th. The matter has already been approved by the directors of the Scovill Manufacturing company and the action is expected to take place immediately following confirmation by the stockholders.

FOUR MEN KILLED IN A GUN FIGHT IN TOMBS PRISON, N. Y.

Three Prisoners and a Keeper Were Slain When Three Armed Prisoners Attempted to Shoot Their Way to Freedom—Two Other Prisoners Were Wounded in the Desperate Battle—All the Wounded Were Taken to Beekman Street Hospital—Police Reserves Were Rushed to the Scene in Response to a Riot Call—Police Snipers Fired Bullets at the Ambushed Prisoners From the Windows of Adjoining Buildings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Four men were killed today and two were wounded when the yard of famous old Tombs prison was turned into a battleground as three desperate criminals attempted to shoot their way to freedom.

All the prisoners were killed, but before they died they killed a prison keeper, wounded another, and shot Warden Peter Mallon below the heart.

The dead:

Michael (Rad) McKenna, robber and alleged murderer.

Hyman Amberg, robber and alleged murderer.

Oliver Glantz, alias Oliver Berg, Chicago and New York robber.

Jeremiah Murphy, prison keeper.

The wounded:

Warden Mallon, shot below the heart.

Prison Keeper Daniel O'Connor, shot in the back.

Amberg and McKenna died in Beekman Street hospital almost as soon as they were taken there in ambulances. Glantz and Murphy died in the prison yard.

The attempted escape resulted in the first riot call sounded in many years in New York. All available reserves from police headquarters, three blocks away, were rushed to the prison and motorcycle police from all over Manhattan roared across the city to the scenes of the battle. Among the first to arrive was the emergency squad from headquarters, picked men armed with small arms, rifles, shotguns and gas bombs.

The streets surrounding the prison were cleared and police snipers poured bullets down at the ambushed prisoners from the windows of adjoining buildings.

It had been a quiet day in the prison and nothing was suspected when Berg sent word that he was feeling ill and wanted to see the prison physician. A keeper was sent to his cell on the eighth tier and while he was there Amberg and McKenna also complained of illness. The keeper took them out of their cells and in an elevator down to the first floor.

The doctor's office is close to the main prison gate on Center street. Keeper Louis Loreb was standing by this gate as the men approached, with the key in his hand. Drawing automatics the prisoners suddenly dashed toward him.

"Open the gate or we'll croak you," one of them shouted.

"Go to hell," Lorch retorted and dived into an alcove as the trio opened fire.

The first shots caused an uproar in the prison and Warden Mallon came running from his office by the gate. He started toward the prisoners and pitched forward with a bullet through his body.

The prisoners then ran to the center of the prison yard where there was a great pile of soft coal and dug themselves in like soldiers in open warfare. The riot call was sounded and soon the prison was surrounded by police with drawn guns.

It was impossible for police to enter the prison yard without being shot down before seeing their quarry, so snipers armed with rifles were sent to upper windows of the criminal courts building, which is connected with the prison by the famous "Bridge of Sighs," and of adjoining office buildings. From these vantage points the prisoners using the coal pile as fortification could be seen and heavy firing began. The prisoners ran from the coal pile and took cover under a curved wall.

This gave them temporary protection but they were quickly spotted and firing resumed. In a clash when the prisoners attempted to rush through a door opened by armed keepers, Murphy was killed and O'Connor wounded. The prisoners were driven back into the yard, however, and there they stayed, making frequent sallies against the forces of the law, until they were all shot down.

The Tombs, which has housed some of the most dangerous criminals the country has ever known is carefully guarded and no explanation could be offered how the prisoners obtained their automatic pistols. Smuggling pistols into the Tombs is not unprecedented, however, as less than two months ago two loaded pistols and several steel saws were found. At that time a platoon of police was assigned to the prison to act as extra guards to prevent any possible attempt at a jail delivery.

All three of the slain prisoners were known to the police as desperate characters. Each was being held for trial on charges growing out of separate robberies, in two of which men were killed.

Berg was awaiting trial in connection with the attempted robbery and murder of Aaron Bodack, Broadway jeweler, last July. He has a record of a number of arrests on charges from petty larceny to homicide, but in every instance he secured acquittal or suspended sentence.

McKenna, alias John Dunn, also had been up on a number of charges, most of which resulted in acquittals or suspended sentences. He was last arrested in July, charged with participating in the robbery of the Ried Ice Cream company. Bandits held up the establishment and escaped with $3,000 after killing an employe who tried to stop them.

Glantz was awaiting trial for a diamond robbery in Malden lane last September. He was brought here from Ohio, where he was being held as a suspect in connection with a diamond robbery in that state.

LAWYER BECK TESTIFIED IN MORSE FRAUD TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, took the stand in the Morse stock fraud trial today to answer questions concerning his actions while he was counsel fort he United States Steamship company, the principal Morse concern.

Mr. Beck replied to questions that he was retained in 1916 as counsel at a salary of $5,000, payable quarterly and that he held that position until 1919. He said that at no time had he been consulted concerning the organization of the steamship company.

He told of going to the British Admiralty office in London with Charles W. Morse for a consultation concerning purchase of ships and said that the only legal paper he ever prepared for Morse was an underwriting agreement for the purchase of some ships.

"At the time you went to the admiralty office," he was asked by Henry A. Wise, of defense counsel, "were you conspiring with Morse to defraud in the sale of steamship stock?"

Special Assistant Attorney General Dobyns objected to this question and Judge Thacher upheld the objection, "unless Mr. Beck wishes to put a denial on the record, which is unnecessary."

"I do not doubt it would have been denied," Wise replied, "and if he did not I would deny it for him."

THREE NEGROES WERE ARRESTED FOR THEFT

HARTFORD, Nov. 3 (AP)—Three negroes wanted by the Bridgeport police were arrested on a train at the Union station today, by Detective Sergeant Sutherland charged with theft. The trio said they were Willie Ellis, 27, and MacWilliams, 32, both of New York, and Marion Ice, 26, of Boston. They were discharged to Detective Sergeants Holbrook and Seery of Bridgeport, who arrived late today to claim the prisoners.

The two Bridgeport officers said that the trio had stolen $65 in cash and a gold watch from a rooming house in Bridgeport where they had lived. Suspecting that they had started for Boston, the woman's home, they telephoned a description of the three negroes to this city.

TO AGAIN PROSECUTE DAUGHERTY AND MILLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—Federal Attorney Emory R. Buckner announced tonight he would again prosecute former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and former Alien Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller, whose recent trial on charges on conspiring to defraud the government resulted in a jury disagreement. Buckner said he would request the court to set trial for December.

The charges against Daugherty and Miller grew out of the transfer to a Swiss corporation of some $7,000,000 worth of war-impounded stock of the American Metal company.

FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—By proclamation, President Coolidge directed today that the flag should be displayed on all government buildings on Armistice day, November 11, and called upon the people to observe the day with "Thanksgiving and prayer, and exercises designated to perpetuate peace through good will and mutual understanding between nations."

The proclamation read:

"Whereas, the 11th of November, 1918, marked the cessation of the most destructive sanguinary and far-reaching war in human annals; and

"Whereas, it is fitting that the recurring anniversary of this date should be commemorated with Thanksgiving and prayer and exercises designed to perpetuate peace through good will and mutual understanding bet ween nations: and

"Whereas, by a concurrent resolution, passed by the senate on June 4, 1926, the president was requested to issue a proclamation calling upon the officials to display the flag of the United States on all government buildings on November 11th, and inviting the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches or other places, with appropriate ceremonies expressive of our gratitude for peace and our desire for the continuance of friendly relations with all other peoples.

"Now, therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge president of the United States of America, in pursuance of the said concurrent resolution, do hereby order that the flag of the United States be displayed on all government buildings on November 11th, 1926 and do invite the people of the United States to observe the day in schools and churches, or other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies, expressive of our gratitude for peace and our desire for the continuance of friendly relations with all other peoples.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

"Done at the city of Washington, this third day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty six and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundredfifty-first."

GOVT. FORCES AMBUSHED 250 NICARAGUAN REBELS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 3—(AP)—Government forces under command of General Duron ambushed 250 armed revolutionaries at Jicaro, department of Neuvd Segovia, near the Honduran frontier, yesterday, killing 25 and wounding 35. Many military supplies, including bombs loaded with nails, were captured. The rebels carried a Mexican flag which was taken by the government troops.

Advices of the engagement which were sent to this city by Thomas Brighton, an employee of the Ban Albino mine, which is American-owned, also report that Alfred Williamson, an American, was among those killed.

SHERIFF CHARLES A. GATES POPULAR VOTE GETTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 3.—A compilation of election returns from the 15 towns in Windham county show that Charles A. Gates of this city was re-elected sheriff of Windham county with a plurality of 2,656 votes over A. Hale Bennett of Brooklyn and that he headed his ticket with a plurality of 1,670 in the town of Windham. Bennett took the lead in the three towns of Canterbury, Plainfield and Brooklyn. The total vote cast for Gates Tuesday was 7,763 and for Bennett 5,103 and the huge vote for the Windham sheriff was the feature of the election returns in the county. In 1922, Sheriff Gates took a plurality of 1,715. The vote by towns follows:

The Windham county superior court resumed here Wednesday forenoon with the case of Robert E. Dziomba vs. Alfred E. Sault, a suit for damages from an automobile collision, the first to come up. The cars owned and driven respectively by the plaintiff and defendant crashed in the town of Warehouse Point on Nov. 15, 1925. The plaintiff was badly injured when a piece of broken glass cut his right cheek, leaving a deep scar. The contention of the plaintiff side was that the defendant was driving on the wrong side of the road and was responsible for the accident. The hearing of this testimony took until 1 o'clock when court adjourned for luncheon.

Alfred E. Sault, the defendant, in turn testified that the Dziomba car was on the wrong side of the road and that he vainly endeavored to avoid a collision. The papers in the case were taken by Judge Baldwin. The case of Stanley O'Bara of this city vs. Herbert L. Switzer of Jordan road, Windham, a suit to recover on a grocery bill, was concluded by the attorneys. Judge Baldwin also reserved decision in this case. O'Bara alleged that Switzer had run up a large grocery bill, part of which was paid up with milk which Switzer left at the store. There was a due balance of about $66.54. Switzer denied owing the money, testifying that he sold milk to O'Bara and bought groceries at the store. What milk he brought paid for most of the groceries and the balance he settled up every night in cash. Charles Jacobs who worked for Switzer at one time, testified that Switzer did not settle up his account with O'Bara and he knew that there was a balance left.

Court adjourned at 5:10 o'clock until next Tuesday morning at 10:15 o'clock in this city. Clerk of the court, Miss Marjorie Bradford, will preside at a reassignment of cases session in this city Friday.

Edwin C. Ackley of South Park street, was charged with overloading his automobile truck in police court Wednesday morning. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $32.40 which he paid. The court took into consideration the fine record of the man. Ackley unwittingly got into trouble when driving toward this city from Hartford about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. In Andover, his truck slightly sideswiped one of the New England Transportation company busses which was on its way to Hartford from this city and was operated by Gabriel H. Byrne of Providence. Several panes of glass in the buss were smashed, inflicting cuts on the driver's face and head, but fortunately causing no injuries to passengers. A telephone call to this city caused Ackley's apprehension as he reached here. He disclaimed any knowledge of the accident but upon finding evidence of scraping with some object in looking over the right side of the truck he agreed that his truck must have caused the damage and offered to settle for all damages. Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley turned the investigation over to State Policeman Harrison J. Hulburt of the Stafford Springs barracks. The truck was weighed and found to be 2,375 pounds over its legal carrying capacity.

Fernand, three months' old son of Eugene and Mary Blanche Desjardins Beaulieu, died at the home of his parents, 27 Temple street, Wednesday morning. Besides his parents the deceased leaves two sisters, Lorentia and Irene and one brother, Henry, of this city.

There was unusual interest in town this year over the election of representatives, the republicans nominated Dr. William L. Higgins and Walter S. Haven and the democrats nominated Ernest H. Woodworth and Perkins L. Lathrop, all prominent men of the town. The same candidates were nominated two years ago, the republicans winning by a narrow margin. This year the strife was on with renewed vigor, the democrats claiming they would win by a good majority. However the republican town committee of long experience declared that the republicans would win by a larger majority than two years ago. The result was awaited with intense interest. The republican ward, Higgins and Haven being re-elected.

J. R. Lee is boarding a herd of dry cows for W. E. Orcutt.

"Cascarets" for Your Bowels if Headachy, Sick

To-night! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach

Get a 10-cent box.

Put aside — just once — the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then, and never have Headache, Biliousness, Severe Colds, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

NOANK

Young Sherman of the village, a fordivision, has taken his gloves from the division has taken his gloves from the attic and wants to get into action again. Sherman is fast and can hit with both hands. He is training hard by doing road work, punching the bag and boxing with different sports of the town. He runs three miles each day. His last big fight was in West Mystic, where he put Ellson of Bridgeport to sleep in four rounds. He has been boxing for 12 years and has met many fast fighters in the navy and in civilian ranks. He is challenging Carroll Wagner, winner at New London and means to put Noank on the boxing map.

George Banks has returned from Montauk.

Charles Wolverton of this village a Yale graduate left for Schenectady, N. Y., recently and is working with the General Electric company. He is in the radio room, looking radios over and seeing if they are all right to leave the factory. Mr. Wolverton is a civil and electric engineer.

Lewis Main of New York is home on a few days' visit.

Boat Maybe, Walter Palmer, captain, and Hadley Fitch, mate, sailed out of the harbor Wednesday morning with flags flying. People on the shore were waving good bye and the other boats were blowing horns and whistles, signalling good luck. The white boat is on its way to Miami, Fla., which is 1500 miles away and it will take about two weeks to make the trip. The first stop will be made at Long Branch, N. J.

Capt. Palmer's father and brother went with the skipper as far as New Jersey. Capt. Palmer is an ex-navy man and understands the water, while his mate, Fitch, was cook on a steam yacht for several years. It is the first time for 30 years that the boat has been on a trip.

John Scroggins spent Tuesday in Saybrook.

Leon Sistare has gone to New York for a short visit with relatives.

Tuesday morning a flock of wild geese was flying over the village bound south where the warm air and sun will keep them warm this winter. Old timers said "Winter has come now. Look out for a cold snap when the geese are going south."

Voting in the village Tuesday was light but the republican vote was 316 and the democratic 126. Richard P. Freeman on the republican ticket for congress got a big vote in Noank. All World war men voted for him as he helped put through the soldier bill. Ben Mull, a former Noank boy, won out in the town; he was on the republican ticket from the East Side.

William R. Douglass has the fastest and largest cat around these parts. It weighs 15 pounds and is about 5 years old. The animal is a tiger and her name is Bessie. The cat is a great rat catcher.

Bessie is as good as a watchman. If any stranger is around the house she will cry until she awakes her master to see who it is.

Harold Rathbun has concluded work with the Tourjee Truck company as driver.

Mrs. F. Rugg of Westport, Mass., spent a day at Groton Long Point this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheeler of Storrs were recent callers at Groton Long Point.

Radios were working in good shape Tuesday evening and many people were listening to election returns from New York. The village was pulling hard for Al Smith to win out and many cheers went around when Smith was leading.

The small building used as waiting room at Brook street was tipped over in Halloween pranks. The trolley section gang from Mystic on Tuesday put the shelter back in place.

George Akers is confined to his home by illness.

John Robertson is employed by the Rogers Boat company as carpenter.

Frank Muse has returned from Cape Cod.

James Ashby, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ashby, met with an accident Tuesday when about to close the door of an auto coach. His thumb was caught as the door was closed. The injury received was very painful.

MANSFIELD CENTER

A telegram was received here early Sunday morning telling of the death of Lucius S. Bigelow in Buffalo, N. Y. It is supposed that the funeral was held Monday afternoon. Mr. Bigelow had been ill for a number of weeks with a form of nervous exhaustion but his condition had not been considered serious by his friends here. Mr. Bigelow's death is a very real loss to Mansfield, where he owned much real estate and where he had been actively interested, with his family, in the affairs of the church, the library and grange, as well as other public matters ever since coming here 20 years ago from Glen Ridge, N. J., as summer residents.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid society held last week at the home of Mrs. M. E. Walker there was a prayer service and election of officers. Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones was elected president, Mrs. G. E. Wyman, vice president, Mrs. A. H. Dresser, secretary and Mrs. M. E. Walker, treasurer. The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dresser.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Hollow held a prayer service Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss French. Miss French served a dainty luncheon.

Carolyn Atwood of Conantville and Evelyn Taylor of this village were hostesses at Hallowe'en parties Saturday afternoon and evening.

BALTIC

The S. S club of Baltic held its first meeting of the season at the home of Miss Evelyn Houghton, 272 Main street. A large number of members were present. An election of officers took place, Miss Eva Orme taking the office of treasurer and Miss Evelyn Houghton that of secretary. The president remained as before owing to the fact that no other member was nominated to run against her. During the evening games were enjoyed and several instrumental and vocal solo's rendered. At the close of the meeting a light lunch was served by Miss Houghton who was assisted by the Misses Phyllis Bell and Mary Brierly. The first meeting proved to be a real success and it was voted that the next meeting take place Monday evening, Nov. 8 at the home of Miss Phyllis Bell.

GUARD AGAINST "FLU" WITH MUSTEROLE

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

LIBERTY HILL

Rev. L. L. Harris and Everett C. Payson, are delegates to the 59th Annual meeting of the general conference of the Congregational churches of Connecticut, which will convene at Norwich, United Congregational church November 9th and 10th.

Miss Olive Burnham of Hampton, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Davoll.

Sunday morning was quite pleasant with the mercury up to 68 degrees but with the change of the wind from southwest to north the mercury fell 10 degrees in the afternoon, with a smart cold rain which continued until about 9 o'clock in the evening. Monday morning was clear with mercury at 30 degrees and ice formed.

Albert E. Harris with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. Colt Harris came from New London Sunday afternoon in a closed automobile and spent part of the afternoon with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. George Clark. It rained hard when they started for home.

The Men's club entertained their wives and young women friends Monday night. About 70 were present and enjoyed a very nice supper consisting of meat loaf, fresh pork spareribs, mashed potato, salads, pickles, cake, pie and coffee. The guests gave them a rising vote of thanks.

Rev. L. L. Harris' text for his fine sermon Sunday morning was Luke 2. A part of the 49th verse, "Wise ye not that I must be about my father's business?" No evening meeting was held on account of the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kinniard entertained their son Gordon and his wife, of Hartford and their niece, Miss Ruth Cleland and Miss Alice Zercie, students of Willimantic Normal school, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lewis and Eugene Lewis of Willimantic visited Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Goodrich, Monday.

The Ladies' Aid society is preparing to serve a chicken pie supper.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if cross, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity" laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

SCRUTINIZES LEGISLATION AFFECTING IRISHWOMEN

Dublin has an active Irishwomen's Citizens' association which keeps close watch on legislation affecting women and children, on the conditions under which women and girls emigrate from the aforstat and on the question of family endowment. At elections it issues questionnaires to the candidates and is endeavoring to increase the number of woman representatives. The president is the Hon Alice Spring Rice, daughter of Lord Monteagle. The association intends to press for the setting up of a state children's department to deal with the various aspects of child welfare, make effective the "declaration of the rights of the child" adopted by the league of nations and recently signed by President Cosgrave and Cardinal O'Donnell. It urges that the status of the women employed in the Dublin metropolitan police division be made the same as that of the men.

DANIELSON

GETS FIRST SENATOR IN FOURTEEN YEARS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 3—Killingly will have three members of the legislature of 1927—Attorney E. L. Darbie, speaker of the house the last session, as the republican senator from the 28th district, of which Killingly is a part, and Representatives Arthur W. Williams and William C. Hunter, republicans. For the first time since 1913, when Postmaster E. H. Keach was the senator from this district, Killingly will have one of its citizens as a member of the upper house. In the 14 years that have since elapsed the honor of the senatorship has gone to other towns of the district.

Attorney Darbie is an experienced legislator and will do honor to Killingly in the senate. In Representatives Williams and Hunter, Killingly will have able and responsible representation. If so happens that neither previous has been a member of the legislature, but the are men of experience in affairs and capable of serving well.

The outstanding evangelistic work of years among a group of churches of Danielson will be inaugurated next Sunday morning and will continue for a period of three weeks under the direction of Dr. Milton S. Rees, famous as a preacher and leader of such endeavors.

For some time past the preparatory work for this series of meetings has been underway and committees representative of the interested churches have been at work on various phases of the arrangements.

Dr. Rees will preach at these union religious services and will direct the choir. He has had great success in his work in larger cities and smaller communities of the country. Dr. Rees, who is a personal friend of Rev. Ralph Cushman, a former pastor of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church and has heard much of this community from him, has declared his special interest in coming to Danielson.

So well have the committees carried on the advance work that there already is assurance of exceptional interest in the three weeks' series of meetings.

The executive committee is made up of Rev. Roger V. Stimson, Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, Edward Hammett, Frank T. Preston, Sidney H. Perry, Harold Holehouse, Rev. Alma Gallup and U. G. Jessup. There are other committees dealing with arrangements for music, finance, ushering, etc.

No political turmoil centered about the candidacy of Judge Sabin S. Russell to succeed himself as judge of probate in the town of Killingly, as his vote fo 1873 in Tuesday's election will indicate. Judge Russell had both the republican and democratic nominations and with the best wishes of both parties.

As for a number of years past, Plainfield returns were far belated, not being available until shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, when all other eastern Connecticut towns had reported and only five towns in the state were missing from the list of returns. The delay in Plainfield held up final compilation of returns from the senatorial district and county, but the hard working counters said that no earlier completion of their work was possible.

Wednesday afternoon the funeral of John McNally, who died at Brooklyn Monday, was held from the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy with a service at St. James' church at 2.30, followed by burial in Holy Cross cemetery. Up to the time of Mr. McNally's burial no relative of his had been located. He was a native of Riverpoint, R. I., was 59 years of age and was employed usually as a mill worker.

A political warrior of many campaigns—John M. Bessette—is going to represent Brooklyn in the legislature in the session of 1927. As the democratic candidate for the place, he won a victory over Sidney W. Bard in Tuesday's voting and for the second time achieved the honor of being sent to Hartford to represent one of the historical towns of the state. Mr. Bessette on Wednesday expressed his gratitude for the support he received at the polls. This will be Mr. Bessette's second term in the legislature, as he represented Brooklyn during the session of 1913. Mr. Bessette has been the tax collector of Brooklyn for many years and has a wide acquaintance among the electorate.

The subject of the sermon at the Goodyear service last Sunday morning was Unearned Burdens, and the thing emphasized by Rev. C. A. Downs was that it is a Christian duty to bear them. The text chosen was Mark 15.21. The choir was augmented by several young people of the church.

A feature of the activities at the Goodyear church the past week was a Hallowean social held in the church basement Friday night at which 70 young people were present. Mrs. Joseph Gree nand Miss Nancy Whitaker had the party in charge and there was a splendid evening of pleasure.

A party of the Halloween period was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kosmaler in Attawaugan. There were pretty decorations of autumn leaves and crepe paper, favors and other pretty things. There were games and other diversions. Refreshments were served. The party included Miss Rose Goodstein, Irene Piper, Katherine T. Thaer and Thomas Howarth, who are employed with Miss Kosmaler in Worcester; Dr. Joseph King and Nelson Wood of Worcester and Clarence Kosmaler of Webster.

Killingly grange had another of its big occasions last Monday night when Highland grange of South Killingly presented them with the Conn. State Traveling gavel. One hundred and twenty nine patrons were present, 65 being visitors representing 12 outside granges. In the ceremony of presenting the gavel, Mrs. A. A. Tillinghast, lecturer of Highland grange, in well chosen and felicitious words referred to the happy relationship that has ever existed between Highland and Killingly granges. These granges were alluded to as twin, sisters having been organized practically at the same time and their life has been closely interwoven ever since. In accepting the gavel Charles A. Downs, lecturer of Killingly grange thanked the visiting grange for their kind words and assured them of Killingly's reciprocal friendship. Highland grange then gave the following program:

Vocal solo, Alice Terwilliger; reading, Mildred Kelley; dialogue, Mrs. Tilton and Mr. Whitaker; address, "The Relation of the Church and the Grange," Rev. George Chambers; reading, A. A. Tillinghast.

Speeches were then made by the following out of town speakers: John B. Perry, donor of the gavel; Mrs. H. J. Whitham, Conn. state lecturer; C. M. Adams, state assistant steward; Louis S. Barstow, master of Quinebaug Pomona; Past Master Myra J. Frink of Brooklyn, past master and former state deputy, I. E. Crouch, Mrs. Hannah Bates, lecturer of Quinebaug Pomona and Vine R. Franklin, Treas., Suzie G. Williams, Sec., and Mrs. Delia R. Weeks, chaplain of Quinebaug Pomona grange.

Excellent refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting the committee in charge being, Mrs. A. Tait Hope, Clara Burrows, Mrs. Maud Keech, Helen Kelle and Mrs. John Gallup. The hall decorations were furnished by William Burns of Wauregan and were arranged by Mrs. Hope and Miss Kelley.

Old fashioned harvest dinner Friday, 5 to 7 p. m., at Congregational church.—adv.

Very few election bets were made in Danielson this year, a year of peculiar lack of enthusiasm over what might happen at the polls.

Progress continues to be made on the south addition interior of the enlarged high school. This part of the building is given over to the auditorium and gymnasium and will be ready about the first of the year.

Upwards of 1,000 electors in the town of Killingly failed to go to the polls in the state election on Tuesday, and of these members who were called for with automobiles declined the opportunity to vote.

An interesting sidelight on the contest for senator from this, the 28th district, was that Attorney E. L. Darbie, Danielson, the republican candidate, received his largest vote for any one town of the district in Putnam, the home town of Mrs. Dorothy Jones Bartlett, the democratic candidate, and that Mrs. Bartlett made her best showing in Attorney Darbie's home town of Killingly. There's an unusual situation to figure out if one cares to ponder over it. However, Attorney Darbie had a substantial majority in both Killingly and Putnam.

The Rees meetings will begin at the Baptist church Sunday at 10.30 a. m.—adv.

There have been few responses, as far as can be learned, from this section to the appeal for intestinal tracts or whole partridges found ill or dead of diseases, to be sent to Bowdoin college for examination to establish if possible all the facts about the epidemic among partridges or ruffled grouse. This is a matter in which the sportsmen still can assist if they desire to do so.

On the first alarm in weeks a truck of the fire department left the central station in Academy street at 11.15 on Wednesday morning to care for a chimney fire at the W. K. Pike house occupied by Hosea Greene on Hutchins street. There was no damage.

Judge Oscar F. Atwood of Brooklyn, as democratic candidate for senator in the 28th district and with County Commissioner Urgele LaFrance, republican, of Central Village as his opponent, was regarded Wednesda as having made a very good showing for a losing candidate, being beaten by only 604 votes out of a total of more than 8,000.

HEBRON

HEBRON COUPLE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

HEBRON, Nov. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Frances G. Waldo celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Hebron Tuesday afternoon, by an informal reception to their friends and neighbors. An original poem was read by their cousin, Alonzo Latham of Columbia. A solo, by Ruth Raymond, recitation by Mrs. Della Porter, and an instrumental duet by Mrs. Lucius Robinson and Mrs. Howard Champe, completed the entertainment program.

The roof is being put on the new school building. Rapid advancement toward completion is in order.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert were visitors in Willimantic Sunday.

The Lincoln club committee meets at the Congregational parsonage to plan for their booth, Friday evening.

WARRENVILLE

A good crowd attended the republican rally at Knowlton Memorial hall Friday evening. The speakers were the Hon. J. Edwin Brainard, lieut. governor of Conn., Mrs. R. J. Whitham, state grange lecturer, and Richard P. Freeman, congressman from this district. Elbert L. Darbie, speaker of the house of representatives, presided. Mr. Lyman's orchestra furnished music for community singing, which was led by Dr. Herringer.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. George Knowlton Thursday afternoon and tied two quilts. Sixteen members were present.

Mrs Flora Healey visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bebbington and collected several antiques in the village.

Mr and Mrs. Charles Lawton have moved into the red house owned by Bert Gardner.

Clarence Buck and family attended the tenth wedding anniversary celebration of his sister, Mrs. John Gunther at Hartford Sunday.

Mrs. Jack Arnold entertained several children at a Halloween party Saturday afternoon.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 3.—Major Albert E. Bates, divisional officer for the state state of Connecticut and Vermont, will make his initial visit to Putnam on Thursday, Nov. 4th. He will lecture at 8 p. m. in the Salvation Army citidel. The major is a man of long experience in the Salvation Army and has exceptional platform ability. He will be accompanied by Ensign A. Pickering and Captain G. Noel, of Hartford headquarters, both of whom are experienced musicians.

PUTNAM BOY MISSING SINCE LAST WEEK FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 3.—Frank Ayotte, age 14, left home last Friday morning to go to school and has not been seen since. The police have been notified by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayotte, who ask that they try to get some trace of the boy. As far as is known there has been no trouble of any kind and the boy's disappearance is a mysterious one. On leaving his home in the morning he seemed to be in his usual spirits and started for school and nothing was said to his mother out of the ordinary. It has been thought that he might have taken it into his head to go to Providence where they have relatives.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. David Beausoliel in the Sawyer district was thrown open to the Canada-American society for the purpose of installing their new officers. After the installation, Mr. and Mrs. Beausoliel served a turkey supper with everything that goes with it, here was dancing during the evening, music by Mrs. Charles Poulin and Leonard Beausoliel and solo dancing by little Miss Maryanne Beausoliel.

Those present were as follows: Mrs. Delima Durocher, Mrs. Virginia Lapalme, Orienge Touchette, Mrs. Laura Bousier, Mrs. Peter Belair, Mrs. Elsie Jodoin, Mrs. Albertina Noll, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beauregard, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Tetreault, Mrs. Irene Kennette, Mr. Charles Poulin, Mrs. Eliza Dumas, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Beausoliel and Leonard Beausoliel.

At a meeting of the Athletic association of the Putnam High school, Mary Hannifan was elected girls' assistant basketball manager, Frank Donovan was elected boys' assistant basball manager and John Cody was elected boys' assistant basketball manager.

Everett Comins of Norwich, formerly of Putnam, has been in the city supervising some work being done for the Connecticut company. Mr. Comins is employed by the Connecticut company at Norwich.

The D. A. R. of the state is again offering a state prize for the evening class which has the highest percentage of attendance, together with individual prizes for the two pupils in this class for progress and attendance. Each competing class must have an average attendance of ten or more for the year. Putnam evening school is endeavoring to have their school receive this prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bixby of Bridgewater are guests of Mrs. Bixby's sister, Mrs. Edward F. Perry.

Everett Wells of Scituate, R. I., has been visiting relatives in the city for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobs of Fort Wayne, Ind., have been the guests of H. P. Amidon and family at Thompson.

Samuel A. Tourtollette and family of Hartford have been the guests of his sister, Mrs. F. C. Ross for a week.

Mrs. Frank H. Bigelow of Pomfret has been at Northampton, Mass., to visit her daughter, Miss Mary, who is a student at Smith college.

Mrs. Charles Eaton of Brookline, Mass., and Mrs. Harry Robbins of Marblehead, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Nathan Weed.

Miss Dorothy C. Keith has returned from a visit to her brother at New Haven. While there she attended the Yale-Army football game.

Mrs. Augustus Bartlett has returned to her home at Hartford after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bartlett of School street.

Clarence Robbins of Midway, Conn., formerly of Putnam and his father of Preston City have been the guests of friends in the city.

Mrs. William Shippee of New London, who has been the guest at the home of George Shippee, has gone for a visit with relatives at Maynard, Mass., and from there will go to Danielson to make an extended visit.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Mrs. Annie B. Kenyon and son Leslie B. Kenyon visited relatives at Central Village, Conn., recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Crandall of Westerly were callerah ere Sunday.

Miss Ruth Hammond, of Wickford was the guest Friday and Saturday of her cousins, Lucie and Julia Irish.

Charles O. Crandall of Quonochontaug was a guest the past week of his sisters, Misses Phebe and Nettie Crandall.

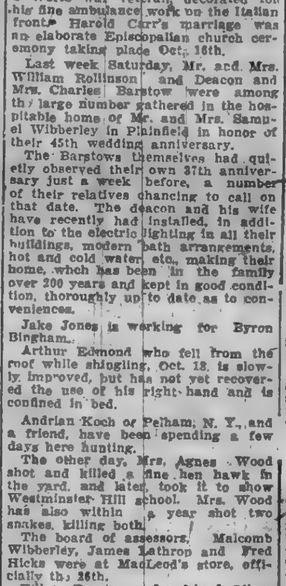
A Halloween entertainment was held at the parish house Saturday evening. Refreshments were on sale.

School was closed here Thursday and Friday because of the teachers' institute in Providence.

Miss Julia Irish is attending high school at Ashaway.

Mrs. Elmer E. Kenyon is confined to her home by illness.

A number from here attended the installation services of the new pastor, Rev. William Simpson at the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist church at Ashaway, Saturday afternoon.



WESTMINSTER

Sunday Oct. 31 was made a notable day to Westminster by the presence at morning worship of four auto loads of former worshippers and their descendants; relatives and connections of Columbus Smith who left this life last December. About twice the number planned to come but the rain prevented. Four generations in the same family, that of Mrs. Charleh Pellet, who served as organist sat in the aged church formerly theirs or their ancestors, the youngest a winsome babe of but a few months. As it was continuing to rain after the service, instead of going directly to the Columbus Smith family home and to Smith cemetery, plans were changed and after decorating the graves in the Westminister yard, the party ate the bountiful lunch they had brought in a corner of the church by the fire. Then taking automobiles they speeded to the new bungalow manse for a brief call and then started homeward in the rain.

Last Sunday Deacon Greene, and his wife and others of his family expected to attend morning worship at Westminster. But the day was cold and rainy, unsuitable for a man in his 93th year to take the trip to and from Danielson.

Local friends took great interest in the recent marriage of Harold Simmon. Carr of Onico until within a few years a resident here with his mother and brother George, the latter a World war veteran, decorated for his fine ambulance work on the Italian front. Harold Carr's marriage was an elaborate Episcopalian church ceremony taking place Oct. 16th.

Last week Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. William Rollinson and Deacon and Mrs. Charles Barstow were among the large number gathered in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wibberley in Plainfield in honor of their 45th wedding anniversary.

The Barstows themselves had quietly observed their own 37th anniversary just a week before, a number of their relatives chancing to call on that date. The deacon and his wife have recently had installed, in addition to the electric lighting in all their buildings, modern bath arrangements, hot and cold water etc., making their home, which has been in the family over 200 years and kept in good condition, thoroughly up to date as to conveniences.

Jake Jones is working for Byron Bingham.

Arthur Edmond who fell from the roof while shingling, Oct. 18, is slowly improved, but has not yet recovered the use of his right hand and is confined in bed.

Andrian Koch of Pelham, N. Y., and a friend, have been spending a few days here hunting.

The other day, Mrs. Agnes Wood shot and killed a fine hen hawk in the yard, and later, took it to show Westminster Hill school. Mrs. Wood has also within a year shot two snakes, killing both.

The board of assessors, Malcomb Wibberley, James Lathrop and Fred Hicks were at MacLeod's store, officially the 26th.

Ellison Barstow and a friend, Oliver Reynolds spent the week end at George Barstow's.

All but one of the teachers in town are in Mrs. Lathrop's class in basketry, which meets Saturdays at the school house at the Green, combining work, fun, and fellowship.

Supt. of schools, Edwin B. Eloyd has the sympathy of all who know of the illness of his mother, the result of a shock, who recently came to him from Glen Falls, N. Y.

Mr. Floyd has been distributing about $300 worth of text books in the various schools of the town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clinton of New Haven have been visiting their relatives, the Lachapelle's recently.

The family of Andrew Jones' wife has returned from New York where they have been living for some months.

As a variation from the regular program the Nature club of Westminster Hill school, Mrs. Happy Tracy, teacher was to have a private Hallowe'en celebration Friday.

The results of the recent town nominations as sent in for the items this week, were republican board of assessors, James Lathrop, board of relief, George Smith, board of selectmen, Christian Kerr, Arthur Bennett, William Newton, auditor, Levi Clark, grand jurors, G. W. Smith, J. F. Lachapelle, Walter Robinson, Charles Tracy, Sherman Galloway, tax collector, W. B. Wright, constables, Oliver Sabin, Curtis Kinne. Sample ballots for Tuesday's election show three parties in the field, republican, democratic and socialist, the third party having no local nominees.

Mrs. Lucy A. Gardiher and Lester A. Gardiner are soon expecting a visit from their son with his wife, from Baltimore.

Continuous and severe frosts, beginning the 15th destroyed vegetable and flower gardens, among the latter the large and admired beds of great variety and beauty at Elm Arch farm.

WINDHAM

The November meeting of the Parent Teacher association was held in the school assembly hall Monday evening with an attendance of about 40. The president, Mrs. Harry Morseley was in charge of the business session. The report of the secretary and treasurer were given by Mrs. Sidney Alling and Mrs. Guy Richmond respectively. At the first meeting this season, in October, htere was $18 in the treasury, with a bill of $25 to be paid. From the proceeds of a supper served to the Men's Community club, and a food sale, the bill has been paid and there is a balance of $48 on hand. Various matters of business were discussed, following which a fine talk on The Growing Boy was given by Rev. Arthur Wheelock.

Charles Larrabee has returned from the Hartford hospital. Rev. and Mrs. M. R. Plumb and sons of Providence and Mrs. Seymour Plumb of Bridgeport were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larrabee.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCollum of Chicago are at the home of Miss Josephine Bingham, whose condition does not improve.

Miss Frances Campbell is in Salem, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Goodwin Waterous, Jr., are in Boston.

There was a large attendance at the Halloween dance Saturday night, the prize in the elimination dance being awarded Miss Myrtle Clarke and Roland Slate of South Windham.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Gallup and Miss Susan Gallup of Norwich were guests Saturday of their cousins, Mrs. Julia Arnold and Miss Gertrude Arnold.

Mrs. Edward Whiting Johnson of Norwich is at the inn for a week.

Miss Sarah Johnson has returned after three weeks' visit in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Alling and children were in Groton Sunday, guests of Mrs. Alling's grandfather.

Members of Scotland grange are to present a play in the school assembly hall this week.

The G. B. society meeting was omitted Sunday because of the storm.

The winter schedule of services at St. Paul's church will begin next Sunday, with Sunday school at 2 p. m. and evening prayer and sermon at 3 p. m.

Notwithstanding law suits and criminal procedures which have been brought against him, Judge Arthur W. Marsden of Madison, still has the confidence of the republican voters. In yesterday's election they returned him to office as judge of probate.

DEAF HEAR INSTANTLY

Amazing Invention Brings Immediate Relief to Those Who are Deaf

A wonderful device which enables the hard of hearing to hear all sounds as clearly and distinctly as a child, has been perfected by the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 2736, 220 to 224 West 42nd Street, New York City. There is no waiting, no delay, but quick, positive, instantaneous results — you hear instantly. So positive are the makers that everyone who is hard of hearing will be amazed and delighted with this remarkable device, the famous Acoustiocon, that they are offering to send it absolutely free on trial. No obligation whatever. If you suffer, take advantage of their liberal free trial offer. Send them your name and address today.—adv.

THE EFFECT IN CONGRESS

By the election results certain changes, some of which were anticipated and some were not, will be made in the makeup of the 70th congress, the congress that will serve during the remaining two years of President Coolidge's term of office.

Because of state conditions in most instances, these changes have served to whittle down the republican majority in the United States senate to a point where there is small margin. In New York state the governorship contest in which Governor Smith was victorious carried through to victory the democratic senatorial candidates, while in Massachusetts Senator Butler was defeated by Former Senator Walsh for the unexpired term of Senator Lodge. State conditions, personality and the cotton mill situation reacted against the man who acted as the president's campaign manager and whose election he desired. It is believed however that the electorate voted upon Butler and not upon his connection with the president in determining the result. This is shown by the big majority for Governor Fuller for whom the president also had a good word. Other senatorial changes have for a large part been a return to office of democrats where democrats were formerly elected, until republicans were carried in by Harding's landslide.

What the effect of the situation in the senate will have upon the 70th congress remains to be seen. It is natural that it should be regarded as placing the control in the hands of the insurgents since with their balance of power they could make or break anything they desire, and this is strengthened by the election of Brookhart in Iowa and Blaine in Wisconsin. Both are republicans whose past is not an augury for harmonious cooperation.

Whatever may have been the purpose of the voters in states which are entitled to the claim of being republican, there are changes which have been made which from the present standpoint cannot be regarded as strengthening the position of the president in the carrying out of the administration's policies, and yet in many of the instances it was not the president's policies which were guiding the voter.

WISCONSIN'S GIFT TAX

Without question there are many sharp corners turned by those who desire to escape the payment of taxes. And yet it is unfair to assume that all who make moves of a similar character are engaged in tax dodging, or have any such thought in mind when they act.

Nevertheless, that was the view which was taken in Wisconsin in regard to gifts. Because some may have preferred to make gifts, which in the ordinary course of events would mean a release from a certain amount of taxation, it was hardly fair to assume that all gift making was done for the same purpose. Neither was it right to enact a law which made necessary the taxation of all gifts within six years of the donor's death. This law was urged and adopted on the ground that all such gifts were made in anticipation of death and therefore made to escape the inheritance tax.

Wisconsin has been collecting taxes under such a law, since the test of it before the supreme court of that state supported the law, but by a recent decision of the United States supreme court it has been declared invalid. This means that Wisconsin must back up, and while doing so it must pay back what is probably a considerable sum in taxes which were illegally collected.

The inheritance tax has aroused much opposition. It is a far off taxation which is utilized by the federal government as well as the states and it unquestionably works injustices. As an emergency method of obtaining revenue no objection may be raised to it but as a steady taxation diet it is preaching into fields where the federal government should not go. It is because taxpayers have been so hard pressed in regard to inheritance taxes that they have resorted to means of self protection. That was probably the situation in Wisconsin which prompted the making of those gifts which were followed by the penalizing tax which applied to everyone, but is now declared illegal by the highest court in the land.

BETTER CONDITIONS

Speaking in Philadelphia before the American Academy of Political and Social Science, James A. Emery discussed child labor and the federal amendment in the course of which he pointed out that by the last census that there were a million and a half more children than in 1910 between 10 and 15 years of age, but there were 800,000 less children at work in any occupation than in 1910.

This, of course, was brought about without any federal child labor law, but it cannot be said to have been accomplished without any agitation in that direction. The change is certainly a most wholesome one and it is to be hoped that it is still going on. The child labor which involved long hours, going to work at an early age and curtailed education is certainly to be deplored and fought. The children are entitled to a chance to get the benefit of the advantages which every child should have, though that doesn't and shouldn't mean that they should never think of doing any work until after they are 18 years of age.

The child labor law that has been strongly advocated, has naturally aroused much opposition and it can be expected that it will continue to, and yet it is not to be denied that much good has probably resulted to child laborers, who work long hours under unfavorable conditions, when they should be in school, through the agitation in behalf of a federal law.

That is frequently the case where those who would be adversely affected by legislation hustle to improve the conditions without waiting for a law to be put into effect. They see the movement going forward that will hit them if it succeeds. They are desirous of being able to say that such a thing would not apply to or affect them and they hasten to get under cover. Such is many times quite as effective as if a law was actually in operation, and there is no doubt that it is the leaven that has been working to help bring about the reduction in child labor that Mr. Emery refers to. Publicity regarding conditions and agitation for legislation to correct them have served to get desired action.

THE SHELTERING ARMS

Those who have played any part, whether it be large or little, in connection with the new Sheltering Arms building cannot fail to be proud of the accomplishment. The new home will of course mean an enlarged work, thus to better carry out the purpose of the founders and those who have backed it with bequests.

This institution has for many years served Norwich in a most worthy manner. It has received the endorsement and support of those who not only recognized the need of such a home years ago but of others who have appreciated the service that has been rendered to the aged and unfortunate. Even in its former quarters it was able to provide invaluable aid and shelter and maintain a cheerful household for those who were in need of the same.

But in the new building, for which there have been years of waiting, the care, attention and comforts will be dispensed without the handicaps that have heretofore been experienced. The change is certainly a most pleasing one.

The Sheltering Arms has filled a much needed want and it is gratifying that it is placed in a position where it can and has already undertaken to do even more. Few communities are blessed with a more valuable institution. Those who were responsible for its establishment recognized a need that has not grown any less, and those who are anxious to give their assistance in connection with maintenance, or in the way of management, are thoroughly alert to the importance of the place it holds and the service it renders in this community.

NEED INDIVIDUAL EFFORT

The mere declaration that this is the most reckless nation on earth may not attract sufficient attention to bring about a change, but when it is possible to point to the tremendous waste each year in lives that run up into five figures it is impressive enough to engage the attention of many who can contribute to a reduction of such figures.

The National Safety congress has just been in session in Detroit and there it was reported that 90,000 Americans met death by accident last year. We are rightly shocked by the fact that so many lost their lives in the World war among American forces and yet the accident loss was almost three times as large as those killed in action.

In many ways are accidents resulting in needless deaths, and all because a sufficient amount of care is not being used. The automobile alone is boosting the death rate by 60 a day and ending the lives of over 22,000 in the course of a year, of which number, last year 6500 were children. We cringe at the slaughter of the battlefield, but we do not view the accidental death list in the same way, and yet the chances of preventing the latter is possible for a much greater number of persons.

Whether these accidents are due to one cause or another it seems to be time for the directing of greater thought to the possibilities to prevention. There is no need for such lack of effort for self preservation, whether it is termed carelessness or recklessness. It is possible to establish law, rules and regulations but it all comes right back to the individual to assume that responsibility which will provide proper protection and prevent many of the untimely accidental deaths.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now for the explanations and there are apparently some important ones.

It wasn't necessary to count the ballots to know the results in most of the southern states.

Now that the election is over Senator Jim Reed will bring his various investigations to quick conclusions.

The man on the corner says: The day after was a great day for explanations, congratulations and condolences.

Whatever the others may say it will not be claimed in the eight states which had referendums that the vets didn't vote.

Japan in contributing to Florida relief shows that it hasn't forgotten the days when it got much needed help from this country.

Can it be that those who are planning another arctic expedition next spring think that the winter isn't going to be long enough?

It will not be a good idea for personal safety to display much interest in mail that is being transported while the marines are on the job.

The proper answer to the question, "Which would you rather be in, a hurricane or an earthquake?" is "Neither, give me New England!"

In the south it is one thing after another. First the fight is to check the boll weevil and now the struggle is to curb the cotton planter.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

As soon as I learned that mother was giving a tea for her church guild I determined to absent myself on that afternoon. I have always been bored to tears by those sewing society affairs and I try to escape them whenever possible.

"Doesn't the country call you?" I asked George Requirer over the telephone. "Don't you wish to hear the birds sing?"

"When?" he inquired in his crisp manner.

"To tell you the truth, George, on Friday afternoon I shall be an exile from home. Mother is having a party at which I'm sure that I should be persona non grata." I said remembering how much George likes a bit of Latin. "Don't you wish to do a work of charity and mercy with your beautiful new seven-passenger car?"

"I guess my boss will let me off, Lucile," he said, and I laughed, as George has always been the head of his own business.

On Friday morning mother asked me to pour at the tea. She said she would rather have me than any of the guests at the tea urn.

"But, dearie," I said, "I'm not going to be here. I have an engagement for the afternoon."

"Why, Lucile, why did you make an engagement when you know that I was to entertain the guild, and would need your help?"

"It never occurred to me that you would need poor little me," I said smilingly. "I'm sorry that I simply can't break my engagement. George Requirer has arranged a drive into the woods in his new machine just for my pleasure, so don't count on me."

Mother sighed so dolefully that I ran out to the florist's shop near us and ordered about a half bushel of spring flowers for her. I hoped that they would brighten her spirits as well as the house for her little party. Of course, I had them charged to father, for I knew that as they were for mother he would not mind.

We had a delightful drive through part of the forest preserve, and as we drove into Reverly on our way home Marguerite Doole suggested that we call upon Adeline Birch. I seconded the idea, for I have seen very little of Ed and Adeline since they moved to the suburbs. I did hope that Ed would be home. He and I used to be great pals before he married Adeline, but oddly enough the house was open and there was no one home.

"Let's go in, anyway," I said. "We can leave a note with all our names pinned, and I'm dreadfully thirsty, I must have some water."

"I want a drink, too," said Polly Gray, so we all went in to the kitchen.

"Look what I've found," exclaimed George peering into a huge stone jar on the table. "I never saw so many doughnuts in my life."

"Doughnuts!" we all shouted.

"Yes, and they're warm," said Dexter Haines. "Doughnuts should always be warm and fresh like these. Would it be according to Hoyle for us to sample them?"

"How can we help it?" asked George. "We're none of us strong characters."

"Of course we can eat all we wish," I said. "The Birch family is noted for hospitality. Help yourselves, old dears."

"They're delicious," remarked Marguerite. "I believe I could eat a dozen, but of course, I won't."

"Please don't because I want to eat a dozen myself," said Dexter, "and they might not go round."

Everybody laughed and we were having the merriest kind of a time when Adeline suddenly appeared. She looked astonished but she welcomed us warmly, and said that she had been at a neighbor's house.

"You must have had a hunch that we were coming," I laughed. "We certainly have been enjoying the doughnuts you made for us."

"Oh, I made those for the Sunday school picnic tomorrow, but I'm glad that you helped yourself to a taste."

"There, what did I say about Birch hospitality?" I asked gayly, but on the way home Marguerite told me that Adeline had whispered to her that she would have to get up early the next morning, and make another batch of doughnuts, as we had consumed more than half of them. Marguerite was inclined to blame me, which was unfair, as I had eaten no more than any one else. But that is Marguerite's way.—Chicago News.

A CAUSE OF CRIME LITTLE UNDERSTOOD

By Charles H. Barnett, M. D., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

With the present day crime wave which beggars description, there is one phase that is little understood, especially by the officers of the law, judges of the court and jurors, as well as the general public.

This "little understood" phase of crimie comes from the sexual pervert. All peoples should know the far reaching possibilities for harm from these people, in order to devise ways and means to protect themselves against some of the most atrocious murders, outstanding in cruelty, during our time. Very few days pass that the newspapers do not report murders that have the "ear marks" of sexual perverts.

The cause is a lack of the power of resistence in sex impulse with certain people, be they morons from the slums or plutocrats from the so-called "upper crust." It occurs in both male and female with the male predominating.

This lack of control and abandonment of conscience may develop in severity, something like a crescendo in music until finally cruelty, murder, blood, is necessary to produce the erotic stage. This generally occurs in opposite sexes but not always.

When sex advances are made, especially toward children, the matter should immediately be taken up with a physician for investigation. If sexual perversion is proven the guilty person should be incarcerated just as truly and secretly as one violently insane. When murder is done and proven, prompt execution, be the guilty rich or poor, is the remedy that will put the fear of God and man into living degenerates.

The exciting cause of the beginning of this disease is the effort of this present day to appeal to things sexual. Humanity is bad enough, normally, without stimulation in moving pictures, the stage, dress, etc. The remedy must come from the people, not the prude, the hypocrite or even the truly religious, but from the middle man who personally would not object to a little "spice." He must frown upon these things, because of his children and future generations.

With public education regarding this perversion sufficiently matured, public sentiment will finally demand double castration if the milder type, which removes the sex glandular hormone for potency. The present great thought, however, should be to protect poor defenseless children from these degenerates.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

The through stop street regulation which is known in some parts of the country as the boulevard stop or arterial highway rule, is one of the most valuable of all traffic regulations where it is properly applied. Unfortunately, like many other good rules it is over worked or misused and is in danger of falling into disrepute with the driving public.

The through street stop rule merely provides that vehicles entering the street to which the regulation applies shall be brought to a full stop. The control is designed to increase the safe speed of traffic on the through route and unexpected crossings. The rule first originated on the park boulevards of Chicago and is now in use in practically every city in the country.

There are certain conditions which make the through street stop rule valuable and others which make it worse than useless.

The first requirement is that it should be applied only to those streets and connections are capable of carrying a large volume of fast traffic. If the regulation is applied to minor streets which are rarely if ever busy, the driving public will lose respect for the rule and dangerous violations will be inevitable.

The second requirement is that the rule should be used sparingly. When motorists driving along a street are required to come to a full stop at a series of closely parallel streets, they become impatient with the regulation. As a general rule it may be said that, except in unusual situations, rough streets should not be closer together than one-half mile.

Through streets should always be thoroughfares upon which there is most traffic. For this reason the rule should never be applied to streets in congested business districts. Regulation in such districts can best be accomplished by stop and go control.

An obvious requirement for the success of the through street rule is that clearly visible signs should be erected at every street entering the protected thoroughfares. Motorists cannot be expected to remember where these through streets are located and signs must, therefore, be erected at every point where a full stop is required. Such signs should be visible day and night.

In western cities where visibility is generally good it has been found that non-illuminated signs are adequate for night driving. On the other hand, Chicago, for example, has adopted a flashing red signal as the standard marker for through streets.

By and large cities have overused the stop rules whereas its application has not been appreciated fully by the states. The regulation should be used on every trunk highway in the country.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Funny Game of Hide and Seek

You know, if you have ever tried,
How hard it is from self to hide.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse was all upset. Yes, sir, he was all upset. He didn't know what to do. He had put to flight the handsome stranger who had been saying nice things to Nanny Meadow Mouse; but instead of feeling proud of it, and going back with his head up and his chest out, for Nanny to admire, he was suddenly dreadfully afraid that she would see him. Here he was, home at last, yet afraid to meet Nanny face to face. Presently, he heard her footsteps coming along the little path. Danny took to his heels. Then began a funny game of hide and seek.

Danny was trying to keep out of Nanny's sight and Nanny was doing her best to get a good view of him. You see, when she had seen him attack the stranger there was something strangely familiar about him. He had looked strangely like her beloved Danny. She couldn't believe that it was Danny, for she was sure that something dreadful had happened to him long ago; but she must make sure.

"He'll come back," said she to herself

Now somehow a great sense of shame had taken possession of Danny. He was ashamed to face Nanny after having been away so long. So he tried to hide from her. Really he wasn't hiding from her, you know, he was hiding from himself. If he hadn't had a guilty feeling he wouldn't have hidden. But he did have a guilty feeling and so he tried to hide. Time after time he thought that he was safely hidden only to have to take to his heels again. Nanny was persistent. But then, Nanny always had been persistent. Danny couldn't remember the time when Nanny hadn't had her way. It was just like her to persist in trying to find him.

Now Danny was at a disadvantage. Nanny knew all the little paths and just where they all led to. Danny didn't know where any of them went to. You see, he had never been over in that particular part of the Green Meadows before. Nanny had moved there while Danny had been away, so Danny never knew just exactly where he was coming out when he started along a little path. Two or three times the path ended abruptly and there was nothing for Danny to do but force his way through the long grass until he could find another little path.

At last Nanny gave up and went back home. To be quite truthful, she hadn't given up. She merely meant to make Danny think she had given up. She is a very clever small person, is Nanny Meadow Mouse. "The surest way of finding any one is to make him try to find you," said Nanny, as she climbed up to her home in the bush. You know it was an old nest of Brownie the Thrasher which she had roofed over. As soon as she was out of sight inside she turned around and sat down where she could look out through the doorway without being seen. "He'll come back," said she to herself. "I know it. He'll come back, and I'll get a good look at him. It is queer how much like Danny he looked. Yes, sir, it is queer. If I didn't know that Danny must be dead, I should say that was Danny. But, of course, it wasn't, or he wouldn't have hidden from me."

Meanwhile Danny had discovered that he was no longer being sought by Nanny. Then strangely enough he was disappointed. He wanted to be found. Yes, sir, he wanted to be found. When you come to think of it, Meadow Mice are queer people, aren't they? But so are some others.

Counting the Stars

Prof. Frederick H. Seares of the Mt. Wilson observatory recently completed counting the stars in the heavens, says Popular Science Monthly. This seemingly impossible task he accomplished by mathematical calculations, although he could not see even with the most powerful telescope 97 per cent. of them.

First he divided the sky into squares, then, taking 139 of these squares, he photographed all the stars included in each space with the great 60-inch reflecting telescope of Mount Wilson observatory, which collects 50,000 times as much light as the human eye. A count of the stars in the 139 squares showed 1,000,000,000.

These 139 squares, however, represented only the 1-2500th part of the sky and included stars only up to the twenty-first magnitude. So he worked out a ratio between the stars of each succeeding magnitude, and by an intricate calculation arrived at the final count of 30,000,000,000,000, a figure whose magnitude is beyond present human comprehension.

Our idea of a modest man is one who can keep his opinion of himself to himself.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Books For All Sorts

There are books not only for all sorts and conditions of men but also for all the varying circumstances of the life of each and for all the different mental phases through which they may pass. A book may have a message for every one but not the same message for each; one it may encourage, another it may rebuke; one it may lead further in the path he is treading, another it may stop and turn into a better way. Habits of thought due to inheritance or occupation modify and in some measure determine the effect of a book and the nature of its message for each reader.

You should adapt books to your mental state, after a hard day's work the mind easily wearies, while with the strength of the morning you may read the very best of that you are capable of. Read the hardest book first and as your mind tires lay it aside and take up something easier. When you find that you are not appreciating what you read stop and give your mind a rest.

NORWICH RADIO CLUB CONDUCTS QUESTION BOX

The Norwich Radio club held a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting at the Wauregan hotel Wednesday evening, starting with supper at 6:45 and followed by general discussion of radio problems.

Under the new arrangements the members have supper together and then all present are asked to put written questions on radio problems into a question box.

The questions are then taken up for discussion and the various members explain the answers with the aid of a large blackboard.

This plan provides everyone with an opportunity to take part in the meeting.

From time to time during the winter season outside speakers will take up the latest development in the radio field.

Broadcast listeners are always welcome at the meetings which are held the first and third Wednesdays of the month at 6:45 p. m. at the hotel.

READER GAVE PLAY IN CAMP FIRE ENTERTAINMENT

Under the auspices of the Camp Fire Girls of the United Congregational church a delightful entertainment featured by a reading, Cousin Kate, was given at the Community house, Church street, Wednesday evening. The reader was Miss Mildred Bass Anderton and the reading itself was a pleasing three act comedy. Cousin Kate is one of the most popular of the Ethel Barrymore comedies.

Between the acts the following musical programme was given by Camp Fire girls; Song of India, violin, Janie Lambert; piano solo, Sixth Symphony, Faith Allen; solo dance. The Vagabond, Ruth Brown; piano solo, Gertrude Pickering.

The attendance was large and the programme heartily applauded by the well pleased audience.

BOZRAH CHURCH HELD SOCIAL FOR HALLOWEEN

The young people of the Bozrah Center church held a very enjoyable Halloween social Friday evening. The hall was gaily decorated with corn, jack-o-lanterns, streamers of black and orange and Halloween borders.

Games were played during the evening. Albert Tolson won the Cheshire cat race with a five inch smile. Alfred Smith was voted the winner in having the most musical laugh. A treasure hunt was enjoyed, the treasure proving to be fine fortunes for each.

At 10 o'clock refreshments were served by the social committee. These consisted of hot wienies, doughnuts, coffee, apples and Halloween candy.

OBITUARY

John Babcock

John Babcock died Tuesday at his home in Uncasville at the age of 82 years.

Mr. Babcock was born at Point Judith on May 9, 1834, and when a small boy with his parents moved to Kingston, R. I. When a young man he went to Salem, this state, where he resided until he removed to Montville to make his permanent home. He was a stone mason by occupation and worked on many of the buildings about Montville, among them being the foundation of the Methodist church.

Mr. Babcock was married to Miss Edgcomb of Uncasville soon after his coming to Montville.

For a long time he was caretaker at the Comstock cemetery but upon the death of his wife he gave up that work and has since lived a more retired life, doing odd jobs about his home in which he had always taken great pride.

A year after his wife's death his step daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hurlbut, came to live with him and have since faithfully and tenderly cared for him. Of a most pleasing personality and generosity, Mr. Babcock leaves many friends to mourn his loss.

He is survived by one sister, Miss Sarah Babcock, of Liberty Hill.

For more than 50 years John. W. Babcock has been a loyal and respected member of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows of New London.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Ella Lord

An Essex correspondent writes: The body of Mrs. Ella Lord, 77, of Deep River, a former resident, was brought to Essex Tuesday for burial in the family plot in Riverview cemetery. Besides his wife he leaves two sons, James E. and Francis S., Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Hugh Thomas. He also is survived by two brothers, Peter Durga of Moores, N. Y., and James Durga of Berlin, Conn., two grand children and several nieces and nephews. News of his death will be learned with profound sorrow by a large circle of friends, whom he had gained through his affiliations with the Maccabees and St. Mary's church and otherwise in this city.

Mrs. H. Wales Lines

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Munger Lines, wife of H. Wales Lines, prominent building contractor of Meriden and sister of William S. Munger of Waterford, were held privately on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, 65 Pleasant street, Meriden, where she died Sunday afternoon. Services were conducted by the Rev. Albert J. Lord, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church of Meriden, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Edwin S. Lines, bishop of Newark, N. J., and a brother of H. Wales Lines.

Burial was in the family lot in Walnut Grove cemetery, Meriden.

Daniel C. Callahan

The funeral of Daniel C. Callahan who died suddenly in the old engine house at the falls Sunday was held Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock from his home, No. 3 Sherman street, followed by a requiem mass at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church. Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant of the mass and Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. At the offertory Pie Jesu was rendered and as a waiting hymn Roderick F. Sullivan sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul.

The bearers were John Coleman, Joseph P. Farrell, Joseph A. Desjardins, Louis Haggerty, William C. Moore and John Nolan and burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery. Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May conducted a committal service at the grave. Relatives and friends were present from New London and New York and there were numerous floral tributes. Undertakers Hourigan Bros., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

CRASHED THROUGH FENCE ON HIS WAY TO VOTE

When the Dodge truck he was driving went off the road and turned over after crashing through a fence on the Colchester highway Tuesday, Claire Hoxie, proprietor of the former McNamara grocery store on Sachem street, received injuries about the hip and shoulder. He was taken to the Backus hospital for treatment. It is understood that something went wrong with the steering apparatus on the truck which shot off the road. Mr. Hoxie was on the way to Colchester to vote in Tuesday's election when the accident happened.

17 ARRESTED IN WINDHAM COUNTY ON LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION CHARGES

A record breaking clean-up of alleged violators of the liquor law in Windham county was made Wednesday when officers descended with bench warrants upon places in Willimantic, Putnam, Danielson, Plainfield and Moosup.

Before Court in Willimantic

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 3—With an outburst of raids and the serving of bench warrants which netted 17 alleged liquor law violators in Windham county, the work of County Detective William E. Jackson who has been secretly on the trail of violators since August 5, came to light this morning. The bench warrants were served in the forenoon by Deputy Sheriffs Charles E. Ayer and Frank W. Tillinghast and special deputy sheriffs of the county. State police officers of the Danielson, Groton and Stafford Springs barracks figured in the raids. Of the seventeen arrested, two are from this city, three from Putnam, four from Moosup and the remainder from Danielson.

All but two of the number were arraigned before Judge A. C. Baldwin of the superior court this afternoon and placed under bonds. They were: Selvini L. Cardinal of Willimantic, charged with nine counts, second offense, bonds of $3,500; Hyman Brettschneider, of Willimantic, six counts, bonds of $2,500; Omer Bernier of Putnam, six counts, bonds of $3,000; Adolph Lamontagne of Moosup, two counts, second offense, $2,500; Louis Beauregard, alias Michael, of Putnam, six counts, bonds of $2,500; Frank Cournoyer, of Moosup, thirteen counts, bonds of $2,000; Henry Laramee of Plainfield, six counts, bonds of $1,500; A. H. Stebbins of Danielson, four sales, bonds of $2,000; Frank Boca of Danielson, three counts, bonds of $1,000; Eli Dion of Danielson, three counts, bonds of $2,000; Alfred LaBlanc of Danielson, three counts, cash bond of $135. Manuel Viera of Killingly, seven counts, $2,000; William Campbell of Dayville, seven counts, bonds of $2,500; Gideon N. LaMaitre of Putnam, nine counts, $2,500; Edgar Dupuis of Moosup, six counts, bonds of $3,000.

Three in Putnam

(Special to the Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 3—Gideon LaMaitre, manager of a drug store on Providence street, M. Beauregard, manager of the Cargill hotel and Omer Bernier, were arrested today on bench warrants charging them with violation of the liquor laws. The warrants were issued by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin and were served by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayers, heading a squad of state police and city officers.

LaMaitre and Beauregard were released on bonds of $2,500 each. Bernier's bond, being fixed at $3,000, which he has not been able to secure.

Four in Moosup

MOOSUP, Nov. 3—(AP)—Bench warrants were served on four men charged with violation of the liquor laws in a series of raids here today.

Those arrested were Henry LeMorie, released under bonds of $2,000; John Lampaee bonds $2,500; Frank Conoyer, bonds $2,500 and $1,000 additional for a previous charge and Edgar Dupuis, bonds of $3,000.

EXONERATES SENTRY WHO SHOT FLEEING PRISONER

Final decision of the war department is awaited at Fort H. G. Wright before the absolute release of Private Alvin H. Roberts, who as a sentry, shot and killed Private Benjamin Dubrens of Chicago while the latter was attempting to make his escape from the guard house several weeks ago. Private Roberts, while at Liberty, is being detained at the Fort Wright reservation pending the action of the war department.

Findings of the board of inquiry, appointed to investigate the shooting a few hours after the shooting, were made public Wednesday by Col. Frank K. Fergusson, commander of the 11th Coast Artillery. Three officers found that Private Rogers took the only course open to him when he shot the prisoner as he attempted to flee. The investigation revealed that Dubrens had contemplated escape for some time according to statements by other prisoners in the guard house.

In firing the fatal shot, the sentry was performing the duty to which he had been assigned, the board of inquiry states, and there was no other way to keep the prisoner from making good his escape. Testifying before the board, Private Roberts said that he did not try to kill the fleeing prisoner but had aimed low in an attempt to cripple a leg. He said that he aimed near the knees. His aim, he said was deflected as he tried to adjust the sights to the rapidly moving prisoner. The bullet entered Dubren's hip.

The members of the board of inquiry were Lieut. Col. Edward B. Powers, Capt. B. P. Shellhorn and Capt. Benjamin Bowering. Sworn statements of their findings have been forwarded to the war department.

Dubrens, who was being held at the guard house pending trial for desertion was arrested in New London when he tried to enlist in the Coast Guard.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HIS HOME IN MYSTIC

Edward Eugene Donohue of 77 High street, Mystic, died at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning following an attack of intestinal trouble by which he was stricken while at work Tuesday afternoon. For the past six years he had been employed by the town of Groton in the highway department.

Mr. Donohoe was born in Mystic, Aug. 6, 1867, the son of Hugh and Anne Ryan Donohoe. Previous to his employment with the town of Groton, he had worked in the Noank shipyard, as a metal buffer and polisher.

He was a member of Father Murphy council, Knights of Columbus, of Mystic and of Father Deahon assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus of New London.

He leaves a brother, John R. Donohoe, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas Cummings, both of Mystic.

ODD FELLOWS EXPECT BIG PARADE TURNOUT

At the meeting of the Armistice day committee of the Odd Fellows held on Monday evening plans were being rushed along in preparation for the big parade.

Chairman Waters announced that he expected the largest number of Odd Fellows in line ever seen in Norwich, the estimate being conservatively put at 500. There are to be large delegations present from lodges in surrounding cities and towns including New London, Willimantic, Danielson, Jewett City, Montville and others. There is also to be a delegation of Orientals from Mystic besides uniformed cantons under command of Maj. H. D. Scribner of South Windham. Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21 is planning to turn out 100 per cent strong and is also expecting many visitors to swell the ranks.

FIVE ARE FINED IN NORTH STONINGTON COURT

Five young men who were locked up at police headquarters over Tuesday night after they had been brought in from North Stonington by Constable Vincent Jones were tried Wednesday morning in the North Stonington town hall before Justice Ledyard S. Anthony. They were found guilty on breach of the peace charges and were each fined $5 and costs, which they paid.

The five were De Vere Palmer, 21, Harry Johnson, 18, Floyd Church, 18, Lloyd Church, 18, all of Kenyon, R. I., and Vernon Palmer, 21, of Middle Village, N. Y. The quintette was in an automobile on the Norwich-Westerly road, where they were reported in an intoxicated condition and making a disturbance when the constable was called to arrest them.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION AFTER AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

It was stated early this morning from the Backus hospital that Leon Morris of Montclair, N. J., who was injured Tuesday night when he was thrown from the automobile of Edward McSherrey when it hit a pole on North Main street, did not sustain a fractured skull, but his condition is serious because of injuries to the sutures of the skull, affecting the brain.

Frank Poreda, 6, the boy who was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Schmidt Tuesday evening was showing some improvement Wednesday night.

SAMPLERS ARE SHOWN AT FAITH TRUMBULL MEETING

An interesting exhibit of old samplers was held in connection with the monthly meeting of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., Wednesday afternoon at the Wauregan hotel. A paper on Renaissance of the Sampler was read by Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup. In her paper Mrs. Gallup said the sampler is having a revival of popularity. In its rejuvenation it is not like the old examples, dull in color and lugubrious in sentiment, but of a gladness which links it with the spirit of modern interior decoration in both scheme and motive.

The origin of the sampler lies in the distant past, as witness the facts that Chaucer wrote "en sempler" as synonymous with "Pattern" and the English poet Skeleton in 1498 remarked that "ladies are making samplers." Elizabeth of York indulged in the cultural pastime in 1502, as did most of her ladies in waiting, and she carefully recorded the expenditure of eight pence for an "ell of cloth to be utilized for the composing of a sampler."

Many of the old samplers in this country recall the days of the "dame schools" about 1800 or a little later, when many a gentlewoman of limited means eked out her livelihood by keeping a school in an upper room of her house. Here in addition to the three "Rs" boys and girls were taught the art of making samplers. One, the very first made in America, but of English origin, was worked by Anne Gower, first wife of that John Endecott, governer of Massachusetts, who, with the courage of his convictions, cut the red cross from the hated British flag. This sampler contains drawn stitch, filet and flat white stitch, such as was worked on damask.

Ann Susan Hancock of the family of John Hancock, who married Dorothy Quincy after a stormy wooing in Revolutionary times, worked a rarely beautiful sampler called "Shepherdess of the Alps."

In colonial times, samplers were worked by girls of from six to sixteen years, although there are many fine examples worked by women of sixty.

"Raised worke," "new worke," "tent worke" "laid worke" and "tapestry stitch" were all used as well as the cross stitch which has survived and is commonly used on samplers of today. The first samplers were worked on homespun linen bleached or unbleached. As the years passed, a fine linen, known as pillow case material, was spun for samplers, and this enabled the workers to produce fine results. Today, "India head" is considered by experts to be the most suitable weave.

There were several pictures of famous samplers. Also some very valuable samplers belonging to members of the D. A. R. dating from 1788, on the exhibit table

Mrs. George A. Ashbey was hostess for the afternoon and was assisted by Mrs. Henry H. Pettis, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins and Mrs. A. S. Comstock. In leading in the salute to the flag Mrs. A. H. Lathrop, chairman of the flag committee used the handsome flag which the chapter recently purchased. Monthly reports were made as follows:

Secretary Mrs. W. S. Elliott; treasurer, Mrs. A. S. Comstock; registrar, Mrs. H. Perkins; historian, Mrs. G. A. Ashbey

The chairman of the museum committee Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, told of gifts received from Mrs. H. H. Osgood and from the F. L. Osgood estate. Miss Helen Browning, chairman of the ways and means committee, called attention to the luncheon bridge and also to a dance to be held.

The chairman of the patriotic education committee told of the enlargement of the society's work in the detention rooms at Ellis Island. She asked for illustrated papers and magazines to send, and yarn, new cloth and sewing and knitting implements to be sent there also. Mrs. Frank L. Royce told of placing the Manuel exhibit on view at three different places.

The chairman of the genealogical research committee said that the chapter has received from Mrs. H. H. Osgood a number of books that make an interesting addition to the library at the museum. Mrs. H. E. Higgins, chairman of the membership committee, announced that two applications for membership have been received and accepted by the board of management. Two members are to join the chapter from the C. A. R.

Miss Annie E. Vaughn, chairman of the music committee had charge of the programme for the afternoon which was given as follows:

A double quartette singing old fashioned songs in costume. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, Mrs. W. H. Allen, Mrs. E. S. Burdsall, Miss Helen P. Browning, Mrs. L. A. Wheeler, Mrs. Harrison Gray, Mrs. W. S. Elliott, Mrs. A. M. Thompson, with Miss Annie E. Vaughn accompanist. Vocal solos by Mrs. Gray and Miss Elizabeth Collins, accompanist, Mrs. W. C. Burgy. Violin, Earl Swan, with Mrs. A. J. Bailey at the piano. Interpretive dancing, Miss Helena Crandall, with Miss Gertrude Platt at the piano. Dwight Richardson, piano solos.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Women Dispose

Of this new hygienic pad as easily as tissue —no laundry

COUNTLESS women have discarded old-time "sanitary" pads for a new and better way.

A way that offers far greater protection. A way, too, that banishes the old-time problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

LIVES ON FARM IN OKLAHOMA

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing.

They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

EASTERN CONN. POWER CO. TEAM HAD A VERY SUCCESSFUL BALL SEASON

The recently compiled averages and records of the Eastern Conn. Power Co. baseball team, champions of the Norwich Twilight league show that the champs had one of the best clubs in Norwich during the past season. The team was under the management of James Holland who has piloted three clubs to pennants in the last three years of the league. Lefty Dugas was the captain of the club and to these two boys go a great deal of credit for the winning of the title.

Dugas pitched brilliant ball all through the season and also played at first base and in the outfield. His batting was also a feature of the league, in fact, so much so that he was signed in mid-season by the Riverview club where he performed well. He hit for .370 for the 17 games that he played.

The leading hitter of the squad was Mace Goldblatt, who played in 13 games and hit for an average of .440. Eddie Murphy, first baseman for the E. C. P. team, led in fielding with an average of .999.

The team played 17 games, mostly twilight games, and won 11 and lost but three. The three remaining games resulted in tie scores, the E. C. P. tying twice with the Warriors and once with the Yantic team in the Twilight league. This record was very impressive and anyone who witnessed the games played by the Eastern Conn. Power team knows that they played as nice a brand of ball as any club in Norwich during the season.

The record of the team for the season follows:

E. C. P. Score		Opponent's Score
16	Bonton Ton Colored Stars	4
10	East Ends	6

ONLY LIGHT WORK FOR ACADEMY TEAM THIS WEEK

The Academy football squad is resting this week after their rather strenuous battle which they won from Chapman Tech at New London on Saturday. There will probably be no scrimmage session this week preparatory to the game the coming Saturday with Wilby High of Waterbury at the local campus. To date there are six of the regulars on the injured list and Coach Brigham will take no chances of having further injuries in practice scrimmage sessions.

A few of the players took advantage of an off day on Wednesday to go to New London and watch Bulkeley work out on Morgan park gridiron. Bulkeley is scheduled to play Central High of Bridgeport this Saturday and then comes the important battle between the two traditional rivals of long standing, namely that with the Academy and Bulkeley, Saturday, November 13, at the local campus.

ONLY TWO IMPORTANT INTERSECTIONAL GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—There will be only two eastern flares in the intersectional gridiron strife this week end as traditional foes move to the center of the stage, with chief interest centered in the struggles between Harvard and Princeton at Cambridge and Pennsylvania and Penn State at Philadelphia.

Indications are that in both contests the east will add to its already impressive lead over the south and mid-west, for Yale rules a strong favorite over Maryland, while William and Mary is not expected to seriously threaten the powerful Columbia eleven which found itself last week in a sensational victory over Cornell.

Next week, however, there will be a fresh outbreak of warfare between outstanding contenders for national honors, with Army and Notre Dame unlimbering their guns here in one of the major battles of the campaign. Haskell Indians locks with Boston College and West Virginia with Centre in two of the other intersectional games on the Nov. 13 schedule.

Thus far the east has piled up an impressive advantage over teams of the south and mid-west, winning twenty two out of thirty intersectional combats. The superiority of Atlantic seaboard elevens over invaders from below the Mason and Dixon line has been particularly pronounced, the south having won but one out of twelve engagements.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN CO. FILES INCORPORATION PAPERS

HARTFORD, Nov. 3—(AP)—A certificate of incorporation was filed with the secretary of the state today by the Madison Square Garden corporation of Hartford. The purpose of the company is stated to be to build, own and operate arenas and other places of amusement and to promote sports, including boxing matches. Its authorized capital is $2,000 and it will start business with a paid-in capital of $1,000. The incorporators are James T. Aspbury and Frank C. Taylor, of Brooklyn, and C. Taylor, of Brooklyn, and C. J. Ferrie, of Annandale, Staten Island, N. Y.

The officers of the incorporation of the same name in New York state, which operates the Madison Square Garden, include Tex Rickard and the Ringling Brothers.

TY COBB RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF DETROIT AMERICAN LEAGUE CLUB

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 3—(AP)—The tocsin has sounded for Ty Cobb. After 21 years of brilliant baseball the Georgian wearying of constant criticism for his failure to develop a pennant winning club, resigned today as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

George Moriarity, the American league umpire who made his baseball reputation as third baseman for the Detroit team, will be the new manager. His selection was announced today by President Frank J. Navin.

Cobb left for his Augusta, Ga., home immediately after tendering his resignation. Friends, however, said that Cobb will devote his entire time to varied business interests (he is generally reputed to be the wealthiest of the baseball players) and will not don a uniform for at least a year.

The announcement came as a distinct surprise to Detroit fans. Cobb has been severely criticised, especially in the past two years, for his management of the Tigers. Many fans have called loudly for his managerial scalp. Often boos have mingled with cheers in the past two years when he took his turn at bat or trotted in from centerfield to argue with an umpire.

But Cobb has remained, devoting all his baseball skill and smartness developed by 21 years of major league play, to giving Detroit the best ball club he could.

Dissension was often reported in the club. This player and that player were said to be unable to "get along" with Cobb. His handling of pitchers was objected to by many.

During the 1926 season when the team dropped low in the standings, attendance began falling off. Circus bleachers which were needed in other years in the outfield stood empty even on summer Sunday afternoons.

There was no questioning Cobb's sincerity of purpose nor his enthusiasm; there were doubts, often expressed as to his managerial ability.

President Navin was always one of the Georgian's strongest friends. Little more than a year ago, when the city of Detroit tendered Cobb a public banquet and presented him with a costly half clock, Navin handed Cobb a check for $10,000 as a gift from the club in recognition of Cobb's part in its upbuilding.

Cobb began his Tiger career in 1905. He has never played with any other major league club. The financial success of the Detroit Baseball club is inter-twined with the days in which Cobb was baseball's greatest attraction. For many years he was such a box office magnet as Babe Ruth is today. It was his versatility as much as his batting that won him the designation of the "greatest ball player that ever lived."

Ever since 1924 Cobb has sought to develop the man to succeed him in the centerfield he played so long. It was only this season, however, that the man Cobb believed capable of the job was found. This was Heinie Manush, whose first year as a Tiger regular took him to the batting championship of the American league. With Manush batting and fielding well in centerfield, Cobb spent most of the 1926 season on the bench.

George Moriarity has been a favorite with Detroit fans since his baseball days. He will be assisted, according to the announcement, by Lefty Leifield, who has been assistant for the past two years, to Lee Fohl on the Boston American league club.

COBB IS FIFTH MANAGER TO CHANGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—Announcement of the resignation of Tyrus Raymond Cobb as manager of the Detroit Tigers, made at Detroit today, brings the total of managerial changes in the two major baseball leagues to five. Four nominations of new managers have been made, two in each league. Lee Fohl's successor as director of the playing end of the Boston Red Sox has not been announced.

With the news that Ty Cobb would retire at Detroit came the appointment of George Moriarity, American league umpire and former Tiger infielder, as manager.

Another managerial announcement today was that of Dan Howley, successful pilot of the Toronto Leafs of the International league to succeed George Sisler with the St. Louis Browns.

Two new pilots will start next season with National league clubs, Owen Bush, after managing Indianapolis in the American association, will succeed Bill McKechnie at Pittsburgh. McKechnie has not announced his plans. John P. McInnis, after 16 years as a major league player, has been graduated into managerial ranks with the Philadelphia Nationals. Arthur Fletcher, former Phillie manager will join the New York Yankees as a coach.

There are no indications that any of the other managers will be supplanted. However, the retirement of Ty Cobb came as a surprise in Detroit and elsewhere and other changes may be made. Cobb in recent seasons confined himself to a utility role but was rated as a playing manager. Moriarity will be a bench manager as will Howley, succeeding the playing Sisler.

Unless the Red Sox sign a player, the American league will have only three who contribute physical as well as mental efforts to the success of their teams, Collins at Chicago, Speaker at Cleveland and Harris at Washington.

The National league on the other hand gains a playing manager as Stuffy McInnis will take his turn in the lineup on occasion. Dave Bancroft will continue to play and manage the Boston Braves.

MORIARTY LONG SOUGHT A MANAGER'S BERTH

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—George Moriarty, American league umpire, appointed to succeed the fiery Ty Cobb as manager of the Detroit American league club, has had managerial aspirations for several years.

The former Tiger star admitted this after he was shown an Associated Press despatch quoting Detroit officials on Cobb's resignation and Moriarty's appointment. He had felt confident, he said, of an executive berth since at least one other club had approached him recently regarding a managership position.

Having served as an American league umpire for ten years, Moriarity is rated by critics as being well qualified for a manager's job. He is a recognized authority on the national pastime and has written baseball for news syndicates and magazines.

Moriarity broke into professional baseball in 1904 when he was picked up from the sand lots at Woodstock, Ills., by Frank Selee, manager of the Chicago Cubs. He went south with the Cubs that year but was sent to the Little Rock club of the Southern association. He suffered a leg injury and was dropped from that club and later made a free agent by the Cubs.

Toledo signed Moriarity in 1906. He led the association in stolen bases with 51, and was sold, that fall to the New York Yankees with whom he played during 1906, 1907 and 1908. He was traded to the Tigers the winter of 1908-1909 and played under Hughie Jennings for the next seven years.

Moriarity was traded to the Chicago White Sox in 1916 but remained with Comiskey's club only two months, being sent to Memphis in the Southern association as playing manager. Moriarity contracted typhoid fever shortly afterward and was forced to sever his connections with that club. When he recovered he was appointed to the American league umpire staff.

SOPHS AND JUNIORS TO START AGAINST COOPER

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 3—When the Connecticut Aggies take the field against Cooper Union of New York at Storrs next Saturday, followers of the State College eleven will have an opportunity to see Coach Sumner Dole's 1927 varsity combination. In other words, the Aggie mentor will make use of a starting lineup consisting entirely of sophomores and juniors, with the sophomores predominating, and eleven men who will be available when another season rolls around.

Dole has two reasons for deciding on such a course, which will be changed only if Cooper Union displays more power than the underclassmen are able to cope with. In the first place, the Aggie coach is a firm believer in developing green men and building for future seasons. The squad this year contains green men for the most part, several of whom have stepped into and filled regular positions like veterans. Dole's second reason for starting his 1927 eleven is to give some of his regulars, Captain Daly, Zollin, Lorentzen, Schofield and Noonan in particular, a good rest before the game with Rhode Island a week from Saturday. After being held to a scoreless tie a year ago, Connecticut intends to put forth every effort to win from Rhode Island this season, and unless Dole's plans go astray, the Aggies will be able to start the game at full strength and give the Engineers a real battle from start to finish.

This starting lineup against Cooper Union will be ends, Callahan and Schildgren; tackles, Sayers and Wilson; guards, Colapuricio and Gilman; center, Giessler; quarterback, Knaut; halfbacks, Eddy and Hewitt; fullback, Williams. Of these men, Callahan, Sayers, Wilson, Eddy and Williams are regulars. Eddy and Williams will not be used any more than is necessary, as Dole wants to try out some of his substitute backfield players.

COBB COULD NOT STAND CONDITIONS OF TIGERS

ATLANTA, Nov. 3—(AP)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, for a score of years a colorful figure in organized baseball, resigned as manager of the Detroit Tigers because he "foresaw I could not win a pennant within the next few years under existing circumstances and I wanted to quit while I was still up among the rest."

Cobb tonight stopped over here on his way to Augusta, his home.

"I had an obsession to win a pennant for the Detroit fans who have been wonderful to me," Cobb said. "I worked hard for six years developing men, but I saw that it would be several years under existing conditions, before I could turn out a winner. I wanted to quit while I was still among the best so I just got out."

"I hate to leave baseball," he said, "it is all I know. I am not trained in anything else so I guess what I do in a business way will be in some form of baseball, an interest in some club somewhere."

ACADEMY LOSES CROSS COUNTRY RUN TO SUFFIELD

Although Francis Sullivan of the Academy cross country team outstripped the field and finished first the Academy lost the meet to Suffield at Suffield on Wednesday afternoon by a score of 28 to 33. Sullivan took first place while Suffield won the next three, with Robinson placing fifth. Sullivan ran a pretty race his long lopping stride outdistancing the field and he finished fully a minute and a half in the lead of Gross of Suffield who placed second.

The places were as follows: Sullivan (A) first; Gross (S) second; Moulton (S) third; Adames (S) fourth; Robinson (A) fifth; Doherty (S) sixth; J. Sadinsky (A) seventh; Bon (S) eighth; Greene (A) ninth; Carpenter (A) eleventh.

Seven men ran for Academy, only the first five finishing counted in the scoring. H. Sadinsky and Krohn finished 13th and 14th respectively.

SUGGS-FINNEGAN BOUT POSTPONED FOR A WEEK

BOSTON, Nov. 3—(AP)—The ten round bout billed as the fight for the featherweight boxing championship of the world that was scheduled for the Boston arena next Monday night between Chick Suggs of New Bedford and Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan of Boston, has been postponed one week. An injury to Finnegan's eye while training was announced as the cause of the postponement.

RYAN RETURNS TO POSITION IN YALE LINE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 3—(AP)—The Yale line was bolstered today by the return to the football squad of Frederick B. Ryan, of Short Hills, N. J., to right tackle after a three weeks' absence. He was injured in the Dartmouth game. Wylie was playing in place of Scott at left end today, the latter being out of the game with injuries. Bill Kline, fullback, has returned to the squad and will be in the Maryland game Saturday. He was called to his home in Pennsylvania last week by the serious illness of his mother and was unable to play in the Army game.

"HAVE A CAMEL" INVITES YOU TO THE WORLD'S MOST POPULAR SMOKE

In popularity with smokers, no other cigarette is within a thousand miles of Camel. Camels have been rewarded with the greatest favor any cigarette ever enjoyed. In all the history of smoking, there was never such a growing preference as for this cigarette.

There is but one reason for the increasing fame of Camels — tobacco goodness.

From the beginning, Camel has made its way by quality. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos and endless care for perfection are the meaning of Camels, and Camel quality. As new millions try them all, as they become experienced smokers, they come home to Camels.

Camel mildness and mellowness are made for your taste. . . . They will bring you the utmost smoking pleasure. Try them now. For a smoke that never tires the taste, literally never leaves a cigaretty after-taste—"Have a Camel!"

WESTERLY

LITTLE INTEREST IN THE ELECTION RETURNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 3—On Tuesday night there was little evidence on the streets of both Westerly and Pawcatuck of enthusiasm or a celebrating spirit manifest. The largest gathering was at the rooms of the Westerly Masonic club on High street where some 200 were assembled to hear election returns, enjoy card games and pool and billiards. A stereopticon lecture was given by Thomas McKenzie. Under the direction of a committee, Club President John O. Mills, Senator Abraham P. Datson and Chef Alexander Mitchell, a clam chowder, sandwiches, cider and doughnuts were served. Election returns were received by telephone, and radio in charge of John Smith.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers: Nov. 2, C. Clarence Maxson to town of Westerly a parcel of land on the east side of Main street, 200 feet long and 4 1-2 feet wide.

Nov. 2. James W. Burke to Amos A. Champlin and Geneva R. Champlin, parcel of land on the south side of the Boston Post road and east of the land of the grantees.

Nov. 3, Wilfred Ward to Rufus W. Sprague, Jr., of Montclair, N. J., parcel of land with all improvements thereon standing at the southeasterly corner of Elm and Cross streets. This Colonial design house was the residence of Wilfred Ward when he was the resident director of the Bradford Dyeing association plant at Bradford, R. I. The grantee, Rufus Sprague, appeared in Westerly as the legal representative of the Bradford Dyeing association, when it first came to Westerly, at which time he searched the titles of lands purchased by the dyeing association.

Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, Eminent Sir Arthur J. Garl, commander, held a stated conclave on Wednesday evening in its asylum in the Masonic rooms on High street on Wednesday evening. Routine business was followed by a short entertainment.

The Mistuxet club of Stonington on Wednesday evening played the fourth of a series of bridge whist matches with the Westerly Masonic club in their club rooms on High street. Six tables were in play under Capt. Friedman for the Mistuxet club and Capt. Lamb of the Westerly Masonic club. In the one game in Stonington and the two games in Westerly already played, the Westerly players have been victorious in each encounter.

A concert by the Zimmer Harp Trio was well attended and greatly enjoyed on Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the West Broad street school, under the auspices of the Pawcatuck Teachers' club. The trio, consists of Nellie Zimmer, Marie Mellman and Gladys Troekford, assisted by Erna Korn, contralto soloist.

Last year when the Pawcatuck Teachers' club was a new organization, it sponsored a concert by Lambert Murphy, tenor.

On Wednesday morning occurred the death of John Gurry, 80, veteran of the Spanish-American war and Westerly resident for a number of years. Mr. Gurry was born in Ireland and spent his early life there. He came to this country about 35 years ago. At the beginning of the Spanish-American war, he enlisted at Ashton, R. I., with Co. H, First Regiment, R. I. Volunteers, and served with that outfit during the war, at the conclusion of which he was honorably discharged.

During the World war he was a member of the Westerly Constabulary.

He was a member of Robert Brucker camp, Spanish War Veterans.

Surviving him are five daughters and a son Miss Mary F. Gurry, Mrs. Michael O'Connor, Mrs. George Ward, Miss Elizabeth Gurry of Westerly, Mrs. Edward Regan of Boston, Mass., and John Gurry, Jr., of Hartford, Conn.

The death of Mrs. Hannah Harvey Gavitt, 81, occurred on Tuesday evening at her home, 2 Washington avenue. She was the widow of George Edward Gavitt and had resided in Westerly 68 years. Having been in failing health for a number of years, her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Gavitt was born in Wakefield, Oct. 2, 1845, the daughter of Daniel and Hannah Brahman Harvey. She was the youngest of 13 children, and is the last of her family to pass away. She had been for many years a member of the Broad Street Christian church.

July 21, 1860, she was united in marriage to George Edward Gavitt, who died eight years ago.

Besides her son, William J. Gavitt, she is survivide by two granddaughters, Miss Bessie Gavitt and Miss Beatrice Gavitt.

The condition of Herbert Edwards of Westerly, who suffered a fracture of the skull late Monday when he fell from his motorcycle in collision with an auto truck in Westerly, was reported as improving last night. POETRY

Music of the Engineer

The signal lights were flashing
As we reached the railroad track—
So we stopped and looked and waited
And we didn't mind, but stated
That we'd rather cross intact.

On came the mighty monster,
Full a million pounds of steel.
We are glad then that we waited
As we watched it pass, breath bated,
For it added to our weal.

The train went by a-roaring—
Scarce a minute to the mile.
And it paid us to have waited
As it passed, to see, elated,
How that engineer did smile!

When you approach a crossing,
Stop and listen, look and wait—
As the train goes by a-spinning,
See the engineer a-grinning
With a joy quite consummate.

Mishaps would be far fewer
If we all would stop awhile,
And, instead of scenes most sordid,
We would surely be rewarded
By the engineer's glad smile.
—National Safety News.

Lacy and feathery their foliage grows
Fluttered and tossed by each wind that blows.

In pastel beauty they gently sway
In the warm sunshine of an autumn day

Their fluted petals of purplish hue
Still treasure a hint of the sky's soft blue

White ones nod gayly to each passerby
With a quiet gesture of ecstasy.

Slender and fragile the tall stalks grow
Swaying so gracefully to and fro.

Sure of their dainty, ethereal grace
Sufficient to brighten the dingiest place

Aristocrats, orderly, dignified,
With a charm that never can be denied.

Elusive, lovely, the cosmos grows
In colorful, feathery garden-rows.

CHICKENPOX, ITS PREVENTION AND TREATMENT

Reports of chicken pox epidemics have not yet been heard. This may be due in part to the unusually favorable season. There seems to be no positive way of avoiding chicken pox; yet there are some precautions that can well be taken. Hens that have had chicken pox will not have a second attack. Pullets that are well reared are less susceptible than pullets that are poorly reared and out of condition. While cod liver oil feeding does not prevent chicken pox, it does seem to carry a flock through with very much better production and less mortality.

For prevention and treatment, use B-K as per manufacturer's directions; or use Sodium Hypochlorite, which can be made up as follows: Formula—1 can chloride of lime (insist that it be fresh with no sign of sorroding); 1-2 pound of fine table salt; 1 gallon of hot water. Allow this to settle, and use only the clear liquid. This stock solution should be made up in glass or earthenware containers, and should be held in a colored glass bottle or kept in the dark, as it will deteriorate rapidly in the sun.

Spray the birds while on the perches once each week with a fine-mist sprayer, using 4 tablespoons to one quart or 1 cup to 1 gallon of water. When used as a cure, spray each night, and use 2 tablespoons of the stock solution in each gallon of drinking water. In severe epidemics, the above dosage may be doubled without danger.

Another treatment that has given excellent results, particularly when the birds refuse to eat, is as follows: Formula—dissolve 2 1-2 pounds of sulphate of iron in 1 gallon of boiling hot water. When cool, add 5 ounces of sulphuric acid. Use 1 cup to 3 gallons of drinking water. Use wooden or other non-metal containers for watering.

It is believed that chicken pox can be easily carried on cage, crates, clothing, and by animals or birds. Do not allow any visitors to enter the laying house. Do not purchase and introduce any stock from outside without being absolutely sure of the source; and even then, allow at least two weeks for quarantine.

SOME STRAINS OF BACTERIA MORE EFFICIENT THAN OTHERS

All the cultivated legumes—peas, beans, vetches, clovers, alfalfa, and related plants benefit the soil, whereas a continuous growth of cereals and other nonlegumes leads to a decline in soil productivity. This difference is due mainly to the fact that the legumes take their nitrogen partly from the air, whereas the nonlegumes take it from the soil.

It is the presence of certain bacteria in the soil that enables the legume plants to make use of the atmospheric nitrogen. It is not the legume itself, but these bacteria that gather the nitrogen from the air and transform it into compounds that are taken up by the plant roots. The laboratory where these bacteria perform this wonderful transformation, that no chemist has yet been able to imitate, is in the root nodules which may be seen on healthy legume plants. Non-legumes do not have such "nodule laboratories," hence they can not gather free nitrogen from the air.

In the absence of bacteria in the soil naturally, it is common practice to supply them by transferring soil from fields already containing them or by artificially prepared cultures from the laboratory. These cultures are prepared by growing the bacteria in liquids, or upon jellies, or directly in the soil. It is interesting to note that despite the minute size of the bacteria every strain has its own peculiarities, a higher or lower efficiency, just as with breeds of higher organisms. It is important, therefore, says the United States department of agriculture, to select and propagate only the most active and efficient strains.

Numerous tests, says the department, have shown that for practical purposes, the legumes commonly cultivated may be divided into seven groups, each of which has its special bacteria. The seven groups are those capable of using the alfalfa bacteria, the red clover bacteria, the vetch bacteria, navy-bean bacteria, lupine bacteria, cowpea bacteria, and the soybean bacteria.

PROPER WAY FOR CARING FOR MANURE

There are many ways advocated for properly caring for barnyard manures, but all are based on the same principles. First, manure should be put on cement or some other hard floor that will prevent the liquid from seeping through. Second, it should be piled compactly so that air cannot get in. When air is allowed to enter, fermentation starts, thus causing a big loss in nitrogen. Third, it should be kept moist, for two reasons: First, it keeps the temperature down, thus helping to prevent destructive decomposition of the ammonia compounds and second, it helps to prevent fermentation.

Where one cannot have the ideal conditions he may wish, it will be wise to use some sort of preservatives which help to retain the ammonia and prevent its escape in the air. Probably the best substance in this section is acid phosphate. This material in ton lots can generally be bought for $1 per 100 pounds. It contains about 16 per cent of phosphoric acid, which is worth the cost in its fertilizer value alone. In fact, it is a good policy to use it with manure under most any condition. Fifty pounds of this material added to a spreader load of manure will make practically a balanced fertilizer containing about equal proportions of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash.

When the manure is piled it should not be piled in small heaps, but should be piled in deep and long piles with practically straight sides. If possible, have it tramped down by hogs running over it. If left in piles without cover, the pile should slope in toward the center, so the rain will remain on top, thus keeping the air out. When a pile of fresh manure is to be piled up in the field, if possible, first put down about a foot of well rotted manure, as this will help to preserve the fresh manure better.

POINTS ON GETTING WINTER EGGS

Winter egg production and avoidance of fall moult, or partial moult, is more a matter of skilful feeding than time of hatching, according to Prof. W. C. Monahan of Massachusetts Agricultural college. Early hatched pullets going into laying quarters in September and October frequently are given enough scratch grain to maintain and increase their body weight. Once well into laying they are impelled to keep at it even at the expense of the body. Beginning to lose flesh under the strain of production, they moult and rest in self-protection.

The remedy or prevention is literal feeding of scratch grain, particularly whole corn. As pullets increase in egg production the scratch grain allowance should be increased in order to maintain, in fact, to keep them gaining in weight. It is a safe rule to feed pullets all the scratch grain they will clean up each day. Laying heavily during the fall and early winter months pullets usually require about twice as much hard grain as mash.

Sixty per cent is the upper limit of safety in pullet egg production until springtime and warm weather. Heavy grain feeding will curtail mash consumption and tend to prevent too great a production. Lights after the first of November, together with a judicious feeding program, are an aid in securing a high and constant egg yield. Count your birds, measure the feed, keep pullets gaining even though it is necessary to weigh a few in order to be sure.

ARTIFICIAL ILLUMINATION FOR CHICKEN HOUSE

Fall production from pullets has this season been unquestionably better than ever before received in Connecticut. This is very largely due to early hatching, improved methods of rearing, and unusually favorable weather conditions. The heavy grain feeding, and particularly the whole corn feeding now being practiced, is going to help materially in postponing or preventing fall moult.

If the pullet flock has been in production for two months or more and is beginning to slow up, it may need lights before November 1st—the date arbitrarily chosen for turning on artificial light. Pullet flocks laying between 50 and 60 per cent on November 1st and still gaining, should not be lighted at once, but rather should be lighted at a later date when production on the flocks already mature. Fall lights used on old hens should be discontinued about the middle of October if the birds are to be used for breeders the following spring. Birds kept for production only may be lighted straight through.

The three following lighting systems are in general use: The Dairyman's System—lighting from 5 a. m. until daylight; the Hired-man's System—lighting from 6 in the morning until daylight and from dusk until 6 at night; and the Commercial Poultryman's System ("night-lunch")—lighting from 9 to 10 p. m.

The hired man's system of lighting from 5 to 6 is rapidly gaining favor. Some of the advantages in this system are as follows: 1st, it allows a reasonable working day for either hired man or owner; 2nd, it allows an opportunity for the early riser to get food, water, and exercise—and places all of the birds in the early-rising class; 3rd, it fits into the present day feeding practices better than the "night-lunch system" because, with extremely heavy grain feeding, the birds are somewhat reluctant to come down between nine and ten.

When installing lights, use one 40-watt light for each 50 to 75 birds, or 200 to 300 square feet of floor space. Hang the lights high enough so that they will just clear the head of the operator when working in the pen. Use reflectors unless the ceiling are low and have been recently whitewashed. A time clock is not necessary for handling the lights, but it is desirable because of regularity. A dimmer system—used in connection with night lighting, can be easily installed by conducting the current on one wire through one or more electric lights set up in multiple. About one-third of the number of lights used on the line gives the desired dimness.

A cheerful liar must be a great comfort to himself.

MUSCLES WERE ALWAYS STIFF AND SORE

Life guard overcomes effects of damp and cold

A beach patrolman at Atlantic City has found a way to avoid the muscle-lameness that results from standing around all day in a wet bathing suit.

"Just pat on a few drops of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing gets results like Sloan's."

Letters like this from hundreds of users of Sloan's tell of the wonderful relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden pain, it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes out stiffness and drives away the aches and pains.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown motored to Southbridge Wednesday.

Mr. Louis Andrews and family of East Greenwich visited Sunday with Mrs. Mary Medbury in honor of her 84th birthday.

Wm. Exley, Mrs. Nathan Exley, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown enjoyed the fine literary program of Quinebaug Pomona at Woodstock Saturday.

Miss Abbie Medbury was in Norwich Saturday.

Rev. Wm. C. Prentiss and Everett E. Brown attended an interesting demonstration of apple packing and grading at the farm of Ernest Buell.

NORTH STONINGTON

Funeral services for Burrows Ripley Park, 71, were conducted at his home Monday afternoon, by Rev. Lucien Drury, in the presence of many relatives and friends. Mrs. T. Edwin Brown and Mrs. George A. Thompson sang two hymns selected by the family, Sometime We'll Understand and Shall We Gather at the River. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic, where Rev. Mr. Drury officiated at the committee service. Mr. Park was a son of Faxon B. Park and Cynthia Smith Park. He is survived by a brother, Leander F. Park of Mystic and two sisters, Mrs. Eliza Gallaudet of Waterford and Mrs. Andrew W. Perry of Stonington. He also leaves his wife, who was Aurelia E. Perry, of Waterford, a daughter, Mrs. Eugene A. Anderson of Stonington, a son, B. Ripley Park, Jr., and two small grandsons. Mr. Park had been engaged in the wood and lumber busines. He had a wide acquaintance throughout the county. He will be much missed by many friends and especially in his family, where he was a devoted husband and father.

Mrs. H. M. Pendleton and Miss Delia A. Wheeler have been in Boston for a few days.

Mrs. Floyd E. Reed has been visiting in Danvers, Mass.

The pupils of Wheeler school had a Halloween party Friday evening at Jennie Wheeler hall.

Harry B. Lewis had charge of the ballot box and Lemiel F. Maine was checker at the election Tuesday.

Mrs. Francis Dunn and Mrs. M. A. Sears of Boston, Mass., spent the week end with Mrs. William Nicol.

John Winther spent a few days in New York the past week.

COLUMBIA

Columbia went republican by a majority of 83 on the state ticket, and 4 on representative, L. Eugene Winter (r) having 102 votes, and Raymond Squier (d) 98 votes. The total number of votes cast were 206 of which four were rejected. There were 91 straight republican tickets, 81 straight democratic, two socialist, and 28 split tickets.

Mrs. Cummings, teacher at Pine street school, arranged a Halloween party for the pupils and parents of that school, which was held Saturday evening at the home of Sigmond Buchsbaum. There were between 40 and 50 present. The children came in costume. Halloween games were played and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lyman of Wethersfield spent Sunday at the home of their son, Raymond Lyman.

The Village Improvement society is ploughing up the Green, using the tractor belonging to Charles LaBonte for the work. The Green will be graded and reseeded, so that it will be possible to keep it cut with a power mower next summer.

Revenue freight loadings totaled 1,309,043 cars during the week ended October 23, a decrease, the American Railway association reported today, of 2,130 cars under the preceding week.

TAFTVILLE DRIVER LET OFF EASY--IGNORED NEW LONDON PARKING LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3.—Ernest Gagnon, 50 South street, Taftville, drove his automobile to New London last night and parked it on the south side of Pearl street, which is restricted to parking. Gagnon was ordered to present himself in the police court by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy. Because of Gagnon being a non-resident and unfamiliar to the city's parking laws, he was not prosecuted, but was released with a warning as to the future parking of his automobile in this city.

OFFICIALS ATTEND FUNERAL OF PERCY COE EGGLESTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3.—The funeral of Percy Coe Eggleston, former purchasing agent in the employ of the Corticelli Silk company, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and was attended by many mourners, including a representation of city officials. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, assisted by Rev. Edward M. Chapman. The honorary bearers were Edward Prentis, Jr., P. LeRoy Harwood, Sidney H. Miner, C. Hadlai Hull, Ernest E. Rogers, Arthur B. Calkins, Charles B. Waller, Elmer E. Spaulding, William H. Reeves and Robert L. Smith. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

STOLE NORWICH AUTOMOBILE—HUMMELL AND DAVIS BACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 3.—Charles Hummell, 121 Jefferson avenue, a former member of the United States coast guard, and of late employed as a waiter in a State street restaurant, and Kenneth Davis, formerly living at the Salvation Army lodging house, State street, were brought back to New London this afternoon from New York. They were arrested two weeks ago following the theft of an automobile, a Buick sedan, in this city, owned by William P. McGarry, 111 Washington street, Norwich. They will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Hummell and Davis were presented in court at New York this morning on a charge of attempting to sell stolen goods, the apparel of Miss Margaret McGarry, who was in charge of the automobile when it was stolen. Miss McGarry is the daughter of the owner of the auto and had parked it on Meridian street. When Hummell and Davis were arrested it was known that the goods that they had attempted to sell were stolen, but the New York detective did not know that the automobile had been stolen until the following day. As a consequence the two men were presented on the less serious charge, but the New London police were acquainted with the fact that the arrested men had admitted the auto theft. This morning the case against Hummell and Davis was nolled and Sergeant John Cavanaugh was there to take charge of the prisoners and return them to the jurisdiction of the New London court.

It developed tonight that a portion of the great quantity of woman's apparel found in the stolen auto and which Davis and Hummell attempted to dispose of in New York, bringing about their arrest, is owned by Miss Jane Wilson, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, who was visiting Miss McGarry at the time of the theft of the auto. The apparel is valued at between $600 and $700.

The way the vote came out in New London yesterday was a surprise to the interested parties. In the last hour or so the vote was as large as it had been throughout the rest of the day. So the "workers" who were to get the voters to the polls did not accomplish much in that direction.

Coast guard sailors were in the police court this morning for operating automobiles without having licenses to do so. The men accused are Alfred B. Smith and Joseph H. Dean. Each was fined $10, and paid. Smith had a borrowed car and parked on Bank street. That led to his apprehension. He said he never had a license. Dean represented that he had just bought a secondhand car and had not yet secured a license, though he had in mind that procedure. The cases were manifestly pure violations.

Two drunks were arraigned and each pleaded guilty. In one case a fine of $10 was imposed because the offender was leniently treated a few weeks ago. In the other case the accused man was allowed to get out of town to get to Pittsfield.

Nathan Punerantz was charged with a violation of the parking ordinance in leaving his machine near his place of business at the corner of Golden and Green streets. He secured suspended judgment.

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown had a canvass made for his campaign for reelection that was as near perfection as a canvass could be. He said that his opponent would carry but a town or two. The count shows that Sheriff Brown had the situation well in hand, for he won in all but one town.

A Norwich boy, who turned out to be a runaway was picked up by the New London police, about 11 o'clock last night. The boy was roaming about State street and being a stranger to Patrolman John Clifford, the officer interrogated the youth who admitted that he had run away from home. The officer escorted the runaway to the police station and the Norwich police were communicated with. The latter got in touch with a brother of the runaway and the former came to New London and escorted the wayward youth back home.

An automobile owned by Reuben Okrout, P. O. Box 41, Quaker Hill, was stolen in this city last night and has not been recovered. Okrout drove the automobile to this city about 6 o'clock and parked it on Meridian street where he left it for about three hours. When he returned he discovered the automobile had been stolen. Okrout reported the theft to the police and they requested the state police at Groton and Centerbrook, as well as the police of Norwich, Westerly, Hartford and Middletown to be on the lookout for the stolen car. There have been more automobiles stolen from Meridian street than from any other location in the city and within the past few weeks the auto thieves appear to pay more attention to autos parked on that street than elsewhere.

An automobile driven by Paul Eppa, 10 Barrows court, knocked down an unidentified boy on Connecticut avenue, near Waller street, this afternoon. Eppa had the boy to be conveyed to the Lena hospital, where an examination revealed that he had sustained only bruises.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Mrs. Hugh F. Lena, 154 Broad street, suspended. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the right to drive of William Minnich, submarine base, suspended and ordered the return of the licenses of Adam Kupidlowski, 6 Mountain avenue and Francis Redden, 202 Jefferson avenue.

The deed transferring title in a house and lot on School street from Gildo Minucci to Louis Kaplan was received for record at the office of the city clerk this afternoon. Mr. Kaplan will occupy the house at an early date.

The funeral of Richard J. Mulcahey, retired New York police officer, who died at his home from heart trouble Sunday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. High mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. The bearers were Thomas Jeffers, Timothy Sweeney, Charles J. Ducy, John Stanners, James R. May and John F. Murray. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Stanley Mondelki, sailor attached to the U. S. S. Naugatuck at the state pier, made a complaint to the police last night that his locker in the establishment of Nicholas Haddad, 129 Main street, who maintains a locker room for the convenience of sailors, had been broken into and personal effects of Mondelki had been stolen. The plunder obtained by the thief included a suit of light gray clothes, a blue suit and a raincoat. It is the belief of the police that the theft was committed by another sailor having a locker at the place.

An automobile driven by Dr. F. S. Wilcox, superintendent of Norwich state hospital, Preston, and an automobile driven by Thomas Kenure, property man employed at the Capitol theatre, collided last midnight at the approach to the Thames river highway bridge in Groton. Both automobiles were damaged, but Dr. Wilcox and Kenure escaped injury.

Frederick Doric, United States coast guard, state pier, and Raymond Scheller of Mystic, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. George Watrous, a former resident on Tilley street when her husband was in the employ of the New Haven railroad, and now resides in California, is in the city visiting her brother, John A. Blake, a letter carrier.

Sherman's restaurant has closed to business. It was located in the Empire building.

Charles H. Woods, 26 Jefferson avenue, employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad as an engineer at Midway, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Henry Hick, charged with driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was locked up at police headquarters and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Woods was driving southerly on Main street about 8 o'clock and at the corner of Main and Federal streets he collided with an auto driven by Thomas Connors, Main street. Woods, it is alleged, then speeded through Federal street in an endeavor to get away, but Connors gave chase and overtook Woods between Huntington and Prospect streets, driving his automobile in front of Woods' car so that the later's auto was forced to come to a stop. Connors remonstrated with Woods for his action and witnesses of the accident had already telephoned to the police. Patrolman Frank Philopena was sent to Federal street and there was joined by Patrolman Hick, the officers finding Woods and his auto where Connors had caused it to come to a stop. Neither automobile was seriously damaged.

Albert Gerton, employed by the city's highway department, made complaint to the police tonight that a boy residing at 223 Crystal avenue had been guilty of destroying a danger light on Crystal avenue and where the light had been placed to warn users of the highway of a danger spot. Gerton stated that the boy refused to quit damaging the lanterns, which had been placed on the danger spot nightly of late.

William Bassley, administrator of the estate of Jenny L. Merry, has sold a house and lot on Maple avenue to Richard Wade.

Miss Grace Huntington, of 58 Huntington street; Mrs. Joseph Ferraro, Norwich, and Edwin Taft, of Waterford, patients at Home Memorial hospital were discharged today.

The trial of John Higgins of Park street, who was arrested yesterday morning in Waterford by Constable Frank Peabody charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, will take place in the Waterford town court Friday afternoon. Higgins is at liberty, having furnished a surety on his bond of $200 for presentation in court.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theater

Tom Mix and Tony are coming to the Bread theatre for two days beginning Friday in "My Own Pal," his latest starring vehicle for Fox Films.

In this production Tom is cast as a cowhand who becomes a member of the mounted police after arriving in the city in search of adventure and fortune.

It is a picture filled with action, thrills and comedy from the first flash to the last and one that will appeal to grown-up and youngsters alike.

Zion M. E. Church Wedding

The Tom Thumb wedding staged at the Zion Methodist church next to the armory tonight at 8 o'clock is a delightful performance well repaying all who attend. The parts are taken by children appropriately costumed and perfectly trained in their parts.

The proceeds are to be added to a fund now being raised to paint the church building. A large attendance of townspeople is solicited.

Proved Effectiveness for Nearly 50 Years

Times change and we change with them. Institutions, customs, business methods—all have undergone constant evolution! Our modern drug stores with their wide ranges of products and merchandising efficiency are very different from the old pharmacies and chemist shops of 50 years ago. Early in this period a new liniment formula was introduced to the public. It was called Sloan's Liniment. Its remarkable property of relieving suffering from lame muscles, sprains, rheumatism, bruises, colds and every kind of muscular pain made it popular at once. Yet after nearly 50 years of change in the drug field, Sloan's still maintains its unquestioned leadership. It has more than stood the test of time. Probably no one item can be found in so many drug stores as Sloan's Liniment. From its early success, Sloan's has grown in popularity. Today, it can be found for sale in the pharmacies of 133 foreign countries.

Even more astounding is its growth in America. Despite the keenest of competition of newer remedies, Sloan's has steadily advanced in sales. Out of every ten bottles of liniment sold today five are Sloan's. This impressive record has been due to the remarkable effectiveness of Sloan's. Its success is based on the soundest of all medical principles, the stimulation of the body forces to effect a cure by their own improved functioning.

The relief given by this liniment is not the temporary deadening of the nerves. By its stimulating effect upon the circulation, Sloan's sends an increased supply of freshly purified, healthy blood to the affected parts. This new blood with its great power of destroying germs and building tissue promotes the actual cure. Wherever there are people who suffer from sprains and rheumatism, wherever there are tired and sore muscles, Sloan's liniment has its grateful and enthusiastic friends who have obtained relief from acute suffering and almost unendurable pain.

Palace Theater

Starting at today's matinee the Palace presents the long awaited sensation, The Quarterback, with Richard Dix and Esther Ralston, his whose engaging personality has brought him to the crest of screen popularity sets a new record for laughs in The Quarterback, a romantic comedy with an underlying note of seriousness. Its whirlwind finish introduced the most exciting football game ever screened, played as it is on a rain drenched field. Esther Ralston the kind the blond gentlemen are supposed to prefer is Dix's leading lady. You know the kind of a team these two make, why say more, see The Quarterback and to make the most outstanding program of the season the management has added another fine attraction in The Little Irish Girl, with the charming and beautiful Dolores Costello who sky-rocketed to stardom after her screen debut with John Barrymore in The Sea Beast. The Little Irish Girl is a tingling mystery drama filled with action, suspense and delicious comedy and then we have Gene Tunney in chapter nine of his great adventure serial, The Fighting Marine that grows even more exciting as it nears its conclusion. The Palace Topical Events brings the latest world wide news and completes just about the finest screen program one could find anywhere.

Broadway Theater

A new program of five high class acts of Keith Albee vaudeville are on the program for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the Broadway theater.

Baby Henderson, the dainty and diminutive child wonder will thrill and astonish you in the skill and grace in which she does her clever routine of dances and steps. Baby Henderson is the only child ever featured in electric lights on Broadway. Van and Belle are known as the Happy Laughing Entertainers. This duo are clever funmakers. Their humor is contagious and they are sure to make you laugh. Perry Oliver and Ada Lee will be seen in another comedy riot entitled At the Stage Door. Dawn and Daye are next in a musical harmony duo called A Flat.

Charles Mack and Co., offer another surprise in a comedy offering that will make you hold your sides from splitting.

A fast moving comedy drama on the screen. Dorothy Revier has a new and interesting role in the latest Waldorf release she has made for Columbia.

This is The Fate of a Flirt, which comes to the Broadway theater today. Director Frank Strayer was given this Janet Crothers story and was told to make it into a picture that would be memorable in every sense of picture excellence.

Director Strayer followed his instructions. He engaged the lovely Dorothy Revier first of all—and then added three other stars The Fate of a Flirt also features Forest Stanley, Thomas Ricketts and Phillips Smalley.

Include a cast of well-known character actors and the average fan can realise that here are the ingredients of a dish fit for the finest movie palate.

An up to date news weekly is also included in this big show.

Middletown will again be host to drum corps from various parts of the state at St. Aloysius hall the coming Saturday night. A parade will open the evening's program.

WORCESTER JUDGE SPEAKS ON RIGHT TRAINING FOR BOY

"Right Training for the Boy as a Prevention to Crime" was the topic of an extremely interesting talk by Judge Jacob Asher of the criminal courts of Worcester at the Wednesday meeting of the Norwich Rotary club. Judge Asher was an eloquent speaker and he brought to the club a message that held the close attention of his hearers. Judge Asher said in part:

I am always glad to speak to Rotarians for I am a member of one of those civic business clubs in Worcester. There are nine of them and I feel that they are doing a world of good. They all preach the same doctrine of brotherly love and cooperation, but they do more than just talk about it, they live it. We meet together, forget business worries and by the personal contact with others we are inspired and better equipped to carry on. These clubs are doing a great work in doing away with petty jealousies, strife and religious differences.

In the world war we were willing to die for our country and now that it is over let us live for our country. During the war we did not ask a man what his religion was. If he was a man of good character and a man who recognized a God that was all that was necessary. Let us go on in that common fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man, practicing that old instruction to love thy neighbor. All must show this neighborly love by willingness to serve for the common good. There should be no question of religious belief when a man is asked to serve. The only test is the test of his character and his willingness to serve. All these clubs must work shoulder to shoulder on every common problem and their combined strength will accomplish great things. Work together to make your community a better place in which to live.

In Worcester last summer the civic clubs got together and working in a common cause raised $13,000 for the purchase of a camp for the Boy Scouts. This work for the boys is one of the greatest things that these business men's clubs can do. The boy is the great problem of the community today. He is the future citizen and it is up to us to see that he gets away on the right foot. There are many temptations for the boy of today and it is not always that he goes right. We hear much of the crime wave in America and the outstanding fact of this is that a large percentage of those brought before the courts are mere youths. Who is this so? Isn't this one of our problems?

The boy may come of exceptionally fine parents yet under certain conditions comes in contact with the criminal element. He may get in some jam and is convicted and his associates then are bad and he gradually absorbs their distorted ideas. Their lives are blighted and society ostracizes them. We hear much about reforming the criminal after he is in prison but so far as I can see less than 10 per cent are reformed and even then they have a mighty hard time to stay straight.

Our task is not to reform the criminal after he gets to prison but to get to him early in life so that he will not be a criminal. The boy between the age of 12 and 16 has a plastic mind and is easily molded. If he comes in contact with evil associates his tendencies are along the criminal line. His mind is like the clay in the sculptor's hands; it is easily molded and then as it ages it becomes fixed. If the boy is guided along the right channels his mind becomes fixed on the things that are good and he is a sound and righteous citizen. It is up to us to help the boy, see that he is given right training in this susceptible age and to teach him right from wrong. We must live decently ourselves for the boy is a great hero worshipper and we never know when he is copying us. If the boy has God in his heart he will be good. The welfare of the boy concerns everyone of us for are we not our brother's keeper? We cannot go through life alone because if we do we are weak, but working together we are strong. Exemplify the spirit of the common God and show by our actions that we are strong and our brothers will be strong. Don't forget the boy, he needs our attention and our care.

At the business session President E. A. Harris presided and Flint Brayton was the song-leader. The musical feature of the meeting was a delightful solo by C. A. Gager.

James L. Case gave a very interesting account of his visit to the original Rotary club at Chicago. Henry Vignot invited the members of the club to be his guests at his home later in the month and Eben Learned and Walter C. Turner were appointed to assist Mr. Vignot in making arrangements for the affair.

It was announced at the meeting that President E. A. Harris had been chosen delegate from the local club to the international Rotary convention at Ostend, Belgium, next June. Charles A. Sarton was appointed alternate.

LIGHTNING THE CAUSE OF PARALYSIS TO FISH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Fish are subject to paralysis caused by lightning, the bureau of fisheries has found in a study conducted at its station at Craig Brook, Maine.

After a bolt of lightning hit trees bordering a fish pond recently, about 15 of the larger fish appeared to be lying lifeless on the bottom of the pool. Experiments disclosed they were paralyzed. They lived several days without being able to move their bodies.

TAX NOTICE

To the Taxpayers of the Town of Sprague:

All persons liable to pay taxes in the Town of Sprague, State of Connecticut, are hereby notified that I have a warrant to levy and collect a tax of ten (10) mills on the list as made by the Board of Assessors and perfected by the Board of Relief of said town for the year 1925 due and payable Nov. 1, 1926.

All persons neglecting this notice will be proceeded against as directed by the laws of this State.

For the purpose of collecting this tax I shall be in my place of business, known as Caron's News Store, every day during November from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m., and at the Parish House in Hanover in the village of Hanover from 3 to 7 p. m., Nov. 11th and 12th, also at Versailles Post Office Nov. 17th from 3 to 7 p. m.

After Dec. 1, 1926, interest at the rate of 9 per cent will be added from the time these taxes became due. All taxes must be paid direct to the Tax Collector and all bills receipted by him. If sent by mail enclose postage if you wish a receipt.

Dated at Sprague, Conn., this 15th day of Oct. 1926.

E. J. CARON, Collector.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to all persons liable to pay Personal Taxes in the Town of Lebanon, that I have a warrant to levy and collect the Personal Taxes of October, 1926, each of such persons being assessed the sum of two, ($2) dollars as a Personal Tax.

This Tax is assessed and collected pursuant to the provisions of Section 1157 of the General Statutes of Connecticut as amended by an Act of the General Assembly, approved March 25, 1925; and is due and payable into the treasury of said Town on or before the fifteenth day of November, 1926.

The Statutes of this State which apply to the Levy and Collection of Personal Taxes will be enforced against all persons who neglect this notice and who neglect to pay said Personal Tax prior to December 1, 1926.

Dated at Lebanon, Connecticut, Oct. 21, 1926.

GEORGE E. BRIGGS,
Collector of Taxes,
Town of Lebanon.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks steady; New York traction shares aided by election results.

Bonds strong; French and Belgian issues soar to new high.

Foreign exchanges irregular; Japanese yen at 1926 high as French francs rises.

Cotton lower, favorable crop reports.

Sugar steadier; Cuban support.

Coffee easy; commission house selling.

Chicago

Wheat firm; delayed seeding southwest.

Corn barely steady; liberal receipts.

Cattle irregular.

Hogs steady to higher.

STOCK MARKET DULL

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—The stock market today failed to register any positive response to the results of the national election. Prices drifted downward in extremely dull trading until just before the close when operators for the rise staged a brisk rally which wiped out many of the earlier losses and sent a number of issues 1 to 5 points above Monday's final quotations.

Judging by the action of the market, the loss of several seats by the republicans in both branches of congress had been anticipated and, except for the defeat of Senator Wadsworth, caused no surprise. Bear traders made a feeble attempt to unsettle the general list by offering some of the leading industrials at concessions soon after the opening but they failed to bring out any important liquidation, and thereafter confined their selling to supposedly vulnerable specialties.

Further improvement in the credit situation was reflected by another lowering of time money rates, placing 60 to 90 day loans on a flat 4 1-2 per cent basis and the longer maturities at 4 7-8. The bond market was quick to respond to this development, showing exceptional strength, with several of the leading French and Belgian issues being elevated to new high levels for the year. Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent, as banks called about $12,000,000 in loans. Money was in plentiful supply, following the drop of over $50,000,000 in brokers loans last week.

General Motors regained its position as the market leader, rallying from a low of 148 to 153 and closing just below the top for a net gain of over 4 points on the day. The buying apparently was in anticipation of the optimistic statement of President Sloan, who declared on his return from Europe that the corporation could well afford to pay another cash extra of $5 on the common stock. U. S. Steel common sold down to 127 3-4 and then rallied to 141 1-4, up 1 1-4 net, with late buying influenced by a report that October unfilled orders to be made public next week might possibly show an increase instead of the generally anticipated decrease.

The strength and activity of the local tractions, which advanced 2 to 5 points, was associated in some quarters with state election results, but the connection was not made clear. Oil shares again received fairly good support in the face of another large increase in crude oil output last week, and rumors of further gasoline and crude oil price cuts.

Among the specialties the weakness of Air Reduction, Austin Nichols preferred, Burns Bros. A., Case Threshing, Gotham Hosiery, National Tea and Warner Pictures A contrasted with the strength of American Brown Boveri, America Linseed, Commercial Solvents, B. Dupont, International Paper, Ludlum Steel, National Supply, Philip Morris, Union Carbide and Weber & Heilbroner.

Rails fluctuated within rather narrow and irregular limits, but net gains exceeded net losses at the close.

Another break of $1 to $1.50 a bale in the cotton, part of which was recovered, featured the commodity markets. Selling of the commodity was influenced by favorable weather reports and predictions of another upward estimate of the year's crop. Wheat futures showed practically no change on the day. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices held steady.

Mixed movements in the foreign exchange market reflected the adjustment of New York rates to the changes recorded in European rates yesterday when our markets were closed. Demand sterling was firm around $4.84 1-4 and French francs rallied above 3 1-4 cents, after an early period of heaviness. Italian lire ruled 4 points lower around 4.30 cents, and most of the other changes were nominal.

TAFTVILLE

One of the leading social events of the week was the Halloween costume party given by the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society at Parish hall. The hall was decorated attractively and there were about 75 members and their guests present. The costumes were very original and novel. Miss Grace Phalen won first prize in the apple race with Miss Leona Belanger second. In the shoe race, the first prize went to Miss Ethel Roy with Miss Claire Fontaine as the close second. Miss Lulu Greenwood was the winner of the musical chair game, the second prize going to Miss Annie Dailey. The Misses Arpin were the victors in the tug of war. Halloween refreshments were served by Miss Mary Hanlon, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Louise White and Miss Alice Legare. The committee in charge of the game and receptions included Miss Agnes Murphy, Miss Agnes Dougherty, Miss Nora Murphy and Miss Helen Breault. Mrs. Andrew Frohmader was the general chairman in charge of the very successful event.

The annual meeting of the Taftville Social and Football club was held Monday evening in the clubrooms in the Ponemah building. There was an unusually large attendance, and President Allan Bogle presided. A number of important business items were disposed of and there were some contributions by some of the members to be used to reduce the "bond issue" on the billiard table, and provide soap for the shower baths. The election of officers resulted as foNows: President, Fred Ince; vice president, Thomas Addison; secretary, Robert E. Cooper; treasurer, Earle M. Wood; auditors, John W. Seddon and Herbert P. Hoyle; membership committee, Archibald Torrance, George Kinder and Christopher Troeger. After the business session there was a social hour, with songs and musical numbers by the members, and a lunch of sandwiches and coffee was served.

Arthur Ouimet of Providence street is very ill with pleurisy.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Parrish have returned to their home in Hartford after spending the past few days in town.

A large party of Taftville people motored to Ledyard Wednesday evening to attend a chicken supper in that place.

The Community Sewing club held its regular weekly meeting Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

At a recent meeting of the members of Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A. it was decided to postpone the banquet and ceremonial which have been arranged for one week. A number of out of town delegates have notified the castle of their intention to attend.

REV. C. W. BRENNAN GOING FROM NORWICH TOWN TO WATERBURY CHURCH

Rev. Charles W. Brennan, for nearly 14 years pastor of Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, has been notified by Rt. Rev. Bishop John J. Nilan of his advancement to the pastorate of Blessed Sacrament church, Waterbury. He is to succeed Rev. Edward Flannery, who died several weeks ago.

The coming Sunday will be Father Brennan's last Sunday in the Norwich Town church. In his new parish he will have an assistant priest, as the congregation is much larger than that of the local parish.

Rev. Father Brennan, who is a native of New Haven, studied at St. Bonaventure's college and seminary, New York, and was ordained at that seminary. Following his ordination he was assigned to teach English literature at St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford. His bishop later appointed him assistant to the pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, Waterbury, where he served for ten years. It is an interesting coincidence that he should be sent back to Waterbury, this time as pastor of a flourishing parish.

His charge at Norwich Town includes also the village of Yantic, the total parishioners numbering about 475. There are 75 children in the Sunday school.

The Norwich Town parish was cut off from St. Patrick's a number of years ago and a substantial church was erected to meet the spiritual needs of Norwich Town and Yantic Catholics.

On Easter Sunday morning, April 1, 1923, the church was destroyed by fire, shortly after the morning services. The loss was a serious one; but the entire townspeople rallied to Rev. Father Brennan's assistance and a general subscription from people of all denominations as well as his own congregation enabled him to start at once to rebuild. In the mean time, he and his parishioners were generously proffered the use of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, and of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic; but it was possible for the people to have the use of the basement chapel at St. Patrick's and there they worshipped until the new church edifice was available for occupancy, the first mass being celebrated there the following Dec. 16th. The re-fitting of the church has gone on gradually and the progress of the parish which so bravely rose above its misfortune has been a matter of community interest and satisfaction.

In his quiet and unostentatious labors for his flock Rev. Father Brennan has not been able to completely hide his varied talents from the public and it has come to be known that his sound scholarship and wide reading have given him a fund of information which has frequently been of aid to patrons of the public libraries and others, who have been referred to him for counsel. Also Father Brennan is an accomplished musician and several seasons ago consented to furnish the evening's program for Norwich Music association, delighting the large audience at Slater hall by an informal talk on Irish folk songs, which he illustrated at the piano, which he plays with skill.

His faithful and devoted ministry to his people has been most edifying and his departure will be universally regretted, although all will rejoice with him in the proof of Bishop Nilan's approval of his work, shown in his promotion.

Just who will be appointed to succeed Father Brennan had not been made know by Bishop Nilan up to Wednesday afternoon.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY MAKES PLANS FOR WINTER WORK

The November meeting of the board for the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary was held Tuesday noon at the association building on Main street, and with a good attendance of members. Following the luncheon the business session was opened by Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, newly elected president of the board, and plans for the activities of the winter were discussed.

Officers of the board for the present term are as follows: President, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson; vice president, Miss Miriam Campbell; secretary, Miss Marion L. Bishop; assistant secretary, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley; treasurer, Mrs. John E. Hawkins.

The following committees were appointed by the president: Program, Mrs. L. O. Smith, Miss Marion L. Bishop, Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell, Miss Amy L. Coggswell, Mrs. Richard Snow; entertainment, Miss Mary E. Richards, Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, Mrs. Gerard A. Ashley, Mrs. E. LaRue Bliven; finance, Mrs. John E. Hawkins, Mrs. Edwin Hill, Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond; house and Y building, Miss Miriam Campbell, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, Mrs. William H. Fitch, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, Mrs. C. Edward Carpenter; junior committee, Mrs. John B. Oat, Mrs. John D. Sharples, Mrs. Frank I. Royce; membership, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton; reception, Miss Gertrude Young, Miss Mary Perteous, Mrs. Shepard B. Palmer, Mrs. Arthur L. Peale, Mrs. James C. Macpherson.

It was voted to hold four open meetings during the year, the first to be held on the first Tuesday in December. It was also voted to hold a food sale soon.

The hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley and Mrs. Arthur Thompson.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS STUDIES SAUL'S FAILURE

The Men's Bible study group at the local Y. M. C. A. held an interesting session Wednesday evening with a good number in attendance. The scripture used was 1st Samuel 15th chapter. The topic was "The Failure of a Strong man." Among the points developed in the discussion were the following: "A chain is no stronger than its weakest link." Saul had been made king. No young man ever started in life under more auspicious circumstances. He was exceedingly popular. Popularity too often makes a man egotistical, gives him the big head. Saul had a fine physique, and this helped to make him popular, as it generally does. Saul had the ability to keep his mouth shut under trying circumstances, which trait is rather seldom found in a man or woman. It is easier to go into battle than to control one's self. Saul was magnanimous; when popular clamor called for the death of his enemy, he said no. A tolerant spirit shows a stronger manhood than does the spirit of "get even." We would fare poorly if God dealt with us the way we too often deal with others. God had commanded Saul to utterly destroy the Amalakites, and all their cattle, etc.; to wipe them out, but Saul failed to carry out to the full the command; he lied about it, and afterward confessed that he had disobeyed. In the long run men do not "get away" with disobedience of God's commands. Men often blame their circumstances, and while to an extent man is a creature of his circumstances, many men have risen above them and therefore others can do so. The mistake Saul made was that he was self willed; he put his will athwart the will of God, and this always in the long run spells failure. The sad announcement was made to Saul that because he had disobeyed God he would be deposed of his kingship and another better than he should become king.

The interest in the study and discussion was marked.

EAGLES TOO STRONG FOR JIBBOOMERS IN PINOCHLE

The fifth night's play of the pinochle tournament between the Jibboom club of New London and the champion Eagles of this city held in the Whaling city resulted in the "birds" increasing their lead 7590.

The final night's play will be in this city next Monday evening at the Eagles' home after which the participants will enjoy a banquet.

With a total of 7415, A. Hastedt took high single on the Eagles team while Carlston with 6940 won high single on the Jibboom team. The scores for the evening:

Eagles—A. Hastedt 7525, J. Dwyer 7230, C. O. Wright 7065, J. Leirich 6885, E. P. Mullins 6850, W. R. Hastedt 6770, E. J. Mullins 6670, R. A. Krohn 6655, H. Herring 6410, C. Nowacki 6260, total 68210.

Jibboom club—Carlston 6940, Vellone 6585, Greenleaf 6385, Finch 6355, Partridge 6280, Christiansen 6240, Elliott 6150, Busch 5690, Peterson 5455, Baker 4660, total 60,720.

SAFE SEWAGE DISPOSAL IS IMPORTANT FEATURE

In its weekly bulletin the state department of health gives advice that sewage disposal facilities should be looked over before buying or leasing real estate.

The bulletin says:

According to published figures, the population of incorporated municipalities in this country increased from 25,000,000 in 1890 to 54,000,000 in 1930. This concentration of population in city areas, combined with the availability of quicker methods of transportation, has been responsible for increasing development of suburban real estate and of shore front property. The purchasers of houses on such sites, and even the builders, are often city bred persons who have always lived where city water and public sewers are available. They give no thought or very little thought to the necessity for satisfactory water supply and sewage disposal. Occasionally some real estate dealer will build houses in a location where sewage disposal is difficult, install improper sewage disposal facilities and sell to some unsuspecting purchaser. There is no state law covering such matters.

Difficulty is often encountered where no public water supply exists and people secure their water from shallow wells on small lots in the same ground water which is being contaminated by sewage from their own or neighbors' houses. It is almost impossible to fix the blame for the pollution, as all the propert owners in the neighborhood are "in the same boat."

Formerly in the case of summer houses, private wells usually were the source of water supply and outside toilets were used. With concentration of population in suburban and shore properties, many public water supply mains have been extended. This has been desirable and has led, to construction of many houses with bathrooms and water-flush toilets. This also has been a commendable step forward but the fact remains that it has produced some complicated sewerage conditions.

If houses are built on marshy ground or clay soil, on small lots, it is inevitable that the soil will not take the seepage and the sewage will rise to the ground surface with dangerous resulting nuisance. The only remedy for such a situation is the construction of a public sewerage system whereby the sewage from the entire community can be conducted to one central point and treated to such a degree as to render its discharge into watercourses safe. It must be remembered, however, that if houses are located right on the bathing beach, it will undoubtedly be necessary to transport the sewage away, possibly by pumping. This can be done but it costs money and should be borne in mind by property purchasers.

In some cases it would unquestionably be better to make use of properly constructed and cared for outside toilets or chemical toilets until sewerage facilities are available.

The state department of health frequently finds itself up against a stone wall when asked to suggest a ready method to remedy conditions coming to its attention from property owners who have found out too late that things are inherently wrong and can be improved only by drastic and expensive changes. For this reason, if you are a prospective real estate owner or even a possible future tenant of some suburban or shore bungalow, don't forget that safe water supply and sewage disposal are necessary. The state department of health has available bulletins on water supply and sewage disposal for rural homes and will be glad to furnish advice.

LECTURED ON OBEDIENCE ON MENTAL HYGIENE COURSE

Dr. Lloyd J. Thompson, clinical director at Yale school of medicine, delivered the third lecture Tuesday evening at Slater hall annex in the series upon the general topic of mental hygiene. He spoke upon "Obedience" and summarized practical advice to parents and teachers as follows:

To secure obedience:

1. Be sure that you gain the child's attention and that he understands.

2. Do not give commands without meaning them.

3. Be consistent and do not allow a child to do a thing one day and punish him for doing it the next.

4. Fear as a weapon is bad. It may make the child step lively at first but either he gets use to the object of terror so that it has no effect or he becomes a timid, nervous child.

5. Emotional scenes are bad. If disobedience is made so interesting by the excitement stirred up over it any child who loves excitement would want to be disobedient. Instead, commands should be given calmly and in a tone that suggests about what is expected will be done.

6. Favoritism frequently produces disobedience in others in order to gain attention.

7. Always consider the child's motive. To illustrate this point, Dr. Thompson told of one day finding his three-year-old daughter and another little girl undressing on the front lawn. On the surface it would appear as a naughty performance but on questioning the child it was found that the children were simply imagining themselves to be at the seashore and acting as they thought fitting. Fantasy is frequently at the basis of stealing and other misconduct.

There are three distinct types of discipline which can be used:

1. Rewards, which are all right if used in connection with good deeds but very bad if used as a bribe to stop something which should be restricted, in that it then encourages misconduct.

2. Punishment, which may be classed as (a) physical, (b) psychic or mental (c) chronic psychic punishment. Physical punishment is best applied around age of 4 or 5 years, but is only worth while when the pain is greater than the misdeed. There is, of course, danger of carrying this too far. With infants it is best to slap hands and with older children to switch legs. One or two good whippings early in life are all that should be necessary. Mental punishment would include scolding, depriving child of things (but never go back on a promise) sending to bed, sitting in chair (but never shut up in a dark place). Chronic psychical punishment or constant disapproval is most injurious and should not be used.

3. Reasoning, which is the most desirable method should be begun as soon as the child is able to reason. It is not sufficient for adult to give his reasons. The child's point of view should always be considered.

IS FINED $200 ON WET DRIVING CHARGE

Found guilty of driving his machine while under the influence of liquor Edward McSheffrey of this city was fined $200 and costs and given a suspended 30 day jail sentence, Wednesday morning in the city court. While driving his Essex coach to the city from Taftville about midnight Tuesday night McSheffrey crashed into a tree near Pulaski hall. The machine was practically demolished. McSheffrey was arrested and a man later identified as Leon Morris of Montclair, N. J., who was riding in the machine, was also arrested by Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer John Quinn.

Both were locked up, McSheffrey being charged with driving under the influence and Morris with intoxication. Morris received what was thought to be a scalp wound when he was thrown out of the car, but his condition was not considered at all serious Tuesday night.

In court Wednesday morning he appeared to be all right and answered "yes" when asked if he was guilty on the intoxication charge. He was given the usual fine of $5 and costs. Later it was noticed that something was wrong with Morris. Upon questioning him it was found that he was in a daze and that all he could say was "yes" no matter what question was put to him.

A physician was called and he attended Morris. As the physician was about to leave Morris collapsed. He was taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance. It is thought that his condition may be due to a fractured skull.

Papers found in his clothing show that he is general manager of the Paramount Theatre advertising company of No. 6 Church street, Boston. He has been in Norwich handling advertising for a local theatre.

BIRTHDAY WAS CELEBRATED BY HALLOWEEN PARTY

Frank Clark entertained 16 friends and classmates Tuesday evening at his home, 26 Carter avenue for Halloween and his tenth birthday.

The living room was decorated in black and orange while the dining room was tastefully decorated in red, white, and blue. A large birthday cake was in the center of the table. A lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake, cookies, candy and punch were served.

Prizes in the peanut hunt were won by Anita Carrigan and Francis Blanchette. The Charleston was danced by Misses Mary Lane, Gladys Gomond and Arlene Blanchette. Dancing was enjoyed by all with Miss Myrtice Fielding at the piano.

Those present were Misses Irene, Elizabeth and Helen Randall, Anita Carrigan, Mary Lane, Betty Lanphere, Gladys Gomond, Elizabeth Vars, Arlene Blanchette, Charles Peckham, Eliot Lane, Howard Rahdall, James Abruzzo, Albert Fielding, Frances Blanchette, Earl and Baddy Wilson, and Frank Clark.

Mrs. Clark was assisted in serving by Miss Myrtice Fielding and Mrs. H. J. Randall.

DESERTER IS TAKEN BACK TO FORT WRIGHT

Daniel E. Perkins, 20, deserter from the United States army, was turned over to the local police Wednesday morning by his father Charles A. Perkins of Hallville. The young man was taken to Fort Wright by Officer Smith.

He enlisted at New Haven May 27, 1925, and deserted from Fort Totten, N. Y., August 2, 1925. Since then he has been in a number of cities and arrived Tuesday night at his home in Hallville, coming here from Houlton, Me.

VIOLIN SCHOLARSHIP IS AWARDED HENRY BRYNAN

Henry Brynan, whose violin playing has so often given great pleasure to Norwich audiences, has been awarded a scholarship for one year as a violin student at the Institute of Musical Art, conducted in New York by Walter Damrosch. The young Norwich musician played before a company of noted musicians, including Leopold Olre, in the scholarship tryout.

Mr. Brynan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Brynan of 50 Ward street.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the supervision of Mrs. John M. Rogers of Wauwecus street, a class of girls was organized this fall comprising young women of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church. The name adopted was The Modern Priscillas. The members comprise Misses Florence M. Brown, Inez Edmiston, Gladys Cruthers, Ruth Lathrop, Isabel Gembel, Effie Ladd, Edna Judson, Doris Estelle Rose, also Mrs. Le Roy Miner, (Hazel Cruthers), The officers of the class are: President, Mrs. Rogers; secretary and treasurer, Miss Florence M. Brown.

Meetings are to be held twice each month at the homes of the members the evenings designated being the first and third Monday. The object of the class is to promote sociability among its members, also to make progress in sewing basketry fancy work, such as baskets of flowers and crepe paper novelties. It is also the plan of the class to put on entertainments, etc. The first meeting was held October 4th, at the home of Miss Brown, on Wightman avenue; at this time sewing was done. Later, the hostess served refreshments, October 18th, at the home of Miss Ruth Lathrop of Wauwecus street, the class held its first business meeting with election of officers.

For Monday evening, November 1st the class held a Halloween social in the vestry of the Methodist church, for members and several guests. Mrs. Rogers was in charge, assisted by Misses Effie Ladd, Doris Estelle Rose and Isabel Gimbel. The vestry was attractively decorated in accordance with Halloween. Sandwiches, doughnuts, pumpkin pie, cocoa and apples were served by the committee in charge.

At the next meeting November 15th, at the home of Miss Gladys Cruthers on Canterbury turnpike, three new members are to be received into the class. It is expected that Mrs. Wellington Miner of Vergason avenue, will instruct the girls in basketry, while lessons in making crepe-paper novelties, artificial flowers, etc, will be given by Mrs. Albert G. Miner, of Huntington avenue.

The November meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters is to be held Monday afternoon, at the Johnson Home. The leader Mrs. William E. Manning, has requested members to bring to this meeting the silk socks which were distributed at the January meeting to hold contributions toward their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Odgers (Ethel Elizabeth Whaley) have returned to Norwich Town, from their wedding trip.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.,

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

SETTLEMENT OF BRITISH COAL STRIKE LIKELY TODAY

Mediation of the Trades Union Congress is Bearing Fruit—Delegate to Secret Conference Declares There Has Been a Complete Change in the Situation—Unions Generally Have Abandoned the Miners, Declining to Place an Embargo on Coal or Make a Forced Levy to Help the Strike.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Peace in the coal fields is in sight. It has not yet come, but is distinctly nearer through the mediation of the council of the trades union congress and various more or less secret conferences held beteewn the interested parties the last few days.

A settlement of the long protracted strike—now in its eighth month—is talked of for tomorrow.

The ground is more favorable for peace, because, although the miners have failed to induce their brother unions to place an embargo on coal movements or make a forced levy to help the strike, the trades union congress has showed its good will by voting £10,000 from its funds to help the miners over the settlement.

A prominent delegate, leaving a secret conference of the miners' officials this afternoon, declared there had been a complete change in the situation, and that there were hopes of peace.

The miners' delegate conference had to decide the crucial question as to whether to continue resistance or seek peace through the trades union congress. It is understood that the debate was remarkably frank and that the miners' bad position in the face of increased numbers of men returning to work was fully recognized.

The conference was adjourned until tomorrow.

PRINCE LEOPOLD MARRIED TO PRINCESS ASTRID

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A simple civil ceremony performed by the veteran socialist bourgomaster of Stockholm, today united the royal houses of Sweden and Belgium in the persons of Princess Astrid of Sweden and Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium.

The romantic love match of the young people, which has thrilled the people of Sweden and Belgium, today brought them to the ancient throne room of the Swedish royal palace where they were married before a brilliant assembly that included four European sovereigns and many other representatives of Europe's royal families.

With all the brilliance of the company, the note of present day democracies was struck in the presence of Sourgomaster Carl Lindhagen, who read the usual Swedish formula and then added: "In virtue of my office, I now declare you man and wife."

Tonight Princess Astrid said farewell to her native land, starting for her new home on a Swedish cruiser in company with her parents. The Belgian royal party, including the bridegroom, planned to travel by another route. The heir of the Belgian throne will meet his bride at Antwerp and will conduct her to Brussels where a Roman Catholic ceremony will be held on Wednesday.

Princess Astrid, who is now crown princess of Belgium, is 20 years old and is the daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Vastergotland, he is the niece of King Gustav of Sweden. Prince Leopold was 25 years old yesterday.

RESULTS OF ELECTION IN ROCKY MOUNTAIN STATES

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—With two of his three hotly contested gubernatorial races in the Rock Mountain states settled when Governor Nellie Taylor Ross, democrat, Wyoming, conceded her defeat to Frank E. Emerson, republican, and Governor Arthur T. Hannett, democrat, New Mexico, congratulated his republican rival, R. C. Dillon on the latter's victory, interest centered tonight on Arizona, where Governor G. W. P. Hunt, democrat, clung tenaciously to a lead over E. S. Clark.

Latest available figures on the Arizona race showed Hunt with a majority of 413 in 437 complete and four incomplete precincts out of 480 in the state.

Figures on the Wyoming race gave Emerson 34,707 and Ross 33,247 in 636 precincts out of 685. Wyoming also will return its republican representative, Charles E. Winter, to congress in addition to electing a republican state ticket.

HOW 70TH CONGRESS WILL BE DIVIDED POLITICALLY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The political divisions in the seventieth congress are:

In the present senate the republicans have 54; the democrats 40; the farmer-labors 1 and there is one vacancy.

House:

Republicans 226; democrats 195; farmer-labors 2; socialist 1 and undecided 1. Total 435. Necessary for a majority 218.

In the present house the republicans have 246; the democrats 181; the farmer-labors 3; socialists 2, and vacancies three.

TO HELP GUESTS DECIDE SIZE TIPS SHOULD BE

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The time which once sufficed for hotel tips gradually grows thinner, it is admitted by the members of the South Side Hotel association, and their association will vote next Monday night on a standardized scale of tips.

"Adoption of a scale of tips does not mean that the association looks upon tipping as compulsory," said K. D. Bousum, secretary of the Jackson Park Hotel association. "We insist upon the same service to every guest, regardless of tips, if any.

"What the association is aiming at is to relieve the quandary of the guest who is undecided upon the size of the tip he should give for extra service."

ANXIETY OVER SAFETY OF ELEVEN AVIATORS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4. — (AP) — Anxiety was expressed here tonight for the safety of 11 aviators who left San Antonio today in nine airplanes for New Orleans. The pilots were due to arrive at the Belle Chasse, La., field near here, at intervals during the afternoon. None had been heard from by representatives of the New Orleans air port commission at 9 o'clock tonight.

Added fear for the safety of the Brooks field army aviators was caused by the fact that Belle Chasse field is not yet equipped for night flying. Should the aviators arrive later tonight they would take a great risk if they attempted to land.

DEATH OF ANNIE OAKLEY, PREMIER WOMAN RIFLE SHOT

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The death today in her Ohio home of a tiny white-haired woman, named Annie Oakley, took from thousands who saw her at the world's fair here in 1892 none of the reality of her vivid heyday as premier women rifle shot of the world.

Men with greying hair and dimming eyes recalled, at news that she had died at 66, boyhood days on a plank seat under a canvas tent when Annie rode a cow pony into the center ring of Buffalo Bill's show, clad in a buckskin shirt and waving a rifle above her head.

She would shoot dimes from attendants' hands, fracture bullseyes in unsteady targets, and burst with a rifle-shot glass balls tossed into the air as she galloped about the ring on her pinto, and the crowd would cheer and applaud and toss hats in the air in tribute to the first and greatest of the wild west markswomen.

Since her retirement years ago, she has not been forgotten, for a bit of slang, coined in the nineties, has made her name immortal. Theatrical passes, complimentery tickets to public events and free certificates of admission are known everywhere as "Annie Oakleys."

WITCHCRAFT AND SORCERY PRACTICED IN GERMANY

LEIPZIG, Germany, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Belief in witchcraft and sorcery still persists in some parts of rural Germany. A wave of the old superstition has been sweeping the little hamlet of Wraschcoroda, near Sauersheim, and while there have been no burnings at the stake, life has been made miserable for several unfortunate suspects, both men and women.

An automobile was wrecked near the house of a supposed witch and it was excitedly charged that the witch had caused the accident by expectorating on the roadway just before the car passed. When a young girl was taken ill it was averred she had been bewitched and she was shut in a dark room for three days while incantations were chanted periodically to exercise the old spirits. Outside the house door armed men stationed themselves with the hope of catching the evil ones, but it is not recorded that any were caught.

SCHWAB PREDICTS GREAT ERA OF PROSPERITY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel company, today predicted the approach of the greatest era of prosperity ever enjoyed by American industry.

Speaking before the Bond club here, Mr. Schwab said that America would have its ups and downs, as in the past, but he emphasized that in the long run the industries of the country would show a solidly-based progressive trend.

"There has never been a time," he said, "when I felt so optimistic about our great industrial life. After going through a half century of it, I would choose today. If I were going to invest in securities, I would invest in industrials because the future of industry in America shows an upward trend."

Mr. Schwab said he was still happy in business, and that when he was no longer happy he would retire to enjoy his own company.

BROADWAY'S LAST TRIBUTE TO MAGICIAN HARRY HOUDINI

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Broadway paid its last tribute today to Harry Houdini, the magician, who died in Detroit last Sunday, and his fellow magicians broke a wand and placed it on his coffin as a symbol of the passing of the master of legerdemain.

About 1,000 friends, relatives and associates in the theatrical world attended funeral services in the Elks club house on West 43rd street. After Jewish rites, joint tributes were paid by the Elks, Masons, Society of American Magicians, National Vaudeville association, Jewish Theatrical Guild and the London Club of Magicians, of which Houdini was president.

Crowds stood in Times square, with heads bared, as the funeral cortege of 50 automobiles passed en route to MacPhelah cemetery, Cypress Hills.

$1,700,000 SUIT AGAINST FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Thomas H. Ince corporation led suit here today against First National Pictures for $1,700,000. This sum is alleged due on 30 pictures delivered to First National under a series of contracts made with the late Thomas H. Ince, producer, between August, 1921, and the time of his death in November, 1924.

The Ince corporation charges that First National, following Ince's death, submitted its own pictures in a number of contracts with exhibitors and also destroyed valuable prints of pictures when it abandoned its contract.

Soviet Envoy Denied a Passport Visa

Madame Kollantay Will Not Be Permitted to Enter the U. S. En Route to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's only woman diplomat, Madame Alexandra Kollantay, has been denied admission to the United States under the law which Secretary Kellogg invoked a year ago to debar the count and Countess Karolyi of Hungary, and first brought into play to prevent the entry into this country of Shapurji Saklatvala, Indian communist member of the British parliament.

Madame Kollantay, who formerly was soviet minister to Norway and now is minister-designate to Mexico, is in Berlin en route to her post in Mexico city. She desired to visit the United States in traveling to the Mexican capital, but has been compelled to abandon that plan by the refusal of the American consul general in Berlin to extend the necessary passport visa.

The consul general, whose action, the department announced, was taken with its full approval, denied the visa request on the ground that Madame Kollantay was "one of the outstanding members of the Russian communist party, a member of the third congress of the communist international," who has been actively associated with the international communist subversive movement."

The law enforced by Secretary Kellogg against this daughter of a famous Czarist general, who has renounced high lineage in Old Russia's aristocracy to embrace Bolshevism, was laid down in an executive order issued by former President Woodrow Wilson in 1918. Secretary Kellogg is thoroughly in sympathy with the statute and has shown his determination to enforce it in cases where aliens trying to enter the United States are shown to be advocates of anarchy, revolution, or agitation.

WERE IRREGULARITIES IN AUTO INSURANCE CO.'S REPORT

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Liabilities were understated and "deliberately falsified" in the Automobile Insurance company's report of December 31, 1925, the state insurance department disclosed today.

A report of William M. Corcoran, actuary of the insurance department, to Commissioner Howard P. Dugham, of an exhaustive examination of the company's affairs covering four years up to December 31, 1926, was made public. It showed liabilities to have been understated by the company to the extent of $7,215,311 and a deficit of $6,294,203 as of the last day of last year.

"Serious irregularities in the bookkeeping of the company" and a "highly improper procedure" adopted with respect to its liabilities was reported. That marine insurance deals were made with London companies upon terms so disadvantageous to the Automobile Insurance company as to be called "preposterous" by underwriting officers of the London companies involved, was also revealed. The investigation in England was made by Edward D. Robbins, special counsel for the insurance department.

MOTHER IS GUARDIAN OF "PEACHES" BROWNING

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Justice Wasservogel today appointed Mrs. Carolyn M. Heenan, guardian of her daughter, Frances Heenan (Peaches) Browning, to defend the suit brought against "Peaches" by Marian Dockerill for libel.

Mrs. Dockerill brought suit on the ground that she had been damaged by newspaper articles signed by "Peaches" in which she said she was referred to as a cult leader sought by Edward W. Browning, middle aged businessman, in connection with his romance with the schoolgirl.

PLOTTERS AGAINST SPAIN ARE COMPLETELY ROUTED

PERPIGNAN, France, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The rout of the recently discovered Spanish republican expedition which hoped to stir up the people of Catalonia was completed today when the flag of the "State of Catalan" fell into the hands of the French police at the railroad station here.

The standard bearer, still unaware of the discomfiture of the expeditionary corps and the arrest of more than 100 of his companions in arms, arrived at Perpignan, rather belatedly but with all the necessary enthusiasm to lead the plotters across the Pyrenees.

PICKS AL SMITH AS DEM. PRESIDENTIAL CHOICE

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau, diplomat, banker and philanthropist, came from New York today with a prediction that Governor Al Smith of New York will be the democratic standard bearer in 1928 presidential campaign.

"The religious issue will not stop him," said Mr. Morgenthau. "The south may not be absolutely solid for him, but it will help elect him."

Appearing before a near east relief committee, he pleaded, for the continuance of the work of near east relief, and immediate liberal aid in alleviating the sufferings of recent Armenian earthquake.

FIREMAN KILLED, 21 INJURED IN WRECK ON MICH. CENTRAL

ORION, Mich., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Glen Rutherford, of Detroit, fireman of a Michigan Central passenger train was killed and 21 persons injured, two of them seriously in a collision between the passenger and a freight train near here late today.

A. Evans, of Detroit, engineer of the passenger train and Mrs. Harry Hilbert, of Columbiaville, Mich., were the most seriously injured.

Both the passenger train and the freight were traveling slowly at the time of the collision and neither was derailed.

Queen Marie Witness of Clash of Authority

Col. Carroll, Major Washburn and Samuel Hill Actors in Unpleasant Scene.

QUEEN MARIE'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO SEATTLE, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A breach in Queen Marie's party over a question of authority was revealed today in an explanation by an unscheduled scene in Portland last night when Colonel John H. Carroll, acting host to her majesty and Major Stanley Washburn, her special aide, left the queen's box after a dispute with Samuel Hill, whose guest Queen Marie is. Major Washburn and Hill were aboard the train today en route to Seattle, although Hill said last night that either he or Washburn would have to leave the party.

The scene at the horse show followed an incident at Marylhill, where her majesty dedicated Hill's Museum. Hill claiming that the governor of Oregon was denied a place in the queen's car on the motor trip to Portland.

Hill was said to have upbraided Major Washburn as responsible, carrying the dispute to the horse show where he told the major "you will take orders from me. I am the boss and host, on this trip and I will crush you if you don't obey me."

Major Washburn and Colonel Carroll then turned Queen Marie and said they could not remain so long as Hill was present.

Denial By Gov. Pierce.

SALEM, Oregon, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Governor Pierce today emphatically denied the reported incident of sharp words between Sam Hill and Major Stanley Washburn at the Portland Horse Show last night. He denied that he himself had been insulted by a door being slammed in his face.

"Not a word of truth in it," said the governor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty thousand gallons of whiskey, the largest seizure ever made in this country, was taken over by prohibition officials today when agents took charge of the Keat warehouse in Brooklyn, the largest bonded warehouse in the United States. Chester P. Mills, district prohibition administrator, placed the minimum value of the whiskey at $6,000,000.

HI-JENKS ON RUM RUNNER AS SEIZED BY COAST GUARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A fantastic tale of rum running, piracy, and of a champagne bathtub party on the high seas in which a grizzled hijacker played the part of a bathtub girl was revealed in the dry legal phraseology of two indictments returned in federal court today.

The rum runner was the Elma, formerly a lighthouse tender, which sailed from Boston last may to engage in the liquer trade. She was seized by hi-jackers among the crew and the bathtub party was to seal a bond of fellowship between the opposing factions.

While the party was at its height, however, the coast guard destroyer, the Manning, came upon the ship off Cape Hatteras and after firing several shots halted the rum vessel.

A boarding party, fully armed, was sent to take possession. When the guardsmen stepped on board the captured vessel they were startled to find grouped about the captain's bath tub, the combined crew's with dippers in hand imbibing champagne while a grizzled and beaded hijacker wearing a blond woman's wig was seated in the tub.

The inspiration for the bathtub party, they explained to the coast guard officers, was obtained from radio accounts of the grand jury investigation of Earl Carroll's "bathtub party" on the stage of a New York Theatre.

WOMAN WAS KILLED BY RUN-AWAY MOTORIST

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Arthur L. Young, 50, of Exeter, N. H., was killed on the Berlin turnpike near the Circle dancing pavilion late today by a south-bound automobile which did not stop after the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Young were on their way to St. Petersburg, Fla., for the winter. They stopped in front of Amber Inn while Mrs. Young went across the road to the Circle. As she was returning she was struck, her neck and legs being broken.

Mr. Young was the only witness of the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Young left Exeter this morning and had planned to stay at Meriden tonight. They had nearly reached their destination when the accident occurred.

Dr. J. P. Purney, medical examiner of New Britain, was notified and said that the woman had been killed instantly.

Mrs. Young is survived by her husband and an adopted daughter.

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH THE KILLING OF MRS. YOUNG

MERIDEN, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Isiah Leebove, 22, a lawyer of New York city, and Rufus Wood, 24, his negro chauffeur, were arrested here early tonight and held for the state police in connection with the death of Mrs. Arthur L. Young, of Exeter, N. H.

Mrs. Young was killed on the state highway near the Circle dancing pavilion in Newington by an automobile which did not stop. State police sent a description of the auto to this city. police making the arrests as Leebove's car was passing through here.

M. I. T. FRESHMEN IN FREE FOR ALL FIGHT WITH SOPHS

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Six unconscious sophomores, several wrecked trolley cars, a badly damaged subway car and a partially wrecked public bath room were included in the havoc and damage wrought by 400 freshmen of Massachusetts Institute of Technology tonight. The riot carried the furious 400 from Cambridge to Park Square, Boston, via the subway, out to the Back Bay section from where they were chased back to Cambridge by police reserves.

The trouble started when the freshmen broke up a sophomore banquet in the Hangar gymnasium at Technology by tossing tear gas bombs in the windows. The free-for-all fights that followed ended with the wrecking of the building with an estimated damage of $1,000.

The 400 freshmen and 200 second year men then joined forces in a snake dance up Massachusetts avenue into Harvard square. Window guards, glass and trolley ropes on half a dozen street cars were broken en route, the elevated company reported.

In Harvard square the mob charged the University theatre and were beaten back by 12 Harvard men, acting as ushers, and the manager, Charles H. Hatfield, former chairman of the republican state committee. Hatfield, nursing a black eye, called police reserves who dispersed the crowd, with one arrest.

Two hundred students drifted back into Harvard square, however, storming the subway gates and rode free into Boston on the first available tunnel train. The second car of the train was in darkness by the time Park street was reached, only half a dozen windows remained intact, and one woman passenger had fainted.

51 MEN LOST LIVES IN CAVE-IN OF MICHIGAN MINE

ISHPEMING, Mich., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The little settlement of North Lake, which grew around the development of the Barnes-Hecker iron mine, eight miles from here, was robbed of nearly every man by the cave-in at the shaft yesterday which took 51 lives.

Today as the difficult work of attempting recovery of the dead proceeded there were only two men residents to help. The other lay in either the morgue or in the workings where they were caught by the collapse of swamp land and the consequent flooding of the mine.

The disaster left 160 orphans.

The listed number of men who perished was reduced to 51 this afternoon by official announcement that Frank Heino, previously reported among the missing had been kept from working with his regular shift by a fortunate illness. Arvid Heino, his son, is among the dead in the mine.

AIMEE M'PHERSON TO DEMAND IMMEDIATE TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A demand for immediate trial will be made by Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother and co-defendant, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, on charges of criminal conspiracy, their attorney, W. I. Gilbert said tonight, at the same time denying that it was their intention to ask a change of venue.

INVESTIGATING ATTEMPTED BREAK AT TOMBS PRISON

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—The death list stood at five tonight as a result of the bloody battle in the yard of old Tombs prison when three notorious gunmen sought to blast their way to freedom with smuggled firearms.

All the gunmen had paid the penalty, the prison warden and a prison keeper had given their lives, another keeper was seriously wounded in a hospital and a bystander was recovering from a bullet wound through the hand.

Two men were held by police; one of them having admitted that he helped to plan the attempted jail delivery and the other believed to have been his accomplice.

Four separate investigations were under way to determine how pistols could have been smuggled in to the prisoners and what part in the conspiracy if any had been played by prison employes.

The famous old prison was under heavy guard by special patrols of police, armed against any contingency, extra police were sent to the Bronx county jail, said to be overcrowded, and plans were considered for increasing the guard at other city prisons, and Governor Smith, fearful lest the spirit of mutiny should spread as the word of the riot circulated, ordered state troopers on special duty at Sing Sing prison at Ossining.

Today police arrested Oscar Amberg brother of Hyman, and Robert Werner. Werner admitted that he had helped plan the attempted escape and told how he had tossed two pistols, wrapped up with a quantity of ammunition over the prison wall. He identified two of the pistols used in the prison battle but said he knew nothing of the third one.

530 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN THE STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Accidents in the state during the week ending October 30, were again more numerous than during the corresponding week in 1925, according to the weekly report issued today by the statistical division of the motor vehicle department.

The total number of accidents during the week was 530 as compared with 457 last year. Seven fatalities were reported last week while there were but five in the same week in 1925. Three hundred and twenty-five of the accidents occurred in the 14 principal cities where last year there were 283. Hartford again reported more accidents than any other city in the state, while Winsted gained the distinction of not having a single accident during the entire week.

The victims of the fatal accidents during the week and the places where the accidents took place were as follows: Edward Breiner, Bridgeport; Miss Frances P. Penny, Bridgeport; John Andrews, Mixville; Theodore Martin, Meriden; Mrs. Ethel Feeney, Trumbull; Mrs. Annie Mosteau, Windsor; Harry Hanson, Waterbury.

The number of accidents in each of the 14 cities was as follows: Hartford, 83; New Haven, 49; Bridgeport, 47; Waterbury, 35; New Britain, 26; Stamford, 14; Greenwich, 14; New London, 13; Norwalk, 12; Meriden, 11; Middletown, 10; Danbury, 5; Norwich 3; Winsted, none.

HARTFORD TO BE TERMINAL OF A CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Lieutenant Louis N. Eller, regular army aviator assigned to the 118th observation squadron, with one of the officers of the local National Guard aviation unit, will make a cross-country flight from Santa Monica, Calif., to Hartford, it was announced tonight by Major William E. Ladd, commanding officer of the squadron. The officers will go to California to bring here a new O-2 Douglas plane which has been allotted to the Hartford unit, and will probably take about a week to make the eastward flight.

The O-2, with which the 118th had some experience at Mitchel field, last summer, during their field training period, is described as a modification of the planes used in the round-the-world flight which were built by the Douglas company. The 118th will eventually, it is expected, have three of the Douglas ships.

KRESGE DIVORCE ACTION HAS BEEN WITHDRAWN

DETRIT, Nov. 4.—Reconciliation of Sebastian S. and Doris Mercer Kresge, second wife of the five and ten cent store merchant was seen in the withdrawal by Kresge of the divorce action he filed in circuit court several moths ago.

An injunction restraining Kresge from pressing his divorce action in Detroit was obtained by Mrs. Kresge in New York in October. She contended that Kresge, as a resident of New York had no standing in Detroit courts.

The first Mrs. Kresge, mother of Kresge's five children, obtained a divorce in 1923. She lives in Detroit.

STATE PURCHASES FOR THE NEW SCHOOL SITE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 4—Additional transfers of property on High street by local owners to the state of Connecticut now gives the state possession of all the land to be used for the erection of a new schoolhouse in the first district to replace the old Windham street model school which was burned down a few years ago. With clear sailing ahead eight dwelling houses on the land are either to be sold or removed by next spring when the actual construction will begin. Properties transferred are those of Leonidas Demers on High street, $4,500; E. Marrottee on the corner of Valley and High streets $6,000 and Dina Dion on High street $4,500.

Other comparatively recent real estate transactions now on file at the office of Town Clerk Frank F. Fenton of Windham include the following: F. Hughes to A. Paul Wolfe, tract of land in Windham; Mary Morin to Salvatore Maxsola and Annie Maxsola, land on Lewiston avenue and Chestnut street; Sava Mathvink to William F. Kivlen and Emma Kivlen, tract of land on Windham-North Windham road; Harold C. Hawkins to Lucille A. Dinneen, land and buildings bordering Manners avenue; John E. Glen of Hartford to Ebenezer J. Whitney and Hattie E. Whitney, two parcels of land, one on Windham Center road to North Windham and the other on Windham Center-Willimantic road; Ella S. simonds to Mary T. VanZandt, tract of land on Chestnut street extention; S. Clifton Adams to Emma Muell, land and buildings on Pleasant street; S. G. Adams to Annie Johnson, land and buildings on Bridge street; John E. Roberts to Annie Labuseek, two parcels of land on Peru street; Mary Isabelle Rooney Granger and Hannah Rooney of Swampscott, Mass., to John Misah, land and buildings on Elm street; Oliver L. Willard to Dr. Edward J. Ottenheimer, land and buildings on North street; William E. Clark to Mariana Maxsola, tract of land on Pleasant street; R. L. Breault to Jack Siegelbaum, tract of land in Willimantic; Alice Frye of Willimantic and John Fry of Hartford to Nettie E. Fryer, land on Lewiston avenue; George E. Buck, Allen B. Lincoln, Eliza L. Brown, Frank L. Alpaugh and Clifford J. Alpaugh, tract of land on High street to Dr. Owen O'Neill.

DEFENDANT RELEASED, PLAINTIFF ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 4—A. James Diko of 39 Carpenter street, Providence, R. I., driver of an interstate bus which struck and injured a bull owned by Isadore Lasky of Hop River on the evening of October 9th, was arraigned ni the Columbia town court last night where charges of reckless driving and failure to report an accident held against him were nolled. Diko was represented by an attorney from Hartford and through the latter he entered pleas of not guilty to both charges. Witnesses for the state were Isadore Lasky, his wife Hilda Lasky and their son, Paul Cantello Lasky Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink of Andover also testified for the prosecution. Lasky was driving two cows and the bull across the driveway near his home on the Willimantic-Hartford road in Hop River. The cows had gotten across and the bull was in the center of the road when the bus, one of the Interstate Transportation company fleet, came into view, Lasky claimed that he swung a lighted lantern and hollered but the bus did not stop and nearly struck him as well as the animal. Deputy Sheriff Frink stated that the bus driver applied the brakes at first, causing the rear wheels to skid for 14 feet. When the bull was struck the brakes were apparently released and the bus continued for 81 feet dragging the animal along for that distance. Lasky failed to get the name of the bus driver at the time and Deputy Sheriff Frink upon ascertaining it turned his investigation over to State Policeman Clifford Willis.

Diko testified that he slowed up as he approached the scene. The road was clear when the bull suddenly stepped out from the side of the road directly in front of his machine. He said that he stopped as quickly as possible and then came back to talk the matter over with Lasky. Attorney Kelley argued, that the caretaker of the bull was responsible for allowing the animal to go loose on the public highway.

Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins nolled the charges against Diko on the payment of the costs of $14. Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke prosecuted. When the court adjourned Mrs. Lasky, who claimed ownership of the bull was in turn placed under arrest on a warrant charging with allowing the animal, which was over one year old, to be loose on a state highway. Her case was set for hearing Thursday evening, November 11.

Some 40 members of the Willimantic Exchange club were in Stafford Springs Wednesday night to meet with the Stafford club which is being recruited in that place. The present organization has a membership of fifteen and ten more professional and business men are being sought to secure the quota necessary for a charter. Edwin J. Donnelly was toastmaster of the postprandial exercises at a turkey dinner. Among the speakers were: William Park, C. H. Moore, Walter Scott, Hans Hansen and George Silswick of Stafford, Clinton Nichols of Hartford, a national vice president of Exchange and Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones, Dixon VanZandt and Allen B. Lincoln of the local club. Response was also made by Edward C. DeBorcart of Stafford.

Joseph Giraca is exhibiting an artistically made and historical combination meerschaum cigar and cigarette holder that was made in Germany by a soldier and came into the possession of a noted German officer. The holder and stem is in a shape of a sprawling "S" and the holder is of virgin meerschaum while the mouthpiece is clouded amber. Figures of two race horses with a jockey holding one bit surmount the bowl or holder. The figures are exquisitely designed. The pipe came into possession of an American following the evacuation of the Allies on the Rhine and was secured by Mr. Giraca from a local woman.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nohelmer, 62, died at the home of her son, Michael Nohelmer of 13 Valley street extension Wednesday. "I believe this to be the Perfect Loaf

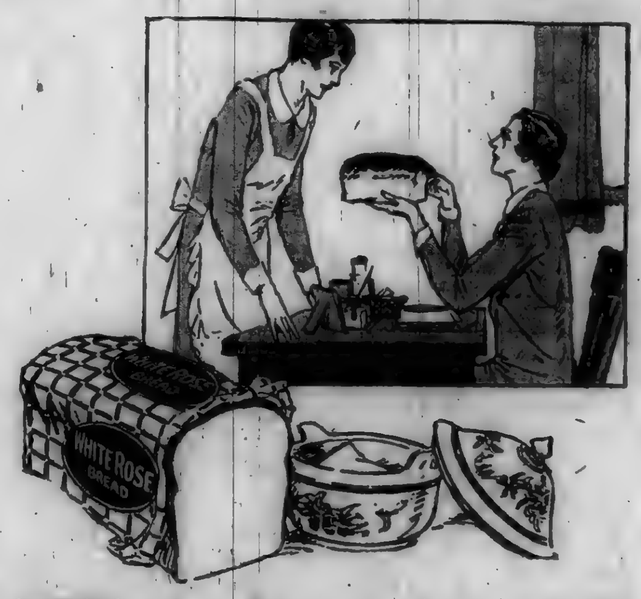
of Bakers'

white Bread"

says the Director of Household Arts of a famous University



FIFTEEN years devoted just to the study of foods. Her advice sought by hundreds of women because of her scientific and practical knowledge.

And now after making thorough tests for flavor, color, texture, for keeping qualities, and for countless other things that only an expert would think of—this authority calls White Rose Bread the perfect loaf of bakers' white bread.

Countless other women share her enthusiasm. They have found what they never before have been able to get—a loaf rich with the finest ingredients, tested and re-tested, made with greater exactness than they could possibly equal in their own kitchens, and made with the cooperation of a group of America's great food authorities.

That is why your first taste of White Rose Bread makes you realize how delicious bread just in itself can be. That nut-sweet flavor never fails even if you eat the bread three days after you buy it. White Rose keeps its freshness and all its delicacy of flavor.

Serve White Rose Bread at every meal. You can get it at your grocer's fresh from the oven twice a day.

DANIELSON

ATWOOD-YOUNG NUPTIALS CELEBRATED THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 4—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle C. Hopkins at 56 Moore avenue in Worcester this noon Mrs. Elsie Hopkins Young of Danielson and J. Arthur Atwood of Wauregan were united in marriage by Rev. William Williams, pastor of the Congregational church at Wauregan. Only members of the family were in attendance. After a week away Mr. and Mrs. Atwood will make their home in Wauregan, where Mr. Atwood has been a resident all of his life.

Mr. Atwood is treasurer of the Wauregan mills of the Quinebaug mills of Danielson and of the Ponemah mills of Taftville. He is president of the Danielson Trust company, president of the Brooklyn Savings bank of this town and a director of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company of Providence.

Next Monday night will be Killingly night at radio station WKBE at Webster. From 8 o'clock on, the entertainment broadcasted will be by talent from this town. Warren Braley's orchestra will play at half hour intervals during the evening and alternate half hours will be given over to singers and other entertainers. This is a broadcast in which the people of this town will be particularly interested, so a detail of the program to be given will be available on Monday. Broadcasting will be no novelty for Braley's orchestra as it was heard last year on several occasions from a station in Providence.

Some day next week, probably Tuesday or Thursday, will find those caught in the swoop of the police net over Windham county Wednesday in the superior court at Willimantic to answer to such charges of liquor law violations as are on file against them.

Wednesday's cleanup was something of a novelty in that it embraced a number of towns and a greater number of communities and in that the raiders were using bench warrants that would bring those accused directly into the superior court and not into any of the town or city courts in the field that was combed with such celerity and success. Not an inkling of the raid was forecasted, though preparations for it had been underway for weeks.

Stool pigeons were used to get the sales with which the accused will be charged. In some cases men who are now out under bonds are charged with sales on a dozen or more counts. There was a buzz of conversation about Danielson Thursday as to the stools and their methods and of the chagrin of those who were their victims. Most of what was said has no place in a family newspaper.

There were indications here Thursday that next Thursday, Armistice day, will be a half-holiday in Danielson for the store forces. The mill will not close, some of them at the present time being engaged with rush work and business being such in the New England textile field that no opportunity to get production can be overlooked. However, even in the very busy plants executives have agreed to allow all World War veterans that as desire to be at liberty for the day. This is appreciated by the former service men here, for many of them wish to go to Norwich wither to participate in or to tak epart in the big parade. Danielson will have no observance of the holiday this year other than a display of flags.

Opening of the evening school that is now assured will be as soon after the installation of required electric lighting fixtures as possible. That leaves the date indefinite, but it likely will be in the near future. The sessions are to be held in the high school building, in rooms where additional installations of lights will be necessary to make them available. The fixtures have been ordered about a fortnight and may arrive any day. Installation of them will be prompt and the opening of the evening school immediately follow.

Thursday afternoon at 1:30 funeral services for Mrs. Jabez Bowen were held at the home of Mrs. D. Fred Kenworthy, Main street, Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church and Rev. William Swainal church and Rev. William Swalpson of the Dayville Congregational church officiating. Burial was in the high street cemetery at Dayville, in which community Mrs. Bowen was a resident for many years. The bearers were J. Harold Bowen of Worcester, Alton Gardner, Fred N. Young and Charles D. Reynolds, all of Providence. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

There is an unusually good attendance this year at the State Trade school in Putnam from communities in Killingly and Plainfield and as far south as Jewett City. This is evidence of the growing influence of the school and appreciation of what it is doing to train boys and young men in practical trades. The new students are enthusiastic over their courses and over the school, with its good equipment and competent corps of instructors under Director H. H. Ellis.

That period of the year when rounders come seeking a night's lodging at the police station is at hand. They are not as numerous as in days of yore, nor are they welcomed with open arms. Of a type that roams from town to town, taking employment only when it is absolutely necessary, no great amount of sympathy is expended on them here. Many of them have come to know this through personal experience or from information passed on by others, so Danielson sees fewer of them than otherwise might be the case.

Curiosity of many here has been aroused over the proposal of a stranger who visited a local party and offered to exchange certain bonds for a certain number of shares of stock held by the local person with whom he was talking. This person admitted the stock he wanted is receding on the market at present, but related that it was wanted that control might be obtained. The man being a stranger, his proposal unusual and he being without any exhibited credentials to substantiate what he said he was told that no such transaction as he was talking would take place until the local person had consulted with his banker. At that the man went away and no more has been heard of him.

Crimean linden trees to the number of 140 are to be set among the state highway between Danielson and Putnam under a state highway department plan for the beautifying of Connecticut's trunk line highways. The trees are nursery grown stock and ten to fourteen feet in height, with no branches less than 7 feet above the ground. The setting out of these trees will be done under the supervision of the landscape expert of the state highway department.

Provision for these trees is made in one of the first contracts of the kind made by this state. Trees of various kinds are to be sent out on twenty sections of trunk line highways in Connecticut.

Members here have been notified the annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association will be held at Putnam, in Odd Fellows' hall, on Wednesday of next week. Dr. Charles E. North of New York will deliver the principal address.

The Reed meetings will begin at the Baptist church Sunday at 10:30 a. m.—Adv.

Members of the Civic federation are to meet this (Friday) afternoon with Mrs. H. D. Crosby of Academy street.

Christmas club depositors in Danielson's banks have only a few more payments to make before they reap the harvest of their savings over a period of 50 weeks. They will get their checks early next month.

The business of the Danielson postoffice has grown so that it is crowded for space in its present quarters.

The town basketball team that did so well last winter has resumed practice for the season that will open about Thanksgiving time.

Those who attend to such things promptly are now paying personal taxes to Collector A. A. Dean. Only about ten days remain in which to pay this annual assessment.

The Service battery has appointed a committee that will have charge of arranging dances and other diversions to be held at the state armory during the late fall and winter season.

Mrs. Mary L. Hopkins of Pomfret Landing is at East Killingly to spend the winter with Mrs. Lydia Bartlett of East Killingly.

Right at the poultry farms in this territory buyers who come in towns hereabouts from southern New England cities are paying as high as 75 cents per dozen for eggs.

John A. Steere of Meriden was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

M. Goldwater, who has been away for a number of weeks receiving hospital treatment, has returned to his home here.

Saturday will be the annual Tag day of the Civic federation and a corps of workers will be out soliciting for this important fund.

At Sterling a state highway bridge is under construction and meanwhile traffic is moving over a temporary bridge.

Mrs. Honore Marrotte of Danielson is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Heavy shipments of Brussels sprouts are now going out of this territory to the Providence and Boston markets. This crop is now producing thousands of dollars in revenue each fall for growers in this and nearby towns.

Highways of Killingly are in good condition for the winter season, as good as they have been in the fall for years past.

PUTNAM

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION TO MEET IN PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 4.—The annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association is to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the Odd Fellows' hall, Putnam.

The committee having this meeting in charge are exceedingly fortunate in securing Dr. Charles E. North of New York as the speaker at this annual meeting. Dr. North is not only a national but an international authority on the production of clean milk. In 1912 he established a grade "A" milk in New York city; in 1914, in Philadelphia and in 1915 at Baltimore.

The work of the Farmers' association during the past two years has brought the attention of large milk distributors to this county. Dr. North is coming here to help work out a plan which will increase the New England reputation. Windham county has already gained much in the production of quality milk.

Dr. North will present many ideas that can be applied to fruit, vegetables, poultry and other industries in the county farm life, since the Farmers' association program and policy for the development of agriculture in Windham is on a quality basis. It would, undoubtedly, be impossible to secure a more fitting speaker for this annual session.

In addition to Dr. North's address there will be reports by C. F. Brenn of Scotland, president of the association, Whitman Danielson of Putnam, secretary-treasurer and Frank L. Davis, county agent. The annual meeting committee is composed of Alexander Maitland of Thompson, chairman and A. H. Amidon of Abington, George P. Perley of Woodstock and Frank L. Davis of Putnam, co-operating.

The committee has extended a cordial invitation to those interested in agriculture to attend this annual meeting. Dr. North will make his address immediately after the noon hour.

Miss Emma Kinney, librarian at the Putnam public library, recently fell while crossing the street near her home and injured her wrist. The following morning her wrist was so painful that she was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where an X-ray showed that she had a fractured wrist. The fracture was reduced and it was decided that she could be removed to her home on Center street.

FIRST AUTO ACCIDENT IN TWELVE LONG YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 4.—Elbert C. Kinney, well known coal dealer, who is recognized as one of the best and most careful automobile drivers in the city had his first accident since he bought his first automobile in 1914, and although blameless in the matter the accident almost cost a woman her life.

Mrs. Millicent Wilson of Malden, Mass., stepped from a motor bus from Danielson on South Main street and was hurrying to catch the Boston train and without noticing, walked around the front end of the bus and stepped directly in front of Mr. Kinney's car. He was not driving more than ten or 12 miles an hour or the woman might have been instantly killed. Mr. Kinney stopped the car quickly and hurried the woman to the Day Kimball hospital in his car. There a careful examination was made and an X-ray picture taken which showed that she had suffered only slight abrasions and bruises.

The shock seemed to be the most serious injury and the fact that she had missed her train for home. Because of her great anxiety to reach home, Mr. Kinney volunteered to drive her there, an offer that was gladly accepted. She was feeling very much like herself when she arrived home and both she and her husband expressed their gratitude to Mr. Kinney.

Dr. J. B. Kent, the veteran physician who underwent a serious operation several weeks ago at the Day Kimball hospital is improving rapidly and expects to be taken to the Putnam inn in a few days to recuperate before attempting to go to the home of his son at Larchmont, N. Y., where he and Mrs. Kent are now making their home. Mrs. Kent is stopping at the inn now.

Arthur Hector Plessis of Putnam has filed notice with the clerk of the superior court of his intention to apply for admission to the bar.

The Putnam Checker club will be the guests of the Putnam Masonic club at the rooms of the latter on South Main street next Wednesday evening. N. W. Banks, champion checker player of the United States will be present and give exhibitions in checker and chess playing. All members of the Putnam Checker club and the Masonic club have been invited to attend.

The Putnam Swimming club, under the chaperonage of Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, motors to Plainfield every Saturday where the members receive instructions in swimming at the community house there. The members of the club are Brooks Jenkins, Charles Devine, Robert Wheaton, Philip Wheaton and Silas Wheelock, Jr.

Mrs. George M. Sampson has received a radiogram from her daughter, Miss Harriet Sampson, announcing her safe arrival at Naples after a very rough voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Burgess and two daughters, Misses Alva and Beverly and Miss Margaret Scott Duffey have returned from a visit to Providence.

Mrs. E. M. Wheaton, Mrs. George H. Gilpatric, Miss Etta Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheaton and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wheaton motored to Boston to witness the performance, Student Prince, at the Majestic theatre.

J. Richard Carpenter of this city has returned from a visit to Atlantic City and the sesqui-centennial at Philadelphia.

The Misses Ruth and Dorcas Bartlett have returned from a visit with friends in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sabin of Nashua, former residents of Putnam, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sabin on School street.

Mrs. Joseph Monahan of Newport is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gibney.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Ray Hurlbut have returned from a visit to the sesquicentennial exposition at Philadelphia.

John Kennedy who has lived in the Sawyer district for several years has moved to South Main street into the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Charron.

Miss Anna Weeks and Miss Martha Griffin have returned from a visit to New York city.

A musical sensation that has swept the country . . .

The New Orthophonic

Victor Record

For more than two years, Victor experimented to produce the record which is now sweeping the country. While this improved record has been available for some months, we did not want to present it formally to the public until it had definitely proved its worth as the finest record made.

Two weeks ago we announced the new Orthophonic Record. Already millions of music-lovers have been thrilled by the music of this new and wonderful type of Victor Record—a record unequaled in clarity, tone, and fidelity to the original.

Here at last is a record as good as the Orthophonic Victrola. There is nothing with which to compare it, except the singing or playing of the artists themselves.

Close your eyes and you cannot believe that you are listening to a reproducing instrument playing a record. It is just as much the actual artist as though he or she were in the room with you. For the tone of these amazing records is the tone of naturalness—round, full, true, not pinched and, on the other hand, not too loud.

Microphone recording—Orthophonic—Artists now sing or play in natural position before a microphone, just as they sing or play at a public performance. The microphone "hears" and records what you would hear were you there.

Unpleasant scratch eliminated—Made from a new improved material, Orthophonic Records have eliminated those annoying surface-noises so common to the ordinary type of record. You hear the music and nothing else. Also, these records have longer life.

This elusive "third dimension"—Victor has captured what a great musician calls the "third dimension"—depth! Just as the great masters gave "relief" and depth to their paintings, so these new records give depth and roundness of tone to reproduced music.

Foremost artists in every class—Victor has always attracted the foremost singers and instrumentalists of the world—operatic—orchestral—popular and dance. Their confidence is more than ever justified by the life-like fidelity of Victor's new Orthophonic recordings.

Record stops automatically—An exclusive feature of the Orthophonic Victor Record is a groove, cut "off center." When the music has finished playing, the needle swings into this groove and applies the automatic stop on all modern Victrolas.

Hearing is believing—Whether you own an Orthophonic Victrola or not, hear these new Victor Records. They play on any instrument—and vastly improve its playing quality.

Go to your nearest Victor dealer. Go expecting the musical thrill of a lifetime. You will not be disappointed.

UNWISE CHANGES

With the figures all in two of the election results that are getting much attention are the defeats of Senator Wadsworth of New York and Senator Butler of Massachusetts. These are states which invariably send republican senators and yet on Tuesday elected democrats to succeed republicans.

In Massachusetts the defeat of Butler was administered in the mill cities outside of Boston, where the republican ticket otherwise received a large majority but where Butler's majority was so badly reduced that it was easily overcome by democratic Boston. Whatever Senator Butler may have done in the past to antagonize the voters of mill cities it was impossible for the objection to have come from the conditions which exist there at the present time. The cotton industry has been hit hard in New England but not because of the tariff or republican policies, and certainly not because of Senator Butler, however much he may have been chastised for it. Slack business and the closing of plants have come from the inability of northern mills to compete with the southern ones and the greater handicaps which prevail for the industry in this part of the country in contrast with southern conditions. And yet Butler lost with his opponent getting a smaller vote than when he was previously a candidate.

In New York state the defeat of Senator Wadsworth was unquestionably accomplished through the efforts of the independent republican candidate who was running as a dry. The votes which went for him would have insured the election of Wadsworth, who was opposed because he was frank in his opposition to the dry law and, yet the dry element among the republicans who supported the independent candidate only succeeded in electing a United States senator who declares that his first effort in Washington will be to bring about a modification of the dry law. It was just a question of a choice between wets and the result was what was pointed out as possible from the start. The outcome is that New York has lost the prestige that goes with a candidate who has been in the senate for years and gets in its place a new senator whose efforts will probably be directed toward embarrassing rather than helping the administration at Washington. In fact no more is to be expected from the election of Mr. Walsh in Massachusetts.

VOTING BY MACHINE

On the previous election the voters in one New York precinct used voting machines. The result was satisfactory. This week in more than a dozen precincts voting machines had been provided and were in use. The result was again satisfactory, and by the time the next election rolls around there will be many more voting districts equipped. Mechanics were stationed with the various machines this week to take care of any trouble that developed, but they were not needed.

New York has strenuously opposed the voting machines. It has not only fought them but it fought accepting them after the decision to have them in the city had been made. It realized that it was going to upset the old order of things and put reliance into the mechanical system of voting and it didn't welcome such interference.

The tests, however, have served to eliminate all fears. They have demonstrated how quickly it is possible to show the result, how accurately the counting is done, how easy it is to manipulate them and how thoroughly the element of uncertainty, which went with the old method of counting has been eliminated.

New York isn't the only city or large town that has had similar experience and it isn't the only one that needs just such a method of speeding up the counting of the ballots. The idea of spending a good part of the night in counting ballots, wrangling over what is the intention of the voter, disfranchising electors and possibly ending up by an appeal to the courts for a recount because of dissatisfaction is all wrong.

Where the machines are tried out and given a fair test the results are invariably the same as in New York, and those cities which have adopted them would not listen to any suggestion of going back to the old method of paper ballots. Voting by machine is as far ahead of voting by ballot as the adding machine is ahead of the human adder and it gives the additional assurance that the vote is going to be counted as cast and not as left to the interpretation of those who must guess, and who might be as much disposed to throw a ballot out for certain technicalities as they would be to count it.

ROADSIDE TREES

With the letting of contracts for the planting of 2500 additional trees along the state highways, the highway department is furthering the plan for beautification which has already been put into operation. It isn't to be supposed that these trees are going to make any great difference for some years to come but they represent the beginning of what will eventually be attractive roadsides.

Such a plan is in keeping with the work that is being done in a number of other states and gives recognition to the desirability of making the main roads more interesting to the constantly increasing number of users. There are now these stretches of road which are constantly bringing forth exclamations because some one in years gone by carried out just such a scheme as the state is following now, for handsome trees, whether they are elms, oaks, maples or something else never fail to be noticed along with the landscape pictures.

But it is not the roads of the state highway system alone which can be thus beautified. In addition to what the state is doing and plans to do in years to come, there is just as good opportunities for the various towns to adopt a similar practice on many of their much used highways, since all of the modern roads are not in the state highway system. And if it seems that the state is unable to cover its extensive system as quickly as some of the towns desire there is also the chance for the towns to step in and help the good work along for it sows benefit and as an effective bit of good advertising.

Good roads are demanded. The filling of the roadsides with sight preventing and dangerous signs is frowned upon. It is desirable that there should be trees for shade as well as good looks along the roads and a decade or two from now the users of the roads will applaud the foresight of those who are doing such work at this time.

THE REFERENDUM RESULTS

There are eight states in which it will be impossible henceforth for the statement to be made that it is not known what the sentiment of the people is concerning the prohibition question.

New York and Illinois have effectively determined that there the people who are entitled to vote want the right to say whether there shall be prohibition in those states and what form it will take. In Missouri there is a desire for the retention of the present state prohibition law, and the same attitude is disclosed in Colorado. But in California, Nevada and Montana a majority of those who desired to express themselves have shown their preference for wet legislation, while Wisconsin says it wants beer.

In these states the opportunity has been given to the voters to express themselves upon the dry law without undertaking to show their sentiment through supporting or opposing certain candidate for office, who have nothing whatever to do with the question. The referendum serves to show what the people want and they do not mean that they in themselves have actually changed the existing law. It is natural that the vote shall be regarded as disclosing what the people expect of their representatives in state and national legislatures, and it will be no mistake to infer that such representatives will give heed to the desires of their constituents. If there are those who didn't vote upon that question, and of course there are, they have no one to blame but themselves. They had the opportunity and it does no good now, to set up the cry that they did not participate. There are times when silence is considered to mean consent. Silence on the part of the dry may not mean that but they have at least refused to say so when they refrained from voting.

COBB'S RETIREMENT

Baseball has lost a wonderful player in the self retirement of Tyrus Cobb. He is not old as age is measured, but he is old as they rate baseball players, and yet he has continued to play a strong game and to maintain a wonderful batting average.

Baseball is a young man's game and there are not many who are able to keep up the pace that is set by the youngsters. Yet Cobb has done it for more than a score of years and while he isn't as fast as he was some years ago he has continued to be a star of the first magnitude, a big drawing card for his team and a player whose name has been on the lips of fandom from one end of the country to the other.

Detroit will miss him. Yes, and so will the rest of the country for Cobb and his baseball work has for many years never failed to arouse enthusiasm and maintain a high rating as a favorite. Baseball will miss him, even though there are new and brilliant players breaking into the ranks of great players almost every season. But there comes a time when it is necessary to step down and out. Other stars have done it and most of them have gone quicker. But even though Cobb has expressed the desire to get relief from the game in which he has played so long we know he is going to miss baseball. He has been at it too long not to, though it is highly probable that he is so well fixed financially that the loss of the income feature of the game will not bother. It might seem that it would be a long time before there would be another Cobb, a player of such versatility who would remain in the game so long, but baseball is a game of surprises as well as uncertainties. Time will tell.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Some people look for happiness with a steel trap.

Some political predictions were so far from the outcome that the less said about them the better.

The decision of a radio station not to broadcast a murder trial reflects good judgment, even though the result of pressure.

Mussolini may be a fatalist and consider himself immune against an assassin but he will be grossly unwise if he takes chances.

The referendum on prohibition in the eight states showed a decided leaning to the wet, but of course the drys didn't vote.

There are many communities which should again be impressed with the desirability of having voting machines and an early declaration of election results.

Over in Egypt they have also grown too much cotton this year, but there as in the rubber plantations the British are able to dictate control and regulations and quotas them.

IN THE FOG

The jangling of the small nickel alarm clock on the stand by her bed awakened her. She sprang out of bed and began to unbraid her long black hair. The light of dawn was very dim and by it her face, seen in the curdled glass over her bureau, looked ghostwhite. In reality it had a faint healthy color. The curdled glass into which she looked once or twice a day did not tell her all it might of the strength and charm that were hers.

She dressed quickly, noiselessly, and went down the bare stairs, worn by two generations of feet, to the kitchen, chill and fireless and with a curious musty smell. She flung open the outer door and stood looking into the dense fog that pressed up, gray and damp, to the very threshold, enveloping things with impenetrable silence.

Suddenly the veil was disturbed as a dog shot to her side. She patted him and he stood beside her listening as intently as she. When at last the tinkle of a cowbell came, he gave a sharp bark of recognition and scurried off through the fog.

Mary threw a thick shawl about her and followed him. They swam the sea of density together. The fog was chill as water. It strung her eyelashes and straying wisps of hair with icy, crystal beads. It dampened her shoulders and made her shiver for all her warm blood. But though she could not see where she was going she knew, as a blind person knows in some inexplicable yet sure way. For she had lived on that hillside all her life and fought her way through innumerable fogs. She was as much at home in it as a swimmer is in the water.

She began to call as she went in a clear, carrying voice. "So boss, so boss, so boss!"

Then suddenly she paused, startled. Her call had received an answer, not the expected low of a cow but a human shout which came from a point close at hand.

On that remote hillside at dawn in a dense fog the sound of any voice other than her own could not fail to astonish her. But she was a woman of steady nerve and immense courage. She immediately called back. "Hello!" This time the answer was "Here!" and, calling the dog to her side, she moved on in the direction of the voice.

Suddenly the dog drew back against her, growling with lowered head.

"Hush, Tige!" she commanded and restrained him with a firm hand. Then she saw reeling toward her out of the fog the figure of a boy.

They came face to face and looked at each other with equal surprise. The boy must have been 11 years old, but even so, he was small for his age. He had no hat and his curly brown hair, growing off a high white forehead, was as wet as if he had been in swimming. Indeed his whole form presented the appearance of his having sprung, fully clad into water.

"Don't let the dog jump on me!" he exclaimed.

Mary wound her hand into Tige's collar.

"He won't hurt you," she said. "What's the matter with your knee?" For she saw from a tear in his stocking and from the way he stood that he had met with an injury.

"I fell off a rock," the boy answered. "I couldn't see where I was going. That was last night, in the dark, after I got off the train."

"Where did you come from? And what are you doing here?"

The boy's big, haggard eyes substantiated the truth of every word he spoke.

"I came from Danville last night. You see the factory shut down all of a sudden—and ma she got sick and discouraged like because there wasn't any more work. Then she took pneumonia." He choked, made a gesture and went bravely on. "That sorta ended everything. The janitor took what we had for the rent and I hiked for the country. Once ma took me to a farm for a day—"

He paused, his eyes became fixed in an unseeing stare, he looked as if he were going to fall down.

Mary released the dog and put her arm about the boy.

"I guess you need a little something to eat. You better come with me and let you give you some breakfast, then you can tell me all about it."

She led him forward. When they came to the pasture bars there was a sound and stir of large forms. He aroused.

"What's that?" he asked faintly.

"Only the cows. They came home of their own accord," Mary explained. "Tige, you stay here and watch them! Now, my dear, we're almost to the house."

He was so spent that she had to help him over the threshold. She pushed a chair under him. Flinging aside her damp shawl she quickly made fire in the cook stove, drew water and set it to heat. From the pantry she brought a big loaf and a pitcher of rich milk. She cut bread and filled a bowl with the milk.

"Come right up to the table and eat," she summoned. Three times Mary cut thick slices from the loaf and filled the bowl. By that time the coffee was brewed and she gave him a big cupful. Probably the boy had never tasted such food before.

"Now," she said, when he had emptied the cup, "here's some salve and a bandage for your knee. And you better put this coat on." She held up the garment which she had taken from the closet.

The boy looked at the man's coat. It was twice too large for him. A thought struggled in his eyes as he lifted them to her face.

"Where's your man?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"I never had any. This was my brother's coat."

"Where's your brother?"

She looked away.

"Gone—I don't know where. I guess he got sick of it here. It's two years since he went." She made an end of confidence. "There, you get yourself good and warm. And do up your knee. I'm going out to milk the cows."

The cows were waiting with deep lowing's to be milked. As the warm milk frothed into the pails Mary thought as she was forever thinking of the hard task her brother had left her, a woman to perform. She had been almost ready to lay it aside in defeat and discouragement when she went out into the fog this morning. And now—this little fellow had come! She felt a great longing to keep him, do for him, mother him. It would only mean that she must work a little harder, but what was work when one had a hope in life?

When she entered the house with her full pails she found the room very neat, the fire still roaring, and the food arranged in the form of a breakfast for her.

"Why, you're a real little man!" she exclaimed.

"I always helped mother!" The boy flushed. "Wouldn't you like to know my name? I'd like to know yours."

Mary had never thought of names.

"My name is Mary Ash," she said.

"My name is Johnny Marshall."

They smiled at each other.

"I've been thinking you'd better stay here with me, Johnny, and help me with the chores and go to school this winter," Mary said.

The boy drew himself up. He was only a little waif with torn trousers, steaming in the heat, a bandaged knee, and hair that should have been cut two weeks ago, but he had the heart of a great gentleman. Shyly he glanced down at the big coat which had the same effect upon him that a man's hat does upon a baby's head.

"Maybe I'll grow up to be a real good brother to you, Mary," he said.

Mary's eyes filled. She laid her hand on his curly head.

"To think of me going out in the fog to look for cows and finding you!" her voice broke. Then her old practicality returned. "My land! I must hurry and get the milk strained. I'm as hungry as 14 bears," she said.—Detroit News.

YOUR HEALTH

Deafness Deferred

By Harold Bailey, M. D., Springfield, Mo. Member Gorgas Memorial Institute.

Truly "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" in treating the deaf. Teach your child to blow his nose into a handkerchief loosely held. Blowing with one nostril held shut may force infection through the eustachian tube and produce an earache.

Many cases of brain abscess and meningitis start with an earache.

Adenoids when present in children should be removed.

Inflamed ear drums should be lanced before they burst. This small operation is often a lifesaving one.

If you have difficulty in breathing through your nose have it examined and rectified. Remember that most deafness starts where the nose stops.

Beware of the common cold. It is the forerunner of much evil. When visited by one, entertain it at home. Your hospitality will be rewarded.

Obviously so common an affliction as deafness must be hard to cure. This is quite true of many forms of deafness and these types concern us most.

Most deafness is caused by diseases of the middle ear. These diseases may be classified under two main groups: ears that discharge, and ears that do not. The first are due to pus infections extending from the nose and throat through the eustachian tubes to the ears, and usually follow the sore throats of tonsilitis, colds, influenza, diphtheria measles, scarlet fever, etc. These are more prevalent among children than adults.

Sore throats in children without adenoids, whose noses are otherwise normal, are less likely to be complicated by earache and running ears than is the case where ventilation and drainage are impaired by nasal obstructions.

Ears that ache should not be allowed to break but should be treated to allay the pain and inflammation. If an ear drum shows promise of breaking it should be lanced at once and for two reasons. Lancing the drum in the proper place does no damage to hearing and the cut always heals. If a drum is allowed to burst, it may break at a point that will cause damage to hearing or it may tear so large an opening in the drum that it will never close and the hearing be permanently impaired.

The second group of middle ear diseases, those in which no pus infection is present is, for the most part, made up of the so called catarrhal affections of the middle ear. They comprise the common deafness of middle life and advanced age. The best time to treat this form of deafness is before it appears.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beacon Raised on Thursday

Mr. Editor: In going to and from work one notices instances of neglect and carelessness. Most prominent of these is Franklin square.

Recently one of the beacons became the victim of an automobile. At present it still lies near the spot where it fell. Whether its lighting mechanism was so seriously damaged as to need extensive repairs I do not know. However it seems to me that a few of Norwich's strong citizens could right it in as many minutes. Or if in need of repairs, let it be removed by the department having charge of such equipment.

Let us view it soon restored to its former position.

FOR NORWICH

Norwich, Nov. 4, 1926.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Many expressions of regret have been voiced by the English press over the prospective retirement of Lord Stamfordham, the private secretary to the King. Lord Stamfordham is now nearing his 80th year and has intimated his wish to retire next January. For the past forty-five years he has been closely connected with the court, and no official in England enjoys a greater popularity. A soldier by profession, he saw considerable active service before forsaking the sword for the pen. He was in the thick of the fighting during the Zulu campaign, and later became A. D. C. to General Sir Evelyn Wood. When he was first offered the position of private secretary to Queen Victoria, he was somewhat diffident about accepting. When he consulted a friend he was candidly advised by the latter that he was a fool if he stayed in the army. So, as he says, he accepted the appointment to vindicate his intelligence.

Stop Feet From Burning and Aching

Wash your feet in warm water and give them a good rubbing once or twice a week with and the soreness, burning, aching and misery will quickly be a thing of the past.

Thousands keep their feet in splendid shape this easy way. 50 cents a tube at Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists all over the world.

Everyone Likes This Cold Cure

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends a cold or grippe in a few hours.

Your cold will break and all grippe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

Today's Anniversaries

1826—Michael Portier was consecrated first Roman Catholic bishop of Mobile, Ala.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Taste Determines Character

What we read depends upon our taste and taste determines character and is determined by character. Taste may be cultivated and improved by always preferring the higher to the lower when we have an opportunity to make a choice, by improving the surroundings and associations, by unconscious influences as well as by conscious effort. There is only one way in which a love for good literature may be gained and that is by reading good literature. People talk about the English classics and at last almost convince themselves that they are familiar with them but how many do you know who have really read Shakespeare?

There are constant allusions in literature and in life to books with which everyone is supposed to be acquainted, such as the Bible, Homer, Shakespeare, Pilgrim's Progress, Scott and Longfellow. One cannot always choose his business in life, sometimes he is forced to do the first thing that comes to hand, but he need not engage in any recreation that he does not chose and it is his own fault if his pleasures are mean ones. We often meet people whose minds seem flat and stale because they derive their highest inspiration from nothing more elevating than the daily newspapers.

Stories That Recall Others

Without Benefit of Sympathy

Sad as was the Yale-Army football game this year—sad, that is, for Yale—a number of onlookers in the bowl watched the traveling of the pigskin even though it was against Yale in a continual state of amusement.

Seated with her husband and young son was a woman perhaps 40 whose knowledge of the game was rather limited, to say the least. But that didn't bother. She showed that she didn't intend to let that interfere. It started with the first kick off, and except for a few explanations here and there by her husband, Will, her discourse for the afternoon might have been classed as a monologue.

"They're starting now, Will, look! And he caught it on the jump, too—Whe-e-e-e! (Her particular form of cheering.)—You just know it hurts 'em when they pile up like that—What are they doing now, Will?—Who's that running with the ball?—Whe-e-e-Go it!—Oh, they tripped him!"

The second quarter brought no cessation and little change in the comments and questions, except that the forward passing attracted a great deal of attention.

"What do they call it? Passing?—Oh, they pass so cute."

She went through the entire last half on cylinders and as she rose to leave with patient Will and her young son, her parting remark was, "Why, it's something like basketball, isn't it?"

He Had His Favorites

This man was returning to his office from dinner a few days ago when he was approached by a man who appealed for alms.

Finding himself without any change, the business man apologized and offered the man a newly-purchased package of cigarettes.

"Ah, don't smoke that brand," said the fellow, turning away in disdain.

A wise woman shows discretion in the selection of things to be left unsaid.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF JEWELS VALUED AT $2,500.

GREENWICH, Nov. 4.—(AP)— Harry Forbes, 23, and Ernest Hurst, 21, were brought back here from New York today to stand trial charged with the theft of jewels valued at $2,500, the property of Mrs. Helen B. Lynch, daughter of Mrs. John D. Barrett, of Belle Haven, Greenwich.

The young men were formerly employed at the Pickwick arms here and on Oct. 18, it is alleged they entered the room of Mrs. Lynch and took the jewels. That night they were arrested in New York city as they were about to enter a pawn broker's shop.

Forbes was married on Sept. 20 to the telephone operator at the Pickwick arms.

ATTENDED POST INSPECTION BY V. F. W. COMMANDER

A delegation of comrades, from R. E. Hourigan post, No. 864, Veterans of Foreign Wars, comprising Commander Leo L. Jaques, Quartermaster Anthony Cook and Comrades Ray Kavanaugh, Arthur Fitzgerald, Charles Green, Dennis Collins and Edward Schaeffer visited New London on Monday evening and attended the official inspection of Murphy-Rathbone post, V. F. W.

State Commander Charles T. Blanchard of Bristol was inspector, assisted by Department Surgeon Lieut. Lawrence Smith of Milford.

Captain Blanchard will make his official visit to R. E. Hourigan post, for inspection next Tuesday, when it is expected every member will attend the meeting.

MADE COUNTY PRESIDENT FOR KING'S DAUGHTERS

At the state convention of the King's Daughters held in New Haven Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, the state president, Mrs. Mary Woodruff made the appointment of county presidents, including Mrs. W. E. Manning of this city as president for New London county.

Norwich delegates attending the convention were Mrs. Manning, who is the leader of Home chapter, Mrs. William Wightman, Mrs. Thomas Kean and Mrs. Joseph Myers, members of Home chapter, and Mrs. A. R. Blackledge a member of Euphemian circle.

Norwich Produce Market

Native apples dominate the fruit market by far and are offered freely in great variety of kinds, grades and prices. Winter apples are becoming quite liberal, being mostly in bushel baskets at $2.50-$2.50 and a few in barrels at $3.50-$6, depending on variety and grade. Very few western apples are offered and these move slowly. Native pears and grapes are limited while box pears sell slowly at $4.25-$4.75. California table grapes $3-$3.25 per lug and New York-Canada 20c for 2 quart and 75c-90c for 12-quart baskets. Cranberries remain steady and oranges firm with a few Floridas being offered.

Vegetables are offered in normal quantities with conditions and prices practically unchanged. Cauliflower is less plenty with a smaller percentage of choice stock; native lettuce is very limited and Iceberg selling at $4-$4.75 per crate, and moderate supplies of spinach at $1.25 per bushel. Onions and potatoes are firm but continue at the same prices.

Poultry remains steady, eggs very firm, especially fresh natives and butter firm.

Dressed meats and grains remain practically steady.

NORWICH EXPECTING THOUSANDS OF VISITORS TO BE HERE ARMISTICE DAY

Thousands of visitors in Norwich on Armistice day coming from all parts of the state, are expected to view the big parade of 5,000 to 6,000 which will be the feature of the celebration. Automobiles will be the means of transportation for thousands, but the prospects are that transportation facilities by railroad, by trolley and by highway promise to be taxed to their utmost. One special trolley will be run from Willimantic, but the Connecticut company is making no other arrangements for specials as it is believed all available cars will be needed to take care of the regular extra traffic. A special train is to be run from New London and it is also expected that there will be one special from Hartford.

Announcement is made that the reserve officers' training corps of Connecticut Agricultural college, 100 strong, be in Norwich Armistice day to participate in the Armistice day parade here. This is said to be the first time the training corps has participated in a public parade.

The free use of the parking space at the New Haven road station on Armistice day has been offered by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad which is co-operating with the Armistice day committee. This will be a big help to the committee in charge of traffic as over 200 machines can be accommodated there.

Local people are asked to co-operate with the committee in helping to provide space for the parking of the numerous machines which will come here from out of town. All those who can do without the use of their machines during the afternoon, especially a few hours before and after the parade, will greatly aid the committee in keeping them off the street. This will help avoid congestion of the streets.

LIONS CLUB HEARS TALK ON NEWSPAPER MAKING

A talk on "Making Up a Newspaper" by Charles F. Whitney, city editor of The Bulletin, was given at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Norwich Lions club held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President William A. Anderson presided at the meeting and Dr. Charles Solomon acted as song leader. Pete Ethier presided at the piano and there were the usual club and group song numbers. President Anderson announced that the local club has entered a membership contest with other Lions clubs throughout the country. The following were appointed to serve as a membership committee—George Madden, Dr. Charles Solomon, J. B. Caron, Herbert Corey and William R. Friable. President Madden urged the Lions to turn out a full membership in the Armistice day parade next week.

John T. Barry, chairman of the entertainment committee, introduced Mr. Whitney as the speaker of the day. Mr. Whitney's brief talk referred especially to the mechanical side of the operations in the composing room which he prefaced by reference to the typewriter, the telephone, the telegraph and the automatic printer as the important auxiliary agencies in the collection and preparation of "copy." From this he went on to the work in the composing room, describing the operations of the linotype, the lay-out and make-up of pages, the process of stereotyping and finally the run through the press and the folder which delivers the paper folded in shape for delivery by the carriers.

At the conclusion of the newspapermans talk, Max Hanover expressed appreciation of the courteous attitude shown by local newspaper offices towards those who have business relations with them and the club meeting passed a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Adjournment was taken after singing the Star Spangled Banner.

POLISH SOCIETIES WILL TAKE PART IN PARADE

The committee in charge of the Armistice day festivities is assured that the United Polish societies of Norwich, will take active part in the celebration and parade. It is expected that nearly a thousand men from the various Polish societies will be in the line of March. The Pulaski band from Webster, Mass., one of the best bands in the Bay state will precede the Polish societies. John Zawislinski will be the grand marshal for the Polish societies.

The societies are also preparing a suitable float, which will express Poland's gratitude for what America has done for her during and after the World war. America's justice expressed in the words of Pres. Woodrow Wilson "that there must be a free Poland with an access to the sea," will be personified in the float, as well as America's charity, through the various organizations that worked among the war stricken population of our sister republic.

One of the features of the Polish division will be personification of Gen. George Washington accompanied by Gen. Pulaski and Kosciuszko in Polish uniforms, who fought under Gen. Washington for America's independence. All three men will be on horseback.

RESIGNS AS MANAGER AT THE PALACE THEATRE

Charles A. Meade, who has been the manager of the Palace theatre for the Connecticut River Valley Theatres corporation since the early part of September, has resigned and is to leave at once to take a position in New York state. No information was forthcoming Thursday night as to what city he was going to as the theatre management, it was stated, did not wish to divulge this at this time.

Mr. Meade presented his resignation several weeks ago, but its acceptance was deferred until just now and Mr. Meade was notified Thursday of the acceptance and that a new manager would be here today (Friday).

Mr. Meade is experienced in the theatrical, exposition and moving picture line, having worked in an executive capacity in these fields in Chicago, Kansas City, Detroit and Canada.

Since he has been here he has maintained a high standard for the Palace theatre and he has many Norwich friends who will feel much regret at his departure from the city. He and his wife expect to leave for his new place at once.

EAGLES PERFECT PLANS FOR PART IN PARADE

The committee in charge of the Armistice day arrangements for the Fraternal Order of Eagles held a special meeting at the Eagles' home Thursday evening when the chairman reported everything in readiness for a gala day.

A large delegation of Eagles from Putnam is expected to be in line with the local boys. After the parade the committee plans on serving refreshments to the members.

An invitation is extended to the members of New London aerie to join Norwich in celebrating.

Jewett City members of Norwich aegis are organizing an old age pension marching club for the big parade.

BAG TWO COONS IN GARDNER LAKE TERRITORY

A most enjoyable coon hunt was held and a pair of handsome coons were bagged in the vicinity of Gardner lake Wednesday evening by a party of hunters including William La Rochelle, James Manning, William La Rochelle, Jr., and Lloyd Jones of Norwich and Stanley Riley of Hartford. The coons were treed by the famous coon hound "Ring" owned by William La Rochelle and "James" Manning. Many eyes were attracted Thursday to the front of McMahon's market where the coons were on display. A coon supper will be enjoyed in the near future.

Nolle In Florek Case

A nolle in the case of George Florek of North Stonington was entered Thursday by the city court. The man was accused by a boy with ill treating him.

NORWICH DELEGATION FOR BIG HEBREW CONVENTION

The second annual convention of the United Palestine Appeal No. 2, comprising the states of Connecticut and Rhode Island, will be held jointly with the 15th annual convention of the Connecticut Zionist Regional union, Jewish National Fund, and Senior and Junior Hadassah, on Sunday, Nov. 7, at the Hotel Taft, New Haven, in an all day conference with sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening. It is expected that 500 delegates representing 50 communities in southern New England will attend. Judge William Lewis, national president of the Palestine Appeal, Morris Rothenberg, national chairman of the Keren Hayesod, and Dr. A. E. Abramovitz, executive director of the Jewish National Fund of America are the speakers and a reception will be tendered in their honor at a luncheon to be held on Sunday afternoon.

Archibald Silverman of Providence is the president of the United Palestine Appeal, southern New England region and Abraham Goldstein of Hartford is chairman of the Connecticut Zionist Regional union. Other district officers from New Haven are Hyman Jacobs, vice president; Louis M. Segal, treasurer; Israel Gordon, associate treasurer; Attorney Louis Sachs, honorary secretary; Rabbi Leon Spits, chairman of the regional executive committee.

Among the prominent out of town delegates who will also address the convention will be Rabbis A. G. Feldman and Morris Silverman of Hartford, Rabbi Harry E. Schwartz of Waterbury, Rabbi Gershon Hadas, New Britain, Rabbi Leon Leibreich, Stamford, Rabbis J. N. Rosenberg and Max Stamm, Norwich, Rabbis Jacob Meyerowitz, Bridgeport, Rabbis Morris Schusheim, Israel Goldman, David Light and Samuel Gup of Providence and Rabbi Sidney S. Tedesche of New Haven.

Admission to all of the sessions which will be held at the palm room in the Taft, will be by card which will be distributed at the regional office, 126 Temple street, New Haven.

Dr. Louis I. Goldberg in a statement to the press offers the report that nearly $160,000 has been collected in the region and turned over to the general Zionist office at Jerusalem in order to further the developments of Palestine as a Jewish homeland. This is regarded as a record year in the districts of service for Palestine and is the largest amount that has ever been raised in these two states in one year for the cause. Region No. 2 has also the distinction of being the most generous contributor to Palestine in the United States and has also sent Hyman Jacobs as its delegate to the World Zionist congress which was held two summers ago at Vienna.

Among the delegates that are expected to attend the New Haven conference are the following local workers for Palestine: Harry M. Land, Michael Levin, Aaron Gordon, Abner Schwartz, Abraham Cramer, Abraham Strom, David N. Gordon, Charles M. Gordon, J. R. Slosberg, Samuel Taylor, Isaac Beckenstein, Abraham Schanker, M. I. Silverman, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, Mrs. Abraham Ableman, Mrs. Samuel Taylor.

The Norwich organization of the United Palestine Appeal has to the present date sent $6,500 for the year 1926.

The officers of the local organization are Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg, chairman; Rabbi Max Stamm, treasurer, M. I. Silverman, secretary, and Mrs. Abraham Ableman, Mrs. Harry M. Land, Miss Sarah Stamm, Abraham Strom, Abraham Cramer, Samuel Taylor, who comprise the officers of the Norwich chapter of Hadassah, the Norwich Zionist district, the Norwich committee of the Jewish National Fund.

GIVEN SURPRISE FOR 2ND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lahn were given a complete surprise at their home on Williams street Thursday evening when a party of about 50 friends arrived to celebrate their second wedding anniversary. The visitors brought chairs and tables which were set out for bridge and the ladies of the party produced baskets packed with the refreshments for the evening.

In the entertainment were piano selections by Dr. Black of the state hospital and solos by Alex Pasnik and prizes were awarded for the bridge play.

A beautiful sterling silver set, which was the gift of the ladies, was presented to Mrs. Lahn, the presentation being gracefully made by Mrs. Mathew Thune, and Mrs. Lahn responding with grateful words of appreciation for the gift.

Regaining Strength

His friends continue to hear encouraging reports from Charles J. Dyer, who, though still in bed at his residence on Sachem street is gradually regaining his strength. Mr. Dyer is able to read the newspapers now and to keep abreast of current affairs. All the messages from the sick room give his friends reason to expect that, with his will and determination, there is likely to be no set-back to his recovery.

High Scores In Eagles' Pinochle

At the second night's play of the eight weeks' pinochle of the Eagles' tournament the prize winners had a total of 7,000 or better, H. Marcus 7365, J. Shegoda 7330, and E. J. Mullins 7295. Among the other high scores were H. Herring 7130 and Thomas Fields 7130.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Michael McLaughlin

At 8.15 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral of Mrs. Michael McLoughlin was held from the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Ring, No. 322 Main street, and at 9 o'clock a solemn requiem mass was held at St Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin was celebrant of the mass, Rev. John Reilly was the deacon and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May was the sub deacon. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. At the offertory Roderick F. Sullivan sang Pie Jesu and Lead, Kindly Light as the waiting hymn and Nearer, My God to Thee as the recessional. Burial took place in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May conducting the committal service.

The bearers were Patrick and Jeremiah Sullivan, Patrick McCarthy, Joseph Cox, James Nagle and John Foley. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were many beautiful floral tributes of esteem. Mourners were present from Greenwich, New Haven and Hartford.

George Falconer

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon the funeral of George Falconer, was held from the Norwich Golf clubhouse with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. Lead, Kindly Light and Abide With Me were sung by a quartette comprising Frank R. Murdy, William G. Park, Henry J. LaFontaine and Eben Learned. Burial took place in Maplewood cemetery, Rev. Mr. Abbott conducting the committal service. A marine bugler from the submarine base at the Navy Yard sounded "Taps." Twelve members of Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, acted as a guard of honor, and the casket was draped with the American flag and the Union Jack. The bearers were Willis P. Austin, Philip Hall, Daniel Shea, William M. Skelly, David Morton and Rolfe Kilby. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Members of the golf club were present and the out of town attendants included Mr. and Mrs. Alex Geddes, uncle and aunt, from Shelton, Conn., Mrs. David Reese, Progress Country club, White Plains, N. Kilby; spray of chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Learned and family; spray of yellow and white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Park; wreath of roses and carnations, Uncle and Aunt.

Mr. Falconer was for several years golf professional at the golf club.

The honorary pall bearers, members of Fletcher post, were John R. Bowman, Jr., L. Perry Raymond, William A. Anderson, Samuel Jennes, John A. Cunningham, Lindsey G. Smith, Earl G. Taggart, J. D. McNamara and Harold T. Robinson.

John W. Babcock

Funeral services for John W. Babcock of Uncasville were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Uncasville Methodist church. Rev. Charles Smith, pastor of the church, officiated. Members of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows of New London, of which Mr. Babcock was a member, served as bearers. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville, where a committal service was conducted by officers of Pequot lodge.

CLAIMED ATTORNEY DORSEY GAVE FRAUDULENT CHECK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 4.—Attorney Thomas F. Dorsey got into the limelight again this morning when Samuel Harris, proprietor of a furrier establishment, 87 State street, made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky that Mr. Dorsey had tendered a fraudulent check, amounting to $175, in payment for a fur coat. Unless the check was made good by the attorney, Harris asked for Dorsey's arrest. Harris' request was not granted, however, for diversified statements made by Harris and Dorsey relative to the negotiation of the check resulted in the prosecuting attorney stating that Harris must make an eight-day demand on Dorsey, to cause the check to be honored.

Dorsey, it is claimed, gave the check in payment for a fur coat about Oct. 2, although his account at the National Bank of Commerce was closed Oct. 8. Harris stated that he agreed to refrain from depositing the check for two days, while Dorsey states that Harris agreed to withhold depositing the check 10 days. The coat is still in possession of the wearer and it is said that there it will remain, irrespective of results.

Another case scheduled for hearing is that of Guiseppi Michell, 20 Jefferson avenue, charged with assault. Michell was arrested Oct. 21 when he attacked and severely beat Thomas Romano, 26, of 25 Belden court. Michell was not arrested until the day following the assault for he got away and not until nearly 24 hours after the assault did he submit to arrest. He has been at liberty since his arrest on bail. Michell followed his daughter and Romano to Montauk avenue, where he crept up behind Romano and beat him about the neck and upper part of the shoulders with a piece of iron, rendering Romano unconscious. Then he is alleged to have beat his daughter because she was in company with Romano, whom Michell did not like. It is understood that Romano and the Michell girl will be married within a short time.

Still another case scheduled for presentation on continuance is that of Cornilius Axson, 16, of 25 Belden street and William Shea, 16, charged with the theft of an automobile from Mrs. Bernard Packer, 78 Truman street. Axson and Shea were arrested May 1, and the case was presented in court May 5, when it was again continued six months and the boys placed on probation. Axson admitted, at the time of his arrest, taking the automobile from the Packer garage, but stated that he did so at the request of Shea, who provided Axson with a key to the building. The auto was used the greater part of 24 hours and was then returned to the garage.

Alice, aged three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Page of Poquonoc road, Groton, fell at her home yesterday afternoon, fracturing her left leg. The child is now a patient at Home Memorial hospital.

Nathan F. Lewis, 75, a resident of Black Point, died this morning at Bethe Memorial hospital. Death was caused by an internal ailment. Although Mr. Lewis had been a patient at the hospital but a week he had been in failing health for a long time. He is survived by his wife and a son, Mr. Lewis was born in Niantic, but when a comparatively young man he moved to Hartford and there became a member of the fire department. After 30 years of fire service he was retired and then moved to Black Point where he had resided about 20 years.

Funeral services for John W. Babcock were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Uncasville Methodist church, Rev. J. R. Danforth, pastor of First Church of Christ officiating. Members of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows, this city, of which order Mr. Babcock had been a member many years, acted as bearers. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville, the committal service being conducted by officers of Pequot lodge.

Thomas J. McNamara, 56, real estate developer, died this morning at his home, 55 High street, Groton. Mr. McNamara's death being unexpected, for it was most sudden of heart trouble, the heart being weakened by a severe cold contracted recently. He is survived by his wife and five brothers and four sisters. Mr. McNamara was born in Clinton and conducted his reality transactions from that place, but made his home in Groton.

EAGLEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman E. Marsh celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Monday, Nov. 1. Members of their family called during the day. In the afternoon a number of their friends gave them a surprise party and presented them a gold piece and a large bouquet of chrysanthemums. In the evening a large bride's cake made by Mrs. Geo. Adams, a daughter of the couple, and decorated by Walter Adams, a grandson, was cut. There were 50 candles on the cake. Walter Adams and Pearl Hamer, grandsons, rendered violin duets. The couple received several gold pieces and other money, besides many useful gifts. Among out of town guests were Rev. C. G. Johnson of South Coventry and Mrs. Jessie F. Marsh of Southbridge, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh were married Nov. 1, 1876, at Spring Hill by the Rev. Judson Chaplin. They have three daughters, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The C. E. society held a Hallowe'en social in the hall last Friday night. There were many quaint costumes. Games were played, fortunes told and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Esther Taylor and son, Alton, are visiting in Harrison, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Warren have returned from their wedding tour and spent Friday and Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren. They left Saturday afternoon for their new home in New Britain.

Mrs. H. F. Thompson who is ill is improving.

Mrs. Jessie F. Marsh of Southbridge, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. George Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Stannard of Ridgefield, are visiting Mrs. Stannard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace McKinney.

The community was saddened to learn of the death of Miss Marion McKernan, of Willimantic. Miss McKernan was formerly a resident of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wilcox and son of Merrow, and Mrs. Lucy Tucker of South Willington. Mrs. Tucker has just returned from a trip to California.

Among the pupils from this place who were on the honor roll at W. H. S., for the first marking period was George Prue, whose name was omitted from the list sent in last week.

William B. Lonergan of Willimantic visited his sisters, Mrs. H. F. Thompson and Mrs. Jos. Prue, Wednesday.

The Ladies' circle met at the home of Mrs. Emil Landen, Wednesday afternoon. Aprons and other articles were made, to be sold later for the benefit of the church. Refreshments were served.

A number from here attended the chicken pie supper at the church at Mansfield Depot, Thursday evening.

Mrs. James Green and children spent last Sunday with relatives at Storrs.

DEEP EXHALING NEW CURE FOR OBESITY

Bed rest instead of physical exercise and deep exhaling from the lungs, in addition to the usual nonfattening diet, are prescribed as a cure for obesity by Dr. C. Leven, general secretary of the Therapeutic society of Paris.

Dr. Leven teaches his patients to breathe out so hard that they bend the flame of a candle, and to inhale only very slightly. The breathing can be done lying in bed, sitting up or standing erect. Series of five exhalations are repeated every half hour 15 to 20 times a day. One patient lost 15 pounds in 20 days and another 60 pounds in the course of eight months.

When a person overeats, Dr. Leven believes, the solar plexus is irritated and this disturbs the functioning of those cerebral centers that regulate the destruction of fat. Other conditions may also cause this disturbance. The course of treatment prescribed is claimed to counteract the effect.

Wireless-Controlled Planes

The first stage of success with wireless-controlled airplanes is said to have been reached recently in England. The authorities carefully camouflaged these tests, but an accident revealed the secret, says Popular Science Monthly. The tests were made near an airplane station on the south coast, but the inhabitants of the town never suspected that the planes they saw flying over the sea carried no men. Some weeks ago a monoplane, one of the three machines used in the experiments, became unmanageable and crashed to the shore. Then the secret was out.

These wireless-controlled planes take steeply banked turns and climb and dive. They go through a surprising number of stunts and perform complicated maneuvers. While a plane is launched the navigation is carried out by a form of dead reckoning.

ACADEMY TO HAVE BASKETBALL TEAM DURING THE COMING SEASON

For the first time in the history of Norwich Free Academy the institution will be officially represented in interscholastic basketball by a team wearing the Red and White. The Academy not having a gymnasium suitable for basketball has never taken much interest in this popular winter season sport, until this year. The matter of having the school represented in basketball was agitated some weeks ago and through the cooperation of the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. the school will have a basketball team.

The Y. M. C. A., as a community institution, has generously offered the Academy the use of the gym for Saturday evening's during the basketball season thus providing the Academy team with a playing floor. Practice will also be held in the gym on certain afternoons when it is not in use for the regular Y gym classes.

W. G. McKean, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. will act as basketball coach for the team. Coach McKean has had wide experience in coaching basketball teams in Pittsburgh and has turned out a number of championship high school teams in Pennsylvania. He takes a great interest in the game and it was through his efforts that basketball has been made possible for the Academy.

Coach McKean issued his first call for basketball candidates on Thursday and twelve men reported and were instructed in the fundamentals of interscholastic basketball. Later in the afternoon the squad was divided into two teams for a short practice session. The majority of the candidates have played basketball before and some promising material is turning out for the with about a dozen more candidates to report at the next practice.

Those who reported were Artie Armstrong, Cimikoski, Jim Kelly, R. Swartzburg, Davy Tiger, G. McGuinness, Pingree, C. Henschel, H. Oguinick, R. Covey, J. Sheridan, and Lynch.

The schedule for the team is in the making and the more prominent high schools in the state will probably be seen her this season.

STAGG FEELS NO ILL EFFECTS FROM BEING KAYOED

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—"Old Man" Stagg, who has been turning out football teams at the University of Chicago since first her gothic steeples rose, blazed a trail of fortitude tonight for the men he is grooming to battle Illinois.

Knocked cold—in gridiron parlance—in a practice session last night, he returned to the field tonight to drive his green, but ambitious boys through the last stiff scrimmage prior to the Illinois invasion Saturday.

The 64 year old legs that were knocked from under him last night when he got into a scrimmage propelled him through a stiff practice tonight while he put the final touches on his team for the game which marks the high spot of Chicago's season—the annual conflict with the downstate foe—the Illini. He declared that he felt no ill effect from last night's experience, when 20 players piled on top of him in a frosh excursion around the varsity end. He was "out" for three or four minutes but as soon as water had revived him he launched a lecture on how his first string men should have stopped the play.

Other conference teams all concluded a hard week of practice tonight, which, in many cases kept candidates at work until dark.

Northwestern was heartened by the return of Rudy Schuyler to tackle, thus giving the Wildcats their full strength for the Purdue game, in which anything but a tie will eliminate a title contender. Thistlethewaite told his linemen that the job of turning back the best team Purdue has had in years rests upon them.

Iowa and Minnesota, who meet Saturday, each tapered off with some forward passing practice, while Iowa also gave attention to defense.

Michigan had a fairly easy workout for Wisconsin, for the Wolverines still are nursing Navy bruises, while Little at Wisconsin expressed his satisfaction tonight with the Badger pass defense.

Indiana, entertaining tomorrow for Notre Dame, drilled to stop Notre Dame's end runs and passing plays, and was told by Page to play careful football, watch for the breaks and follow the ball.

While Ohio State's first team is watching Michigan, which it opposes a week hence, the freshman team will play a practice game at Columbus to develop men who will be eligible for the varsity in another season.

AGGIES HAVE LONG PRACTICE FOR COOPER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 4.—Beginning with the ends and backs reporting at 3.15 the Connecticut Aggies put in a long afternoon of practice today in preparation for the Cooper Union game to be played here Saturday.

Work with the forward pass, both on offense and defense was stressed by Coach Dole, and much time was devoted to this department of the game this afternoon. This indicated that the aerial game will play an important part in the Aggies attack Saturday, as it has in other games this season, but more important than that it appears that Dole is preparing for the overhead attack to be expected from Frank Keany's Rhode Island State team next week. Rhode Island has displayed little power in their running attack this season, which means they can be counted upon to lay down a barrage of passes in their attempts to gain ground. Dole's plans now apparently are to be ready for Rhode Island's passes, and at the same time cut loose with a few of his own.

The kicking game came in for considerable attention this afternoon also, with Eddy and Williams alternating in the punting. Eddy has regularly taken care of the Aggies' kicking game this season, turning in consistently good work throughout, both in punting and drop kicking.

A long session of dummy scrimmage and signal drill was held later in the afternoon, during which all the plays to be used against Cooper Union were carefully rehearsed.

MILLION DOLLAR TRACK AT PALM BEACH TO BE OPENED

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Definite assurance that the Pompano Horse club will open its million dolar track on Christmas day was given here today by representatives of Frank A. Keeney, noted sports and major owner of the Brooklyn Eagle, who is president of the organization.

The Pompano inaugural will feature a purse of $10,000 added for three year olds, and no race will involve a purse of less than $1,500, owners said.

TIGERS AND NUTMEGS CLASH ON SUNDAY

A treat is in store for local fandom on Sunday when the Greeneville Tigers, champions of Eastern Connecticut amateur football last season clash with the Nutmegs, also of this city, in a game which will go a long way toward deciding the city championship for the 1926 season. Both teams are reported as being in fine fettle for the fray which is expected to attract one of the largest crowds ever to witness a grid contest in this section for some time.

The Tigers, boasting a formidable record last season, but who have been handicapped by weather to date this season, will open the campaign with Sunday's battle and although it is quite a difficult task to start the season with an important game, nevertheless, the eleven from the Greeneville section of the Rose of New England is confident of victory and the many followers are reported as being willing to express their confidence in terms of cold cash. The Tigers will present many of last year's luminaries but to fill the few vacant spaces in their line-up caused by players leaving the city, etc., the management will have some very able performers of the popular fall sport on hand. Tombari, formerly of the Hardigs, will be seen at center with Bill Clabby, former N. F. A. star of a few years back and Christie of last year's team will be in action at the end berths are Langevin of the '25 team, Butts and Mileski, the latter an ex-Academy star, will divide the tackle positions with Nelson, Gay and Kelly at ends. The former two were well known members of the Tigers last season while Kelly has also established quite a reputation as a football player in these parts. In the backfield Norm Courbois, stellar N. F. A. quarterback last season will perform in that capacity with his brother, Rudy, of Chapman Tech fame, or Johnny Brown, also of Tech, at right half, Swanton or Nichols, both of the '25 Tiger squad, at left half and Kanenberg, captain of Chapman Tech teams of '25, at fullback. While team shapes up as quite very formidable but they will need to use every bit of their football ability in order to gain the decision on Sunday over the Nutmegs as the latter is also composed of very fast gridsters.

The Nutmegs have played two games to date and although the latter both ended in defeat, a 7 to 0 score by Speedboy, and Westerly, Mileski nevertheless they put up good exhibitions considering that on both occasions their lineup showed many substitutes. On the line for the Nutmegs are Sean Carden, formerly of Chapman Tech at center, Grover, Boldrighino, Brush, Kramer at guards; Pinell and Sullivan at tackles and Rolando, Harris, formerly of the Haskell Indian Institute at Lindrow at ends. In the backfield will be seen such capable performers as Captain F. McGrath, Jimmy Lupinacci, formerly of Westerly Majestics and regarded as the best back playing this amateur game in this section, C. McGrath, Herberts, Johnny "Shiek" Leonard, of boxing fame, Jim Pedace, who was a star a few years back on a navy team, and Jimmy Murphy. It is also expected that a few new men, well known as being adept at the grid game will also be on hand for the forthcoming battle. After looking over the opposing lineups, one would judge from that shown on paper that fur will fly from the referee's opening whistle on Sunday.

The field will be roped and lined and goal posts will be erected for the game which should attract a banner gathering of fans from all over the eastern part of the state.

The kick off is scheduled for 3.30 p. m. sharp.

PERSSON-M'CARTHY BOUT LOOKS LIKE GOOD ATTRACTION

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—Harry Persson Swedish heavyweight champion, who meets Pat McCarthy in the star bout of George Mulligan's show at the state armory here next Monday night, is rated as one of the three real contenders for the crown that now sits on the head of Gene Tunney, fighting marine.

Grantland Rice, in a story last week pointed to Persson, Jack Delaney and Big Monts Muhn as the only three big men of the period who can be reckoned as liable to give Tunney real trouble in the squared circle.

It is hard to understand how Rice names Muhn instead of Jack Sharkey, but he undoubtedly is right regarding Delaney and Persson.

Persson came to these shores practically an unknown, but in a comparatively short time has lifted himself into the front ranks.

He has bowled over all opposition thus far and is slated for a bout with Jack Dempsey, provided Dempsey does not decide to retire from the ring.

Jack told Rickard at their conference last week, that he would not return to the ring unless sure that he was fit to give a good account of himself.

The big Swede is in fine hands, having placed himself in the care of Jimmy DeForest, veteran trainer, who handled Luis Firpo when the South American made his famous American invasion.

Persson has a fine physique and tremendous hitting power. He still has much to learn of the finesse of the game, but DeForest will bring him along as rapidly as anyone could.

Georgie Lamson, who meets "Little Boy Blue" on the Persson-McCarthy semi-final is in Hartford working out for his bout.

Nick Fidel and Prince Kooma will meet in an eight-round preliminary and Joe Smith, Hartford amateur, who is turning pro on this occasion, will tangle with George McRae of Springfield.

Murphy Kayoes Chaney

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Billy Murphy, Lowell lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Andy Chaney, of Baltimore, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight.

EUROPEAN HEAVYWEIGHT ON WAY TO NEW YORK

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, European heavyweight champion, sailed for New York today after vainly trying for two months to obtain a match here against Luis Firpo.

The "Tiger of the Pyrenees" said he had no definite plans with regard to his American invasion, during which he will box under the direction of Jack Curley.

Claiming that he required several months training, Firpo refused to meet Paolino or any other boxer before March.

Berlin Bike Race Has Started

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Fourteen riders started in the six-day bicycle race which began at ten o'clock tonight. Six nations are represented, the riders from the United States being Harris Horder and Harry Horan.

At the end of the first hour the German team of Nebe and Gottfried led with 18 points and 24.5 miles. The Americans had six points.

Harries at Yale Chosen.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Cross country trials held here today resulted in the selection by Coach Al McGall, of the team to represent Yale in the meet with Columbia over the Van Courtland park course Saturday. It will be composed of Captain Smith, Briggs, Evans, Fodder, Hayes, Lamb and Jacob.

HARVARD IS SLIGHT FAVORITE TO BEAT PRINCETON ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Opening of the annual "Big Three" series Saturday when Harvard and Princeton meet, serves to bewilder the experts. In many quarters form is being discounted and a line sought on the likely smiles of the goddess of luck.

Harvard starting with unimpressive performances, found itself against Dartmouth and is expected to show still greater improvement when arrayed against Princeton. The Tiger also opened the season without arousing enthusiasm and has failed thus far to display the expected recuperative ability.

"Ifs" are serving to confuse the forecasts. At Princeton speculation developed, as the Tigers outrained for Cambridge, as to how long Jake Slagle will be able to play. The backfield ace has been injured since early season and actually has played less than a full game during the year. If Slagle can go in and remain in the game throughout he will prove a threat Harvard can not take lightly.

The Crimson line, charging with a force that Dartmouth was unable to combat, is said to have lost none of its driving force and few observers believe that the Tigers will be unable to develop a sustained rushing attack in Saturday's game. Princeton's aerial efforts may bring a different story.

The Harvard second defense was none too good in its efforts to stop Dooley's passes in Dartmouth game, the Crimson backs in that contest playing a much better offensive than defensive game.

Miller, a fast, big, ball carrier, will be closely watched Saturday as an ever present danger.

Harvard has been made the favorite by experts who are believed to have had their fingers crossed as the game is one in which anything may, and probably will, happen.

Other eastern games Saturday bring rivals together who have years of competition behind them. That Pennsylvania should win from Penn state is a well grounded public view but the university team is not taking the game lightly.

Army and Navy face opposition to be menacing in Franklin & Marshall and West Virginia Wesleyan, while Brown demanding recognition lustily, can hardly lose against Norwich. Yale is expected to stop Maryland as the southern team goes to New Haven.

New York university, considers an invasion by Carnegie Tech serious enough to cause Coach Meehan to lighten his team's equipment by substituting silken trousers for the regulation canvas.

Syracuse and Georgetown will meet in a game that can not be considered over before it begins, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia are regarded by many as even choices.

Wesleyan and Williams continue the "Little Three" competition and Bowdoin and Maine play a game of great sectional interest.

Fordham opposes Holy Cross with much prestige to be gained if it can win against apparently heavy odds.

Bucknell and Lehigh, who have found the football path anything but rose strewn thus far, each is hopeful of victory.

Wants Games.

The Baltic Independents basketball team is looking for games.

The following players were out to practice on Monday night and went through an hour's practice under coach and assistant manager Robert Baillie, Provencher, Andrews, Douville, Lacroix, Ridgeway, Rondeau. The manager expects to have a few dark horses out at the next practice Monday night.

Tonight (Friday) at the Baltic Social and Athletic club a pool and pinochle tournament will start for members only, between the Franco-American club and the Baltic Social and Athletic club. Albert Fortier, one of Norwich's leading pinochle players will be in the line-up of the B. A. C. Fortier is also a leading pool player. For games with the Baltic Independents write to H. Collins, Box 81, Baltic, Conn.

OLD LYME PRO GETS THIRD HOLE-IN-ONE

Making holes-in-one is getting to be a habit with John G. McDowell, golf pro at the Old Lyme Country club. While playing in a match with a friend at the Old Lyme course Saturday morning, McDowell sank an ace in the fifth hole, 133 yards. This is the second hole-in-one that McDowell has made at the Old Lyme Country club, and the third within a year. He did not begin to sink them from the tee until a year ago.

McDowell shot his first hole-in-one in West Avon. On July 18 of this year he made the second at the Old Lyme Country club course. This was an exceptionaly difficult shot from the seventh tee to the eighth hole, 155 yards. A large boulder stands in a direct line from the tee to the cup, and the green cannot be seen from tee. A white stick marks the line of the drive.

During the past year, McDowell set a new course record for the nine holes having completed the round in 30 strokes. Par for the course is 36. McDowell, however, has no difficulty in playing the course in two, three, or four strokes under par.

NEW YALE TEAM TO FACE MARYLAND SATURDAY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 4.—The re-organized Yale football team, preparing for the game with Maryland Saturday was given a long defensive test against the scrubs this afternoon. The scrubs held the ball for the entire workout.

Captain Bunnell and several other regulars watched the work from the side lines, Switz running the team. Bob Wylie remained in the left end position in place of the injured regular, Stewart Scott.

Jewett City Vs. Westerly.

The Jewett City gridsters will clash with the fast Majestics of Westerly on Sunday at Ashland park. This game will mark the opening of the home season at Jewett City. The Majestics are considered one of the fastest semi-pro teams within the radius of 50 miles.

Captain Smith of Jewett City has signed a few more new men and has spent no little time in drilling each individual so that football fans of eastern Connecticut can depend on seeing a fast and interesting game from start to finish.

The Jewett City team will lineup as follows: West, of Lynn Elects, at quarter, with his teammates, "Rosy" Gallup at full, "Kid" Allard and Williams, half backs, Capt. Smith and Russ Clark, formerly of U. S. S. Florida, will take care of the wing positions. Kobb and Polky, tackles, Backy and Mondow guards. Subs, Davis, Sweet, Big Ben, Robertson, Williams, Welch Dutchy. As the weather has stopped both teams for a few weeks the managers have both agreed to play rain or shine.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

(By the Associated Press)

The reorganization of the Brooklyn Robins threatens to rival that of the Pittsburgh Pirates in scope. Zach Wheat, dean of National league outfielders, soon will follow, Jacques Fournier into retirement, baseball rowtion, says Roper.

Princeton's no-scouting agreement with Yale is partially due to the fact that the Tigers consider the value of preliminary football dope over-emphasized, Coach Bill Roper reveals. A team of smart football players should be able to cope with almost any situation.

The New York State athletic commission has indicated it will not grant Charley (Phil) Rosenberg's request for one or more "tune-up" fights before he defends his bantam title against Bushey Graham of Utica, N. Y. "The rules are the same for all champions—can't change them for Rosenberg any more than I could for Dempsey," says Chairman James A. Farley.

Ty Cobb, deserting the major leagues at least for the moment, will trade one field for another. Leaving the outfield he will soon be in a still larger field, following his pedigreed dogs through the great open spaces of numerous field trials. The holder of most of baseball's batting records is the proud owner of several prize winnings canines.

A broken thumb isn't the only factor likely to keep Harry Persson, Swedish heavyweight title aspirant, out of action for a while. The tatooed Scandinavian is subject to an automatic 30-day suspension in New York for losing on a foul to Bud Gorman, last Monday night at Madison Square Garden. He has called off a scheduled fight with Pat McCarthy, Boston heavyweight, at Hartford, Conn.

DESIGN AIRSHIP CAR TO USE AS MOTOR BOAT

AKRON, O., Nov. 4.—(AP)—An all-metal airship car, designed for army and navy training dirigibles, under construction by the Goodyear-Zeppelin works here, is so designed that it will be detachable from the bag of a dirigible and can be used as a motor boat.

The cabin-boat will be operated like a motorboat except that aviation propellors above the water will give it motivating power.

The car is especially designed for coastal use. In time of war it could be used readily as a surface craft and within a few minutes time attached again to a dirigible for air service. If the dirigible became disable at sea, the car would act as a boat using the dirigible bag as a sail. The car is being constructed of duraluminin throughout.

Negro Book in Turkish

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Translation into Turkish of Up from Slavery, the autobiography of the late Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee, has been made by Lee Vroonman, of the Inetrnational college at Smyrna. The book, which tells the story of the emancipation of the negro race, already has been translated into the major European languages, the European languages, the Braille system for the blind, Arabian and three East Indian tongues.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

No One at Home

To know the very worst of fate
Is sometimes better than to wait.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse wanted to be found. Yet all the time he had been hiding from Nanny. Now that Nanny had gone home, Danny was disappointed. He tried to work his courage up to the point of going, too; but each time that he took a few steps in the direction of Nanny's home he changed his mind. Somehow Danny Meadow Mouse couldn't bring himself to face Nanny. He tried to make up his mind to go off somewhere else, but he couldn't do this. If he couldn't be with Nanny he just had to be near her.

"What do you want?" snarled Danny.

By and By Danny stole back where he could watch Nanny's home. After what seemed to him like a very long time Nanny came out and disappeared down one of her private little paths through the grass. She was going to get something to eat, for she was hungry. Danny hung around a while, waiting for her to come back. Then his curiosity could stand it no longer. He wanted to see the inside of Nanny's home. He wanted to see if it was big enough for two inside.

So he climbed up in the bush and with a hasty look all around, for somehow he felt guilty, he popped inside through the little round hole in the bottom. Nanny had used an old nest one that had once belonged to Brownie the Thrasher. She had roofed it over, and inside was a very comfortable room, with a very nice soft bed. Danny hadn't seen such a comfortable home since leaving the Green Meadows to go to the seashore. He stretched himself out on that soft bed. "My, this is comfortable!" he said with a sigh. "This certainly is a comfortable bed. I must stay here, for I wouldn't want Nanny to find me in her house; but I wish I could stay."

Now that bed was so soft and tempting that Danny kept putting off moving. He knew that he ought to go if he didn't want to be caught there. He began to doze, and then Danny Meadow Mouse fell fast asleep in that soft, comfortable bed. How long he slept he didn't know. He was awakened by the sound of voices outside.

"There's nobody home," said a voice. "I know it, for I saw Nanny Meadow Mouse leave and she hasn't come back." It was the voice of Striped Chipmunk.

"I wonder," said another voice, "if she has any food stored up there. I wonder if she has any seeds stored away. If she isn't home, it is a good chance to have a look."

You should have seen Danny Meadow Mouse prick up his ears when he heard that Chatterer the Red Squirrel was more than a match for Danny in an open fight, and he knew it. But this was different. If Chatterer didn't have a chance to get inside that house Danny was sure that he could hold his own. So, without making any noise, Danny crep close to the doorway.

"Nobody home! I'll show them whether or not there is nobody home!" muttered Danny to himself. "I'll show them."

Then Danny heard the sound of claws on the bushes and knew that some one was climbing up. He suspected that it was Chatterer. Danny drew his lips back so as to show all his small, sharp teeth, and suddenly he thrust his head out of the doorway. He did it just as Chatterer reached the doorway on the outside. It startled Chatterer so that he all but lost his hold. "What do you want?" snarled Danny.

"I want to know what you're doing in that house," snapped Chatterer. "That house doesn't belong to you."

"And it doesn't belong to you," retorted Danny. "I'm just keeping it for the one it does belong to. If you think you can pull me out of here, just try it. That's all I ask, just try it!"

Chatterer looked at Danny, and he saw there wasn't a chance of getting Danny out of there. "Just you wait," said he. "Just you wait until I catch you outside! I'll teach you not to meddle in the business of other people." Then Chatterer turned and he and Striped Chipmunk raced away.

The next story: "Danny's Troubles End."

A war gas made by Professor Gabriel Bertrand, of the Pasteur Institute, has found a peacetime use in the silk industry. The silk cocoons are gassed by small quantities of chloropicrin, which has proved exceedingly practical and easy to handle. The gas has been tried in various silk raising centers and has been found to possess marked advantages over killing the cocoons by baking or steaming. Under the prevalent methods of silk culture the cocoons have to be all sold within a period of two or three weeks, but the use of chloropicrin promises a practical way, it is said, for the growers to turn the cocoons into nonperishable merchandise which can be sold when the market is best.

ILLNESS OF WITNESS HALTS HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Serious illness of Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig raiser, today prevented the state from introducing the testimony of its chief eye-witness in the Hall-Mills murder trial.

At the end of a day in which experts testified that a calling card found at the feet of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall bore a fingerprint of Willie Stevens, one of the defendants, Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker and County Judge Frank Clearly decided that Mrs. Gibson was too ill to tell her story and to undergo the "very rigorous, painstaking and trying cross-examination," which the defense announced it must conduct.

Mrs. Gibson is ill at the Somerset hospital from an undiagnosed malady which physicians testified might develop into pneumonia. Her condition was described as serious.

The present investigation which led to the indictment of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and three of her male relatives for murder, was based largely on acceptance of Mrs. Gibson's eye-witness story, discredited in the first investigations. She placed Mrs. Hall her brother Willie Stevens and a cousin, Henry Carpender, also indicted for murder, at the scene and told of having seen Mrs. Hall bending over the bodies of the slain and weeping "Oh, Henry, how could you?"

Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor for the state, announced, just before court was ready to adjourn at four p. m., that three physicians refused permission for Mrs. Gibson to leave the hospital even when a warrant was sent there for her.

He proposed that the court, with jurors and attorneys for the defense go to the institution and obtain her testimony. He said he feared she would lapse into a state of coma tonight.

Defense attorneys objected, demanding the right to cross examine, and intimating that Mrs. Gibson's collapse yesterday was brought about through the approach of the trial and the knowledge that her own mother would take the stand against her.

Three physicians who held that she could not leave the hospital, were called into court, and after hearing their opinions the two judges themselves went to the hospital, and reached their decision.

"This is our responsibility," declared Justice Parker after returning from the hospital, "but we will have to take it.

"If she dies she will have to die, but it seems that she will improve, at any rate she is in no condition to be examined now."

The defense in arguing against taking the jury to the hospital revealed part of its case.

"We have every reason to believe," said Former Attorney General Robert McCarter, chief of counsel, "that Mrs. Gibson, or Mrs. Easton, as Senator Simpson now calls her, is a thoroughly unreliable person, who has given at least six different versions of what she alleges she saw on the night of the killings and these versions are contradictory and absolutely inconsistent."

The experts who identified the fingerprint on the calling card found on the ground near the Rev. Hall's body as that of Willie Stevens' left index finger, were Joseph A. Faurot, formerly of the New York police department; Edward Schwartz, also of the New York police force, and Frederick Dreiwen, of the Jersey city police department.

McCarter, for the defense, objected to admission of the comparative fingerprints. He pointed out that the fingerprint found on the calling card was not photographed until at least four days after the card was found, and furthermore that it would be unfair to allow entry of the evidence until the circumstances existing between the time of the finding of the card the making of the fingerprint record, had been gone into.

FORECASTS CUT IN INCOME TAXES FOR THE YEAR 1927

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Taxes of 1927 incomes will be cut by congress between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, Martin B. Madden, of Chicago, chairman of the house appropriations committee, forecast today on the heels of his re-election to congress.

Citing a predicted treasury surplus this year of $250,000,000, Madden said congress "will undoubtedly be able to arrange a new tax cut effective in 1928 on 1927 incomes," and declared that he would recommend such a reduction.

Removal of the theatre and amusement tax, a further reduction of the surtax and a cut in the tax on corporations are among the next steps in the lightening of the nation's tax burden, Madden intimated, although he hesitated to forecast which taxes would receive the benefit of the forthcoming cut.

The congressman would not predict what new tax legislation might provide in regard to individual incomes.

The promised tax reduction, according to Representative Madden, will be made possible by the contemporary surplus. With the surplus available to the treasury at the end of 1926, he suggested, it would be simple to effect savings in 1927 which will justify a reduction along the lines he will recommend.

ONE OF MANY

The books I've really meant to read
Would make a lengthy list.
It makes me sad sometimes to think
What pleasure I have missed.
The histories, the solid works
All filled with thoughts sublime—
I've always meant to read them, but
I've never found the time.

There's Shakespere, now, I've read, of course,
Some plays—some of the best—
But he wrote a lot of others, and
I've never read the rest.
And Plato, too, and Emerson—
I know just how it looks
To you, who have read everything,
But I haven't read their books.

Some day I hope that I shall get
The leisure time I need
To sit down in the library
And read, and read, and read,
Meanwhile each day I have to toil,
To earn my daily bread,
Regardless of the number of
The books I haven't read!

Branding irons of the early California ranchos are quite as much of a fad with Californians as the old glass or highboys of the eastern coast. The collection of branding irons has its experts, although a comparatively new development, and also has brought a nice calculation of values. Most of the branding irons are being used in Spanish style interiors as fireplace furnishings.

Melbourne, Australia, has the candy king of the world. His name is MacRobertson and he is said to be the richest man in the South seas, his fortune being placed close to $50,000,000. He has seventeen large candy manufacturing plants and in his office there are models of all of them. He never tires in studying his plants and planning ways and means to better the working conditions of his 2,500 employes. Their average wage is $1,000 annually. For many years he has set aside a certain proportion of the profits from his business for charity, and every organized body in Australia gets a share of it yearly.

BROADWAY FETE TO BE "MAIN STREET" FROLIC

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Father Knickerbocker is 300 years old and Broadway, the pleasure loving and probably best known member of his family of famous streets, is preparing to celebrate the anniversary.

It will be a regular "home town" celebration, with a parade and the usual festivities by which an American city tells the world it has passed anently nothing will be missing, not even the big feature of such events—the carnival.

And the place big enough to be called Little Old New York is small enough to seek out the "oldest living merchant" on Broadway. Old timers in the city are being asked to search their recollections for the name of the individual who deserves the title.

Broadway, the show-shop of the world, will be the setting for its own "show" in commemoration of the Tercentenary of New York city, 1626-1926. Starting on Wednesday, November 17, and continuing through Friday, the street thoroughfare of the bright lights will resemble a huge carnival, climaxing on the third day with a grand parade.

Promoters of the event call to mind the history that has been made since 300 years ago when Peter Minuit, the first director general of the Old Dutch colony, closed the famous real estate deal with the Indians by paying for the 22,0 acre island of Manhattan with $24 worth of beads and trinkets—hardly enough for a peep into one of the night clubs now abounding in the neighborhood.

Governor Smith is honorary chairman of the celebration committee which includes the names of most of those in the "who's who" of the political, industrial, educational and theatrical life of the city and state.

The celebration will include a welcome for the new Paramount theater and building which will be opened and dedicated formally on the final night it will be the first time the Broadway association, commercial organization of the avenue, has inaugurated a theater on behalf of Broadway.

An "open house" will be held on the first day. Special window displays and decorations are planned to make the White Way even brighter. In Battery Park will be held a military pageant. At City Hall a salute will be fired in honor of the Tercentenary. An aerial circus will be held above Broadway on Thursday night, while the carnival is under way in the street.

A compliment always passes for more than its face value.

Dietz baking has satisfied two generations of New England mothers

FORTY YEARS AGO some of the best bread makers in New England found that they could delegate this time-taking task to Dietz with no lessening of their standards.

Dietz Bread was at home with the other well-cooked foods on their tables.

Father and son, the Dietz family has carried on the tradition of making fine bread. Always they have had before them an ideal—a loaf perfect in appearance, in nutriment, in texture and in flavor.

A few years ago Mr. Dietz thought he had realized this ideal. For his bread had the perfection which only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could give.

Now better than ever!

BUT new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements.

Today Dietz Bread—made in the Dolly Madison bakery which Mr. Dietz has purchased and equipped with a marvelous new oven—is better than ever. Richer, crustier, more evenly browned, with a texture fine and firm for smooth, thin slicing, yet so tender and fresh it fairly melts in your mouth.

GETTING GOOD GOVERNMENT

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Now that the shouting has died away and the excitement is over till another election, I wonder if there are a few people, here and there, who actually remain interested in politics?

By which word "politics" I do not mean merely the tug of war between ins and outs, nor that intolerance which sees no bad in its own side and no good in the other, nor that clannishness which herds itself in parties and fights merely for a slogan.

I mean by it what the dictionary means when it defines "politics" as "The science of government: that part of ethics which has to do with the regulation and government of a nation or state."

It's a curious fact about what we call "human nature" that it is always and everywhere inclined to ignore the significant and magnify the insignificant: to care more about the way a thing is done than about the thing itself: to fuss over details rather than strive after ends: to get excited over words while remaining callously indifferent to facts: to chase after will-o-the-wisps instead of steer by the stars.

In the old days of monarchy and aristocracy, when a lordly few kept the reins in their own hands, one of the wisest of the lot wrote to his modest son who professed doubt as to his own ability to take charge: "Don't forget, my son, with how little wisdom the world is governed." In this later age of so-called popular sovereignty it is quite as permissible to call attention to the little wisdom with which the world governs itself.

For proof we need go no farther than that one word "politics." To nine voters out of ten it means simply republicanism or democracy or socialism or prohibitionism or mugwumpery or farm-blocery, and not at any time "the science of government." To nine out of ten it is simply a squabble between parties, and not an intelligent attempt to prove for the efficient and economical regulation and government of the nation or state and who consider it "a part of ethics."

Once, when the U. S. senate was called upon to decide between two claimants for office, a fellow partisan is reported to have said to the late Thad Stevens: "They're both damn rascals!" "Very likely," responded the veteran politician; "but which is our damn rascal?" And, being told, voted for him.

This isn't intended to imply that everybody who is seeking office is a rascal of the condemnable sort cited. There may have been one or two good men in Sodom when Lot was ordered out. Perhaps even two or three. If my memory serves Lot couldn't think of five.

But it does imply, with a force almost equal to demonstration, that we are inclined to elect people to office, not because they are especially fitted for it, not because they are honest students of the science of government, not because we need their knowledge and their skill and their honesty and their efficiency, but because they have the same sort of cross-eyes that we have, or happen to wear our colors in their button-holes. In other words, we are inclined to ask, not whether the office-seeker is a "damn rascal" or not, but whether he is our rascal.

We don't do things in that way in business or daily life, because it is too unpardonably silly. You, for instance, are a dairy farmer with a big herd of cows. You need help to care for and milk them. In seeking it, you don't take the first applicant who happens to use the same brand of chewing tobacco that you like, or who has hair of the same color as yours. You look for a man who knows about cows, how to handle and feed and milk them so as to get the biggest returns practicable. You'll go ten miles to get such a cowman, rather than hire an incompetent hobo who never fed or milked a cow in his life, but who applies whiningly for the job, because he wants the "hand-out" which goes with it.

Or, you're running a factory and need a foreman for the spinning-room. You look for one who knows spinning from A to Zed, who can do it himself and show others how to do it right, who can, if possible, improve and increase the spinning-room's output. You don't take the first applicant who hankers after the wages but who doesn't know a bobin from a bob-cat.

Or, you're looking for a chauffeur to drive your new Lincoln car. So you try to find one who is mechanically experienced enough to take care of it, and who has had sufficient training on the roads to assure his good sense and discretion. You don't hire the ignoramus who doesn't know a spark-plug from a carburetor, just because he happens to fit into your last chauffeur's discarded uniform.

When your watch stops and nothing you can try will induce it to run, you don't take it to a carpenter or even the cashier of your bank, but to a watchmaker.

Yet most of us seem perfectly willing to intrust our government, which is a much more complicated mechanism than any watch or automobile, to the hands of the first blacksmith or cow-hand who belongs to our lodge or our church or our party, and who asks us to give him the job.

Out in a western city the leaders of one of the two major parties got tired of this sort of imbecility, early this fall, and decided to try a new stunt. Or, to put it somewhat differently, they decided to go back to the old, original American idea. They agreed that the office should, for once at least, seek the man, not the man seek the office. They went over the city, ward by ward and district by district, and picked out from each the one man who seemed to a majority of them the best fitted to serve the public. Then they didn't nominat those men; they "drafted" them.

There came to light, upon this action, two highly interesting facts. The first was that not a single one of the men thus "drafted" for public office wanted it. Not one had ever sought it or asked for it, not one was willing to lift his finger to get it; not one but tried to "bar off" when he was notified. The other interesting fact is that only two or three out of several score, when the situation was made clear to them and the importance of the public service emphasized, persisted in refusal to run. The great majority accepted the burden, unwelcome as tax-paying or jury-duty, in the same spirit in which they accept those impositions, and agreed, if an unbought, unbullied and uncoaxed electorate wanted them to serve their terms and do their duty.

I haven't yet heard how that aforesaid electorate acted in these rather unusual conditions. It usually takes some time for the tide to rise. It may take some time for common sense to supplant blind partisanship as a moving power in elections.

The significant thing is that a start has been made in the right direction.

My town, for example, wants a man to take care of its roads. There is a salary and some sort of "pickings" going with the office. Half-a-dozen men want it. That fact, in any reasonably intelligent and public-spirited community, would have no bearing whatever on the more important question of whom the town needed. The real question is not who wants the job most? Who can do the job best? It is not who can promise the most freely? but who will perform the most satisfactorily? And I can't see, for the life of me, what that man's opinion about the national customs tariff has got to do with his ability and willingness to keep the roads open for his neighbor's flivvers. When I'm voting for a congressman I naturally want one who thinks as I do about the tariff, even if he doesn't know the difference between cement and macadam. When I'm picking a road superintendent, I want the very best road-fixer in town, and don't care a hoot whether he's protectionist or free-trader. What's that got to do with road-making?

Generally speaking it may be said that the more a man wants public office, the less desirable public officer he's likely to make. Of course, there are exceptions to this, as to all other rules. Some otherwise admirable men are so constituted that they actually regard public office as an "honor," rather than as a burden imposed. But such are exceptions. The sorry fact remains that a large percentage of those who regularly seek public office and pull wires to secure it are after it, not as an opportunity to serve others, but as a means of getting something for themselves,—salary or fees or authority or "graft" or an "easy snap." Which very fact is the strongest evidence possible that they are not the best fitted for the offices they aspire after.

In any defensible theory of government, public officers are simply public servants and should be selected solely for their manifest ability to do the particular work assigned them most quickly, most efficiently and most economically. They are our "hired men", hired to do our work for us.

In selecting them the public has one huge advantage over the private employer. The latter must take men willing to work on the terms offered. But the public can "draft" its servants in civil life just as reasonably as it can draft them for jury-duty or military service. It says to one man: "You are young, strong, husky; come and fight to defend your country." It says to another: "You are fairly intelligent and under 70; come and serve as a juror." And both must obey. Similarly it can draft men for public office, i. e. public service, if it sees fit to exercise its acquitted power.

And, by jingo, if the time ever comes when an active majority of the people really want good government, that's about what they'll do!

At present there's room for doubt whether a majority of us really want good government enough to go to the polls and get it!

INDIAN WAR HERO IS MADE U. S. POSTMAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Charges Alone, the full-blooded Arikara Indian of North Dakota who fully lived up to his name during the world war by killing or capturing 25 Germans single-handed, has had fulfilled his desire to be a letter carrier for Uncle Sam.

Through executive order, president Coolidge authorized his appointment without regard to civil service rules and Postmaster General New has taken him in. The war record of Charges Alone, or Thomas Rogers as he is known by his Americanized name, won prompt appointment. He has been assigned to Mandan, N. D.

Marshal Foch when in North Dakota on his American trip picked Tom out of the crowd of Indians and, placing his hand on his shoulder, cried out: "Tom Rogers was the bravest soldier in France."

Tom never talks about his war record but it is a noteworthy one. He was born at Fort Berthold, N. D., June 4, 1891, attended the Santee, Neb., Indian State Normal school for six years, and on August 1, 1917, enlisted in the Second North Dakota Regular Infantry. Arriving in France about November 27, 1917, he was assigned to the First Division with the Eighteenth Infantry, later being transferred to the Intelligence Section as observer, raider and sniper.

Let Tom's major tell of his daring:

"For three months prior to the Battle of Soissons, Tom, who was a scout, was sent out every night to the German front to get information as to what organization was there. His manner of getting the desired information was a novel one. A white lieutenant accompanied him as far as it was safe to go; Tom then went on alone to the front, creeping through the grass, bushes and weeds, and, when a sentinel passed, captured him with his bare hands and took him back to the American camp where he was questioned. In case the sentinel attempted to give the alarm Tom 'croaked' him and carried his coat to camp. In 90 nights he was on this service, he did not make a single failure to bring in his man or a coat. He brought in 33 of the latter."

Tom was but one of the 12.00 Indians who served with the Americans during the war and of whom 132 were killed and 87 wounded. When President Coolidge sent the thanks of the nation in the form of testimonials to the Indian tribes, Tom was designated to receive that for the Arikara tribe.

WESTMINSTER

A union evangelistic service is to held in Westminster church Sunday next at 7 p. m. conducted by the Rev. I. T. Johnson of Johnson, Vt. Mr. Johnson has worked in such meetings for more than 50 years and will remain in Westminster for a few days of special meetings. With an agile body, acute sense of humor a young heart, understanding sympathies, and quick perception of each situation, all expect to be helped and blessed through his services here for which he makes no charge. All arrangements for the subsequent meetings will be according to the wishes of Rev. Mr. Johnson who gave up his Methodist Episcopal pastorate in 1921 to devote his whole time to direct evangelical work. Ten or twelve neighboring churches are expected to be represented in the Sunday evening meeting.

It is expected that the communion of the Lord's supper will be observed Sunday morning.

Moosup District Nurse association has elected the following officers: President, Harry Richardson; first vice president, Thomas Hope; second, Mrs. Arthur Zercie; treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Danielson; secretary, Miss Angeline Moreau.

STATE OFFICERS ATTEND WESTERLY D. A. R. MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 4—Phebe Green Ward chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its November meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert H. Langworthy, 88 Elm street. The meeting was one to which the state D. A. R. officers and chapter regents of Rhode Island were special guests.

Regent Mrs. Carrie E. Savage presided in the formal business meeting and the program which followed. Refreshments were served at the close of the session, the hostesses being Mrs. George F. Batbour, Mrs. Earl D. Frazier, Mrs. Horace E. Burdick, Mrs. Samuel M. Cathcart, Mrs. Albert L. Chester, Mrs. Everett E. Whipple, Mrs. Howard M. Barber, Mrs. Harry R. Milner and Mrs. Ira B. Crandall.

Among the state officers and chapter regents present were Mrs. W. L. Manchester of Bristol, R. I., state regent; Mrs. Arthur M. McCrillis of Providence, state chaplain; Mrs. Frederick Greene of Warren, state registrar; Miss Lillie Lewis, regent of Flint Lock and Powder Horn chapter of Pawtucket, Mrs. Edwin P. Tabor, regent of Rhode Island Independence chapter and Mrs. Frank M. Adams, regent of Gaspee chapter, both of Providence and Mrs. Raymond Foster of General Nathaniel Greene chapter of East Greenwich. Besides the state officers and regents who spoke was Miss Clemmie J. Henty of Maryville college, Tenn., secretary of the Student Help association. Among business matters transacted was the voting of the annual donation of Phebe Green Ward chapter amounting to $50 for the Student Help cause.

Westerly Lions club held its weekly luncheon on Wednesday noon at the Elm Tree inn in Pawcatuck. The speaker was Lyman A. Morhouse, secretary of the Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. Character building among boys was the theme of Secretary Morhouse's discourse, intimate contact being had by the secretary, who is one of the directors of Camp Beckett, of the Y. M. C. A. in the Berkshires, where a number of Westerly young men have made his acquaintance. The need for careful attention to character building, the secretary said, was occasioned by the fact that under present day living standards much of the boy's time is passed in organizations, removed from the boy's own home.

Attendance average among the students in all of the Westerly public schools for the month of October was 93.63 according to figures given out on Thursday by Superintendent Willard H. Bacon of the Westerly school department. In October, 1925, 97.75 was the average.

Dunn's Corners school, on the Boston Post road, led all others during the past month with an attendance record of 99.52. Records of the other ten schools in the district follow: Park avenue, 97.05; Quarry Hill, 97.04; Bradford, 96.82; High school, 96.39; Chestnut street, 96.16; Beach street, 95.96; Elm street, 95.79; High street, 95.43; White Rock, 94.45; Pleasant street, 94.13.

Miss Idella M. Lancaster has returned to her home in Westerly after visiting with friends in Providence.

Mrs. Sarah J. Doty of Westerly is visiting for several days with her cousin in Fall River, Mass.

Mrs. Mary A. Riddle and daughter, Miss Mary A. Riddle were visitors in Providence Thursday.

Rhode Island State Trooper William A. Riddle left Westerly on Thursday morning to appear in East Greenwich, R. I., in Kent County superior court, where the Phenix Trust company alleged robbey by John Gilbert is being tried before Justice Herbert L. Carpenter and jury.

Rufus F. Stiles of Pawcatuck left Thursday morning on a business trip to Boston.

Miss Geraldine Phillips of Bradford, R. I., was a visitor in Westerly on Wednesday evening.

Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, F. and A. M., of Pawcatuck, T. Edward Peabody, worshipful master, held its 548th stated communication in the Masonic rooms on High street on Thursday evening. Following the business session work in the Fellow Craft degree was conferred by the lodge officers upon a class of candidates.

The Westerly Community Teacher Training school met on Thursday evening in the church school room of Christ Episcopal church on Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Champlin were visitors in Providence on Thursday morning.

Oliver W. Stoddard returned by steam train on Thursday morning from an automobile trip to New York.

At the Calvary Baptist church on Elm street Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock Miss Geraldine Campbell Phillips of Bradford was united in marriage with Erastus Hewlett Bann of Westerly. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Lewis A. Walker pastor of the church, was a single ring service. Miss Anna Marr of Westerly was the bridesmaid and the best man, Carl E. Burdick.

Mr. Bann has been in the employ for a number of years of the family of the late Daniel L. Lyon, summer residents at Watch Hill with winter home in Florida. The bride has been in the office of the Bradford Dyeing association plant at Bradford. She is a graduate of the Westerly high school, class of 1915 and has served as assistant librarian at the Bradford branch of the Westerly public library.

Next month Mr. and Mrs. Bann will leave Westerly for Deland, Fla. On their return to Westerly will reside at Mr. Bann's newly built bungalow, 10 Downing street, in the Thompson plat off Beach street, Westerly.

CLERGYMAN IN EACH HOUSE OF LEGISLATURE

HARTFORD, Nov. 4. — (AP) — Legislative chaplains of the 1927 legislature will be able to get expert criticism of their daily prayers from the floor, should they desire it, for the clergy will be represented in the membership of each house. Rev. Daniel W. Strickland, of New Haven, is to be the senator from the tenth district, while one of the representatives of the town of Middletown will be Rev. George W. Gilbert, an Episcopalian. There were no clergymen in the 1925 legislature, but one was a member of the house in 1923 and two in the house in 1921. The fourth estate will also be represented in the membership of the house this year by two newspapermen, one from Bristol and one from New London.

MYSTIC

Edward Eugene Donohue of 77 High street was taken suddenly ill while at work Tuesday afternoon and died at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. His death was a shock to his relatives and many friends. Mr. Donohue was born in Mystic, Aug. 8, 1867, the son of Hugh and Anne Ryan Donohue. He had been employed by the town of Groton in the highway department for the past six years. He was a prominent member of Father Murphy council, Knights of Columbus of Mystic and of Father Deshon assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, of New London. He is survived by a brother, John R. Donohue and a sister, Mrs. Thomas Cummings, of Mystic.

At the last meeting of the chamber of commerce board of directors, B. H. Hewitt was elected president, L. E. Kinney vice president, L. E. Votel, secretary. The treasurer is G. D. Johnson. The retiring president, C. T. Crandall was elected to represent the Mystic chamber on the board of governors of the state chamber of commerce. R. K. Burrows, B. L. Mull and M. M. Manning are a committee to look into the matter of buying land at Pequonoc for a park, or state reservation. R. K. Burrows, L. E. Vatet and G. H. Foley will arrange for an opening meeting in December. Four new names were added to the membership.

Fanny Ledyard chapter D. A. R. met in Masonic Temple Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elisa G. Scott regent presided. After roll call of officers, salute and pledge to the flag and devotional exercises, some time as needed to transact business. Resolutions on the death of Mary E. W. Gary were read. As in past years appeals for money by schools were read and the same amount as last year was voted to Maryville college in the south and to the library fund for Continental hall. The state asks the chapters to raise $6,000 in three years to create a fund to give a scholarship to a Connecticut girl at Connecticut college. It was voted to give the quota asked for. Mrs. Bertha A. Snell asked to be transferred to Danielson chapter, as she is now living in that borough. At the close of the business session, Mrs. Theodore Dewhurst of Stonington, accompanied by Mrs. Fanny P. Fish, sang Carmena, by Needham and Star Eyes, by Oly Speaks. Then Doctor Wallace Gallup of Connecticut college was presented and gave a talk on Some Aspects of Internationalism. Thanks were given to the singer and speaker. Sandwiches, cake and tea were served by the committee. Those present beside the regent were Mrs. M. S. Brown, Mrs. Carl Cutler, Mrs. Justin Denison, Mrs. F. W. Batty, Mrs. Eva Burdick, Mrs. Abbie Mathews, Mrs. G. A. Thompson, Mrs. Fanny Fish, Mrs. F. T. Broughton, Mrs. Mary P. Denison, Mrs. Maple Dickinson, Mrs. Florence Sherburne, Mrs. Abbie Phillips, Mrs. Alice Burrows, Mrs. Ellen Costello, Mrs. Alida Hill, Mrs. Rachel Allyn, Mrs. Irvin Haley, Mrs. Emeline Allyn, Mrs. Elsie McGaughey, Mrs. G. W. Phillips, Mrs. Eliza Schoonover, Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan, Mrs. Walter Fish, Mrs. Artis Stoddard, Mrs. Annie Bradley, Mrs. Arline Bradley, Misses Emily N. and Clara S. Murphy, Joanna Burnett, Elizabeth Burrows Edith and Annie Rathbun and Julia Foote.

Friends here have received notice of the death of Miss Elizabeth H. Miner, daughter of Frank Denison Miner and the late Elizabeth Gilderdale Miner, at Jersey City, Oct. 25. Miss Miner was born in Jersey City after her parents moved there from Mystic, and spent her entire life there. She was an active member of the First Presbyterian church, Jersey City, Woman's club and Christ Hospital guild and prominent in philantropic circles in that city. She leaves her father and two brothers, Dr. Donald H. and Frank L. Miner. Her parents were born and brought up on the east side and lived here some years of their married life, before going to Jersey City to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kinney are entertaining relatives from Boston.

Miss Maud Allen and Miss Molly Burce have closed their cottages on Masons Island and have returned to New York for the winter.

NOANK

Leo McGrath of Mystic, well known checker player, has been practicing hard for the past two weeks for the checker games to be played with Kenneth Steele, the Noank champion, for a bet of a hat. Wednesday night all roads led to the checker matches in the Tavern hall, where a large crowd gathered to see them again in action. The first match went to McGrath, by good playing while the second match was taken by Steele, leaving his rival without a king. The third game was a draw, both men playing hard, but they could not get one way or the other. The last match was a good one and only by one move's difference McGrath won it, also a new Sunday hat. These were the best games the people have seen in a long while. The referee was Dinty Banks. This makes the series even. In two weeks they will play for the championship of Mystic and Noank. Magare S. Main will put his man Steele through some hard practice meantime.

Members of the Fire Co. went over to their rooms to attend a meeting recently which was a get-together affair, to bring the members back where good times are held, with pool and cards, and a piano to dance by. Owing to Acting Foreman A. Banks being away for a few days the meeting was put over to next week. A notice on bulletin board reads: "Don't forget young members to come and meet the old members at the next meeting and try Steward Edgar Ashby's famous fish chowder."

The Young fishing fleet came in from the fishing ground around Montauk, L. I., after several days of good fishing, when good catches were made. The boat Ada and Sam had 22 barrels of flatfish, the Baby 25 barrels, Idella 18, and Ethel H. 22 barrels. The packing house dock Wednesday was like a small Fulton market. Trucks were here to take the barrels away. This week over 200 barrels of fish were shipped to New York. It has been the best week for the fishing men in a long while.

The Chatter club held a meeting at the home of Mary Robertson, with the president, Ada Banks, in the chair. One new member was admitted, Josephine Shandor. The club colors are blue and white. Matters of business were discussed. After the meeting, whist was played, three tables being filled. Sarah Banks won first prize and Hazel Wolverston had second honors. A peanut hunt was held the prize being a box of stationery. Anna Robertson found 19 peanuts which was the highest number, Ethel Porter coming in a close second. A lobster salad supper was served by Emma Gauthier.

John Tourjee is in New York for a few days.

Mrs. Charles Butson was in Ledyard during the week.

About fifteen local people attended the chicken pie supper and dance at Ledyard Wednesday. Edward Mahoney sang several songs while the orchestra played. Fred Doolittle gave an exhibition Charleston, for which the crowd gave him a great hand. He had some new steps which were tried.

Clarence Spink of Fall River was home Wednesday.

Edward Eugene Donohue, whose death occurred suddenly at Mystic from intestinal trouble, is a relative of Mrs. John Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Frank MacDonald of Noank.

Word has been received in the village of the safe arrival in Bermuda of Rodney H. Clark and Jerry Bacon, who have gone there for the winter.

Mrs. Helen Mahoney hurt her finger and while employed at her work at the Rossis Silk mill. The injury is very painful.

Capt. Henry Langworthy, of schooner William Morse, is spending a few days at his home.

Elwyn Tryon after a visit of several weeks in Glen's Falls, N. Y., has returned.

Rev. Ernest Weise, pastor of the Baptist church attended the meeting of the Thames River Valley Baptist Ministers' association held in the First Baptist church, Norwich, this week.

Mrs. Herbert Livingstone is the guest of relatives in Apponaug, R. I., for a few da

Harold Be[illegible]ine of Fishers Island Coast Guard station is home on a short furlough.

Miss Pauline Christie, of Groton, was in Noank Wednesday.

Edward Morgan was on Fisher Island Thursday.

PARKING SPACE FOR 15,000 AUTOS IN HEART OF CITY

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP) — Parking space for 15,000 automobiles in the heart of the city, without standing one of them in the streets, is an unique adjunct of Chicago.

The parking area is in Grant park, on the shore of Lake Michigan. Just across Michigan avenue lies the business center.

Grant park was made by filling in the lake. It is a half mile wide between the parking space and the shore, but a strip 300 feet in width lies between the depressed tracks of the Illinois Central railroad and the main driveway. In this space for ingress, 7,300 feet long, 1,200 cars can stand abreast. With longitudinal driveways for ingress, there is room for 14 rows, or 16,800 cars.

Except for a large space at the north end of the park, the rest of the space is free.

JOHN BULL'S BEER IS NOT ALWAYS SO PURE

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP)—John Bull's famous bitter manages sometimes to get lead, boric acid and an excess of salts into it spite of the boasted purity of British beer.

The Ministry of Health reports that out of 387 samples of beer which were taken at random for analysis, nine samples contained one of these three adulterants.

RESIGNATION OF JUDGE ENGLISH WILL BE ACCEPTABLE TO HOUSE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The house prosecutors in the impeachment case against Federal Judge English, of eastern Illinois, agreed today to recommend dismissal of the proceedings in view of the jurist's resignation.

They will go before the senate on November 10 and recommend deferment of action until authority from the full house can be obtained for discontinuing the case.

The resignation of Judge English was delivered in the presence of Attorney General Sargent and two of the house prosecutors. Representative Michener, republican, Michigan, and Sumners, democrat, Texas. The jurist set forth that while "conscious of the fact that I have discharged by duties as district judge to the best of my ability, and while I am satisfied that I have the confidence of the law-abiding people of the district, yet I have come to the conclusion on account of the impeachment proceedings instituted against me, regardless of the final result thereof, that my usefulness as a judge has been seriously impaired."

He added that he felt it to be a "patriotic duty" to resign and allow the office to be filled with some one not hampered by the difficulties facing him.

In agreeing to recommend dismissal of the proceedings, the house prosecutors explained that the purpose of the impeachment was to remove from office an official whom the house had determined to be unfit to further perform the duties of the office and that the resignation accomplished the primary purpose.

The resignation of Judge English was not altogether unexpected in Washington, rumors having been current for several days that he contemplated ending the whole controversy by stepping aside. These rumors were given added strength when it became known that William F. Zumbrunn, Ku Klux Klan general council had withdrawn from the defense.

The fight on Judge English, a Wilson appointee was begun in the house two years ago, when Representative Hawes, democrat, Missouri, elected to the senate on Tuesday, demanded that charges published by the St. Louis post-dispatch be investigated. After lengthy committee consideration, impeachment was recommended, and late April by a vote of 302 to 62, an impeachment resolution was approved by the house.

Charges made against the judge included wrongful mahipulation of bankruptcy funds, usurpation of authority over Illinois state officials, use of profane language from the bench, and the threatening of juries and counsel in court. He denied before the senate each of the accusations against him, and after he had made his appearance, it was decided that the senate should meet as a court November 10 to try him.

TO EXTERMINATE ENEMIES OF PREMIER MUSSOLINI

ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Within 24 hours the machinery of the fascist regime will be set in motion to destroy every trace of organized opposition against Mussolini and to proscribe every individual suspected of antagonism to him.

Mussolini by one succinct phrase from the balcony of Chigi palace this morning after the solemnly impressive observance of the eighth anniversary of the victory over Austria, electrified the Italian nation into realization that it is on the eve of one of the most momentous decisions in fascist history.

"Tomorrow," said the premier, "we will have the acts you have been awaiting."

His cryptic phrase is interpreted universally as meaning that before another sun sets, the demand for swift punishment—even the supreme penalty—of those implicated in an attack against his life, a demand which has been sweeping through the country since the attempt to kill him at Bologna will bear some tangible fruit.

It is considered almost certain that three measures will be confirmed:

First, that the recently approved death penalty for attempts against the life of the premier or members of the royal family shall be made retroactive. This would affect the former socialist Deputy Zaniboni and his alleged accomplice, General Capello, concerned in the telescopic gun attempt against Mussolini. Gino Lucelli, who hurled a bomb at him, and perhaps, the English woman, Violet Gibson, later declared demented, who shot him in the face.

Second, extensive reorganization of the police system, with the object of strengthening vigilance over anti-fascists.

Third, sweeping revision of the membership of the fascist party, which would give an opportunity for the expulsion of lukewarm or suspected members.

The most important of the three measures, in the view of fascist leaders, is reorganization of the police, to which it is thought possible a special political police force may be added.

The premier, it is asserted in political quarters, put the finishing touches on a plan of action at a conference in the early hours of this morning with Secretary General Turati, Minister of Justice Rocco and Minister of Intedior Federzoni. Then he convoked the chamber of deputies in extraordinary session for Nov. 9.

The mystery is expected to be cleared up by the "acts" which Mussolini promises tomorrow, when the cabinet and national fascist directorate meet in the morning and the grand council—the supreme instrument of the regime—in the evening. After that events are likely to move with lightning rapidity, the duce presenting measures successively to the cabinet, the directorate, the grand council and then to the chamber and senate, thus permitting regular enactment into law within a week.

In the meantime the local fascist organizations are beginning to fulfil their threat to use drastic means to prevent further attempts against fascism. At Padua the fascist body has created a special political squad to watch and punish anti-fascists, while at Parma list of the enemies of the regime has been drawn up for summary action at the first breath of plotting.

Arrests also continue: Two anti-fascists were taken off the Italian steamer Vallarse, carrying grain from Canada. Four German daily newspapers at Balzano are among others suspended by prefectural order.

The authorities at Bologna have accidently discovered a letter sent from a small town near there on October 9 predicting an attempt against the premier's life. A well known anti-fascist, to whom the communication was addressed, was arrested.

The authorities declare they have found evidence showing that the opponents of the regime intended to undertake a series of terroristic acts, including attempts against Mussolini, hoping that one would succeed, or at least have the effect of frightening the regime into leniency.

JACKSON IS POPULAR AS CHICAGO CENTENNIAL NEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Andrew Jackson is coming into his own in Chicago. Stirring new verses by Vachel Lindsay about the hero of New Orleans have attracted special attention, for Chicago is to celebrate soon the centennial of one of the outstanding events of Persident Andrew Jackson's administration—The establishment of Chicago as a city.

A singular development connected with the fresh enthusiasm here for Jackson is notice of the fact that one of the most commanding structures in the city, the new Chicago Federal Reserve bank building, is located in Jackson boulevard, regardless of the famous successful fight of "Old Hickory" to abolish Alexander Hamilton's celebrated institution, the Bank of the United States. Jackson boulevard is the finest long east-and-west thoroughfare in Chicago.

Tonsorial Flirtations

Fear that the alluring smiles and soft words of Japanese women barbers in Honolulu would lure too many customers away from the shops run by the opposite sex has resulted in the appointment of an anti-flirting committee by the Japanese Barbers' association there. One barber from each of the 24 districts in the city was selected to act on the committee which will watch the feminine shops in an effort to put in an end tonsorial flirtations. The association has issued a decree forbidding flirting but no explanation has been made as to how the ban will be enforced.

FOUR FELLA CHILDREN, NEW LONDON, SENT TO COUNTY HOME AT NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 4—Four of the five children of Fortunato Fella, formerly of Belden court, who murdered his wife on Bank street, a fortnight ago when he attacked the woman who was on her way from her work to her home, 10 Shaw street, severing the woman's jugular vein and windpipe with a knife in a fit of rage because they were estranged, were committed to the county home on Smith avenue, Norwich this afternoon. The children, whose ages range from four to 12 resided with the mother and had done so during the three years that their parents lived apart. With the slaying of the mother the children were left upon their own resources, being without parental care and without proper shelter and nourishment. To provide for their future welfare the city authorities ordered the children committed to the home where they would receive the attention rightfully due them. Another child, a girl of about 16, was not committed to the home, as she has steady employment and is able to support herself. The father of the children is in the county jail awaiting trial before the criminal term of the superior court next January.

STOLE M'GARRY SEDAN TWO MEN ARE BOUND OVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 4—Charles Hummell and Kenneth Davis were today held for trial at the January term of the superior court for stealing an automobile, a Buick sedan, that belonged to William P. McGarry of Norwich, also a suit case that was the property of Miss Jane Wilson of Cheyenne, Wyoming, a guest at the McGarry home, which suitcase was in the McGarry car. The car and the suitcase were stolen in this city. The car was valued at $1750 and the suit case at $600 to $700. The accused did not deny their crime, but demurred through an attorney. Probable cause was found for holding them and they were bound over in the sum of $3,000 each. They could not furnish bonds and went to jail. They are young men who have got started on a life of crime, apparently. The property stolen was recovered when the thieves were arrested in New York. Their extradition will cost them a handsome sum, for difficulty was experienced in getting them back here for trial.

CASE SUGGESTED BLACKMAIL BUT ACCUSED GOES FREE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 4—An unusual case came before the police court this morning in which there appeared to be evidence of threats and of what might be blackmail. Leoda Akers, a colored woman, wife of William Akers, residing at 115 Green street, complained against Chester Mallory, alleging that he had threatened her and her young son over a telephone, while she was at her place of employment in the Keyboard Manufacturing company plant on Garfield avenue. Mrs. Akers represented on the witness stand that Mallory had been a roomer at her home during three and a-half months, up to a month ago. Then he had a row with the Akers boy, a lad of 16, with the result that Mallory was told to leave the place. Mrs. Akers said that after that Mallory called her on the telephone and represented that "Lawyer Johnson" was talking. He said that he proposed to kill her and her boy. She said that was the only time he talked to her, but he had talked to someone other than herself at the plant. She said he admitted, before he left the telephone that he was Chester Mallory and she detected the voice then.

Fred D. Balsey, manager of the Keyboard company, confirmed the testimony of Mrs. Akers and said that he answered the telephone when Mrs. Akers was called by Mallory. Mr. Balsey hooked up on another telephone and heard the conversation. Mr. Balsey said that Mallory represented that he knew who he was and where he resided and that he made an appointment to see him as a special investigator at the Balsey home, in Niantic. This appointment was never kept. Ten days later Mallory represented that he was Lawyer Walker and told him he would have to discharge the Akers woman or take the consequences. Mr. Balsey asked the reason, but Mallory refused to give any. Mr. Balsey said the telephone call was from a barber shop on North Bank street. Mallory made a second appointment with Balsey, but failed to keep that also. Mr. Balsey took the matter up with the prosecutor the police were called and Mallory was arrested.

Mallory attempted to represent that the Akers woman had some $1,200 that belonged to him, but the court ruled that evidence out, as it was not germane to the matter under consideration. Mallory also represented that he was a roomer at the Akers' home more than a year. He admitted that he had called the complainant on the telephone and that there was a code used by the couple. He said that one sentence in the code was, "Are you prepared to meet the jury." He said she understood what that meant. Then he went on to say that he was in the theatre and that Mrs. Akers followed him out and asked him if he was not going to meet her. It was arranged that he should call her from Taylor's barber shop. Then he attempted to tell of the money Mrs. Akers had and to insinuate that he had taken steps to attach money belonging to her.

Mrs. Akers and Mr. Balsey denied that there was any truth in the code story or in the rest of the tale told by Mallory. However, the court decided that the state had not made out a case of threatening and found Mallory not guilty.

Half a dozen drunks were disciplined with fines or jail sentences. They were men who are establishing a record of frequent appearance in the court and this is to be discouraged.

Charles Henry Wood was fined $50 in the police court this morning for reckless operation of an automobile. The prosecutor told the court that Wood had been a railroad employe in a responsible position during the past 20 years, that he was not a law violator but that he slipped this time. He ran his machine into a car owned by Thomas Connor, being operated on Main street. Wood did not stop after the collision, but went on until he was overtaken. He is understood to have arranged for the payment of any expense attaching to the damage to the Connor car.

John McDonald, a chief petty officer, was fined $10 for a breach of peace consisting of breaking the furniture in the home of a Mrs. Shafer on the 13th of October. McDonald's bond was called then but it was reopened today when he appeared to face the music. It is said he is also to get a penalty for absence from the ship on which he is enrolled.

The funeral of Walter E. Willey, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at 43 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Frank and Philomina Rosetti have sold a house and lot on Terrace court to Sophie Koschanski.

The deed transferring title in the property on the western side of Montauk avenue, between Bellevue place and Fair Harbor place, from Nellie D. Smith to Dante M. Buckley was received for record at the office of the city clerk this afternoon.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's license of Mrs. Hugh F. Lane, 154 Broad street, which was suspended yesterday. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered suspended the driver's license of Nich D'Amico, submarine base, D'Amico was convicted in the police court a week ago charged with driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor.

At a hearing in the probate court yesterday afternoon, on the application of Mrs. Charlotte F. Dorsey, trustee of the estate of Peter Dorsey, to sell certain real estate, after due interrogation of interested witnesses comprising heirs of the testator, Judge Arthur B. Calkins issued an order for a probate sale of the Hotel Winthrop property, State street on or before Dec. 22nd, and the sale, either public or private, and without any specified time limit of a tract of land on Broad street. The Hotel Winthrop is now leased by Arthur and Frank DiMaggio, whose lease of the property will expire next June. The hotel is a four story brick building and besides being occupied by the hotel, is occupied on the ground floor by two restaurants. The sale of the properties is petitioned for at the request of heirs, who desire that the estate be closed by the sale of all realty.

Miss Helen Foley, Waterford, and employed as operator at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company, has concluded a visit with Mr. and Mrs. James Foley, Norwich.

NORWICH PRIEST SPEAKER AT CROWLEY CLUB BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 4—The fifth annual banquet of the Crowley club was held last night in the new Garde ballroom. The room was effectively decorated with blue and gold candles and tea roses and violets making each place. Ferns and baskets of yellow chrysanthemums made a beautiful setting for the banquet.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. William A. Keefe of Norwich, who delivered a fine address and praised the club for its progress and success. He was presented a black leather bill-fold as a token of appreciation from the club. The club presented a white gold bracelet to its president, Miss Madeline Gorman. The banquet opened with grace said by the Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, after which Miss Ellen Tooley, general chairman of the banquet committee spoke words of welcome to the assemblage. Rev. Dr. Crowley, in whose honor the club is named, was called upon by Miss Tooley and made a short address in which he told of his pleasure and interest in watching the development and growth of the club and of his sincere and earnest wish for the continuance of its success.

A brief address was made by Rev. Alexander C. Wellschlager, formerly of New London, now of Portchester. Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan and Rev. John J. McGrath and by Miss Della Moroney of the Diocesan bureau. Miss Margaret Boylan entertained with piano selections and Miss Mary Murphy sang, accompanied on the piano by Leslie Burdick. Miss Margaret McNamara, the club secretary, read the club history. Miss Marjorie Williams and her pupil, Miss Emily Green entertained, with character and toe dancing.

The committee in charge of the evening's event was: Ellen Toohey, general chairman, Marcella Grimes, Faith O'Neil, Margaret Curtin, Adelaide Walsh, Helen Shea, entertainment committee, and Mary Mansfield, Josephine Iriangi, Margaret Sullivan, Frances Erney, Teresa Smith, Teresa St. Germain, Adeline Zuccardy, Elizabeth Cunningham and Margaret Murray.

Robert Lovell Smith was elected chairman of the New London chapter American Red Cross, for the fourth time when the November meeting of the executive board was held in the directors' room of the Winthrop Trust company yesterday afternoon. The other officers and chairmen of committees re-elected were: Vice chairman, Miss Edna Leighton Tyler; treasurer, Leon Geer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Waldo E. Clark; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Haris; home service secretary, Miss Grace Harris; department chairmen: Home service, Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson; disaster relief, Clifford H. Belden; first aid, P. M. Hatch; junior Red Cross, Warren A. Hanson; assistant junior Red Cross, Miss Anne Campbell; publicity, Mrs. Orville E. Clark; production, Mrs. S. H. Keeler; motor corps, Walter L. Henrici; nursing, Miss Margaret Murphy; life saving, Robert C. Rice; volunteer service, Miss Henriette T. Sherman; Braille, Miss Edna L. Tyler.

Following the election the report of the delegates to the national convention in Washington, Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Herbert Z. Kip was read. Miss Anne Campbell reported for junior Red Cross. She said the society had sent toys to the Seaside sanitarium and had packed five Christmas boxes to be sent to foreign countries. The children at Seaside sanitarium have organized a junior Red Cross society and are much interested in it.

Mrs. Donald G. Mitchell, chairman of the New London City League of Women Voters and Miss Edna L. Tyler, chairman of the New London County league will attend all sessions of the annual convention of the Connecticut league which will be held in New Haven at the Hotel Taft Nov. 8, 9 and 10. Others elected delegates and alternates are:

Delegates—Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson, Mrs. John B. Baxter, Mrs. L. Newton Bragaw; Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, Mrs. O. E. Clark, Mrs. Andrew Collins, Mrs. G. E. Dashiian, Mrs. Edward P. Eggleston, Mrs. Cyrus B. Fengar, Mrs. George P. Fenner, Mrs. Adah C. Hickey, Mrs. Martin Kane, Mrs. Philip M. Keridge, Miss Helen M. Lathrop, Mrs. Lewis J. Phillips, Mrs. C. H. Five slaves of drink were arrested this afternoon and await presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Three of the drunks were gathered in on North Bank street and were making a nuisance of themselves when Patrolmen Clyde Murphy and John Foley and Acting Station House Keeper Louis Wheeler arrested them. A fourth drunk was also nabbed on North Bank street and the fifth was arrested on Water street.

The continued case of William F. Ryan, 17, of 84 Maple avenue, charged with the theft of a quantity of coal from a house owned by Samuel Johnson, which is under course of construction on Willetts avenue, will come up in the police court tomorrow morning.

Members of New London lodge of Elks, 360, had a good time this evening when they were treated to a game supper at the club house, Washington street. The affair was attended by a representative number of members and was greatly enjoyed. The feast was donated by Joseph G. Harrigan, a past officer of the lodge and an ardent sportsman, who with several companions, bagged the coons that were prepared and served to his associate members.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Tonight in addition to the fine picture program headed by Richard Dix and Esther Ralston in "The Quarterback" and Dolores Costello in "The Little Irish Girl" the Palace will present on the stage another of its semi-professional vaudeville shows that have become so popular with the patrons, with all new acts by future stars of the stage, and due to the demand for these shows the vaudeville will be held over for Saturday matinee and night also, and on Saturday at the matinee will be held the first of the Kiddies Frolics, when children from the audience will be invited to take part in a frolic on the stage. The management intends to make these special Saturday frolics of special interest to the little folks. The screen entertainment is exceptionally fine this week. The Quarterback, with Richard Dix and Esther Ralston. Dix whose engaging personality has brought him to the crest of screen popularity sets a new record for laughs in The Quarterback a romantic comedy with an underlying note of seriousness. Its whirlwind finish introduced the most exciting football game ever screened, played as it is on a rain drenched field Esther Ralston the kind of blonde gentlemen are supposed to prefer is Dix's leading lady. You know the kind of a team these two make, why say more, see The Quarterback and to make the most outstanding program of the season the management has added another fine attraction in The Little Irish Girl, with the charming and beautiful Dolores Costello who sky-rocketed to stardom after her screen debut with John Barrymore in the Sea Beast. The Little Irish Girl is a tingling mystery drama filled with action, suspense and delicious comedy and then we have Gene Tunney in chapter nine of his great adventure serial, The Fighting Marine that grows even more exciting as it nears its conclusion. The Palace Topical Events brings the latest world wide news and completes just about the finest screen program one could find anywhere.

Breed Theatre

"Sandy", the story of a flapper bride, which has been running serially in more than 100 newspapers, has been converted into a motion picture by Fox Films and will be shown Sunday at the Breed theatre where it will continue until Wednesday.

"Sandy" was written by Elenore Meherin, who also wrote "Chickie," which was filmed last season. While "Chickie" registered a success both as a newspaper serial and as a picture, it is said that "Sandy" has far outdistanced "Chickie" in popular appeal as a story that it presents greater motion picture possibilities.

Fox Films made a careful search for an actress to bring to the screen the vivid personality of Sandy McNeil, the beautiful young girl of 19 who is the heroine of the story. Madge Bellamy was finally selected. Sandy is the modern young woman aquiver with the love of life and impatient with hampering rules of conduct.

In the motion picture version produced by Fox, advantage was taken of every opportunity presented by the wide variety of thrilling episodes to bring to the screen the most colorful picture of the 1926 girl, her ideas of life and all the complexities of the modern social order.

In addition to Miss Bellamy the cast includes Leslie Fenton, Harrison Ford, Barbson Bard and others.

Legion Contest for Watch

Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, is conducting a competition this week, the winner of which will be presented a $50 watch. Next week the Legion presents its annual play which is a farce in three acts by J. C. Mullen. The post is offering a $50 watch to the winner in the ticket selling contest. Judging from the entries there is plenty of competition.

The play, When a Feller Needs a Friend will be presented Armistice Day night and the two following nights, at The Strand theatre. The public will remember Kathleen, Bimbo and Princess Bonnie given in other years by the Legion players.

Among those who will appear in the cast are William (Billy) Mitchell, Elmer McKenzie, Mrs Myles Standish, Mrs. Elmer McKenzie, Harry Bowers, Miss Evon M. Broadhurst, Meredith Lee and Mae O'Brien.

D. J. O'Brien is directing the play and promises that the play will give them more laughs in two hours than they have enjoyed in many a day.

The Gorilla

Those who have seen The Bat, The Cat and the Canary and The Last Warning will appreciate The Gorilla when it is presented at the Bradley theater at Putnam, Monday night, November 8. It is a hilarious parody on mystery plays and brings to the stage something that is new and original. Everything that has been seen in dramas of mystery will be found in this merry conceit which is presented by a capable company. The players enact their roles with a seriousness that is productive of a whirlwind of merriment.

Broadway Theatre

Not a single fault could be found with the combination program that made its initial appearance at the Broadway Theatre yesterday.

The featured offering on the five act Keith Albee vaudeville acts was Baby Henderson, the child wonder. She has not yet reached the school age but she is undisputably a child wonder. We advise you to see her.

Dawn & Daye in "A Flat" make themselves generally entertaining with their musical offering.

Charles Mack & Co., featuring three people in a comedy offering was a riot of fun.

Perry Oliver & Ada Lee in "At the Stage Door," by Jimmy Barry is a delightful comedy singing act.

Van & Belle, the happy laughing entertainers made a splendid closing offering featuring their boomerangs and airplanes.

The feature photoplay is "The Fate of a Flirt."

The local musical instructor Mr. Anthony Messino will be an extra attraction on the stage tonight.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

This Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, Lee & Osgood and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving remembrance of
MRS. ANNA DOMBROSKI
who went to her eternal rest November 5, 1925
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only we who lost can tell,
Of the grief that come in silence,
For the one we loved so well.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection,
And our heartaches still for you.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear Mother
MRS. ANNA DOMBRISKIE
Who died November 5, 1925
One sad and lonely year has passed;
Yes, we remember well.
We watched beside your dying bed
To take our last farewell.
With tearful eyes we watched you
And saw you pass away;
Although we dearly loved you,
We could not make you stay.
But you are not forgotten, Mother dear,
Your memory shall never fade;
Our thoughts will ever linger
In Yantic cemetery where you are laid.
MRS. JOHN MACHT.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of our loving son,
Dwight T. Thompson
who passed away Nov. 5, 1924.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE!

On and after this date I will not be responsible for any bills contracted by my wife, Ida Walden.
GEORGE WALDEN.
Norwich, Nov. 4, 1926.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville, within and for the District of Montville, on the 3rd day of Nov., A. D. 1926.
Present, DAN D. HOME, Judge.
Estate of Ida M. Rogers, late of Montville, in said District, deceased.
Raymond L. Walkley of New Haven, Ct., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville in said District, on the 10th day of Nov., A. D. 1926, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.
DAN D. HOME, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, SUSAN F. PLOUFFE, Clerk.

NOTICE!

All persons liable to pay a personal tax in the Town of Montville, are hereby notified that I have a warrant to collect the same. This tax, according to Chapter 26, Public Acts of 1925, is due and payable on or before Nov. 15th, 1926. For the purpose of collecting said tax I will be at the Uncasville Post Office on the 15th day of November from 8 to 10 a. m., and at the Post Office in Palmertown on Nov. 15th, from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., and at the store of the Massolt Co. in Oakdale on the 15th day of November, from 3 to 5 p. m., and on the 16th day of November at the store of John Kaplin in Chesterfield from 10 a. m. to 12 m., and at the store of Charles Ferun at Mohegan on the 16th day of November, from 3 to 5 p. m. All persons failing to heed this notice will be prosecuted according to law.
Dated at Montville, Nov. 4, 1926.
OSCAR E. CHURCH, Collector.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 4th day of Nov., A. D. 1926.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of William E. Lord, late of Griswold, in said District, deceased.
The Administrator exhibited his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 9th day of Nov., A. D. 1926, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administrator is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Dr. William L. Higgins, of Coventry, re-elected to the house Tuesday, will be the dean of the 1927 legislature in length of service with six previous terms in the house and one in the senate to his credit. Dr. Higgins has represented his town in the house in the 1905, 1907, 1917, 1919, 1921 and 1923 sessions and represented his senatorial district in the upper house in the 1909 session of the general assembly. He has been first selectman of Coventry for many years and is a county commissioner. Dr. Higgins is now medical examiner and health officer of his own town and is also medical examiner for Andover and Columbia. Dr. Higgins is 57 years old, his 14 years as a member of legislature constituting 32 per cent of his life since he reached voting age.
Three women will share honors for seniority in service in the 1927 legislature. They are Mrs. Helen E. Lewis of Stratford, Mrs. Clarissa Nevius, of New Fairfield, and Miss Mary B. Weaver of New Milford, all of whom served in the house in both 1923 and 1925.

ORDERED TRANSFERRED TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

HARTFORD, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Governor Trumbull today issued an order for the transfer of Arthur Crotau from the Tolland county jail to the Norwich state hospital, following the receipt of a sanity commission's report that Crotau is insane. Dr. E. H. Metcalf and Dr. Roy C. Ferguson of Rockville composed the commission which was appointed Monday to examine Crotau.

MARKET CLOSED STRONG

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. — (AP) — The stock market made further progress on the upside today after an early period of irregularity. Bear traders again failed in an attempt to unsettle the general list by hammering the motors and a few vulnerable specialties, rushing to cover in bite trading when fresh buying appeared for several of the leading rails and industrials.

There was nothing in the day's news to influence the price movement although a more cheerful feeling was apparent in both business and banking circles. While the call money rate held steady at 4 1-2 per cent, loans were available in the outside market at substantial concessions below the quoted rate, and there were no indications of the stiffening which frequently takes place in the first fortnight of November.

The drive against the motors was based on the curtailment of production by some of the large manufacturers, but this reduction in operations was regarded by the trade as seasonally. General Motors, after selling down to 151 1-4, later crossed 154, closing at 153 1-8 for a small fractional gain on the day. Hudson was taken in large blocks around 44 but closed slightly below that level. Mack Trucks was depressed to a new low at 89 5-8, and then rallied to 91 1-8 off 1 1-8.

U. S. Steel common was under heavy accumulation on reports that the tonnage statement next week may show an increase of as much as 200,000 tons in unfilled orders. The stock rallied from 140 1-2 to 142. Closing just below the top for a net gain of 1 1-2 points on the day. An optimistic statement on business by Charles M. Schwab before the Philadelphia Bond club also helped to create bullish enthusiasm for the steel shares.

Commercial Solvents B was the outstanding individual strong spot, soaring 11 points to 107 3-4 and closing a point below the top. Famous Players advanced over 3 points on buying influenced by large current earnings and expectations of a substantial increase in income on the opening of the new Paramount theatre here next month. The advance of nearly 4 points in Baldwin followed the announcement that the company had received large sums on account from foreign governments. American Smelting advanced over 2 points and Chino, Ray and Nevada coppers touched new 1926 peaks on the prospect of higher dividends by some of the copper companies before the end of the year.

Strength of the anthracite carriers, particularly Lackawanna which scored an extreme advance of over 6 points by touching 151 1-4, featured the rail group. Delaware & Hudson closed 4 points higher and Reading and Lehigh Valley, 2 each. Jersey Central jumped 7 1-4 points on one sale. Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago & Eastern Illinois first preferred and Texas & Pacific also recorded substantial gains.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The New York federal reserve rediscount rate was unchanged at 4 per cent.

Commodity prices were mixed. Further liquidation of cotton futures sent closing quotations 7 to 13 points net lower. Active wheat futures rallied about a cent a bushel. Raw sugar advanced 1-16 of a cent a pound, and coffee futures rallied 15 to 23 points. The further recovery in French francs to above 3 1-3 cents, despite the reported efforts of the bank of France to keep the buying movement in check, was one of several highly interesting developments in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling touched a new low for the year at $4.84 1-16, bringing the rate to a point where gold shipments from London to New York appear probable. And the new German registered a new low at 23.77 cents. Japanese yen touched the highest price in three years at 49 1-8 cents.

HUNTINGTON P. MEECH NAMED VICE PRESIDENT OF BANK

Huntington P. Meech, a native of Norwich, for 42 years identified with the National Fire Insurance company, in Hartford, has been elected vice president of the West Hartford Bank and Trust company. His election was the outcome of a meeting of the board of directors this week.

Mr. Meech, before becoming associated with the National Fire, was in the insurance business in Norwich, and in Buffalo, N. Y. For a time also he was with the old Barbour Silver company, which later was absorbed by the International Silver company of Meriden. He is a member of the West Hartford Board of Finance and is treasurer of the Center Fire district of that town. He represented the town in the general assembly of 1921 and 1923, and served as senator from the Fifth district in the session of 1925. He resides at No. 64 Westland avenue, West Hartford.

The officers of the bank are headed by Roy T. H. Barnes, president.

The residence of the Meech family while in Norwich was the present Friebie house, on McKinley avenue.

LEGION POST COMING FROM NEW LONDON

Preparations for the Armistice day parade at Norwich were discussed Wednesday night by the New London American Legion post and announcement was made that 50 members of the unit would participate. The legionaires will meet at the post quarters prior to leaving for Norwich, the time and other details to be announced later. Transportation will be furnished by the post.

Col. Henry S. Dorsey has been appointed marshal of the veterans' division of the parade and is working out details in that connection.

Visited Telephone Employee

The current Telephone Bulletin has the items: Representatives of Norwich have visited Mrs. Rose Santangelo of Hartford, who is a patient at the Norwich hospital. The Norwich girls carried flowers to her and reading material, a mighty fine piece of work, which shows the good that can be done by a sunshine committee, not only for its own members but for those away from their home council.

The members of the New London District Commercial Conference board, at its recent meeting welcomed as their guest their old friend J. N. Weymouth, secretary of the Employees' Benefit Fund committee, who gave a very fine talk concerning the benefit plan and its application.

Gave Surprise Halloween Party

Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy of Trading Cove gave a surprise Halloween party for their little daughter, Dorothy Saturday afternoon. The house was tastefully decorated in orange and black and an enjoyable programme of games entertained the little people.

Those present were Irene and George Burrows, Doris, Victoria and Gloria Santelle, Doris and Russel Johnson, Michel, Anna and Helen Tymcheck of Trading Cove, Doris and Clara Adams. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kennedy assisted by Mrs. Roland Burrows and Mrs. William Carson of Taftville.

Birthday Surprise for Miss Zerall

A birthday surprise party was given Miss Mary Zerall this week at 11 Oakridge street. The evening was pleasantly spent and music was furnished by Pepa Melody boys. Games were enjoyed and Miss Anna Mae Mullins gave an exhibition of the Charleston and Miss Jennie Mack sang several solos. Refreshments were served by Miss Lafleur, Miss Corbiello and Miss Mullins. Miss Zerall was presented a beautiful pocketbook from the Jolly Ten.

Girls' Friendly Convention

The Episcopal Girls' Friendly diocesan conference is to be held at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, today (Friday) and Saturday.

The annual corporate communion of the Girls' Friendly society of America is to be commemorated Sunday. Every member is expected to make her communion Sunday at her own church.

New Beauty Cream Becomes Popular

You will be enthusiastic over a new French Process Cream for whitening and beautifying the skin. It is so pure and different from other creams. Women say they see a great improvement in their complexions after the first application. If you want smoother, brighter and younger skin, use MELLO-GLO Cream. It's wonderful. Porteous & Mitchell Co.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

HARTFORD PREPARING TO ENTERTAIN S. S. DELEGATES

The state Sunday school convention at Hartford on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 17, 18 and 19, will bring together some 2,500 delegates from all sections of the commonwealth. The three-days session will be held in the beautiful new edifice of the Central Baptist church.

Dr. James L. McConaughy, president of Wesleyan university, Middletown, who will address the opening session on "Making the World Christian," was professor of education and English at Bowdoin from 1909-1915, professor of education at Dartmouth, 1915-1918, and was president of Knox college until 1925 when he accepted the presidency of Wesleyan university.

The Wednesday evening service of worship will be in charge of Dr. John N. Lackey, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Hartford; the Thursday evening service will be led by Dr. William Douglas Mackenzie, who has been president of the Hartford Seminary Foundation and professor of systematic theology since 1904; and on Friday evening the service will be led by Rev. Dr. William D. Beach of New Haven. Dr. Beach is superintendent of the New Haven district, Methodist Episcopal church.

Dr. Sidney Adams Weston, well-known editor of Boston, will address the convention Thursday afternoon on "What Shall We Teach?" Dr. Weston has been with the Congregational Publishing society since 1904, and is now business manager of the Pilgrim Press, Boston. Dr. Weston is the author of "The World a Field for Christian Service," "Problems of Youth on Social Life," and "Studies in the Books of Ruth and James."

Much interest is centered in the address, "Fifty Points in a Good Sunday School," to be delivered by Dr. Herman H. Horne, professor of history of education and history of philosophy, New York university, New York city, since 1908. Some of Dr. Horne's better known books are: "The Philosophy of Education," "Idealism in Education," "Free Will and Human Responsibility," "Modern Problems as Jesus Saw Them," and "Jesus—the Master Teacher."

The many delegates will receive a warm welcome in the capitol city of the state, as it has been some years since Hartford has entertained this annual gathering. Arrangements have been made to entertain several hundred in private homes throughout the city.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE BY MOOSEHEART LEGION

An evening of whist and pinochle was held at the Moose home, Tuesday by the Women of Mooseheart Legion. Five tables of pinochle and six of whist were played. The chairman, Vera Sterry, was in charge. Prizes were donated by the members, including May Lasch, Nora Willet, Vera Sterry, Mary Hunter, Mary LaValle, S. Sourbier, Anna Heibel, Pauline Wunderlich and Rose Carter.

In pinochle Mrs. J. Foley took first ladies' prize, six dessert dishes, with a score of 7,820; Mrs. Farrell, second, an embroidered towel, with score of 7,200. First gentlemen's, was taken by Albert Fortier, a smoking stand, his score being 8,120, and second went to J. Roessler, a pipe, his score being 7,640. Consolation prizes went to Mrs. Arenberg, a bar of soap, and to F. Brayman, a package of cigarettes. In whist, Mrs. Day took first prize, a tray, her score being 52. Second went to Mrs. Prodell, a bon-bon dish, with score of 40. Gentlemen's first prize went to Charles Rodell, two pair of socks, his score being 35. Thomas Fields took second, a necktie, with score of 33. Consolations went to Mrs. McKelvey, a bar of soap, and Joe Tomanio, a package of cigarettes.

Irene Burns took tickets at the door and scored on whist. Ethel Hoelck was scorer on pinochle.

WANT MORE PROTECTION FOR FORESTS FROM FIRE

At a meeting of the directors of the Connecticut Forestry association, held recently in Hartford, a thorough canvass was taken of the forest fire situation in Connecticut, and it was voted to request the in-coming legislature to change the forest fire laws so as to make them more efficient and to increase the appropriations so that necessary fire-fighting equipment can be obtained and an up-to-date system of fire watch towers be installed.

A. F. Hawes, the state forester, was present at the meeting by invitation of the directors. Mr. Hawes told them that the state's fire control system at the present time depended to a large extent upon the good graces of the weather man. For instance, this fall there were almost no fires because it has rained so much. Last spring they were numerous and destructive because it rained hardly at all.

Mr. Hawes stated that to properly protect Connecticut forests from fire ten more watch towers on high hills and four more high-power gasoline pumps are needed. The days of fighting forest fires with a piece of wet brush are as extinct as bucket brigades to fight city fires. Present state appropriations for forest fire protection are not sufficient to keep more than one gasoline fire fighting outfit in the state; as a result over 22,000 acres of woods were unnecessarily burned over last spring.

BOGUE CO. EMPLOYES MET AT LORD'S POINT

The monthly meeting of the Irving E. Bogue company was held on a recent evening at H. H. Benjamin's cottage, "Meander-In" at Lord's Point.

All of the employes of the company left Norwich at 6.15 arriving at the Point at 7 o'clock. A short business meeting was held after which a supper was served, consisting of one of "Pop" James' famous clam chowders and coffee and cigars were furnished by the company. The committee for this meeting consisted of Richard Bundy, Gilbert Bunnell with H. H. Benjamin as chairman. As a guest and one of the speakers of the evening, Mr. Alexander, of the Stewart Warner Products company was present and gave a very interesting talk on the products of his company.

As an added feature three reels of moving pictures produced by the Ford motor company were shown, the idea of which is educational as well as enjoyable.

The meeting broke up at a late hour everybody agreeing that they work for the biggest automobile company in the United States. The idea of these meetings is to create a feeling of good fellowship between the employes as well as between the employe and the employer.

Will Attend Poultry Conference

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 4—Three members of the poultry department at Connecticut Agricultural college will attend the third annual New England Poultry conference at Boston tomorrow, when rations that will be recommended to all New England poultrymen will be formulated. Those from the State college include Prof. William F. Kirkpatrick, head of the poultry department; Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist in the extension service; and Carl O. Dossin, assistant poultry specialist in the extension service.

SAYS PERUVIAN SUB-MARINE NEVER WAS IN ANY DANGER

The following has been sent out from Groton:

Upon my return to New London, Oct. 29, I was surprised to learn of the alarming press reports concerning the breakdown of Peruvian submarine R-3 and because of the many cablegrams I have received from foreign countries about our experience. I would be very grateful if you would publish this letter in order that the true conditions might become known.

Peruvian Submarines R-1 and R-3 left Newport, R. I., on Tuesday morning, Oct. 26. Early Wednesday morning, while about 200 miles from New London and about 120 miles off the Jersey coast, we experienced some lubricating oil trouble with the engines, which resulted in the failure of several bearings. We immediately proceeded to make the repairs, which were completed on Thursday, Oct. 28, and the boat was brought into New London harbor under her own power on Friday, Oct. 29.

As we required no immediate assistance, I ordered Peruvian Submarine R-1 to proceed to New London to report conditions to the builders. On the way in, the Submarine R-1 reported in a private message to the builders the conditions. This message was apparently picked up by several of the land stations, and by several merchant vessels. One merchant vessel, which apparently received only a part of this message, in her zeal to be of assistance sent out an unnecessary S. O. S. call.

At no time was our boat in danger, nor did we at any time ask for assistance. In fact, the only messages we sent while at sea were to inform the builders that we were proceeding to New London under our own power; to inform the Peruvian ambassador that no assistance was required, and to answer the many calls from the coast guard that their assistance was not necessary.

The engines installed in our boats are of approved type in which we have every confidence, Peruvian Submarine R-3 in her practice cruises has already been run approximately 1,000 miles and the seaworthiness of the boat has been fully demonstrated, and this experience has only tended to increase our confidence in the ability of the vessel

STATE TREE PLANTING COMMENDED FROM NEW YORK

A New York paper says editorially:

The Connecticut state highway department has decided to follow the example of Maryland and plant shade trees along the state roads. That Connecticut should do such a thing is a tribute which she pays not so much to Maryland's good sense as to her own past. The splendid elms that line so many of the streets in the Connecticut villages are proof enough that the New Englanders of the early republic had a feeling for beauty. Fortunately, this sentiment has not departed from their descendants.

From various towns in the state have come complaints and lamentations because the state highway department, in enlarging necessary main arteries, was destroying some of these famous elms. There are indications that in a number of instances this destruction was the result of arbitrary thoughtfulness rather than of any wanton desire to mar beautiful landmarks. In other cases the ruin was made inevitable by the necessity for more road space.

Replanting is, at best, a slow process. The tree requires a year or two to take root and many years to grow into such magnificent shade trees as are still to be found along so many of Connecticut's beautiful highways. But the state is wise in planning for the future. Her natural beauty is a great asset. Judicious planting now will be appreciated by generations to come.

THOMPSON AND STONINGTON INFECTED BY SATIN MOTHS

Secretary Jardine of the agriculture department at Washington has announced the inclusion of Connecticut effective Nov. 15, in the satin moth quarantine, which already includes Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. The Connecticut quarantine includes a territory of 88 miles and names Thompson and Stonington as infected towns. Because of the difficulty of determining whether poplars or willows are free from satin moth infestation, due to the habit of caterpillar hibernating in inconspicuous webs in the bark of trees, the movement of the plants from any infested area into other areas is prohibited.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD HAD BIG DISPLAY OF GARMENTS

The Needlework Guild held its annual meeting and annual exhibit of garments Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Sunday school room of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. About 800 garments, consisting of linens, clothing, shoes, etc., which will be distributed to organizations in Norwich were on display, the largest that the Guild has shown, as there has been an unusually ready response this year from the people who had garments to donate for the work of the guild.

The garments will be distributed to the almshouse, Salvation Army, Rock Nook home, Backus hospital, Sheltering Arms, United Workers, and county home.

Reports were made by the officers who hold over for the next year as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard; acting president, Miss Susan I. Gallup; vice president, Mrs. Frank L. Woodard; secretary, Mrs. Walter T. Camp; treasurer, Mrs. Charles H. Preston.

A vote of thanks was passed to Trinity Methodist church for the use of the Sunday school room for the meeting.

MADE ARGUMENTS IN TREE CUTTING SUIT

Arguments in the $700 damage suit of George O. and Harriet J. Malloy of Preston, against Russell Brand, also of Preston, were made Thursday, before Judge Charles B. Waller, in the court of common pleas in New London. Attorney George Curtis Morgan, giving the plaintiff's side and Attorney Chas. L. Stewart arguing for the defense. The case was tried Monday in this city.

It was alleged in the complaint that on Jan. 1, 1923, the defendant unlawfully entered upon the plaintiffs' property and cut down and carried away trees to the value of $300 and caused other damage while trespassing, such as tearing down fences which made the total claimed damage $700.

The defendant set up that he did not trespass and that the trees were on his own property.

NORWICH AUTOMOBILE IN COLLISION AT GROTON

A light delivery car, driven by Albert Welt of Groton, and a large sedan driven by H. M. Land of Norwich, were in collision Thursday morning at the triangle near the Bridge Plaza, at Groton. The Welt car sustained a broken left front wheel and broken front axle and the right rear tire was flattened. The Land car was proceeding from Norwich and the Welt car was going in the direction of the state highway bridge and was on the right hand side of the road at the time of the crash at the triangle. No arrests were made in connection with the collision as the operators agreed to settle the damages without court action.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS NOVEMBER MEETING

At the November meeting of the Catholic Women's club, held Thursday afternoon in the rooms of the Ladies of Columbus in the T. A. & B. building, there was a good attendance. During the business session, when the president, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke presided, very encouraging reports were made by the committees on the Christmas sale. Several new members were admitted.

For the social hour which followed, the table decorations were gold and white, the flowers being yellow chrysanthemums. Sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served by Mrs. William J. Farrell, Mrs. Annie Cunningham, Mrs. James T. Woods and Mrs. John Kennedy. Later there were four tables of cards, two of whist and two of bridge. The prizes, which were pretty candlestick holders, were won by Mrs. John Brassill at bridge and Mrs. James J. Casey, of Spaulding street, at whist. During the social period Mrs. Bernard M. Coyle entertained with several songs and a number of piano selections.

RHEUMATISM

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills thousands years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed for. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless — quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from Lee & Osgood Co., or any druggist today. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back.

TRYING FIVE APPEALS FROM ASSESSMENTS FOR SEWER

Five cases against the city of New London on appeals from assessment of damages for the proposed laying of sewers in Pequot avenue between School street and Gardner avenue, which were assigned for trial here Thursday in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown, are to be tried as one case. A stipulation to that effect was filed in court Thursday morning by counsel for both sides and it was also agreed that any appeal from the decision of the court shall be argued before the supreme court as one case.

Trial of the cases occupied all the court day. They are all appeals from the New London board of compensation and are brought by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Belcher, Henry R. Griswold, Jacob Jacobson, Joseph N. LaPointe, and J. Harry Meadnis, all New London property owners.

Attorney Nathan Belcher, one of the plaintiffs, appeared for the plaintiffs while Director of Law Thomas E. Troland represented the city.

The appellants allege that the board of compensation, unlawfully, unequitably, without regard for the depth, grade, value of the various lots of land, divided the whole cost of the sewer without considering all of the circumstances tending to enhance or diminish the benefits to particular lots of land and that the cost of $4.58 a front foot, assessed on all property with the exception of corner properties was excessive. They allege that an ordinance was adopted by the city council to lay the sewers in Pequot avenue between School street and Gardner avenue at an estimated cost of $36,781.47, the estimated number of feet of sewer pipe being 3,066.11.

The first witness, a general witness, called to the stand was City Engineer George E. Watters, who testified that he was the secretary of the board of compensation and he believed the assessment to be reasonable and equitable.

Loren E. Daboll, a civil engineer and surveyor, a plaintiff witness, said that the property owners could not be equally benefited by the sewer, especially those having land on the river side of Pequot avenue. He said that in some cases the owners could not build on their land unless it was filled in at a great expense.

Among the witnesses in court were City Manager William A. Holt, Assessor Frederic C. Burrows and Building Inspector William Gunn, who, with Mr. Waters, comprise the board of compensation.

It is the impression in a number of quarters in the men's shirt trade that dark ground shirts will lead for spring. Collar attached models, with long pointed collars, are again expected to be outstanding in the demand.

DRASTIC MEASURES TO SUPPRESS ANTI-FASCISM

Death Penalty For Every Attempt to Injure or Molest the Premier of Italy—Thirty Years' Imprisonment For Direct or Indirect Opposition to Fascism—To Create a System of Political Police to Watch Every Movement of Every Anti-Fascist at Home and Abroad—Measures Were approved by the Italian Cabinet Sitting Under the Presidency of Mussolini.

ROME, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Militant fascism, stung by last Sunday's attempt against the life of Premier Mussolini, today struck at its foes in a series of drastic repressive measures which were approved by the cabinet sitting under the presidency of the duce himself.

All the measures after approval by the grand fascist council, will go to the chamber of deputies at a session next Tuesday, especially convoked by the premier.

The decrees approved by the cabinet provide the penalty of death for every attempt to injure or molest the premier, or to strike against the fascist regime; provide heavy penalties, as much as 30 years imprisonment, for direct and indirect opposition; create an elaborate system of political police to watch every movement of every anti-fascist at home and abroad and put the opposition press out of existence.

Not since the autumn of 1926, when fascism had apparently won a crushing victory over its foes, have the fascist leaders reopened hostility against the enemies of their regime with so much vigor.

The decrees are the most drastic and comprehensive for the purpose of the extirpation of the opposition which has been approved since the advent of the fascist party to power.

Intended to still every voice raised against fascism, to check every hand threatening to strike against it and its leader and to watch ceaselessly the activities of every suspected enemy at home and abroad, the decrees were approved in a historic four hour session of the cabinet.

Only one of the demands made by the party for the punishment of its foes was not met. That was the establishment of a retroactive death penalty for those responsible for previous attempts against the life of Mussolini. This measure, it is understood was not approved because of the insistence of Minister of Justice Rocco that such an action would be at variance with all the legal traditions of Italy.

With the adoption of the decrees, the opposition press will pass out of existence for the licenses of all anti-fascist periodicals are indefinitely suspended. Henceforth it will be enough to voice an antagonistic opinion by word or by writing to be considered an enemy of the regime, open to punishment by imprisonment.

Not only Italy but foreign nations will be watched by the new political police while suspected persons will be compelled to remain within deadlines, like former convicts or known criminals. Even foreigners suspected of conniving in plots against the government will be watched, while those known to be injuring fascism will be liable to trial in Italy.

All passports allowing Italians to leave the country are annulled with the provision that anyone seeking to leave clandestinely will be liable to be shot by the frontier authorities.

All non-fascist clubs, associations and organizations are abolished, while the law permitting the government to dismiss anti-fascist personnel from the civil service ranks is extended another four years.

One indication of the fascist determination to stop nowhere in their efforts to end the menace against the regime is the provision turning over all cases of violations of the decrees to special military courts, composed of fascist militia officers and governed by war-time military law.

This afternoon's decrees are understood to be merely the first offensive against the opposition and even more drastic measures are expected to result from further meetings of the cabinet and the grand council.

The decrees as aproved today will become effective on their publication in the official gazette and will hold over a period of five years.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 5—(AP)—After having been occupied for eight years, four years by the American forces the town of Enger on the R[illegible] has been evacuated by the F[illegible] troops.

PARIS, Nov. 5—(AP)—Senator Jos[illegible] Caillaux and three other senators today joined the movement in France in behalf of Nicolo Sacco and Barthol[illegible]meo Vanzetti convicted of murder in Massachusetts.

PARIS, Nov. 5—(AP)—Mrs. Neil Bushe Bostwick, an American writer, aged 37, committed suicide by shooting early in her room in a small hotel on the left bank of the Seine. The body was found seated in front of a mirror.

LONDON, Nov. 5—(AP)—Sir Thomas Beecham, well known conductor and impresario, thinks that the musical future of England is so black that the only thing left for musicians to do is to get out. He thinks this so strongly that he told newspapermen today that he intended to go to the United States and take up permanent residence there? He has been invited, he says to Philadelphia.

AFTERMATH OF FIGHT OF STUDENTS OF M. I. T.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Investigations over the trail blazed by celebrating students of Massachusetts Institute of Technology last night in Cambridge and Boston disclosed today that the amount of property damage was less than first estimated. One student, I. S. Thorsen, of Ellsworth, Me., was still in a serious condition at a hospital with an injured spine and other hurts.

Four students pleaded not guilty today in Roxbury court to wanton destruction of property of the Ten Ballroom to the extent of $3,300 and to inciting a riot. They were released in $500 bail each for a hearing on Nov. 12. They were Arnold A. Smith of Mazog, Que.; Prescott D. Crout of Milwaukee, Wis.; Sydney C. Hardwick, Jr., of Hingham and Charles E. Lyons of Somerville.

Another student, Sears L. Hallett of Brookline appealed a sentence of five days imposed by the Cambridge court for disturbing the peace and was released in $300 bail.

Several automobile owners gave notice today they intended to claim damages to their cars sustained when the mob of students engulfed them and the Boston elevated railway estimated the cost of broken windows and lights at about $48 in a subway train which the celebrators appropriated.

UTILITIES COMMISSION DISCUSSED WATER METERS

HARTFORD, Nov. 5.— (AP) —The question as to whether more than one water meter should be required in a house inhabited by several families was discussed before the public utilities commission in a hearing today on the petition of the Guilford-Chester Water company for modification of a previous ruling.

At the present time certain four and five family houses in Chester, Essex and Saybrook have only one meter in a house but the minimum meter service fee is charged each family, the evidence showed. Several persons appeared to ask that only one fee be charged for each meter, claiming that it was not fair to make each family pay the full amount inasmuch as not a great deal of water is used.

SEEKS GREATER CONTROL OVER MEDICINAL WHISKEY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Legislation to permit the government to assume greater control over the supply of medicinal liquor will be sought by Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, at the next session of congress.

This probably will constitute the only new bill to be proposed by the dry chief at this session, although he will go before congress again to urge the passage of the reorganization measure and the bill to strengthen the Volstead act.

General Andrews has consistently urged that the government take over all stocks of bonded whiskey, but President Coolidge has turned down this proposal.

NUMBER PERSONS KILLED BY QUAKE IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 5—(AP)—For nearly a minute early today, Managua and most of Nicaragua trembled in the worst earthquake felt in the country for 28 years. A number of persons were killed and many injuries, while the property damage was estimated at $4,000,000.

At Leon, about 50 miles northwest of Managua, about eighty per cent of the houses were damaged and many of them were destroyed. The towers of the old cathedral fell to the ground and the walls were badly cracked.

In Managua about fifty per cent. of the houses show damage. At the first signs of the quake, the people rushed to the streets, remaining there for several hours fearing further shocks.

TESTIMONY BY ALLEGED PHENIX BANK ROBBER

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., Nov. 5—(AP)—John Gilbert, alias "Whitye" Miller of Providence, accused of complicity in the $36,000 hold-up of the Phenix, R. I., Trust company April 3 last, testified in his own defense in the Kent county superior court here today that on the day of the robbery he was living in New York with his brother.

He denied that he was in Boston on March 31 to buy handcuffs with which the employes and one customer of the looted bank were secured while the gang of gunmen were taking the currency. Yesterday a Boston policeman said the wife of a pawnbroker swore that Miller was the man who purchased the manacles on the date in question.

SUIT AGAINST PRESENT MANAGEMENT OF GOODYEAR

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 5—(AP)—Argument in the suit of Frank C. Tomlinson, Cleveland stockholder attacking the present management of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, was concluded in common pleas court here today.

Attorney for Tomlinson scored in the first legal skirmish when the motion to dismiss his petition to re-open the aLura T. Weiss suits, attacking Goodyear's reorganization plans of 1926, and settled in 1923, was refused.

This opened the way for admission of evidence to support the motion to have the journal entry in the Weiss suits corrected, the technical basis for the new suit and considered the basis for a second suit which will attack the present control from a mass meeting of stockholders.

Inquiry of Political Campaign Charges

Result of Statement Made by Charles G. Morris About Department.

WESTERLY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Echoes of the recent political campaign were heard today when an investigation of alleged irregularities in the state highway department was started before Justice of the Peace Henry M. Bradley, and Grand Jurors Jennie A. Wilcox and Sherwood M. Fibble.

The charges leading to the investigation were made by Charles G. Morris, democratic nominee for governor, at a political rally in Meriden shortly before the close of the campaign. They were based on an affidavit said to have been signed by H. D. Tyler, of Deep River, a former employe of the state highway department.

It was alleged that state highway employes and trucks were used to construct a privately owned sea wall at the cottage of Eugene A. Post, a highway department foreman, here.

Six employes of the state highway department, Joseph Blenuie, Joseph Forelli, Joseph Mass, Edward Buoy, B. Olsen and Edward Olson, were placed on the stand today and all testified that they had worked on the sea wall in Westbrook on the state's time. They said that they had been ordered to do so by Post and that Post had told them to alter their time books so that they would show that they had worked elsewhere for the state. Some of the workmen complained, witnesses testified, against working on the sea wall on the state's time. Post told them, it was said, that he would reimburse the state for the time they gave to the construction of the sea wall.

Tyler, also called as a witness, was the only one who could give dates. He testified that the work was started in May, 1925, and that work had been done on the sea wall off and on until this year.

Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald, called to the stand, told of the methods used in his department in keeping the time books of the employes.

The hearing adjourned until November 12 so that Commissioner MacDonald might discover, by a study of the books of his department, whether or not Post had reimbursed the state for the time the workmen gave in the construction of the privately owned sea wall. The department's books will be brought to the next hearing.

QUEEN MARIE BADE FAREWELL TO CANADA

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 15—(AP)—Bidding farewell to Canada at an official dinner here tonight, Queen Marie of Rumania planned to turn her steps homeward at the western end of her American tour. Tomorrow morning the queen will attend a ceremony at the Peace Arch at Blaine, Wash., on her way to Seattle, on her return trip across the continent.

Lieutenant-Governor Randolph Bruce and Minister of Mines William Sloan, representing the provincial premier, and Mayor Louis D. Taylor welcomed the Rumanian visitors to British Columbia. A civic luncheon followed by a reception at the Women's Canadian club comprised the program for the afternoon. The banquet tonight closed the day's activities.

Proximity to the Pacific ocean apparently has brought about an armistice in the warlike relations of Sam Hill, sponsor of the queen's tour, and Major Stanley Washburn, aide to her majesty, and Colonel John H. Carroll, official host of the party.

Major Washburn was still aboard the "Rumanian Special" today although Sam Hill yesterday was reported to have issued an ultimatum that either he or Washburn would have to leave the train.

Other members of the party have been silent or denied that there had been any disagreement in the royal party, but Washburn admitted he and Hill had clashed over arrangements of the tour.

UNMASKED ROBBERS GET REGISTERED MAIL

HIBBING, Minn., Nov. 5—(AP)—Two unmasked robbers forced a clerk, carry registered mail to the post office to get into an automobile here today and drive away with them. The mail was believed to contain thousands of dollars.

P. M. King, mail clerk kidnapped in an automobile here late today by bandits who stole valuable registered mail he was carrying, was released by the bandits on the outskirts of Minneapolis tonight.

AN AMERICAN CHRISTIAN FUND FOR JEWISH RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—The churches throughout the country are being asked by the American Christian fund for Jewish relief to observe November 14, the Sunday after Armistice day, as "Good Samaritan day" and to present the cause of the 5,000,000 starving Jews of eastern and central Europe.

Hunches.

In the Ozarks a man named Adam Fowler buys by hunches. He'll point to a sack of flour among several varieties, "I've a hunch that's what I want." He'll wrinkle his nose over several brands of tobacco, pocket a can, "I've a hunch this'll do." He lets his hunches dress him, feed him, doctor him and shave him. If a hunch proves wrong he'll start back to town, "Guess I've another hunch coming about that razor I bought," and buys another. His house is full of hunch mistakes.

Hunch buys are rare in these days of advertisements. You don't buy by intuition but by judgment and fact. You are as sure a product is what you want when you buy it as if you took it home, used it, used other brands with it, then determined your choice. Advertisements tell you frankly all that a product is and does. It had to be tried rigidly before it could climb into the advertising class. Hunch buys are hazard buys. A buy with advertising knowledge is safe.

Montana to Ignore Prohibition Law

State Officers Have Been Instructed to Make No More Raids.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Montana's state prohibition law enforcement officers, halted in their activities by the majority given the measure providing for repeal of the state liquor law, in Tuesday's election, have been instructed to make no more raids and report no more arrests, Attorney General L. A. Foot declared repeal of the state liquor law makes conviction impossible. When cases are called in the December term of the district court, the dry squad will devote its attention to cleaning up old cases.

"It is my belief," he said, "that the repeal makes possible sale of liquor to minors." The law refers to such a transaction as "unlawful" sale, but with repeal there is no penalty attached."

BELIEVES PROHIBITION WILL DESTROY REP. PARTY

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(AP)—Republicans will follow the whigs into political oblivion unless they "take the right-eous side of the great moral and political issue of prohibition," Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university declared tonight in a statement.

The public has approved of what has been done in the way of tax reduction and government economy, he said, but it now wishes to move on to the solution of other problems.

"If the republican party does not rise to the emergency," he added, "and take the righteous side of the great moral and political issue of prohibition, it will go down just as the whig party went down two generations ago because of its inability to face, with courage and determination, the question of slavery."

CHARGED WITH FRAUDULENT CONVERSION OF $250,000 STOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5—(AP)—Charles E. Scutte, of Bridgeport, Conn., was arrested here today charged with the fraudulent conversion of more than $250,000 in the sale of stock of an automobile body concern.

The principal complainants were D. E. Hoff, C. E. Buckwalter and Leedon Sharp, all of Lancaster, Pa., who alleged that they had invested $6,900 in the Schutte Body company upon false representations by the prisoner.

Chartered in Delaware in 1925, the Schutte Body company went into the hands of a receiver several months ago after 250,000 shares of the stock were alleged to have been sold.

Schutte was lured from Bridgeport to a prominent Philadelphia club on the pretense that he was to be the honor guest of a group of financiers at a dinner. He was arrested when he entered the lobby of the club and locked up in a police station.

The three men who brought the charges alleged that Schutte had wrecked the Schutte Body company forming the Schutte Blue Body company and consolidating with another automobile body manufacturing concern in Conecticut.

Schutte denied there was any fraud in connection with the failure of his company, the headquarters of which were in Lancaster. He placed the blame for the receivership on others, who, he asserted, had handled all the transactions in the formation of the new company and the consolidation.

MAN WITH NINE WIVES DIES IN CLINTON PRISON

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(AP)—Nine wives were bereaved today when their collective husband, John Lawrence Leclaire, died in Clinton prison, Dannemora, where he was serving a sentence of five years for bigamy and two for perjury.

His recorded wives were Frances, of Ogdensburg, N. Y.; Rena, of Portchester; Anna, of New York; Dorban of Syracuse; Velma, of Fitchburg, Mass.; Maude, of Lake George, N. Y.; Maude, of Gloucester; Bertha, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Florda, of Cohoes, N. Y.

Bertha Haze of Poughkeepsie caused Leclaire's arrest.

MOTORIST AND CHAUFFEUR HELD UNDER $15,000 BOND EACH

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Nov. 5—(AP)—Released under bonds of $15,000 each, Isaiah Leebove, a lawyer of 45 West 57th street, New York city and his colored chauffeur, Rufus Wood, will be given a hearing in the Newington town court on Nov. 10 on a charge of reckless driving, manslaughter and evasion of responsibility as the result of the death last night of Mrs. Arthur L. Young of Exeter, N. H., on the turnpike in Newington.

Mrs. Young, who was on her way to Florida with her husband, crossed the road near the Circle, a dance and refreshment pavilion, when an automobile traveling toward Meriden struck and killed her instantly. Her neck and both legs were broken.

COOLIDGE SEES HOPE OF REDUCTION OF TAXATION

Conclusion Reached as a Result of Studies He Has Made the Past Few Days—Belief is Based on the Indication That the Surplus For This Year Will Amount to at Least $250,000,000—Chief Executive Approves a Refund of 10 or 12 Per Cent on Individual and Corporation Taxes Paid This Year on Last Year's Income.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Immediate tax reduction in the form of a refund of 10 to 12 per cent. on individual and corporation taxes paid this year on last year's incomes was approved today by President Coolidge.

It was said at the white house that studies made by the president in the past few days indicated the surplus for this year would amount to at least $250,000,000, and on the basis Mr. Coolidge believed the refund warranted.

While the president will make such a recommendation to the present congress at its short session opening in December, he will not ask for a permanent tax cut in the form of a new revenue law at this time.

It is the plan of the executive that refunds should be given on this year's taxes, the last installment of which is due December 15, but that the present rates should apply on next year's taxes and until congress is able to determine a permanent reduction is possible.

The white house pronouncement occasioned some surprise at the treasury, where it has been repeatedly asserted that it was too early to talk tax reduction. It was stated there, however, that the programme of the president was sought from the treasury viewpoint, in that it did not call for permanent reduction.

It was made clear that the president thought the refund should apply only on the individual and corporation income taxes and not on the special miscellaneous levies, including the taxes on automobiles and admissions.

A refund of 10 or 12 per cent. would mean the return of between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 to the tax payers. This will almost equal the estimated surplus.

Possibility of the tax refund resulted, it was said at the white house, from excessive receipts during the current year over those it was estimated would be collected. It was estimated in June that the surplus for this fiscal year, ending next June 30, would amount to only $185,000,000.

Since the opening of this fiscal year, however, there have been many signs pointing to a much larger surplus than was estimated. [illegible] Senator [illegible] of North Carolina, spokesman for senate democrats on tax legislation, demanded an immediate tax cut of $500,000,000.

Corporation taxes have accounted mainly for the increase in tax receipts over estimates, although individual returns also have been higher than was counted on. Congress ordered heavy cut in the individual income taxes last spring, but despite this, the receipts were greater than a year ago when the higher rates prevailed. Although individual income rates were reduced by congress, it increased corporation levies from 12 1-2 to 13 1-2 per cent. to offset the repeal of the capital stock tax.

In the first four months of this fiscal year, income tax receipts totaled $580,211,540, compared with $469,617,099 received in that period a year ago. Miscellaneous taxes which would not share in the proposed refund, however, have amounted to only $230,166,000 for the first four months this year. Compared with $343,930,000 collected a year ago.

The president believes it too early to plan permanent reduction until the first year's working of the new revenue law can be studied. Any reduction in the present prosperity, he believes, might cause a considerable slump in tax receipts, and therefore he prefers to wait until it is fully determined that the present law will assure a safe margin for permanent reduction of the taxes.

PRESIDENT REGARDS HOUSE ELECTION AS REAL TEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Coolidge looks upon the elections to the house of representatives as the real test of national sentiment furnished in the nation-wide balloting last Tuesday.

Gratification that the republicans had carried the house by a substantial majority was expressed by the president today to callers in the first comment he has made on the elections. With only 36 seats at stake in senate contests, he reasoned that but one third of the states were affected in the elections to that chamber and therefore, they could not be regarded as constituting a genuine test of national sentiment.

COOLIDGE WOULD HAVE BUTLER REMAIN CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Coolidge sees even less reason for William M. Butler to retire as chairman of the republican national committee, now that he has been defeated for reelection to the senate, than before the elections.

While it was made clear today at the white house that Mr. Coolidge had not discussed the matter with Mr. Butler, it was pointe dout that he would now have more time to devote to the chairmanship than when he was occupied with his duties as a senator.

Insofar as the elections are concerned, the president believes the true test of national sentiment, to the degree that it could be furnished in an off-year election, was provided by the election of the house of representatives, while reached into every district in every state, and not by the senate elections, in which only one third of the country was represented in the voting.

REPORTS OF EARNINGS OF CLASS ONE RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—Class one railroads had as net railway operating income of $145,134,550 in September, which was at the annual rate of return of 5.74 per cent on the basis of their property investment accounts. These figures, made public today by the bureau of railway economics, maintained here by the railroads, compared with a net income of $134,351,054 in September, 1925, or 5.40 per cent.

The earnings compilation was based on reports filed by the railroads with the bureau, the statistics also showing gross operating revenues for September to have been $588,659,675 as against $564,385,841 in the same month last year. Operating expenses total $397,062,695 compared with $387,313,850. The gross revenues increased 4.3 per cent and the expenses 2.5.

The roads paid $57,670,575 in taxes, an increase of 9.1 per cent bringing the total tax bill for the first nine months of 1926 to $291,841,648, an increase of nearly 10 per cent.

Twelve class one roads operated at a loss in September, of which six were in the eastern district, one in the southern and five in the western.

September net railway operating income in the eastern district total $67,438,057 as against $68,877,529; western $62,603,287 as against $58,111,058; southern, $15,093,193 against $17,362,467.

O'CONNELL GAINING IN RHODE ISLAND ELECTION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 5—(AP)—Congressman Jeremiah E. O'Connell, democrat, apparently defeated in Tuesday's election by Louis Monast, republican, of Pawtucket, for the third Rhode Island district seat, has made a net gain of 69 votes in the official count of eight of the 82 voting precincts in the congressional district. The gain reduces Mr. Monast's plurality to 434. Congressman O'Connell gained 97 of his 69 votes in the five precincts counted by the state returning board this afternoon. The recount, given priority by the board at Mr. O'Connell's request, will be continued.

Alderman James E. Dunne, democrat, winner in the contest for the office of mayor of Providence by a plurality of 229 votes on the face of the returns, picked up votes in yesterday's and today's recounts by the board of canvassers and his lead over Alderman William Hughes, republican, stood this afternoon at 317.

NEW ORLEANS HOSTELRY ORDERED PADLOCKED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The old Absinthe house, headquarters of Jean Lafitte, pirate of the 18th century, and one of the historical spots of New Orleans, was ordered padlocked today.

The order was issued in federal court upon testimony that the proprietors had violated the Volstead act.

A portion of the building was constructed [illegible]. Another section was erected in [illegible]. The place has been identified with [illegible] of the most colorful meetings in the history of New Orleans.

CANADIAN RAILWAY MEN HOLDING SECRET SESSION

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two hundred delegates, representing 16,000 members of the railwaymen's union, employed by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific roads, held closed-door sessions today to determine the feeling of conductors and trainmen concerning a recent decision against an increase in wages.

Although no information was officially divulged, it was understood the feeling was against acceptance of the majority report of the board of conciliation which investigated the demands.

HOW BISHOP NICHOLSON VIEWS PROHIBITION ISSUE

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Prohibition has developed into the largest issue facing national perpetuity that has arisen since the days of slavery in the opinion of Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, international president of the Anti-Saloon league.

In making this statement here today he predicted that the wet and dry question would be the leading issue in the 1928 campaign for the presidency of the United States. The attempt at Tuesday's election to weaken existing dry laws in seven states, Bishop Nicholson said, was the start to bring the question to a place where it would be paramount in the national election two years hence.

The vote on the referenda in the seven states was seen as a dry victory by Bishop Nicholson. "The heart of the country is for prohibition," he said, "and we shall continue our fight until the wet forces are forced to admit their defeat. The results in these referenda showed conclusively that dry sentiment is on the increase."

The result of the congressional elections also was seen as a dry victory by the bishop and the large dry majority, he declared to be "a perfectly amazing tribute to the wishes of the American people, who have proved their loyalty to prohibition."

FRANCE CONCERNED OVER THE CATALAN CONSPIRACY

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Official quarters in France and the newspapers are greatly concerned over the atalan conspiracy. Evidence gathered by the French police shows that while it was organized ostensibly to secure autonomy for Catalonia, it presents itself to the French as a move by Premier Mussolini to strengthen his hold in Mediterranean affairs by creating divisions between the Spanish and French. Thus, it is commented by the newspapers that the French police spoiled both the Catalan plot and the Italian scheme at the same time.

In official quarters it is held that the Italians who threw in their lot with the Catalans, really were acting in complete understanding with the Italian police and were working for their own ends, rather than for the "liberation of Catalonia."

FRENCH GOV'T TO CHECK TOO RAPID RISE OF FRANC

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Operations by the French government against its own money, to check a too rapid rise of the franc, was announced by Premier Poincare today before the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies. He told the committeemen that he was obliged to take this action in order to prevent sky-rocketing, which involved great danger to France's economic position.

Stabilization, the premier declared, remained the policy of the government, but it was also an essential part of that policy that he should disclose nothing of the plans, except to say that the government would feel its way carefully in an endeavor to avoid the pitfalls always in the path which led to the stabilization of a country's money.

SIGHTED DEER THREE MILES OFF CAPE COD

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Captain Peter Tobin of the fishing schooner Mary put into the fish pier here with a new deep sea story. Yesterday, he said, as the ship was making its way home from the fishing ground off Nantucket, a deer was sighted three miles off Highland Light, Cape Cod, and headed straight off shore. Not being equipped to handle this sort of catch, Captain Tobin did not attempt to interfere with the distance swimmer. He advanced the theory that fear of hunters had driven the deer to the water.

FIVE WITNESSES ON STAND IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Five witnesses testified today in the trial of Mrs. Frances tevens Hill and her two brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, charged with the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills. Two gave testimony of events preceding the slaying of the New Brunswick choir singer and the rector of her church, Rev. Edward W. Hall, while the other three told of investigations conducted after the double slaying.

James Mills, husband of the slain woman, was on the stand for three hours, most of the time being devoted to cross-examination. He was collected throughout his testimony and told in calm tones of seeing his wife for the last time when she left home in the early evening of Sept. 14, 1922.

Mrs. Mary Demarest, who will return to the stand tomorrow, testified this afternoon that she saw Henry Stevens, a defendant, in New Brunswick the day after the slaying. Mrs. Demarest's testimony was believed to be for the purpose of attacking an alibi, anticipated in the defense of Henry Stevens. Other witnesses served to identify photographs and exhibits.

Disregarding court custom decreeing Saturday holidays, the trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

HEARING ON RAILROAD WAGE ARBITRATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The net income of eastern railroads in 1926 would have been wiped out by a wage increase of 12.1 per cent, John J. Eiskin, comptroller of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad today told the board of arbitration hearing the request of conductors and trainmen for a 20 per cent increase in wages.

"Manifestly with a recorded return to stockholders in the prosperous year of 1925 less than that paid to bondholders, carriers face a serious situation," he said.

The revenue from passenger traffic, he asserted, declined from 2.871 cents per mile in 1921 to 2.739 cents per mile in 1925. He also pointed out that reductions in freight rates since 1921, if applied to the freight traffic moved in 1926, would equal $744,117,679. Taxes paid by eastern railroads, he said, have increased 59.7 per cent since 1921 and 123.1 per cent since 1916.

SECY. ANDREWS COMES TO DEFENSE OF COAST GUARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary Andrews, chief of the dry forces, is incensed over stories that the coast guard has "sold out" to the bootleggers. He issued a statement today declaring that this division of the service had almost completely wiped out rum row.

"Bootleggers who need advertising for their home-made foreign liquor must start these stories," General Andrews asserted. "They have to to make it appear that liquor is getting in to shore and presumably from abroad. All this so-called rum row liquor is home made. We haven't sighted a rum ship off the coast anywhere recently."

PRINCESS ASTRID IN TEARS AS SHE LEAVES NATIVE LAND

MALMOE, Sweden, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Almost alone on the deck of the Swedish cruiser Fylgia, Princess Astrid vainly tried to hide the tears that came as the warship steamed out of the harbor here today to take her to Belgium where she will join her husband, Crown Prince Leopold. The tears were brought on seemingly by realization that she was leaving her native land for an adopted one, but later there also were tears of joy over the warmth of the farewells of a great crowd that had gathered to see her depart.

Loking very chic in a gray tailor-made suit and holding her wedding bouquet, Astrid waved goodbye, as she vainly tried to hide the tears. The band played the Belgian national anthem, "La Brabanconne."

When the Fylgia was well outside the harbor, there was a roar of guns in salute, the last official "word" on this part of the royal wedding.

Princess Astrid, niece of King Gustav of Sweden, and Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium were united in marriage by civil ceremony at Stockholm yesterday. They now are on their way to Belgium by separate routes, and at Brussels next Wednesday the religious ceremony will be performed.

AUTOPSY ON BODY OF A MAN KILLED WHILE HUNTING

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Nov. 5.—(AP)—An autopsy performed today on the body of Alfred Bishop of Felchville failed to dispel the mystery of the young man's death during a hunting trip Wednesday. No external marks of violence were disclosed by the autopsy.

State authorities continued their investigation in an effort to explain the signs of conflict at the spot where the body was found early yesterday. Morris Gallagher of Felchville, who had been Bishop's hunting companion on Wednesday, discovered the body after an all night search near an abandoned road in the woods a mile and a half from Attorney General John G. Sargent's summer camp in Reading. The snow had been trampled over a considerable area and there was every evidence of a terrific struggle.

TWO JEWISH BUTCHERS IN PROVIDENCE THREATENED

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Isaac Levine, formerly of Boston, and Max Goodman, formerly of Salem, Mass., butchers, with places of business on Willard avenue, this city, in the heart of the Jewish section, have both been warned, one by letter and the other by telephone to "close up their places of business at once, and clear out of the section or they will be carried away in a white shroud." Levine received the death notice by letter postmarked Providence, 10 p. m., Nov. 4, written in the Jewish language.

Goodman was warned by telephone. Both men have been in business on Willard avenue for the past two weeks. The local police are conducting an investigation, while both men disregard the threat and declare they will remain in business at the same locations.

MAY HAVE SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT FOR LIQUOR CASES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 5—Slow progress is apparent in the disposition of cases on the docket of the Windham county superior court despite the appeal of Judge Alfred C. Baldwin at the opening of the term asking the attorneys to speed their cases along. Another delay has been occasioned by the calling of Judge Baldwin to other counties twice during the present term to preside over court. Judge Baldwin presided over court in Litchfield county Thursday and Friday.

A meeting of the bar was held here Friday for attorneys to present court cases for assignment next week. The coming week had practically been assigned for jury cases by Judge Baldwin at the beginning of the term. None of the court cases was claimed at Tuesday's session and only three cases were claimed for court next week, Friday. Assistant Clerk of the Court Miss Marjorie Bradford assigned these for Tuesday, November 9, in the following order: Brunsdon vs. Brunsdon a divorce action; Clara Peck vs. Joseph F. Reoux and Fred L. Stevens vs. James Degnarchi. There will be no session of court until next Friday until some of the cases on the docket are not claimed next Tuesday. The case of Anna T. McCarthy vs. the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has been claimed as special for the jury on Tuesday, November 28, by the attorneys.

An endeavor is being made by the state's attorney, Howard C. Bradford to have a special criminal session either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week to try the sixteen cases of alleged liquor law violators who were arrested on bench warrants this past week. It is hoped to put the accused to plea and assign those who plead not guilty and elect to be tried by court or jury.

At the close of the assignments Friday the notice of Arthur Hector Pleau of Putnam signifying his intention to apply for admission to the bar had to be examined therefore was considered. Attorney William A. King was chosen chairman. It was voted to recognize the action of the petitioner in his intention to be examined for membership to the bar.

BROKE FIRE ALARM BOX IS ARRESTED AT DANIELSON

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 5—Furnished the registration number of a Ford truck which collided with and broke down the fire alarm Box No. 51 at the corner of Windham Road and Park street about noon Friday, the police sent out messages to points east and within one hour the truck was stopped in Danielson where the driver was held. Captain of Police Frank McLean made a trip to Danielson and returned with the driver and the owner of the truck. The operator proved to be Howard Roberson, 30, of Warehouse Point. He was placed under arrest for failure to have a driver's license. Riding with him was E. V. Schanch of Warehouse Point, East Windsor, who said that he was the owner of the truck. Schanch was charged with not having a registration, not having adequate brakes and failure to have the weight capacity of the truck marked on the side of the machine. Schanch is quite an elderly man. The party were on their way to Providence with a load of cabbages and other vegetables. They had apparently gotten on the wrong route in going through the city and it is believed that the accident occurred as they were turning around to take the Providence road. The standard supporting the box was leveled to the sidewalk. The front of the truck was somewhat damaged. A local young man witnessed the accident and taking the number of the Ford which was driven hurriedly down Main street after the collision. He notified Traffic Officer Grant Bombria. Roberson and Schanch will appear in police court Monday morning.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Nobelmer were held at the family home, 18 Valley street extension, Friday morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski officiated. Mrs. Edmund R. Pomelance presided at the organ. Mrs. Henry Mathieu rendered Nearer My God to Thee as the body was being borne into the church. At the offertory she sang Pie Jesu and He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye as a waiting hymn. There were many floral forms. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Bartlewski conducted a committal service. The bearers were, John Hoffman, Archie Hamel, Michael Landeck, and Conrad Zeigler. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The police believe that they have put an end to acts of vandalism committed at the stone and gravel pit at the corner of Dunham and Ives streets in the arrest of Arthur Robarge, a middle-aged man and resident of Ives street, near the pit. Robarge was charged with the theft of property belonging to the city of Willimantic in police court Friday morning. He admitted taking pieces of lumber from the stone crusher, saying that he had no intention of stealing. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $7 and costs, amounting to $12.15, which was paid. Various articles have been removed from the sand pit equipment for some time past. On one occasion tools and part of the stone crusher were taken. The police investigation failed at that time. A few nights ago sections of the woodwork used to cover the crusher during the winter were pried away and removed. The boards were later found on the premises of Robarge and he was subsequently arrested.

General Secretary Albert H. Smith of the Y. M. C. A. has completed arrangements for the visitation of the New London Y. M. C. A. members probably on Friday, November 12. Bowling, basketball and volleyball teams will represent the New London "Y" and will engage in matches with the local teams. The Whalo City gymnasium team will also give exhibitions on the parallel bars, rings and horses, besides featuring in several other specialties. The affair will be "stag."

"Monsieur Beaucaire" was read by Miss Mildred Bass Anderton of Boston, Mass., before an appreciative audience in the Windham High school auditorium Thursday night. Selections were rendered by Fern Bronson, pianist; John Ashton, violinist; and Evelyn Standish, banjo-mandolin. The trio are members of the Model school orchestra. A sextet, chosen from the High school orchestra appeared between the acts in excellent selections. The program was in charge of the ways and means committee of the Woman's club of which Mrs. Harvey H. Bronson is chairman.

Miss Doris Bentley was guest at a miscellaneous shower given at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Lydia E. Harris Thursday evening in honor of her approaching marriage to Clarence Finley of Rockville. Some fifty people were present, coming from Eagleville, Rockville and this city. Miss Bentley received beautiful gifts of china, silverware, linen, etc. Games and dancing were enjoyed.

Preliminary plans for the formation of an amateur basketball league in this city and the organization of the circuit were discussed under favorable conditions at the state armory on Pleasant street Friday evening.

The fire alarm system continued in its pranks Friday afternoon when the bell at the Bank street engine house sounded number 31. There is no such number listed on the system and the ringing continues a sort of mystery.

From Tree to Newspaper

To see how rapidly a tree could be transformed into a newspaper, three trees in the neighborhood of a German paper mill were cut down at 7:35 a. m. The trees were swiftly barked and pulped and a roll of paper was ready at 9:45 to be rushed to the nearest newspaper plant, where the presses began printing at once. By 10 o'clock exactly the newsboys were crying the paper in the street.

Read of Other Women Who Found Health

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 35 Central Ave., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

Two chargers in one— trickle and high rate

The new Balkite Charger with both high and low charging rates is two chargers in one. At the low rate it is a trickle charger and can be permanently connected to your "A" battery, in effect converting it into an automatic light-socket radio "A" power supply. At the high rate it is a heavy duty charger. It combines the advantages of both trickle and rapid charging.

Entirely noiseless, the new Balkite Charger can in most cases be used during reception. It is a permanent piece of equipment, having no bulbs and nothing to wear out or replace. It can be used with either 4 or 6-volt "A" batteries. Ask your dealer. Fansteel Products Company, Inc., North Chicago, Ill.

"BREAKFAST" is
BAKER'S BREAKFAST COCOA Means Something

The United States Food Standards define "Breakfast" cocoa as cocoa containing not less than 22% of cocoa fat. Many cheap cocoas (which contain no added substance but cocoa) contain not more than 14% or 15% of fat. Baker's Breakfast Cocoa contains not less than 26% of cocoa fat, almost one-fifth more than Government requirement. The phrase Baker's Breakfast Cocoa means a pure, delicious cocoa of high quality and guarantees a considerable amount of nourishment.

DANIELSON

BROOKLYN LIBRARY AND CHURCH RECEIVE BEQUESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 6.—Trinity church and the public library at Brooklyn both benefit through bequests from Miss Frances Palmer, who died a few months since. The will of Miss Palmer, a life long resident of Brooklyn, sets aside a trust fund of $4,000, the income from which is to be paid annually to the trustees of Trinity church. Miss Palmer also created a trust fund of $3,000, the income of which is to go to the library in Brooklyn.

Another bequest to Brooklyn library comes from Edward Davison, who died the past summer. This is a gift of $1,000. Mr. Davison, a resident of Brooklyn in his youth, died the past summer. As a resident of New Britain he had become one of the wealthy and prominent citizens of that city. For years it was his custom to return to Brooklyn for periods of recreation and rest, devoting a considerable part of these visits to hunting.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hattie Congdon in Attawaugan early Friday morning the death of Mrs. Marie Aportuno LeClair occurred. She was 71 years of age and a native of Canada. Mrs. LeClair was the widow of John LeClair. The family has been residents in Attawaugan for approximately 40 years. Arthur Stone and Julius Stone of this town are brothers of Mrs. LeClair. Her daughters in addition to Mrs. LeClair are Mrs. Peter Massey and Mrs. Adolpy Thibeault.

There are approximately 3,650 persons in the town of Killingly who are liable to pay a personal tax, Collector A. A. Dean said Friday afternoon. This tax is due this year on Nov. 15, and a month from that date will be allowed for paying, as is the custom with the collection of town taxes. However, Mr. Dean already has received some payments from persons who wish to have the matter off their minds. In the past, a date, usually in the winter, was set for paying personal taxes. In some bygone years payment of the taxes dragged throughout an entire year and this delay resulted in the loss of many such assessments to the town. Things were different now. A specified time for payment has been set and at the end of the period action will be taken to curry delinquents.

There will be few Danielson people out of town to attend football games today, so the listeners to radio returns will be greater than ever. Each year brings increasing difficulty in getting tickets for the big eastern contests. This year some of the most attractive games are being played in cities more difficult than others for fans to reach. This means that Danielson followers of the fall sport are more or less out of luck this season.

Incident to the Civic federation tag day this today a description of a typical day with the district nurse is of interest. The day began with a visit to an elderly woman ill with hypostatic pneumonia. She was made more comfortable with a change of bedding and gown. The next visit was to an old man with a broken leg which had been placed in a paster cast. A bath, a massage and change of clothing added to his comfort.

Next, an elderly woman, helpless with the ills attending old age, received attention.

The next call was to a child who had dropped a heavy flatiron on his foot.

Fruit and dainties were carried to a helpless sick old man.

The next request was to find a nurse for a woman who had a broken pelvic bone, and to give care to this patient before the nurse was assigned to the case.

Numerous telephone calls were answered as to what to do in different emergencies.

This represents one of the less busy days of the district nurse.

That necessary repairs may be made, the electric light company will on Sunday, Nov. 7, from 12:30 to 4:30 p. m., shut off the power on the Danielson power line in Central Village, Plainfield, Moosup, Oneco. From 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. the commercial power will be shut off in Danielson, Dayville, Goodyear, Attawaugan and Ballouville.—adv.

The Rees meetings will open Sunday morning in the Baptist church with Dr. Rees as preacher and Mrs. Rees in charge of the union choir. It is seldom that Dr. and Mrs. Rees have the opportunity of working in the smaller towns. It may be of interest to know that Dr. Rees refused a call to a much larger community in order to come to Danielson. They are not here in the interest of any particular church but to give the entire community a spiritual uplift. The hope is expressed that other nearby communities will join and participate in the benefit anticipated in Danielson. A communication from the Dudley Bible Institute, of Dudley, Mass., asking that a special night for them be reserved.

Wherever Dr. Rees has worked, people of every creed and no creed are hearty in his support. One pastor in Willimantic said recently: "After Dr. Rees has gone the local pastors will not need to apologize for anything he has said or done." He does not come to tear down any true religion but to bring all nearer to God and spiritual reality.

Snow flurries early Friday morning in the northern section of the town of Killingly flimed the ground with white—and then melted away.

Woodchoppers wanted to cut 300 cords. Charles H. Weldon, Brooklyn. Tel. Danielson 161-4.—adv.

Miss Annie Weaver of Dayville sustained a broken ankle in a fall.

Edward Mulligan, injured football player of Killingly high school, will be brought to his home in Elmville Sunday from St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester. His leg was broken in practice a few weeks ago.

Mrs. F. B. Wilbur had the members of the Help One Another class of the Baptist church at her home for a meeting Friday evening.

Modern house, all improvements, sun parlor, double garage, for sale on Riverview; price reasonable. George J. Zieneault. Tel. 543-2.—adv.

Miss Helen Gupnia entertained friends at a bridge party at her home on Academy street Thursday evening.

Miss Alice Litchfield, injured here a week ago when she tripped and fell while in town on business, is reported as resting comfortably at her home in Brooklyn.

Vaudeville added to the attractiveness of the program at the Orpheus theatre at Friday's shows.

A considerable delegation of students at Killingly high school was in Moosup Friday afternoon to see the Killingly-Plainfield high football game.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church will have a meeting at the parsonage next Wednesday afternoon.

A report from East Killingly says that oil continues to flow from some mysterious source into the well at the home of Mrs. Lydia Bartlett and that five gallons recently were taken out.

The trapping season is now open, a matter that interests more people than one would imagine and which produces several thousands dollars in revenue each season for the takers of fur-bearing animals.

A stock of apple jelly and orange marmalade made by members of the junior domestic science class at Killingly high school has been added to the cafeteria supplies at the school.

Damase Boulais was the speaker at this week's meeting of the Danielson Rotary club.

Lecturers at the Americanization institute to be held here this month will include Robert C. Deming of the state board of Americanization and Prof. David D. Vaughn of Boston university.

Members of the Eastern Star held a successful sale of fancy articles, food and candy at the home of Mrs. Ida Armington Friday afternoon.

Mrs. E. B. Wilbur will have the members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon.

A bowling team recently engaged in an American Legion auxiliary contest here will serve a supper to the winning team this evening in G. A. R. hall.

Danielson members of the Quinebaug Circuit Epworth league were at Moosup Friday evening to attend one of a series of meetings at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. James F. English of the Second Congregational church at Putnam was the speaker.

Members of the Sewing society of St. Alban's church met at the parish house Friday afternoon.

A suggestion was heard Friday for some concentrated, co-operative attraction to bring visitors to Danielson during the holiday shopping season. For two or three years, a decade back, this was accomplished by providing a great white way.

You can obtain your one-cent-sale shortages including rubbing alcohol, face powders, etc., today at the Rexall store. Moses the Druggist.—adv.

John Whalen of Boston, formerly a resident here, was a visitor in town on Friday.

Everett Winsor is employed by A. E. Hall of South Killingly.

Vernon Francis Boyle, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Boyle, fell on a pair of steps during the week end and suffered a broken leg.

A party from Plainfield attended a bean supper, given at the Baptist parsonage at North Sterling, Wednesday. An interesting entertainment was presented in the church, following the supper. Danielson, Sterling South Killingly and Plainfield were represented.

The Woman's club held a meeting in the club rooms at Plainfield Community house Thursday afternoon. A tasty lunch of doughnuts, cheese, cookies and sweet cider was served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Weston and Mrs. Benjamin Dawson.

The building committee is to meet today (Saturday) in the Congregational vestry to discuss booths to be built for the bazaar.

Today (Saturday) the Camp Fire Girls will meet with their guardian, Miss Rose Beaudry.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith were surprised Wednesday by 20 friends in honor of their 20th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were presented silver spoons. Mrs. Augusta Nolan played the wedding march. A delicious lunch of potato salad, sandwiches, pickles, cake, ice cream and coffee was provided.

Plainfield fire company, number one, responded to a still alarm at 12:45 Thursday noon for a brush fire in the rear of Carl Gallup's lumber yard. No serious damage resulted although ten acres were burned over.

Miss Carrie Mahoney of New London spent Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. James H. Adams of Plainfield street.

At a meeting of the bowlers held Tuesday evening the following teams were chosen:

Snappers: Capt. Lillian Bergeron, Lillian Deschamps, Mrs. L. Flynn, Marion Lee, Jeanette Noel; O Henry: Capt. Mrs. D. Gee, Mary Baldwin, Teresa Sullivan, Mrs. Brightman, Mrs. C. Heap; Everreadies: Katherine Kirby, Mrs. B. Hilton, Joan Kirby, Celia Israel, Pauline Peltier; Flappers: Celia Deschamps, Mary Burke, Mrs. M. Eastham, Mrs. I. Herbert. A match was held after the meeting. The O Henries defeated the Flappers and the Everreadies defeated the Snappers. The following high singles were rolled: Mrs. Gee 113, Marion Lee 111, Teresa Sullivan 109, Mary Baldwin 106, Celia Israel 101. Marion Lee is secretary of the organization.

The members of the First Baptist church will tender a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hodges at the church parlors on Tuesday evening, November 16.

On Wednesday evening the ladies of the Methodist church gave one of their famous chicken pie suppers and added a substantial amount to their treasury.

Mrs. Ida Marcy of Pomfret is spending the month of November with relatives at Willimantic.

A meeting was held at the Congregational church at West Woodstock and a Bungay Cemetery association was formed. Wayland P. Harris was elected chairman and John E. Carpenter of Putnam, treasurer and John Spaulding as secretary. It is the purpose of the committee to raise a fund of $2,000 the interest of which is to be spent to keep the cemetery in good order. North Woodstock and Woodstock Hill have recently raised funds for similar purposes.

PUBLIC CONCERT ON NEW ORGAN AT ST. MARY'S

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 5—An opportunity will be given the music lovers of Putnam and vicinity to hear the new $20,000 pipe organ at St. Mary's church next Tuesday evening when it will be played by Prof. R. H. Thompson of Three Rivers, Quebec. Prof. Thompson is known in Canada as well as in the United States as a master of the organ. He will be assisted in the recital by Miss Rhea Massicotte, a well known soprano of Hartford.

The organ is one of the largest and finest in the state. It was built by the Canadian Organ company of Hyacinth, P. Q., and its installation has just been completed ad is operated electrically and pneumatically. There are 28 speaking stops and with the exceptions of those connected with the pedals, each one is capable of three changes so that the instrument has nearly eighty stops. A five horse power motor is necessary to operate it. The organ loft was enlarged and altered to accommodate the new instrument. To the tireless energy and efforts of Rev. Charles F. Bedard, pastor at St. Mary's, is due the fact that Putnam now has one of the very fine organs in the state.

Miss Clara E. Lavell filed a suit for divorce in the probate court at Worcester, Mass., against her husband, Lewis E. Lavell of Worcester.

Mrs. Lavell says that she was married in Putnam, April 27, 1903, and charges her husband with cruel and abusive treatment, intoxication and failure to support. She asks for the custody of their two minor children, Emmett L. Lavell, born August 26, 1914 and James J. Lavell, born August 11, 1916 and further asks for support for herself and her children.

Ernest Tetreault, well known Putnam barber, is at the Day Kimball hospital as the result of a hunting accident, more than one hundred and fifty small shot having entered his foot when a gun carried by a companion was accidentally discharged. The latter is a Worcester resident and he came down to spend the day hunting pheasants with Tetreault. It was his first experience at the sport and he was unused to firearms.

Names For Faint Stars

Names for faint stars that are companions to brighter objects are suggested by Sir Oliver Lodge, even though these stars are too faint to be seen except with the most powerful telescopes. Eddington is the name suggested for the companion of Sirius, the Dog Star, since it has been found by Professor A. S. Eddington, of Cambridge University, to be so dense that a single pint of it would weigh 25 tons. This has been confirmed by spectroscope observations at the Mt. Wilson observatory, in California. For the famous invisible star of Algol, the "demon star," Sir Oliver suggests Vogel, after K. H. Vogel, the German astronomer who first proved its existence. This companion is dark and can not be seen with any telescope, but it makes its presence known by periodically coming in front of the bright member of the pair and partly obscuring it.

NEW YORK'S GUNMEN

The one false move that the three desperate criminals made who undertook to get away from the Tombs jail in New York city was that they didn't turn their guns upon themselves first instead of last. But the whole case goes to show what confidence the criminal element has in the big city and what assistance it can rely upon in doing anything that it undertakes.

Here was a case in the first place where automatic revolvers had been placed in the hands of desperate men in jail.

After that it is shown that it is possible for such persons to connect a scheme whereby it is possible for them to take the guards of that institution by surprise.

It is even possible for several to resort to the same trick at the same time and get a favorable response.

Those men planned well. They expected by this time to be so safe in their liberty that there would be slight chance of capture, and they would have at least made their get away but for the defiance which the gate keeper displayed. Thereafter things happened fast and furious. Death was dealt out on both sides. The warden and a guard were shot down without a chance and the criminals finding it impossible to get through the gate were trapped and knowing the fate that was in store for them took their own lives.

This affair at the Tombs will come in for a thorough investigation. Apparently the situation there has been such as to have justified something of the kind long before this whereby there would have been a disclosure of conditions which would have brought action of a character that would have prevented what transpired this week.

New York is of course well rid of three bad men, but it is most unfortunate that it had to be accompanied by the death of two faithful jail officials. New York's chief concern now must be to determine where and how it is possible for firearms to be smuggled to the prisoners and effectively put an end to such laxity.

RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

Faced with impeachment proceeding before congress, Judge C. W. English of the eastern Illinois federal court tenders his resignation. He indicates by that that he does not wish to defend himself before the United States senate as the judge but prefers to step down and out while under fire.

His removal from office is of course the purpose of the impeachment proceedings and when he is ready to remove the obstacles to that end make it unnecessary for the senate to occupy its time with such work he indicated his desire to avoid the contest which, if we can judge by his action, he believed would result unfavorable.

In bringing the charges against Judge English the house was simply doing its duty and insisting that the federal bench must be true to its responsibilities at all times. The charges were such that they could not be disregarded and it doesn't appear that there was any desire to do other than press them. But an indictment isn't always accompanied by conviction. Judge English might have been able to convince the senate that he did not commit high crimes or misdemeanors as charged and in that way have erased the black mark against his name. But he has chosen to do otherwise and his action has met with approval to the extent that it will probably be accepted by the senate as a disposition of the matter. This will mean postponement for the time being until the house committee has a chance to report its recommendation which now bids fair to be that the prosecution be dropped in view of the resignation.

When judges by their acts go to the point where they cannot command confidence it is time that they were removed, or got out of office. The inference is bound to be that Judge English recognized the difficulty he faced in convincing the senate that certain, at least, of the charges against him were unfounded and he took the quickest and easiest way of getting from under. It doesn't remove the discredit connected with a resignation under such circumstances, but it avoids the stress of impeachment proceedings.

CORNERING THE BUFFALO

Gradually are the demands and the developments of the present day pushing aside the conditions that existed a few decades ago. It wasn't many years ago when Buffalo Bill was reaping notoriety for himself by hunting the buffaloes on the western plains. But those days have gone. Railroads have gone into those regions and they are being more and more utilized for the purpose of meeting the country's demands. Frontier days are gone forever and it will not be long before the buffalo will be also.

This is brought to mind by the fact that the herd which has had free rein on Antelope island in Great Salt Lake is slated for slaughter. This isn't because of antagonism to the buffalo, or a demand for such supplies as it can provide, so much as it is for the purpose of utilizing the land in other ways. Antelope island is a desirable place for ranching. Cattle raising can and will be carried on there as soon as the buffaloes are removed. Were it possible to catch the wild animals, lead them to a ferry and transport them elsewhere it would probably be done in the interest of perpetuating them. Likewise were it possible to drive them into the lake and force them to swim to other land, such a method would be resorted to, but neither move is practical. The problem thus resolves itself into getting rid of the shaggy coated fellows and for that reason they are to be made the target of the hunters. It will be rare sport for the riflemen, and yet the hunting of the Antelope island buffalo doesn't always been as successful and easy as it might be expected. It is far different than going out and shooting down a herd of cows. The island herd is estimated at 250 but they are not friendly with humanity. They are suspicious and difficult to approach and it bids fair to be some little time before ranching can be commenced on the island if that is to be deferred until the last has bit the dust.

It seems too bad to see these animals virtually wiped out but such seems to be the price of advancing civilization.

"CONNECTICUT APPLE A DAY"

In Connecticut with Apple week the slogan concerning an apple a day is not being overlooked. It gets the endorsement of the Toledo Blade but in addition the Blade moves an amendment and makes it "An Ohio apple a day."

This should be unanimously adopted in Ohio. It is an idea which has been long advocated in Connecticut and gives recognition to the fact that in the use of apples, and more apples, there should be consideration given to the opportunities that exist for increased state production through increased consumption of the state's product.

Orchardists of Connecticut have a strong appeal which they can make to the apple eaters. There aren't any better apples grown than are produced on Connecticut hillsides and many which find their way into the market and which constitute in too many instances all that the purchaser can obtain are far and away inferior to Nutmeg state production.

If the distribution problem is the reason why more Connecticut apples are not available from the opening to the close of the season for apples it is time it was remedied. If apple growers haven't attempted to cater to the state market it is time they did. If Connecticut apple lovers are not able to get Connecticut grown fruit it is time that the producers met the requirements, or that more went into the business of serving the apple market.

Let the slogan in this state be also amended to read "A Connecticut apple a day" and may it be so that those desirous of living up to such a slogan are not disappointed for lack of Connecticut apples.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

Different parts of the country have different views upon the same problems. There are conditions which cause that and it will be interesting to note what those differences are when the shipping board presents its recommendations the first of the year on plans for building up the American merchant marine.

The board has a committee engaged at the present time in holding hearings at different points for the purpose of sounding the sentiment of the people and organizations interested in this problem. From such ideas as are gained, coupled with the view of the board congress should get suggestions upon more than one method of bolstering up our merchant marine and at the same time developing our commerce with other countries.

It is known that because of American standards the cost of vessels in this country is greater than in others. Likewise it costs more to operate American vessels than those of other countries because of our laws. In our coastwise trade American vessels have a monopoly, but when it comes to foreign service they enter into competition with foreign vessels, and not being able to keep the costs down the way other shipping companies do under different laws, the competition is decidedly one sided.

In other countries besides more favorable laws, there is not the objection to a subsidy that there is here. A ship subsidy would make up for the inability on the part of many lines to compete, but subsidies have never been able to get approval.

Whether the shipping board will be able to offer anything in the way of recommendations that will be new or convincing to congress is awaited with keen interest. Our merchant marine problem has been hanging fire for a long time and there's no telling how soon it will be settled.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Every now and then the subject of birth control breaks out in public speech or written article. Some treat it with altogether too much levity, and others try to throw around it the sanctity of religious gloom which is nothing but the veriest bunk. In the last analysis it is a moral issue, something a great deal more than a mere social question, and involving the important matter of economics. If we are ready to admit that a married pair are under any obligations to adjust their expenses to their income, have they not a right to determine whether they will have three children or six? Does it not render a greater service to humanity in the long run to be able to send three children to college than to be compelled to put six into a cotton factory? We must not forget that our children have a right to demand the very best that human society can give them. The main question should be how many children can we bring up that shall meet the rigid demands of the 20th century.

To this as to all other great questions there is a converse side. It certainly is not justified if the controlling motive is cowardice or selfishness. There can be no doubt in any intelligent mind that these two reasons, especially the latter, explain the small number of children in some families. The bearing and rearing of children of course interferes with many of the social activities of life. Those women who would feed on the froth of society and gad from morning till night look upon the time and care of rearing a family as a sort of prison life. And it is quite within the realm of the possible that this is the main reason why the old Yankee stock is petering out. This by no means applies to those families whose children choke up our alleys which is a menace equally great in the opposite direction.

The pen—or, perhaps it would be more up-to-date to say in this age of scientific invention, the typewriter—in some hands is weighty. In others it has about as much weight as a puff ball. Whether it is the one or the other depends largely upon the amount of gray matter that lies about two feet and a half back of the hand using the pen and typewriter. If some of the recent political speeches have been reported correctly one is justified in feeling that the puff ball has not only been substituted for the pen and typewriter, but has also taken the place of the gray matter that is supposed to lie inside of the cranium. We are all ready to admit that in the department of economics and morals this country is not and never has been perfect, but the strained effort to make a party issue by picturing the United States at present as on the verge of general collapse is simply tommy rot.

If you are able to remember so far back as last week Friday you will recollect that it was the so-called Indian's day for this present month and if your memory is not in its dotage you will also recall that it was as mild and genial as May. This of course establishes the certainty that November as a whole will likewise be mild and genial. To question this would be to insult the belief of one's dear old grandmother who years ago went to "where everlasting spring abides, and pleasures banish pain." And yet in this age of bald skepticism there are some who really sneer at the thought that the last Friday of a month has anything to do with the weather of the following month. Unless something is done to stop the trend of such unbelief, it will soon be ridiculed that the actions of the ground hog on a certain day can hasten or retard the coming of spring. The faith of our fathers is hanging in the balance.

The Halloween observance was fully utilized by the young people last Saturday night, and there are some of our people at least who rejoice that the vigil of All Hallows will not have again until 12 months have passed. In the old country, especially in Scotland this vigil of All Hallows was associated in the popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influences which particularly affected the lives of young people. So do many people in this country, but instead of supernatural, many would substitute infernal influences that effect young people in their celebration. No one but a confirmed old grouch would deny the hilarity which the young people have on Halloween. But they would discriminate between jollification and rodyism. Let them play their pranks, wear their masks, and masquerade in outlandish costumes, but there is no reason why they should deliberately destroy property, as was done in more than one place in the city.

Seventy-nine years ago today the first missionary American church was established in China, and one pictures in his mind what China, in all human probability would have been, if no counteracting influence had followed in the wake of the missionary. The normal Chinaman has a very nimble mind to assimilate either the good or bad. Converts to Christianity are quickly made in China, and they fall from grace with equal rapidity when surrounded by evil influences. At first the Chinese thought that all Americans must be Christians. Why not? Christianity was so wonderful and reasonable it seemed that all Americans must have accepted it. But when they came in contact with Americans of a different type they wondered. Why did American missionaries come so far to convert them when there were so many pagans vastly worse at home?

The Master once stated that his mission on earth was not to destroy, but to fulfill the Mosaic code. The only thing he cast out was the dense thicket of underbrush with which it was cluttered, tending to swamp its real spirit and purpose. As far as the law and prophets were concerned the mission of Jesus was that of a pruner, his object being not to destroy or even injure the law and prophets, but to fulfill their spirit. We cannot fail to realize that the historical continuity of the Judaic code has continued until the present. The Jews may have lost their national existence. At least there is no portion of the earth's surface under Jewish rule, and yet no people have retained their racial identity so conspicuously as they. It may be that they exemplify the great scientific law of the survival of the fittest.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Roy Barton White, the new president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is only 43 years old and is one of the youngest executives of any prominent railroad system in America. He was born in Illinois and after completing a high school education began his career as a telegrapher in the service of the Indiana, Decatur & Western road. Within ten years he had won his way up through successive promotions to the position of superintendent at Indianapolis. In 1915 he entered the service of the Baltimore & Ohio road as a division superintendent. He became general superintendent of the Maryland lines of that company in 1921 and two years later was made general manager of its New York terminal lines. Last January he left the B. & O. to become vice president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

EASTERN CONNECTICUT AND THE CENTENNIAL OF 1876.

When the present sesquicentennial exposition at Philadelphia is laid away in the graveyard of memory, most of us in Eastern Connecticut, especially of the older generation, are going to place it by our remembrance of its lively daddy, whose headstone antedates the sesqui child's by 50 years—the centennial exposition of 1876. Never did an exposition, before or since, make such a stir in Norwich. To be sure, we'd shown enough interest in the Vienna exposition of 1873 to send along some exhibits—in fact, C. B. Rogers & Co., were awarded a medal of merit at Vienna for a planing and matching machine. Also the town had a sense of pride in the appointment by the United States government of Joseph Plaut as honorary commissioner to Vienna. But nobody got the thrill out of this foreign glory that came in 1876 from taking a native son's part in America's own big show—its first, to commemorate an even century of independent national life.

Ex. Gov. William Bigler of Pennsylvania, a democrat in that republican day—but party lines were lost in this great patriotic undertaking—was invited to Norwich in December, 1874, some 18 months ahead of time, to help organize the citizens of Eastern Connecticut. At the opening reception held in the common council chamber, He explained the centennial plans and asked for local cooperation.

"I am sure," he said, "that this noble state of yours, which furnished more soldiers for the struggle which gave us independence than any state in the Union save Massachusetts will not be backward in this great work. The descendants of Trumbull and Sherman and Putnam, and their compeers, will not neglect a duty so high and so sacred."

The participation of Norwich was urged by Superior Court Judge Lafayette S. Foster, former United States senator and vice president in the Johnson administration. John T. Adams and Col. Charles A. Converse also endorsed the movement.

A week later it was announced that C. B. Rogers & Co. had written to secure exhibition space.

"This enterprising firm," says The Bulletin in its issue of Dec. 8, 1874, "has been in three of the great expositions of the world already, London, Paris and Vienna. The action of this firm in writing for space so early as this bespeaks their wisdom as well as their enterprise, and will furnish a hint to manufacturers." And so forth.

Norwich Celebrates

Then things hung fire till centennial eve—midnight of December 31, 1875. Now ordinarily New Year's Eve isn't much of an event in this Christian neighborhood, and so the riot of racket that greeted Jan. 1, 1876, the Centennial year, was all the more memorable by contrast.

"Indications of the approach of the centennial began to appear about eleven o'clock last night," The Bulletin of Jan. 1, 1876, reports. "From that hour to midnight bands of men following a drum and fife paraded Main street and there was much cheering and horn-blowing.

At the first stroke of twelve from the city hall clock nearly every church bell in the city was set ringing, and at the same moment the first discharge from three cannon, one near the Laurel Hill tunnel, one on the new wharf and another on the West Side, was made. A moment later an immense bonfire on Franklin square, and a great number of colored lights were touched off at various points along the street."

The special point in having the bonfire in Franklin square presumably lay in the fact that the Liberty pole, erected in 1861, was situated there. But this is by the way.

"There was a general blowing of steam whistles," The Bulletin continues," which, with the bells and discharge of anvils and fire crackers, made a terrific din. The bells were rung for half an hour, and a little later the patriotic citizen, having shouted himself hoarse, went home to bed. During the short period of enthusiasm the streets were filled with people, many ladies being among them."

No mention at all, you see, of the small boy, who in these days would be all over the place. Or was he there after all, and maybe his little sister, too, in her red and white stockings striped lengthwise like candy? Perhaps some of you older readers can tell us. Grandmamma can safely reminisce, for if she doesn't admit to having worn her hair in a Grecian coil low down at the back of the head, nor to having had on a colored bonnet trimmed with bluejays' wings, or a pinned-back skirt, or a butterfly on a lace fichu, then she can remember all this, tell the truth and still be on the sunny side of sixty-five.

But back to The Bulletin's account of the centennial eve celebration.

"The cannon were fired by the Norwich Sailing club, the O. D. Ones and the O. L. F. club. The two first associations each claim the honor of the first gun. The O. D. Ones had a large bell on the roof of their club house and rang it and burned colored fires some time before midnight, with much patriotic fervor.

A quaint fancy, my masters; well turned, and turned again.

So the big show was on, and so it progressed, with visitors from Eastern Connecticut, from the whole United States, from all over the world, flocking to Philadelphia in ever increasing numbers.

Describes School Exhibits

The Bulletin of August 17 contained the following description of the school exhibits by the paper's special correspondent, who wrote over the pen name "Pequot":

"I must come now to little Connecticut. Its exhibit in some respects excels all. There is a large and elegant library, the contribution of Connecticut authors, all graduates of a single college. That is an impressive feature abroad and not intended, I presume, to be invidious at home. We confess to a little state pride in that library. No other state except perhaps Massachusetts could make such a showing if it tried.

"Then there is an original map pointing out the exact site of her 1,500 or more school houses. The bumbiest country school is not overlooked. But I thought it would interest the Bulletin readers to come down to particulars.

"Specimens of the work of many of our best schools here detained me for hours. The Central district of your city was prominent and hardly surpassed. I could not help admiring Misses Stanley's, Perkins' and Misses Crandall's and Haskell's. I should give the palm to the last named for neatness and style.

"Does anybody know who spelled principal wrong six times and put an e on to Beauregard? and who got the wrong answer to the tenth problem. I rather liked to see such little lapses among so much excellence. It formed genuineness.

"The New London young ladies' high school specimens excited considerable admiration. The offhand translation of given passages in Virgil was deservedly praised, some being thrown into rhyme and some into blank verse, at a single sitting of a few minutes. Here Miss Hickey, Miss Learned and Miss Crandall were conspicuous. Perhaps the first excelled in the beauty of the penmanship, the second in mortical excellence and the third in both. The Colt street, New London, school came in for a share of praise in specimens by Masters Dart and Bishop, and Misses Latimer, Spencer, Gardner, Caulkins and Richards. Also Cobb, Hirsch, Cutler and Busch, whose initials only being given we could only guess the sex.

"Am I trespassing? I want to speak of two or three other schools in our region which were handsomely represented. The Hill street, New London, school was honored by the work of Miss Weaver and Masters Kenyon and Guard. I look in vain for anything from the Buckley high school or the Norwich Free Academy, but doubtless they were there, and if there, excelled. In what I have said of these, I am so far disinterested as not to know the parties named, nor the families to whom they belong.

"The Mystic Bridge high school showed some good drawings by Masters I. Clift, W. Kellogg, James P. Noyes and Julius Mallory, and Charles P. Fitch, while the grammar school department surprised the examiners by such specimens of Masters L. W. Brown, J. F. Alexander and W. N. Gere. Those from pupils in the third department of this school were well done for such young children. Mystic Valley institute, in map drawing, arithmetic and style of analysis were certainly above mediocrity.

"Putnam was creditable in map drawing. Danielsonville allowed her work to be obscured by coarse mounting, but no fault was found with the work when it was opened."

"Such young children," as the scribe of '76 calls them. Are they with us still? Shall we hear from them through the columns of The Bulletin, maybe?

List of Exhibitors

On Sept. 28, The Bulletin printed a list of awards to Connecticut and Rhode Island exhibitors, among which are:

C. C. Brand, Norwich, whaling gun with bomb projectile.

Mystic Bridge Granite Co., fine gray granite.

New England Granite Co., Westerly, R. I., slabs and blocks of granite.

J. B. Palmer, Millstone Point, granite.

Slater Cotton Co., R. I., fabrics.

Shetucket Mfg. Co., Norwich, shirting stripes.

Willimantic Linen Co., machine for spinning fine yarns.

Testering and Dyeing Machine Co., Norwich; stitching, straightening and dyeing textile fabrics.

Thames River Worsted Co., Norwich, spinning frame.

Clinton Mills Co., Norwich, blankets.

Niantic Woolen Co., East Lyme, cotton warps, tweeds, etc.

Belding Bros. & Co., Rockville, sewing silk.

Holland Mfg. Co., Willimantic, sewing silk.

Rock Mfg. Co., Rockville, fancy cassimeres.

Ponemah Mills, Taftville, cotton fabrics.

Pocahontas Mfg. Co., Putnam, cotton fabrics.

Waregan Mills, cotton fabrics.

Falls Co., Norwich, cotton awnings and tickings.

Hockanum Co., Rockville, fancy cassimeres and worsteds.

N. E. Mfg. Co., Rockville, woolen cassimeres.

Wm. H. Page & Co., Greeneville, wooden type.

Standard Machinery Co., Mystic, machine for rounding and backing books.

Nichols, Harris & Walker, New London, acid pump.

E. E. Rogers & Co., boring, mortising, tenoning, planing, etc., timber-graining machine, band and scroll saw.

S. Z. Hall, New London, self-feeder to cotton gin.

J. F. Brown, New London, power cotton gin.

So the great centennial ended with medals for eastern Connecticut. Norwich still has and always will have probably, a special memorial of the great event, and the manner of the memorial's establishment is thus: (Minutes of the meeting of the city government, reported Dec. 6, 1876).

"A petition from John Turner for the privilege of setting out an elm tree as a centennial memorial in the public square at the juncture of Rockwell avenue, East Broad, Roath street and Providence street, and asking that a name be given the square, was received.

"Alderman Jennings suggested that it be called Centennial square.

"Alderman Carpenter moved that it be called Buckingham square, and pointed out the obvious objections to the name of centennial.

"Alderman Adams favored the name of Centennial.

"On motion of Alderman Gibbs a secret ballot was taken as follows:

"For Buckingham square, 1; for Centennial square, 9.

"On motion of Alderman Carpenter the vote was made unanimous, and permission was granted to Mr. Turner to set out his tree."

If there is a demand for it, there will be another paper next week, telling about the floating hotel that Mystic sent to the Philadelphia centennial, and about the local celebration which Norwich staged after the big event was over.

Sunday Morning Talk

Bloom and Beauty

There is a great deal of sympathy for the flower that wastes its sweetness on the desert air; but it is the sympathy not the sweetness that is wasted since these are never wasted, not even by a flower.

Frangance and beauty are useful, even more useful than that which we call practical. God made the world beautiful because He loves beauty and wants us to love it. Yet He never wastes anything, and to beauty and fragrance He has given a work as practical as to the homeliest qualities.

There are two periods in the life of every plant when it is most fragrant, most beautiful, the first is when it blooms. When you think of beauty in nature you at once think of flowers. They are the joy of the garden, the beautiful fringe to the garment of the woods, and the glory of the prairie.

This beauty of bloom has been given abundantly, so abundantly that wherever grows a plant, there you may find a blossom. A fragile flower creeping from the crevice of a rock, tender wild ones, sweet scented and fair, lifting their faces from the leafy mold of the forest; thousands of them dotting like colored stars the prairies. Nor are the grains and vines and trees without beauty at blossoming time. What is rarer than the delicate bloom of wild grapes? What is more radiantly glorious than an orchard with the snow and pink and red of the apple, peach and cherry? The light, delicate blossom of the wheat, the tassel of the corn, and the misty blue of the meadows in bloom, all are part of the anthem of beauty which every plant and tree joins in singing when the time of blossoms has come.

The second period of beauty in a plant life is when its fruit is ripe, the red berries of the hawthorne and the wild vines, the dark lustrous grape, the peaches, yellow, white and red, the apples with their pink, red and yellow, the fields of ripened grain, the meadows, all are beautiful and fragrant. It is plain that the Creator loves beauty. He gave the rare colors and sweet odors to field and forest that the world might be beautiful.

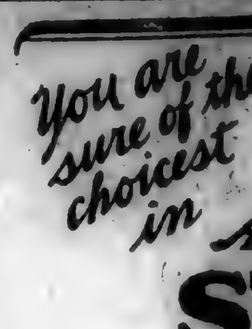
Danny's Troubles End

The truth of this I pray attend:
There is no trouble but will end.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse didn't know just what to do. He didn't want Nanny Meadow Mouse to return and find him in her house yet he didn't want to leave it for fear that Chatterer the Red Squirrel might return. So Danny was quite at a loss as to what he ought to do. He was still trying to make up his mind when a rather sharp, squeaky voice cried excitedly, "Danny Meadow Mouse! Danny Meadow Mouse! Danny Meadow Mouse?"

Danny looked down. There was Nanny Meadow Mouse looking up at him as he sat in the doorway of her home. Danny looked rather shame-



"What was that young Meadow Mouse doing over here?" he asked suspiciously.

faced and hung his head. "Yes, Nanny," said he, "yes it is really me. I-I-I didn't mean for you to find me here. You see, I just had to see where you were living and then Chatterer the Red Squirrel came and—— "I know," replied Nanny softly. "I saw and heard all that happened."

Danny fidgeted for a few moments. He wasn't at all comfortable. He was ill at ease. "I guess I'd better be going along," said he after a few minutes.

"Going where?" inquired Nanny.

"Oh, anywhere," replied Danny with a shrug. "I guess it doesn't much matter where I go."

Nanny said nothing for a few minutes. Then she chuckled. It was a funny, squeaky little chuckle. Danny looked at her suspiciously. He didn't know just to make of it.

"You're funny," declared Nanny. "Yes, sir, you're funny, Danny Meadow Mouse. The idea of talking about going away when you've just got home."

"But this isn't my home," said Danny. "This is your home."

Nanny looked up quickly. "Who says it isn't your home?" inquired Nanny. "Since when hasn't my home been your home?"

Suddenly Danny remembered the handsome young stranger with whom he had had a fight. "What was that young Meadow Mouse doing over here?" he asked suspiciously.

If a Meadow Mouse could giggle, Nanny would have giggled. "I suspect," said she, looking very demure, "that he was coming to see me. Didn't you think him handsome, Danny?"

Danny gritted his teeth. "If you would rather have him than me, I'll leave right away," said he crossly. "I'll leave and I'll never come back to bother you again."

"Come down here, silly, and tell me you're glad to see me," retorted Nanny. "I want to know where you've been and why you went and all about it."

Danny looked long and hard at Nanny. He saw that she really meant it. With a little sigh of happiness he climbed half way down to meet her as she started to climb up. Then they both climbed back into the nest, and Danny told about all the wonderful things he had seen and done. "But I didn't really mean to go, Nanny. You know I didn't really mean to go."

Nanny nodded her wise little head. "I know," said she. "I knew all the time. That is why I felt so sure that you would come back."

So it was that Danny Meadow Mouse found a new home and peace and happiness.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Stimulate the Mind

The power of a book to stimulate the mind is one of its most useful qualities. Some books are more valuable for what they make us think than for what they actually say. It is the reading that we make the most of, whose substance incorporates itself with our mental equipment, that develops and enlarges our faculties. What we read and assimilate becomes part of the character. Rousseau's Emile, for instance, is one of the most suggestive books ever written; Pestalozzi, Froebel, Herbert Spencer and many other educational thinkers have derived their inspiration from Rousseau. Emerson is especially valuable for the new trains of thought which he suggests. Furthermore a book is free from acumen when it arouses thoughtful dissent. Passages in the Emile have furnished the texts for discussions that have marked advances in educational thought.

EUROPE IS AMERICANIZED, SAYS HISTORIAN FERRERO

Guglielmo Ferrero, Italian historian, declares that the World war led to the gradual Americanization of Europe. Before the war Americans of all classes were richer than Europeans, he says. But upper and middle class Americans lived less well than their less wealthy European prototypes, because in Europe servants were easily and cheaply had, but not in America. This difference was due to the relative well being of what he calls the lower classes in America. Now, continues Prof. Ferrero, all this has changed in Europe. Servants are becoming rare and command higher pay. The so-called lower class is more prosperous, but at the expense of the middle class. And whereas in America the lower class is contented in its well being, in Europe to the new lower class well being has not diminished the revolutionary ferment. The lower classes live better, but the middle and upper classes not so well. Machine production is wiping out the old European variety and charm. Life in European cities is becoming "agitated, uncomfortable, expensive, difficult, turbulent, unstable." But what may be good in America is not necessarily good, the historian concludes, in Europe, and he both deplores and fears the change.

Rare Chinese Plants

Thousands of specimens of rare plants from China are now being packed at the United States national herbarium for shipment to six foreign museums as well as to two of the great herbariums in the United States. The bulk of the collection was brought home more than a year ago by Dr. Joseph F. Rock, explorer-botanist, from the almost unknown mountains of southwestern China, and has kept a corps of plant experts busy ever since, arranging and classifying the material. In all there are some 60,000 plants, representing about 12,000 species. In addition to the Rock collection there are also many plants gathered in China by a native China botanist, R. C. Ching, who accompanied an expedition into Kansu province under Frederick R. Wolsin. Sets of specimens are being sent to the herbariums of the British Museum and of Kew Gardens, London; to the Royal Botanical Garden, Edinburgh; to the Botanical Museum of Berlin; to the Jardin des Plantes, Paris, and to Stockholm, in Sweden. A second set goes to Sweden, to Upsala, the university that produced Linnaeus, the founder of modern botany. A specially selected collection will be sent back to China, to the University of Nankin. One set will be sent to the University of California and one to the Gray herbarium, at Harvard.

RELIC OF PENN'S TREATY ELM OFFERED TO SOCIETY

PHILADELPHIA Nov. 6 (AP)—A relic of the historic Treaty Elm under which William Penn made his purchase of Pennsylvania from the Indians almost 250 years ago has been offered by Richard Buhlig, American pianist, to the Historical society of Pennsylvania.

The relic is a wooden pitcher made of small staves cut from the Treaty Elm and was a gift of the Journeymen Coopers of Philadelphia to President Andrew Jackson in 1835. Mr. Buhlig discovered it in a collection of antiques dating to colonial times, owned by Mrs. Blanche Wetherill Walton of New York, and he obtained her consent to offer it to the historical society.

FORMER NORWICH WOMAN GIVES ORGAN RECITAL

The Waterbury Republican of a recent issue says:

A splendid organ recital was given in St. Patrick's church Sunday evening before a large congregation of lovers of good music. Mrs. Boudreau Healy, the church organist, gave the recital with the following programme:

Prelude in B flat, E. Batiste; Scherzando; Charles Gilbert; vocal solo, Ave Maria, Shubert Miss Margaret Hogan, soloist of the Dominican church, New Haven; Pensee, Daubois; Grand Offertory in G major and minor, Batiste; vocal solo, It was For Me, Charles Blount—Miss Hogan; Rmaniza, Boris Franzoff; vocal solo, Aria, Messiah, Handel—Miss Hogan; Reis of St. Ann de Beaupre, Alexander Russell; vocal solo, The Cross, Harriet Ware—Miss Hogan; Grand Finale, Charles Gilbert Spross. Part two—Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, sung by the choirm O Salutaris, Thomas—the quartette—Mrs. George T. Whalen, soprano, Miss Catherine Griffen, contralto, Mrs. Stanley Skip, tenor, Michael Daly, bass; Tantum Ergo, male chorus; Laudate Dominum, Rosewig, choir; Recessional, Praise the Father—Gounod, the choir.

The new organ is one of the largest in the state, has three thousand pipes and all the latest and up to date attachments. It has four manuals and a set of chimes which may be played fro meither the great or choir organ. The organ may be played from the console at the sanctuary railing and is used from there at the children's mass and for the sanctuary choir.

Rev. Farrell Martin, D. D., D. C. L. the pastor of St. Patrick's, is an accomplished musician and has given to the public of Waterbury three organ recitals—the first was given by Prof. Jno. Bonne, the second by Prof. Miner and the last by Mrs. Boudreau Healy, who was formerly Miss Lena C. Boudreau, organist for a number of years at the old St. Mary's church, Norwich.

Mrs. Healy's many local friends will be glad to hear of her ability as an accomplished musician which has brought her such renowned success in Waterbury, where she now makes her permanent home.

JUDGE HEARS ARGUMENTS IN CITY TAX CASE

Judge Allyn L. Brown reserved decision in the superior court here Friday after hearing arguments in the petition of Frank W. Browning, receiver of the Uncas Paperboard Co., for advice concerning the city of Norwich tax for 1926.

The receiver was presented a bill for the city of Norwich tax for 1926, in the amount of $240. In the opinion of the receiver and that of his counsel, the tax should not be paid for various reasons.

It was the contention of counsel for the receiver, Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, that the receiver had on hand $10,000 worth of goods, etc., which were put in the town list of October, 1925 and the tax was paid. The goods were sold shortly afterward, and counsel for the receiver contended that the goods were sold before May, 1926, and that the city could not collect taxes. The question arose whether the receiver was liable for the city tax because he had paid his town tax.

Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., appeared for the city and took part in the arguments.

LAWYERS WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS IN SCHOOLS

Addresses upon Constitutional Rights are to be made in the schools next Monday morning at 9 o'clock by attorneys of the city under arrangements made by a county committee.

The assignments are as follows:

Broadway school, E. W. Higgins; Free Academy, Judge Allyn L. Brown; Greeneville, C. V. James; Town Street, E. W. Perkins; West Town Street, Andrew B. Davies; Bishop, A. F. Libby; Taftville and Sacred Heart, V. P. A. Quinn; Occum, T. M. Shields; St. Patrick's, J. H. Barnes; St. Mary's, E. J McKay; St. Joseph's, R. J. Dudkowski; Wheeler, C. L. Stewart; Jewett City, A. M. Brown.

In New London it is expected that similar arrangements will be made by Attorneys C. Hadlai Hull and Phillip Z. Hankey.

This action has been taken at the request of Thomas Hewes of Hartford, chairman of the State Bar association committee on American citizenship, as a means of observing American Education Week.

The county bar association consists of Arthur M. Brown, Judge Allyn L. Brown, E. W. Higgins, C. Hadlai Hull and Philip Z. Hankey.

KIT CARSON'S WILL IS TRANSFERRED TO MUSEUM

DENVER, Nov. 5 (AP)—The last will and testament of Kit Carson, one of the west's famous plainsmen and Indian scouts, now reposes in the state historical museum here.

The document was transferred from the files of the Pueblo county court house to the Colorado Historical society. The will was made at Fort Lyon, Colo., May 15, 1868, 13 days before Carson died at Taos, New Mexico. The entire estate, valued at $13,000 was left to the support and education of the surviving children. It included two ox wagons, seven yoke of work oxen, 113 head of livestock, two pieces of property at Taos and a promissory note for $3,000.

Pan Pacific Science Congress

Scientists of all the nations bordering the Pacific ocean will meet at Tokio this fall, in response to an invitation from the Japanese national research council. The sessions will be had from Oct. 27 to Nov. 9, to discuss problems of common interest to all of them, rising from the conditions of the sea and the weather that prevails over it, from the plant and animal life that swims in the water, and from the changes in that part of the crust of the earth that make up its bottom and its shores. This will be the third Pan-Pacific science congress, the two previous meetings having been held in Hawaii and in Australia.

PUBLIC CO-OPERATION IS SOUGHT TO CONTINUE COUNTY FAIR ENTERPRISE

After hearing the report of their special committee on finances, in which a recommendation was made that a county wide drive for new members be held, the New London County Agricultural society, at an adjourned meeting Friday evening in the town hall accepted the report as one of progress and voted to continue the special committee for two weeks more. When the meeting closed Friday night it adjourned until Tuesday evening, November 23.

The meeting was called to order about 8 o'clock by President Charles P. Bushnell. The report of the special committee was made as follows:

The committee reports that purchasers have been found for the remaining unsold first mortgage 6 per cent bonds; that four members have promised to sign a note for $2,500, the said note to supersede the present note of $2,500 and to be secured by second mortgage on the real estate of the society, that creditors having claims of about $2,000 have already agreed to extend the time of payment for three months; that the society organize a county-wide drive for new members and that owing to the short time they have had for deliberation they recommend that they be continued in existence for period of two weeks, or until an adjourned meeting of the society.

Following the reading of the report Edwin W. Higgins introduced a resolution accepting the report as one of progress, continuing the special committee, as per their request, and setting the date for the adjourned meeting as Tuesday, November 23rd. In part the resolution read as follows:

Resolved: that the report of the special committee appointed by resolution passed at the meeting of this society held October 19, 1926, be accepted as a report of progress; that said committee be continued with full power; that this society through such special committee, request all commercial, civic, fraternal and social organizations in this county to aid it by co-operative effort, counsel and support and by constructive criticism help to maintain the present county fair grounds, so-called, and continue their use for the general public good, that such committee be authorized to take such action as to it seems wise, and expedient and to formulate a programme of action which to it seems the best adapted to meeting this society's immediate and further needs Resolved that this society adjourn this meeting to Tuesday, November 23, 1926 at 8 p. m.

The remainder of the resolution calls on the officers and directors of the society to co-operate in any way possible with the special committee. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

H. H. Gallup, who served the society as secretary 54 years ago, spoke briefly of his experiences in the office of secretary and also as treasurer. Mr. Gallup said that he remembers the first fair ever held by the society. At that time the fairs were held on Chelsea Parade. Several years later the present grounds were secured. Mr. Gallup said he hopes the agricultural society will be continued.

President Bushnell laid emphasis on the fact that the fair is a county fair, not a Norwich fair, and that the towns in the county should give their hearty support to the society.

Announcement was made that the Norwich chamber of commerce has appointed H. E. Cary, Max Hanover and H. D. Larrabee a committee to assist the society in solving its financial difficulties. The meeting adjourned shortly before 8:30 o'clock until Tuesday evening, November 23. The special committee comprises:

Dr. Iver J. Manwarring, Joseph P. Holloway, George W. Delbeare, Henry H. Gallup, Silas W. Leffingwell, James E. Lathrop, Joseph A. George, Daniel Foley, Charles E. Ellis, Arthur C. Williams, Dr. Nathan G. Gray, Ray L. Harding, Frank T. Maples and Charles D. Foster.

MOTOR VEHICLE CASES IN CRIMINAL COMMON PLEAS

Cases in which violations of the motor vehicle law are charged make up a considerable portion of the docket for the criminal court of common pleas which will open next Wednesday in New London with Judge C. E. Waller presiding. There are 22 new cases and 16 continued ones on the docket. Prosecuting Attorney Charles E. Whittlesey was here Friday to arrange with local attorneys in regard to the cases in which they are interested.

The following are the new cases on the docket:

V. law, William Suchocki, possession of fire arms.

MILITARY NOTE IN D. A. R. LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

A military luncheon-bridge, under the auspices of Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in honor of Armistice day, was delightfully carried out Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial with an attendance of about 150. Lunch was served from 1.30 to 2.00 o'clock, the color scheme being red and white with the elaborate decorations contributing a beautiful setting for the enjoyable afternoon.

The following menu was served:

Soup—Cream of Tomato Sailors
Chicken Creamed in Patties
Potato Chips Peas Jelly
Rolls and Butter
Coffee with Cream and Sugar
Ice Cream—Military Cake Candy

The luncheon-bridge was carried out on the hostess plan, each hostess furnishing the luncheon cloths for her own table and the chapter providing appropriate paper napkins which were folded like little tents. After the tables had been cleared off, the bridge play occupied the rest of the afternoon. The individual favors were little red soldiers, and prizes were given at each table.

The hostesses were: Mrs. William S. Elliott, Col. Henry Champion chapter, Colchester; Mrs. R. R. Agnew, Mrs. L. L. Brewer, Mrs. D. L. Daniel, Mrs. H. D. Fuller, Mrs. A. S. Comstock, Mrs. Arthur C. Jenkins, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, Miss Angie Stanton, Mrs. J. C. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. H. H. Vignot, Mrs. Manley Eastwood, Jr., Mrs. H. T. Brown, Mrs. F. I. Royce, Mrs. Edwin H. Sevin, Mrs. Lucian Beebe, Mrs. M. A. Maguire, Mrs. E. J. Graham, Mrs. A. M. Thompson, Mrs. C. H. Standish, Mrs Samuel E. Smiley, Mrs. George L. Ingalls Mrs. A. J. Bailey, Mrs. E. A. Bidwell, Mrs. C. B. Carpenter, Mrs. W. H. Oat, Miss Helena Wulf, Mrs Hezekiah Perkins, Mrs. C. L. Stewart, Mrs. A. L. Lathrop, Mrs. A. J. Sinay, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Mrs. H. E. Higgins, Mrs. R. S. Brown.

The committee in charge of the enjoyable affair was Miss Helen P. Browning, Mrs. E. S. Burdsall, Mrs. Alfred M. Haring, Mrs. C. G. Thompson, Mrs. Ernest J. Jones, Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, Mrs. A. J. Sinay, Miss Faith Bonfoey, Miss Helena Wulf, Mrs. C. A. Spear, Mrs. Wm. G. Park, and Mrs. Frank I. Royce.

LINEMAN WAS INJURED BY FALLING POLE

Clifford Cormier, Taftville, lineman employed by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital suffering from lacerations about the head and an injured shoulder. Mr. Cormier received his injuries when a telegraph pole fell on him while he was at work Wednesday. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

Miss Stella Bartlett, who has been staying with Miss Jessie Bennett, at West Willington, for two months, returned to Stafford Springs.

DEFENDANTS IN A HOLE; COURT WILL NOT HELP

"The defendants have simply gotten themselves into a hole and they can now climb out as best they can without the assistance of this court," is the pungent way in which Judge Newell Jennings concludes his memorandum of decision in the Mason Island right of way and injunction suit in which he gives Mrs. Helen E. Dodge of Brooklyn, N. Y., the injunction she asks and $25 damages in her suit against Mason's Island Co., and others, among whom is Dr. G. S. Allyn of Waterford who broke down a gateway by driving his automobile against it, as was brought out in the testimony.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Jennings says:

This is a suit to restrain the defendants from a right of way claimed by the defendants to exist across the land.

Mason's Island runs north and south. Near its southern extremity it is divided by a considerable body of water known as "the lake." The plaintiff claims to own the strip of land described in the complaint running from the shore to the lake. The defendants claim to own land north, east and south of that of the plaintiff. In order to pass from the south to the north of the island west of the lake (or vice versa) it is necessary to cross the land of the plaintiff.

In 1857 one Andrew Mason became owner of the entire southern portion of Mason's Island, including all of the land now in question.

At different periods from that time until 1882 at least four industries were carried on there. There was a grist mill at the southerly end of the island. There were two fish factories on the eastern shore. There was a stone dock on the southwestern shore from which stone was shipped by boat to various breakwaters. There was an ice house on the land now claimed by the plaintiff. While these industries were being carried on there was more or less passing from one part of the island to the other, mostly on foot. There was some teaming done also but the island was extremely rough, covered with large boulders and partially wooded.

These industries gradually died out and from 1882 to 1905 this part of the island was used as a pastire for cattle and sheep. It was also used increasingly for picnic and camping parties.

Andrew Mason evidently found that renting to the latter more profitable than farming and from 1905 on more and more permanent camps were erected on the southerly part of the island. The plaintiff came to the island in 1905 and built her present camp soon after. There were no buildings south of her at the time. In 1911 and 1912 Andrew Mason leased and sold a number of lots in this section of the island.

On Aug. 31, 1911, he leased a portion of the land now claimed by the plaintiff to her.

On Sept. 23, 1913, he sold the land now claimed by the plaintiff to her.

On Sept. 23, 1911, he sold the land now claimed by the plaintiff to her husband, N. R. Lodge, by warranty deed free of incumbrance. On Oct. 21, 1912, he died at the age of 83 years.

On Sept. 29, 1913, his administrator sold all his land not previously disposed of to G. S. and W. E. Allyn. On Oct. 7, 1913, the latter sold their holdings to the Mason's Island Co. On Dec. 26, 1913, N. R. Dodge quit claimed to the plaintiff. On Feb. 14, 1921, the Mason's Island Co. deeded a lot to one C. H. Lutrell bounding on one side of the shore and on the other side of the lake. This piece of land corresponds in a general way to the plaintiff's piece, on the east side of the lake and the two together form a barrier cutting the island in two at that point.

The practical result was to prevent all vehicular traffic between the land of the defendants and others to the south and the exit to the mainland to the north. The defendants claim that there is a private right of way over the land of the plaintiff by dedication or by estoppel.

As previously stated when the plaintiff built there were no houses to the south of her. The point was gradually built up, however, and there was more or less passing on foot over her land principally for the purpose of going to a well to the north of her place. The campers ordinarily reached their camps by boat.

No vehicle was seen to pass over her land by the plaintiff until 1915. With the use of automobiles this traffic gradually increased until on a recent Sunday she counted 47 cars. They pass over her land at all hours of the day and night, invade her privacy and disturb her rest. In 1918 she erected a gate at the entrance to her property and has kept it closed for 24 hours in each year since that time. This gate first bore the inscription: Private Property, Please close the Gate. At some later period the words: No Trespassing were added.

In 1918 the gate was knocked down; it was re-erected in 1919 and again knocked down; it was re-erected in 1920 and was knocked down in 1926, shortly before the bringing of this action, by the defendant, Gurdon Allyn. This was done in the presence and over the active protest of the plaintiff.

When vehicles first began to pass over the plaintiff's property, she made no active protest beyond the erection of the gate described above. The defendants and others have not only continued to use the way, however, they have treated it as their property. A culvert has been built and repaired, gravel and rock have been carted in, water pipes have been laid on the surface of the ground, leading from the lake to the houses south.

The matter was brought to a head by the breaking of the gate and a previous attempt, also in 1926, to prevent teams of gravel from passing through.

Taking up the claims of the defendants, there is no evidence to show a dedication by Andrew Mason, even were such a dedication legally possible under the circumstances of this case, sufficient to overcome the recitals in his warranty deed antedating the conveyance to defendants. Nor is there any possible claim of an estoppel. Prior to 1915 there was little vehicular traffic on this part of the island. As a matter of fact there was a practical way out over the east piece retained by Andrew Mason and sold to the defendants which was actually used as late as 1920. The plaintiff asserted her title unequivocally by the erection of the gate in 1918 while the defendants did not cut themselves off by the sale to Dr. Lutrell until 1921. It is a significant fact that the only property owner to testify, testified for the plaintiff. The whole situation indicates that if the defendants had gone at the matter with due regard to the claimed rights of the plaintiff instead of riding rough shod over them there would have been no trouble. The defendants have simply gotten themselves into a hole and they can now climb out as best they can without the assistance of this court.

There is no evidence or more than nominal money damage against the defendants as they were not connected so far as the evidence goes, with the destruction of any of the gates except the last one.

The plaintiff may have the injunction asked for in the first prayer for relief and $25 damages.

GREETINGS FROM ANN TENNA

Dear Editor and Social Friends:
Here I am starting another letter to the Social Corner page. Just thought I'd skip over one week any way. I haven't accomplished very much the past week for I took a tumble which caused me to keep quiet a few days. Most people when they tumble go ahead—but I went over backwards and fortunately landed on the lawn. The day before this happened I made quince honey—had splendid luck. The quinces were sent to me by a friend.

Fan Tan: Thanks for the sweet potato idea! I'll try it sometime.

Grandma Gray: I hope you will be another lucky woman like me and have a donation of your favorite fruit.

ACADEMY FACES WILBY TODAY AT ACADEMY WITH A CRIPPLED TEAM

Another of the high schools from one of the larger cities of the state will afford the opposition for the Academy gridsters this Saturday afternoon at the local campus when Wilby high of Waterbury will clash with the Red and White. The team from the Brass City should give the locals a hard tussle from start to finish but the Academyites are hopeful of emerging on the long end of the score and score their third victory of the current season.

The local squad has been let down with light workouts during the week as a result of minor injuries and bruises suffered in the Chapman Tech game last Saturday and the practice sessions held during the week have served chiefly in perfecting new plays and brushing up on the old ones. Coach Brigham will be able to start practically his entire first string lineup, and as they will no doubt be benefitted by the enforced rest, local fans can expect them to put up their best exhibition of the 1926 campaign to date, for a victory over the invaders will add much to the Red and White's prestige. The game will also serve as a sort of tune-up contest for Bulkeley next Saturday.

Wilby high, however, will come here with a strong team which compares favorably with the best in state interscholastic football. This school has for years past been an outstanding contender for the mythical title and this year's edition according to advance reports, is of the same quality.

The probable lineup which Coach Harris E. Brigham will start the contest to represent the N. F. A. fellows: le, Moore, Hussey or LaCroix; lt, Fidell; lg, Fox or Shea; c, Schwartz; rg, Gulomb; rt, Kahh; re, Greene; qb, Williams; lhb, Labenski or Vitliano; rhb, McGlone or Vitliano; fb, Capt. Ed Brewer.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 sharp and a large crowd is expected to turn out.

MANY IMPORTANT GAMES IN WEST FOR TODAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Bonfires lifted their flames tonight before homecoming crowds on four campuses where western conference elevens were camped.

Northwestern rekindled the fire of old rivalry against Purdue, unusually significant this season because both teams aspire to big ten honors. The long shadows thrown by Iowa's bonfire were omens of ill fortune to the Old Gold followers for the invading Minnesotans, and Chicago's fire lifted to the autumn sky maroon petitions for victory over Illinois.

Notre Dame, non-conference school, plied fuel on a bonfire which welcomed alumni returning to see Indiana routed.

On all these campuses home-coming ceremonies began which will reach their peak at game time tomorrow. Scarcely less gay was Michigan's welcome to Wisconsin, which will try tomorrow to stem the onslaught of the Wolverines toward big ten supremacy.

Of the ten teams involved in tomorrow's battles, only Notre Dame appeared confident of victory. Zuppke's Illini, favorite against Chicago, were told by their tutor that they would do well to beat Stagg's team by any score. Northwestern, given the odds over Purdue, went to bed with Thistlethwaite's admonition that Purdue would be as sturdy a foe as Notre Dame. And Iowa, nursing the jinx which was militated to keep Minnesota from winning a game on Iowa field since 1914, suspected that it would need the jinx to turn back the romping Gophers.

Michigan is a decided favorite over Wisconsin, but is in no mood to anticipate victory since the Navy defeat last week, and Yost's last word was that only a pronounced triumph could give the needed impetus to the Michigan team for the crucial Ohio State contest a week hence.

Northwestern students burned Purdue's effigy and danced about the bonfire with less confidence than they pretended. Phelan's Boilermakers have reached the peak of their form and they are confident that the antics of Wilcox will be harder to suppress tomorrow than ever before.

Against Illinois the Maroons prepared to present once more a defensive game. Indiana resorted to similar tactics for Notre Dame, and Page is confident that his team will look much better than in earlier games.

At Iowa City some-comers were set for a joust between Joesting and Kutsch and Iowa planned to reinforce the Cowboy's lunges with a passing attack prepared during the last week. Minnesota, improving every week, counts on its varied offensive to win.

YALE WEEKLY CRITICIZES SECRET POLICY PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Secret football practice is criticised by the Yale Alumni Weekly, which contends, in its current issue, that the Yale eleven has lost "touch with the student body, which now only sees the team in games but which ought to be at the field daily."

"No one, seeing the brilliantly played Yale-Dartmouth game three weeks ago, could have prophesied the disastrous reversal in playing form that came in the Brown game and again followed in the Waterloo with the Army last Saturday," the Weekly says. "For the latter game was a debacle, in which a veritable hurricane descended on the Yale camp and swept it up and down the bowl practically at the will of the invaders."

MARYLAND WILL PRESENT STRONG TEAM AGAINST YALE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Maryland's football warriors came to New Haven today, had a workout in the bowl this afternoon and will battle with the Yale Bulldog tomorrow. The Old Liners gave the appearance of having plenty of bulk and it is expected that they will present a formidable defense to the Elis.

The Yale team had a long signal drill this afternoon, and many players were tried in the line and in the backfield. It is expected that the coaches will put many men into the battle tomorrow in an effort to pick the best material for the big three contests to follow.

NIAGARA AND CANISIUS NAGARA AND CANISIUS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The movement to abolish football scouting apparently has gained no headway at Niagara university and Canisius college. If charges made today are substantiated these historic rivals instead have added spying to their scouting systems.

Their annual football game will be played tomorrow with the atmosphere charged with bitterness as the result of charges of unfair tactics made today by Frank Weitzman, president of the student council of the Niagara institution. In a protest forwarded to Rev. Peter F. Cusic, president of Canisius college, Weitzman declared that the Buffalo college had been trying to steal Niagara's signals and added that "it is generally known that Canisius knew our signals before the game last year and got them in no honest way."

The incident that gave rise to the Niagara protest, according to the Weitzman statement, occurred yesterday when guards posted to insure that the purple secret practice would be secret, saw two men creeping through an orchard to a place from which the squad could be seen in action. The alarm was given and the alleged Canisius spies fled. The license of their automobile was said to be that issued to Luke Urban, Canisius coach.

Coach Urban denied that any of his squad was absent from practice Thursday and said he did not know who had used his automobile while he was attending practice. He denied any knowledge of an attempt to learn Niagara signals. Then he remarked that two Niagara students escorted from the Canisius field while his squad was practicing.

FAIR STAR TAKES SEASON'S RICHEST PURSE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(AP)— Fair Star, William Dupont's fox catcher farms filly, confounded the talent at Old Hilltop today to take the Pimlico futurity, richest of the season's eastern track stakes and bounce Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Scapa Flow, from the leadership of the two-year-old money winners, running the mile in 1:40 2-5, to win by a head over Al Waston'a Jopagan. Fair Star took down a purse of $50,650 for her Wilmington, Del., owner, including a $4,000 award to her Maryland breeding Fair Star was bred at William Woodward's Belair stud.

Jopagan netted $5,060 for his performances, and H. P. Whitney's Whiskery, who came from far back to take show money of $3,500, left fourth place to his stablemate, Bostonian. Fourth money amounted to $1,000.

E. B. McLean's Jock, the favorite, found his early pace-making efforts a bit too much for him on the turn for home and dropped back. Jockey Orville Bourassa, up on Fair Star, saved ground via the rail on the home turn and took command, but had to ride his mount to the last ounce to keep the head advantage over Jopagan, which came down the stretch at express train speed.

Fair Star brought her season's winnings to $83,150. She took the $25,000 Selima stakes at Laurel last week, also with Bourassa up. Today she paid her backers at the Pari-mutuel booths handsomely, bringing $28.20 to win, $12.10 to place and $5.90 to show on every $2 ticket.

The field of 24 nominations was cut to sixteen at the start. The mile post at Pimlico is only a short distance beyond the clubhouse turn and heretofore has been limited to 15 horses.

PROSPECT OF FOUR TITLE BOUTS IN NEW YORK SOON

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Four titular bouts for early months of the Metropolitan indoor season are in process of formation.

Steps toward the arrangement of two were taken today by Jess Mac Mahon, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, before the New York State athletic commission. MacMahon applied for permission for Fidel La Barber, world's flyweight champion, to meet Elky Clarke, European champion, in a bout for international honors, and also asked sanction for Charley "Phil" Rosenberg to engage in a couple of "tune up" bouts before risking his bantam title against Bushey Graham, of Utica, in New York, Jan. 7.

The commission delayed action on the La Barba-Clarke encounter to take under advisement McMahon's request that it be limited to ten or twelve rounds instead of the fifteen periods customary in championship goes. The Rosenberg request was refused until a license for the prospective "tune up" bouts had been obtained.

The other two battles in the making would bring together Sammy Mandell, world lightweight champion, and Sammy Vogel of Harlem, and Tiger Flowers and K. O. "Phil" Kaplan of New York in a match for the middleweight crown now held by the Georgia negro.

TIGERS AND CRIMSON HAVE LIGHT PRACTICE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Princeton and Harvard football squads today held light practice on the field where they meet tomorrow in their 29th contest. The Tigers, after the morning exercises, went out to Belmont Spring Country club where they will remain until the game. Harvard's hopes came in from their rest camp at the Oakley Country club for a light drill in the afternoon.

On the Princeton, side the chief speculation is concerning the condition of Slagle, whose value in hurling short forwards, in punting and in ball carrying, is dependent on a leg still stiff from injury of several weeks ago. Coach Horween has decided to play strong, Harvard's best defense end, instead of Saltonstall in the left wing position, and apparently will hold Art French as a rapid fire threat for he has assigned Guarnaccia to the left half position.

The probable starting lineups as announced tonight follow:

Harvard	Position	Princeton
Coady	lt	Darby
Strong	le	Stinson
Kilgour	lg	Davis
Gamache	c	Howe
Simonds	rg	Baldwin
Pratt	rt	French
Meadows	re	Moeser

AMERICAN BIKE RIDER INJURED IN BERLIN RACE

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Harris Horder, one of the two Americans in the six day bicycle race which began last night, was severely injured during a spurt tonight. He was thrown over the handle bars of his bicycle, suffering concussion of the brain. He is in a semi-conscious condition.

Horder's partner, Harry Horan, who is in seventh place, expects to team up with the German rider Huschke.

At the 35th hour, 11 o'clock tonight, the German team of Koch and Miethe was leading the field by one lap. They had covered 440 miles and gathered 18 points.

WINDHAM TO CLASH WITH CHAPMAN TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 5—Windham high school's eleven stand ready for the encounter with Chapman Tech of New London at Recreation Park gridiron here this Saturday afternoon despite the loss of back-field men through injury. It is expected that Wilkinson will be held in reserve as his ankle injury is not completely recovered. Coach Callaghan will probably start Saba at fullback, Wojick and Dawson will be the guards, Captain Buck and Boglisch or Storrs tackles and F. Connor and Loomis will carry the ends. F. Ahern will be at the calling position with Haggerty and Reed at halfbacks.

NO YALE COACHES AT PRINCETON-HARVARD GAME

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Owing to the non-scouting agreement between Yale and Princeton, no member of the Yale football coaching staff will attend the Princeton-Harvard battle at Cambridge tomorrow.

It has been the custom ever since Princeton and Harvard re-opened football relations for several of the Yale coaches to attend this game on the theory that it would be helpful in Yale's two final games of the year. The agreement between Head Coaches Jones and Roper, however, make this impossible this year.

BIG DEMAND FOR TICKETS FOR ARMY-NAVY GAME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—(AP)—Such is the demand for seats to the Army-Navy football game at Chicago, Nov. 27, that Secretary Wilbur issued a statement today explaining that the usual six tickets allotted to all members of the Navy Athletic association have been necessarily reduced to four. On October 15, the statement said, the demand for navy seats exceeded the supply by 9,000, and since that date no applications for seats have even been considered.

Tiger Harriers Win

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Princetons Cross Country team defeated New York university today 27 to 28. Individual honors went to Phil Edwards, negro star of N. Y. U., who led back home over the six-mile Van Cortlandt Park course in the fast time of 31 minutes, 39 seconds.

Would Spend Half Million To Abolish N. Y. Slums

August Heckscher, famous New York philanthropist, who has submitted to Mayor Walker, of that city, a report which advocates the raising of $500,000,000 as a fund to wipe out the present tenements and substitute better living places for the poor of the city. Half would be raised by public subscription, and half by the city and State. His report is based on a study of conditions in the slums of Europe. Rents in the new dwellings would be based on the ability of tenants to pay.

HARVARD-PRINCETON GAME HOLDS CENTER EASTERN SPORT STAGE TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)— The battle of the Tiger and Crimson each intent upon a victory that will restore tattered prestige, holds the spotlight in the eastern gridiron sector tomorrow. It is the dominating and most colorful conflict of a day that finds most of the other contenders for eastern honors, among them eight unbeaten arrays, taking matters rather early in anticipation of harder closing tests.

Harvard, because of her sensational upward march after a rocky start, has been established a slight favorite over Princeton in the opening clash of the 1926 "Big Three" series, but analysis of the rival prospects reveals little to choose between them. The Tigers, while they have been more erratic than Harvard, have greater experience and, if he is in shape, the leading individual threat of the fray in the elusive backfield star, Jake Slagle.

Upon Slagle's stocky shoulders rest much of the Tiger hopes—that and the confidence of Old Nassau's followers that their team, as it has done so often in the past, will rise to superheights in facing its ancient rivals. Harvard, on the other hand, has knit together a formidable outfit that not only is confident of stopping Slagle and his mates but of doing it effectively enough to help wipe out the memory of the seventy points that Princeton has rolled up against the Crimson in two successive years.

Harvard, scenting a real opportunity to regain the "Big Three" title after a lapse of eleven years, has come forward at an astonishing pace under the coaching of Arnold Horween. Successive triumphs over William & Mary, Dartmouth and Tufts after defeats at the hands of Geneva and Holy Cross have demonstrated Horween's unusual progress and revealed a well-balanced versatile combination.

Princeton, on the other hand, tasted defeat at the hands of the Navy and was tied by Washington and Lee, besides barely beating Amherst and Lehigh. But the Tiger has been handicapped by injuries and shakeups. Slagle has played less than the equivalent of a full game so far. The team's development has been slow but it has been pointing nevertheless for the big tests with Harvard and Yale. It may come through as it did last year when the Orange and Black horde swept through both Harvard and Yale but the prospects do not favor repetition of that sensational march.

Tradition, which covers nearly a half century of Harvard-Princeton rivalry, also will dominate several other outstanding conflicts tomorrow with such ancient foes as Pennsylvania and Penn state, West Virginia and Pittsburgh, Wesleyan and Williams, Fordham and Holy Cross renewing their feuds.

Pennsylvania, still in the running for the eastern title since the only Quaker defeat was handed out by Illinois, is favored to triumph over the Nittany Lions, who have not measured up to their former high standards so far. Pitt and West Virginia both have been upset and appear closely matched but Williams and Holy Cross are strong favorites to conquer Wesleyan and Fordham, respectively.

Brown, Navy and Army, generally rated at the top of the eastern title contending list, all have comparatively easy tests. The Middies face probably the strongest opposition in West Virginia Wesleyan but the attack that upset Michigan appears unlikely to have much difficulty winning. West Point, tuning up for the battle with Notre Dame the following week, should not be extended to overcome Franklin & Marshall. Brown's "Iron Men," opposing Norwich, expect a let-up after strenuous tussles with Yale and Dartmouth.

New York university, Boston college, Lafayette and Maine, other undefeated teams, may meet a few surprises. Chick Meehan's N. Y. U. outfit faces the rugged Carnegie eleven which blanked Pittsburgh, while Boston college tackles Harry Struhldreher's Versatile Villanova team. Maine meets an old rival, Bowdoin, in what promises to be a keen fought game. Lafayette, having overcome Washington & Jefferson, does not anticipate much trouble adding Rutgers to its list of victims.

Dartmouth and Cornell have tune-up contests in preparation for their own classic at Ithaca next Saturday. The Green, smarting from the sting of three straight setbacks, meets Boston university while Gil Doble's forces entertain St. Bonaventure.

Syracuse experiences no let-up in its busy schedule, opposing Georgetown as an opponent only a week before the annual battle of the Orange with Colgate, which is taking matters easily against Providence tomorrow. The Syracuse-Georgetown tilt, with the Orange slightly favored, promises to develop one of the day's most interesting battles.

Yale and Columbia round out the slate with two games of intersectional interest. Neither is seriously threatened however, with the Blue having Maryland as an opponent and Columbia playing host to William & Mary.

Principal games tomorrow and last year's scores:

Princeton at Harvard 36-0.
Maryland at Yale 14-43.
West Virginia Wesleyan at Navy, no game.
Franklin & Marshall at Army, no game.
Georgetown at Syracuse, no game.
William & Mary at Columbia, no game.
Carnegie at New York university, no game.
Maine at Bowdoin, 28-14.
Union at Amherst, no game.
Wesleyan at Williams, 10-2.
Boston university at Dartmouth, no game.
Fordham at Holy Cross, 17-0.
Villanova at Boston college, no game.
New Hampshire at Tufts, 8-6.
Providence at Colgate, 7-19.
St. Bonaventure at Cornell, no game.
Bethany Atwash & Jeff, 0-20.
West Virginia at Pittsburgh 7-18.
Lehigh at Bucknell, no game.
Norwich at Brown, no game.

Tigers vs. Nutmegs

A large crowd is expected at J. B. Martin Park grid-iron on Sunday afternoon when the Nutmegs and Greenville Tigers battle for the city football championship.

Both teams are in A-1 shape for the fray which be fast and furious from start to finish with each squad roster being profusely dotted with players well known as being adept at the grid-iron sport.

The field has been roped and lined in anticipation of the record crowd expected.

The kickoff is slated for 2:30 sharp.

In 1823 two members of the Paris Jockey club played a game of regulation billiards on horseback, the horses having been brought up the stairs into the billiard room of the club with great difficulty. The game was for 12 points up, and was finished in 20 minutes.

SPORTING NOTES

Howard H. Jones, the old Yale gridiron sage, appears to have turned out a fifty team at the University of Southern California this fall.

During the six years that Gil Doble has been coaching the Cornell varsity elevens the Red and White has lost an average of only one game a year.

For three seasons beginning with 1921 his teams won every game.

Football between Brown and Dartmouth is now a case of even-Stephen. Since 1894 the Bruins and Green have played 21 games, with ten victories to the credit of each. In 1896 the game resulted in a tie score of 10 to 10.

The Army victory over Yale to the tune of 36 to 0 is the biggest score ever recorded in the football games between these two institutions. The biggest score Yale has ever run up against the Army was 21 in 1923, while the biggest Army score was 11 in 1904, when West Point defeated the Elis for the first time, 11 to 6.

Although more than a quarter of a century has elapsed since Prof. A. A. Stagg began the work of turning out football teams at the University of Chicago, the veteran coach is still active on the job. Recent reports that he intended to retire at the close of the present season were promptly and vigorously denied by Amos Alonzo.

The National Collegiate Athletic association will hold its annual meeting December 29-30 in New York city.

The overhand throw in major league pitching first came into unrestricted use in the season of 1884. Up to that time underhand pitching was the rule.

The memory of Goldsmith Maid, the greatest money-earning trotter of all time, has been perpetuated by the erection of a granite monument over the grav of the famous mare at Trenton, N. J.

Mountain climbing is a fairly modern sport, although as early as the 17th century some hardy adventurers enjoyed this pastime. In 1787 Balmat ascended Mount Blanc, but the systematic and scientific climbing of mountains may be said to date from the year 1857, when the first Alpine club was organized in London.

The memory of Walter Camp will be honored on twenty-five gridirons in various parts of the country today. Principal games at which tribute will be paid the "Father of Football" include Virginia-Washington & Lee, Stanford-Santa Clara, Bucknell-Lehigh, Alabama Poly-Georgia, Lafayette-Rutgers, Michigan - Wisconsin, Rochester-Clarkson, and five contests in the Missouri Valley conference.

The truth is out about the latest gridiron fashions. The silk pants sported by Notre Dame, New York university and Holy Cross players, among others are actually made of satin on a heavy cotton backing. Strength and 25 per cent less weight are their chief recommendations, but they are said not to be as difficult to grip as the ordinary canvas uniforms. Hip pads of Belgian foam rubber are an additional and vital feature of the new outfit.

Jacques Fournier, although mentioned as an eligible for the managerial vacancy of the Boston Red Sox, seems more likely to land a minor league job, possibly with Mobile of the Southern association. The gossips figure that Fournier may become associated in the ownership of the southern club with Milton Stock, also a former Brooklyn player.

Six billiard stars, including Ralph Greenleaf and Frank Taberski, former champions, left yesterday for Philadelphia to participate in the world's pocket billiard championship starting today. Pasquale Natalie of Atlantic City, N. J., Harry Oswald of Pittsburgh, C. D. Prindle of Appleton, Wis., and Charles Harmon, New York state champion, also are entered for the tournament.

BAKER RECOVERS $76.56 IN DAMAGES FROM GILMAN
(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 5.—Regular session of third district court was held at 9 o'clock in the district court rooms on Friday morning with Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench. The morning session was taken up with the trial of a civil case on book account brought by James B. Baker of Wakefield, R. I., for balance due from Henry C. Gilman of Westerly. Court found for the plaintiff to recover $76.56 and costs.

In the action in bastady proceedings, tried at court two weeks ago when decision was reserved, in the case, state vs. James Green, verdict was entered when Green was adjudged the putative father of a child. Notice of an appeal was filed and Catherine O'Toole became surety in the sum of $700.

Writ entered before the call of the docket, James W. Burke vs. William S. Hartridge, if unanswered during the day to be continued one week.

Writ of trespass and ejectment entered by Marc D. Picolto vs. Lawrence Wilcox, alias, and Edward Greenhalgh vs. Eleanor Baker.

Judge Williams disposed of the dockets as follows:

Criminal docket— State vs. Mary Neugent. Continued one month.

State vs. Harry Stewart. Continued one month.

State vs. Mary R. Bianchi. Continued one month.

State vs. Alice L. McDonald. Continued one week.

State vs. James Miller. Continued two weeks.

Civil docket—Charles A. Fuller, collector of taxes of the town of Richmond, vs. Walter J. Larkin and Joseph Girard. When the cases were called, Collector Fuller arose in the courtroom and declared that he "never made any complaint nor authorized anyone to use my name in these cases."

Charles A. Fuller, collector of taxes of Richmond, vs. Ford A. Green. On request of Attorney Rooke the case was placed on the nisi docket.

James B. Baker vs. Henry C. Gilman, alias, Ready. When the case was called James F. Tully, assistant paymaster of the Peacedale Manufacturing Co., arose and said that he was under summons to appear at this court session as a witness. As Attorney Ferguson for the defendant had not then appeared in court, the case was marked continued temporarily.

Vincenzo Turco vs. Antonio Di Petro. Continued nisi.

Edward J. Reguccl vs. Thomas A. Korea. Continued one weka.

Charles Hagart vs. Marie T. Talty. Continued one week.

Trial calendar—With the appearance of Attorney Ferguson, who informed the court that he had been unavoidably detained, the action on book account, Baker vs. Gilman was taken up. The plaintiff, a cripple, was brought into the courtroom in a chair, and excused from rising to be sworn. In presenting the case Attorney McKenna told the court that the defendant had filed a plea in set off. Attorney Ferguson said that the bill of particulars filed by the plaintiff had a great many items and time would be saved if an exception of 74 cents on May 20th were permitted the defendant agreeing on the others.

James B. Baker, keeper of a store in Wakefield, testified that the total trading bill with him amounted to $235.35, less a list of credits given totaling $158.69, left a balance due of $76.56. Cross examination by Ferguson showed that the defendant made an assignment of his wages at the Peacedale Woolen Co. on May 13, 1925, to the plaintiff and that the pay envelope was brought to him and returned unopened to Gilman, who paid him amounts on account from it.

Henry C. Gilman in his own behalf said that he was nearly destitute when the assignment was made, having his wife and two children to support and said that he had paid Baker $186.21 when $116.93 was due.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following transfer: Nov. 3. Eli Barrowclough to Antonio Algiere and wife a certain lot or parcel of land with buildings and improvements on the east side of Rocket street.

The death of Jaynes Everett Wilbur occurred on Friday morning at the Westerly hospital at the age of 63 years. He was the son of the late Captain and Mrs. William Wilbur of Lower Pawcatuck. Surviving him are his wife, Annie A. Collins Wilbur; a brother, Allison Wilbur of Stonington; sister, Mrs. Fred Surber of Lower Pawcatuck nad a stepson, Winfred A. Collins of Worcester, Mass. Mr. Wilbur was a Seventh-day adventist and for 40 years proprietor of a barber shop in Westerly.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Harvey Gavitt were held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home on Washington avenue, where her death occurred on Tuesday. Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church of which the lecseased was a member and Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church officiated at the private services. Interment was made in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Edwin B. Kenyon, Asa Noyes, Thomas L. Breen and David A. Lowry.

At her home, 17 Thompson street, Pawcatuck, on Thursday night occurred the death of Mrs. Margaret Sweeney Murphy. She was born in Ireland and coming to America while young, made her home in Pawcatuck for 65 years. She is survived by two sons, Patrick and John Murphy and a daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Labonte of White Rock.

Rev. Luther C. Coburn of North Woodbury, Conn., was a Westerly visitor the past week, when he accepted the call to become the pastor of the Pawcatuck Congregational church, which had extended him an invitation to become its pastor.

Andrew W. Fisher left Westerly on Friday morning for a business trip to Boston.

Charles A. Fuller, collector of taxes of the town of Richmond, R. I., was a business visitor in Westerly on Friday morning.

Chief of Police Elmer E. Smith of the town of Richmond, R. I., on Friday was a Westerly business caller.

The flag on the pole in the parklet east of the Westerly waiting station of the New Haven road has been flown at half mast for the past three days out of respect for John Guyry, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, who died at his home, 168 Mechanic street on Wednesday.

WORKMAN KILLED AT BRADFORD GRANITE WORKS
(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 6—William Robertson, 21, of Bradford, was almost instantly killed Friday afternoon at about 2:45 o'clock at the Sullivan Granite works in Bradford. Robertson was at work in the quarry when the grout tub attached to the derrick broke away from the hoisting cable and crashed down upon his head. The man was knocked to the ground and death was instantaneous. Medical Examiner Michael H. Scanlon was summoned and gave permission for the removal of the body.

Robertson, who came to this country only a short time ago, has been employed by the granite company but a short time. He came here from Scotland and has made his home with his sister Mrs. William Morgan who resides near the quarry.

NOANK

J. W. Geer supervisor of schools of the borough of Groton was a recent Noank caller.

The Men's club of the Baptist church gave a banquet to their friends of the village and over 100 attended. It was a chicken pie supper served by the Philathea class. The evening opened with songs by the class, with Frank Scaplier accompanist. Fred Evarts was toastmaster. James L. Case of Norwich gave a talk on "Stop! Look! Listen!" and everybody enjoyed it. Rev. Mr. Weise spoke and W. I. Spicer, superintendent of the Sunday school gave an address.

Herbert Fitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fitch who left Noank about 15 years ago to make good in the world, picked Jacksonville, Fla., for his home. This week his parents got word that he is ill in a hospital and has undergone an operation for appendicitis and is on the danger list. Two doctors and a nurse are attending him. A telegram came Thursday that he is a shade better. His friends in the village hope for his speedy recovery.

When the college football season opened this fall, two young men of the village, John Cammerey and Edward Labonty made an odd bet. They are raising moustaches. If Harvard beats Yale Cammerey will shave his off and if Yale wins Labonty is going to leave his on. If it is a tie game, both will shave. If one fellow shaves before the game, he will give his pal a box of cigars and if Labonty catches his opponent with his moustache off, he will get a pair of shoes.

An old-fashioned husking bee, the only one held in the village for many years, was given by the American Mechanics lodge, in D. of A hall, Thursday evening. Fully 300 crowded the hall. Everybody was kept busy husking corn and many red ears were found and the girl next to the discoverer of the ear got a kiss. Schoolmaker's orchestra played for dancing. Prof. Roy Lamb of Fort Hill called off for the square sets. Cider, doughnuts and pie were the refreshments. The hall was decorated with black and orange paper. People from Westerly, Wakefield and Norwich were among those attending.

George Main Jr., of the lighthouse steamer Hawthorn is home for a few days.

Thermometers are being extensively used by fishing keels. Cod and Haddock usually exist in waters where the temperature averages between 40 and 50 degrees.

MYSTIC

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Edith Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Austin of Old Mystic at the home of Mrs. Emily B. Holmes on Mystic road, Wednesday evening. Miss Austin was invited under the impression that it was Mrs. Holmes' birthday, which was the day before.

All assembled in the living room and turned out the lights. A clothes basket containing the gifts was placed in front of Miss Austin and the lights were turned on. She then realized that the object of the party was a shower for her. The basket contained useful gifts from those present. The evening was passed with music listening to the radio and playing games. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Those present were Mrs. Joseph Austin, Mrs. J. Harold Williams, Mrs. Horace Williams, Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. Marjorie Caswell, Mrs. Joseph Radigan, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Fannie Perry and Misses Agnes Austin, Rachel Buddington, Esther Caswell, Dorothy Beckwith and Mrs. Holmes. Miss Austin is to become the bride of James Stanton.

A union service has been arranged for the evening of Armistice day, Nov. 11th by St. Mark's Episcopal church, Methodist Episcopal church, Union Baptist church to be held in the Congregational church at 7:30. Rev. Louis J. Shepler, pastor of the Union Baptist church, will deliver the address.

Mystic Grange, No. 171 met in their hall in the Main building Thursday night. Worthy Master L. O. Allyn was in the chair. Twelve applications for membership were received. Prizes of $2.50 gold pieces will be offered the 8th grades of Mystic academy and Broadway schools, for the best essay on a grange topic. The members voted to buy the player piano that a member had secured for them. Officers were elected for 1927; most were re-elections or elections to another office. The first man to vote at election Tuesday was Dr. James H. Weeks. The first woman was Mrs. Ethel Briggs.

A reward has been offered by the warden and burgesses for information in regard to the person or persons who rung the false alarm Monday evening from box 14, Bay View avenue, also doing damage to the box.

Many from the borough attended the Daughters of America's husking bee and dance in Noank Thursday evening.

BOLTON

Mrs. Clarence E. Lewis of Bolton had a narrow escape from possible death last week at her home here. Mrs. Lewis went out to the field to see her husband. He stepped the team and talked with his wife who stood in front of the knives of the mowing machine. Neither realized the fact and when the interview was over, Mr. Lewis picked up the reins. The horses started instantly and Mrs. Lewis was knocked to the ground and severely cut about the ankles by the pointed shields over the blades. The machine was out of gear, otherwise both legs would probably have been severed.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord and son, Morgan, and Edwin Lawton attended the Yale-Army game at New Haven Saturday.

The Women's League of Voters met at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Sumner Thursday afternoon.

Roger Rose of Hartford and George O. Rose and his sister, Elizabeth Rose were in Hebron Sunday, attended church at St. Peter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Burpham and daughter of South Windsor were guests at Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor's recently.

Miss Louise Hutchinson spent Thursday night at the home of her cousins, Miss Dorothy Sumner in Hartford.

Mrs. Thomas Bentley, Mrs. Elsie M. Jones and Judge F. White Sumner were in Hartford Wednesday on business.

The representative elected in Bolton was Mrs. Maude L. Woodward, r.

Roger Rose of New York is visiting his brother George and sister Elizabeth. He has been transferred to Hartford where he will make his home.

Mrs. Annie B. Johnson of Manchester was in town Tuesday.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The columns of The Bulletin of 50 years ago this week were largely devoted to political gatherings and parades. That week what was considered the "biggest parade ever seen in this section" was held with nearly 3,000 men in line. The city was brightly illuminated from one end to the other and the discharge of fireworks during the parade was almost incessant. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of 1876 are as follows:

Monday, Oct. 30, 1876—The company of Boys in Blue, fourth district, sixty torches, with drum corps, made a visit to Fitchville Saturday night. The Yantic club joined and almost every house in that village was illuminated. The boys made a fine display marching about and cheering in acknowledgment At 9 o'clock they reached Fitchville where they were heartily welcomed. They fully appreciated a bountiful supper which the ladies had spread on tables outside the village hall.

The New London Northern railroad company have completed the work of blasting through the ledge at Yantic and have thus been able to make an additional turnout, north from their depot extending to the bridge. With the land lately purchased they have now every facility for accommodating their increasing business at that place.

Republican rally at Scotland. — A large and spirited meeting welcomed Colonel Wait at Scotland on Thursday evening. The glee club from Willimantic was in attendance and sang several spirited and patriotic songs.

Tuesday, Oct. 31, 1876—Serious Accident—As Mr. Frederick Church was passing Mr. E. W. Chappell's store on Market street yesterday afternoon a bale of rags being hoisted to the story above slipped from the slings and fell upon him, crushing him to the ground. A physician was at once called and he was carried to his home on High street. It was thought that no bones were broken, but his injuries are very serious.

The Hayes and Wheeler Veterans—The veterans, nearly 200 strong, met for drill and business last evening. Capt. Henry Peale was elected commander of the battalion in place of Gen. Edward Harland promoted; J. H. Jewett, captain, vice Peale, promoted; George C. Satchell, first lieutenant; John Martin, second lieutenant; T. J. Loomis, sergeant. Col. Peale will announce his staff Wednesday morning.

Mr. Beecher's Lecture—Mr. Beecher was late in reaching the city last night, reaching New London on the 5:30 Shore Line express train, and having to hire an engine for $26 to bring him here. His audience consisted of over 400 persons, a very large majority of them being ladies. In place of the lecture, "Hard Times" which he was announced to deliver, he gave that on "Wealth".

Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1876—"Tilden and Reform"—Tilden and reform was the watchword in the democratic meeting last night. And during the day three of the Tilden reformers were put under arrest for fraud and are likely to be still further reformed.

Democratic Fraud—Three democrats were arrested yesterday for alleged violation of the laws in fraudulent naturalizations. One was a democrat who was, as claimed, fraudulently naturalized in the city court and the two others were his witnesses. All three were arrested by United States Marshal Bates and taken to Willimantic on the afternoon train to appear before United States Commissioner Hall.

The Parade Last Night—The parade last night was an exceptionally fine one. The companies, all of them turned out with full ranks and the men in march and manual showed the result of drill and attention to it. The entire force numbered nearly 600 men, the cavalry and the Zouaves company turning out each more than 100 men.

Thursday, Nov. 2, 1876—The Meeting in Breed Hall—A large crowd including many ladies, filled Breed hall last evening to listen to the Hon. O. H. Platt of Meriden. The speaker was introduced by Lorenzo Blackstone in a few appropriate remarks and proceeded in a lengthy and elaborate argument, to set forth the claims of the rival parties and contrast them with their part records.

Remember the Sandwiches — We need only to say to the ladies of the city that the committee who ask for sandwiches for the Boys in Blue tonight, rely on the old time hospitality of the Norwich matrons. The hall will be open for the reception of contributions after 1f o'clock.

Tuesday evening at Sam Brushel, an Indian, was going through Water street to Ripley's hall, a party of Scalpers beat and maltreated him fearfully. Another case of Tilden's reform.

Tom Waller is going fooling around in Colchester tonight. Col. Watt didn't really need any more strength in that town, but he'll have to accept the increased majority which Tom is bound to secure for him.

Friday, Nov. 3, 1876—Hayes and Wheeler!—Marching to Victory—Three Thousand Men in Line—Where is Tilden?—Never since the days of 1860, has there been such a display for the Union and Liberty, as was made in Norwich last night. Eastern Connecticut showed the spirit of her men and women in one glorious movement for Hayes and Wheeler. Never in the history of the city has there been such a general and such a superb lighting as that of last night. General Edward Harland was chief marshal. All through Main street the illuminations were superb while the discharge of fire works was incessant. The procession numbered nearly 3,000 men. It was the biggest parade ever seen in this section. "Glory enough for one night, boys".

Mr. Cogswell had the flag on Lincoln avenue raised yesterday for various reasons.

The Advertiser is very loud just now on the subject of corruption. We would be glad to hear further from it on the subject of those naturalization frauds.

Saturday, Nov. 5, 1876—The Great Parade—Speaking of the great republican parade of Thursday night, the New London Telegram, (whose editor and general business manager were in Norwich to see it) says: The republican demonstration in Norwich last evening was by all odds the grandest ever seen in this part of the state. The city was ablaze from one end to the other and the streets were crowded with people to an extent never seen there before.

We learn with regret that Mr. Isaac Plant of the firm of Plant Brothers has been obliged to abandon business temporarily owing to continued ill health and intends to return to Europe.

A full and enthusiastic caucus of republicans to nominate candidates for representatives was held in the city hall last evening. Two splendid nominations were made—Amos W. Prentice and Horace Whittaker.

COLUMBIA

At the annual election of Columbia grange the following were elected:

Master, J. Henry Lafleur; overseer, Richard Dimon; lecturer, Lillian Rice; steward, Eugene Lafleur; assistant steward Stanley Field; chaplain, Cora Hutchins; treasurer, William Wolff; secretary, Alice Hunt; gate keeper, Wm. Van Ness; Ceres, Margaret Hutchins; Pomona, Lila Seeley; Flora, Marie Field; lady assistant, Gladys Rice; new member of the executive committee for three years, Clayton E. Hunton. Following the election, a harvest supper was served.

The Ladies' Aid society held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs Lester Hutchins, nineteen members being present. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The names

The anniversary service of the of seven new members were presented. church is to be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, instead of in the evening, as previously announced.

Thought his case was hopeless
Resinol cleared away pimples in a week

Lexington, Miss., March 5:—"I had been suffering from shaving pimples on my neck for years and, I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Resinol Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this cure! You can be sure that henceforth you have one more loyal booster for your product." (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 8 Bloomfield St.

When Pa Is Sick

When Pa is sick,
He's scared to death
And Ma and us
Just hold our breath.
He crawls in bed
An' puffs and grunts
And does all kinds of crazy stunts.

He wants "Doc" Brown
An' mighty quick
For when Pa's sick.
He's awful sick.
He grasps and groans
An' sort o' signs,
He talks o' queer
An' rolls his eyes.

Ma jumps and runs
An' all of us
An' all the house
Is in a fuss
And peace an' joy
Is mighty skeerse—
When Pa is sick,
It's somethin' fierce.

Still, Still With Thee

Still, still with Thee, when purple morning breaketh,
When the bird waketh, and the shadows flee;
Fairer than morning, lovlier than daylight,
Dawns the sweet consciousness, I am with Thee.

Alone with Thee, amid the mystic shadows,
The solemn hush of nature newly born;
Alone with Thee in breathless adoration,
In the calm dew and freshness of the morn.

As in the dawning o'er the waveless ocean
The image of the morning-star doth rest,
So in the stillness, Thou beholdest only
Thine image in the waters of my breast.

Still, still with Thee! As to each newborn morning,
A fresh and solemn splendor still is given,
So does this blessed consciousness, awaking,
Thee and heaven.

When sinks the soul, subdued by toil, to slumber,
Its closing eyes look up to Thee in prayer;
Sweet the repose beneath Thy wings o'er shading,
But sweeter still, to wake and find Thee there.

So shall it be at last, in that bright morning,
When the soul waketh and life's shadows flee;
O in that hour, fairer than daylight dawning,
Shall rise the glorious thought—I am with Thee.

When Autumn Says Good-Bye

There's a chilly sort o' feelin', in the kisses o' the breeze
As it shakes the droopin' feathers from the branches o' the trees
An' the songs it keeps a singin' have a mournful kind o' tone,
Sort o' vergin' on the borders 'twixt a chuckle 'nd a moan.

The sun seems undecided whether it had ort to quit,
Or had ort to keep a shinin' for a little longer yit,
An' there seems a sad expression on the features o' the sky,
When the Autumn is preparin' fur to say goodbye.

Little birds are mighty busy flittin' on their winter coats,
An' there seems a touch o'pathos in the music o' their notes
As they see the flowers droopin' 'an the leaves all turnin' brown,
An' the merry mountain campers headin' back towards the town.
On the peaks the snowny banners o'the winter greet the sight,
An' the trees seem dead an' shrouded in their chilly gowns o' white—
Tell you what, it makes a feller jes' seem sad enough to cry,
When the Autumn is preparin' fur to say goodbye.

Soon the earth will beam an' sparkle in a gown o' flashy frost,
The trees will shed their wrappin's when they seem to need 'em most,
An' the music o' the breezes will be pitched in sadder key
As they whisper consolation to the stricken bush an' tree.
There's a sad, oneasy feelin' in the loyal cyclerp's breast
When he contemplates the idea that his wheel mus' take a rest.
An' he thinks about the winter with a soft, subdidden sigh,
When the autumn is preparin' fur to say good bye.

The Charmed Picture

Thine eyes are charmed, thine earnest eyes.
Thou image of the dead!
A spell within their sweetness lies,
A virtue thence is shed,
Oft in their meek bua light enshrined,

A blessing seems to be,
And sometimes there my wayward mind
A still reproach can see.

And quivering through a tear,
And sometimes pity soft and deep
Even as if love in heaven could weep,
For grief left drooping here.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Nov. 10—Club No. 1 meets at chamber of commerce rooms, Willimantic.

And oh, my spirit needs that balm!
Needs it 'midst fitful mirth!
And in the night hour's haunted
Calm and by the lonely hearth.

Look on me thus, when hollow praise
Hath made the weary pine,
For one true tone of other days,
One glance of love like thine.

Look on me thus when hollow praise
Hath made the weary pine,
For one true tone of other days,
One glance of love like thine!

Look on me thus when sudden glee
Hears my quick heart along,
On wings that struggle to be free,
A burst of skylight song,
In vain, in vain—too soon are felt

The wounds they cannot flee;
Better in childhood tears to melt,
Pouring my soul on thee!
Sweet face, that o'er my childhood shone,

Whence is thy power of change,
Thus ever shadowing back my own,
The rapid and the strange?

Whence are thee charmed—those earnest eyes?
I know the mystery well!
In my own trembling bosom lies,
The mystery of the spell!

Of memory, conscience, love, 'tis born,
Oh! change no longer, thou!
For ever be the blessing worn
On thy pure thoughtful brow!

ABOUT MRS. HEMANS

Dear Social Corner: Just going to write a bit about Felicia Dorothea Browne Hemans. She was born in Liverpool, September 1793. Her childhood was passed among the wild mountain scenery of Wales. Before she was 19 years of age, she had a printed collection of verses before the public world. From this period to the end of her history she sent forth volume after volume, each surpassing its predecessor in tenderness and beauty. When 19, she married Captain Hemans who was of an irritable temperament—his health injured by military life. They lived unhappily for several years when Capt. Hemans left England for Italy and never returned. Mrs. Hemans continued to reside with her mother, devoting her time to literature and to the education of her five sons in whom all her affections from this time were centered. The death of her mother in 1827 induced Mrs. Hemans to leave Wales and reside near Liverpool. While here she made two visits to Scotland and was warmly received by Jeffrey, Walter Scott and others. After her second tour to Scotland she went to Dublin. Her domestic sorrows, and close attentions to literary pursuits had impaired her health. Her decline became rapid and her poems written at this time were marked by a melancholy despondency—yet with Christian resignation. After an illness singularly painful, she died May 16, 1835, in her 42nd year and was buried in the vault of St. Anne's in Dublin.

Isha: Yes, Cratia has heard the good news. I've been told the location of the bridge is to be changed. Westminster will be changed too. May we live to see the house between the two roads catering to tourists, good supply of spring water, fine little park in front with filling station where the spruce tree stood that furnished many pupils of T. M. Peck with gum, they chewed. May the poison ivy in cemetery and on the pretty shade trees east of church be killed so children can play under the tree without fear of being poisoned. One of my family suffered from this vine from working in cemetery there. We are very glad that conditions are to be changed.

A QUARTETTE OF RECIPES

Dear Corner Friends: I think you will like these recipes if you give them a trial.

Boston Cream Filling: Beat all together, egg, 3-4 cup of sugar, 1-3 cup of flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups of milk. Set in boiling water, stir constantly until thick and smooth, and taste of raw flour is gone. Remove from fire, add 1 tablespoon of butter and beat until butter is well blended When cool, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and it's ready to use.

Fish Bisque: Here is a nice recipe for leftover fish. Melt one tablespoon butter, stir in 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Gradually add 1 pint milk. In the meantime add a quart of water or of light-colored soup stock, 2 cups of any kind of cooked fish—halibut, cod, haddock, etc, 1-3 cup of fine bread crumbs, 1-2 teaspoon onion juice and 1 teaspoon of minced parsley. Combine the two mixtures and season to taste. If desired table sauce may be used. Please try and report.

Nut Bread: I am answering your request to another, but as this is my initial effort, I hope I shall be welcomed by the other writers. Here is an excellent recipe for nut bread: One beaten egg, 1-3 cup sugar, salt, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 cup chopped walnut meats. Mix in order. Let rise 30 minutes. If soft crust is wanted rub melted butter over top a few minutes after taking from oven.

Velvet Lunch Cake: Here is a recipe for a spice cake called velvet lunch cake. Will someone please try and report? One egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1-3 cup shortening (do not melt.) Beat well. One cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and salt, about 2 cups of flour. Sometimes I bake this in layer cake tins.

GREETINGS FROM VOTAMI

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: I just finished reading the Social Corner page and thought it was time for me to write.

Azile: Didn't we have a pleasant afternoon together last Monday?

Cessy: How are the canaries?

Caro: How did the pictures come out, the ones you took in 31?

Peggy Alder: Do you know anything about a Hallowe'en card, and who do you think?

Rural Free Delivery: I wish I were sitting in front of a fireplace.

Samantha's Unpleasant Experience

Dear Cornerites: I wrote last to thank the sisters for so kindly remembering me during my long illness last winter. When at last I was able to be about the doctor said, "What are you going to do about it? You must not stay in this house another winter—not enough sunshine for you."

So she began a season of unrest until we at last found and bought a bungalow with plenty of sunny windows, steam heat, etc. We moved in but couldn't seem to find room for the refrigerator anywhere, except in the cellar which is a combination cellar and garage.

I took a notion I would make a cherry pie so went down cellar for the cherries in the refrigerator, got half way up the stairs (which are narrow, and have no railing) when I thought I wanted something else from down there, and in turning on the stairs one foot slipped off and I hit on the cement cellar bottom about eight feet one side of the stairs. No bones broken, but my back injured so badly that all through the torrid weather of August I had to lie flat on my back, couldn't turn at all. Then was able to get around on crutches, and just now have got limbered up so that I was able to take a nice walk this afternoon.

I read the letters every week and miss the letters from Huldy, Practical Polly, Theoda and other charter members of the Corner.

Theoda: The begonia slip you gave me is getting a nice start.

I have a box of pansies just coming up in the attic. The seed came the day I fell, so did not get planted out of doors. So am going to try growing them in a cool room for next spring's planting. For any who have known my former address will say that it is now 19 Franklin street.

Best wishes for all, from

SAMANTHA.

HINTS THAT COME IN HANDY

Dear Cornerites: Did you know you could make a novel dry dust mop from an old discarded broom? Saw off the handle next to where the wire it. Now cut old stocking legs in strips—first wind a strip completely to the end, sew and tack it around. Now begin sewing the strips to this. Continue the sewing one on top of the other until the mop is of the desired size; saturate with kerosene and let dry. You will have a good soft dust mop without any extra expense.

Get two wooden egg boxes from your grocer. Put one on top of the other lengthwise. You will find that there is a partition in each box which acts as a shelf, and with the boxes joined making three shelves in all; now with any kind of cloth preferred and have a curtain of the cloth hang down the front to cover the inside of the box.

This makes a dandy utility box to put under a stair way as it takes up very little room, being tall and narrow, and holds a lot of things—fine for hats, magazines, etc.

Empty spools are handy to put your scissors in if you are to travel, also for crochet hooks and sometimes I use them knitting needles.

The spools make a very pretty candle holder for a child's birthday party; set the spools in a pan of melted paraffine, let get cold, fit the pan with water up to the top of the spools, put the candle into the spool, light the candle and let burn to the water's edge.

A fine table mat for hot dishes can be made from the top of an old straw hat, the edge should be bound with tape.

An old corn popper from which the handle is broken makes an excellent drainer when frying doughnuts.

For a good broom holder nail two spools to the wall about two inches apart and hang the broom upside down between.

A broken phonograph record makes an excellent iron smoother. Just run the iron over it. Try using an old telephone book as an iron smoother, too.

GREETINGS FROM FOXGLOVE

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: Voting day! Have you all voted this nice stormy day? I have. Today is such a nasty day after such a beautiful one as yesterday.

Kitty Lou: A thousand thanks for the dear little handy pin ball. It goes with me every time I go and has come in handy more than once.

Dear Pedro: We did not get to New London this year. Would certainly love to have you see the country as we saw it yesterday. It would give you lots to think about.

Olga: Whirlwind and I enjoyed our few minutes visit with you, even if it was on the sidewalk.

Olive and Jennie: So glad to see you Pomona day.

Oh we have had such wonderful times everywhere to meet with the Social Corner. I only wish we lived nearer. I know if we did we would not miss a Social Corner meeting if we could possibly help it.

Mavis: What has become of you? Why so silent? Who owes the letter?

Twice Twenty: Was very much disappointed that Whirlwind and I could not get to you this summer. Cheer up, maybe next summer we'll have better luck.

Sis Hopkins: How are you? Am always so glad to see you. I just love to watch your eyes sparkle when we talk with you.

Effie M: We are going to try and get to Willimantic next week. Shall we see you?

Oh dear, there are lots more I want to talk to this morning but I have taken so much space, it will not give someone else a chance. All sick, bereaved and shut-ins, my love goes to you.

Best wishes to you all.

MAKING PIES AND OTHER THINGS

Dear Cornerites: I have read considerable about pie making in the Corner and it is certainly an art to make a good pie. Some people dislike to be called a cook—but if you are cooking, demonstrating cooking or what ever you are doing in that line, you can't be anything but a cook, and as the editor of one of the leading papers in New York says "It is a talent to be proud of."

Here is a great help when you are making a juicy pie. Take 1 tablespoon of flour, stir up with a little water and spread around the edge of the crust and when you put on your top crust it will hold the juice in. If you don't believe it, try it.

Do you wish to know how to make a delicious chicken pie?

For luncheon there is no more attractive way of serving chicken than making an individual chicken pie.

Individual Chicken Pies: 1-2 cup of butter or lard, 2 cups flour, 2 level teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, about 1-2 to 2-3 cup milk.

Stew until tender a large fat fowl, cool, remove the meat from the bones filling small earthen baking dishes half full. Add a few slices of carrot, two boiled button onions. Pour over gravy, thickened with flour, to almost cover chicken Cover with crust made by sifting flour, baking powder, salt together four times. Work butter in with your fingers until like meal, add enough cold top milk to make a soft dough, add well beaten egg. Spread over top of each with enough pastry to cover it. Slit center to allow steam to escape and bake in hot oven.

Here is a favorite way of cooking fresh killed chicken, say the next day after it is killed.

Cut chicken [illegible] roughly, roll in flour. Fry in hot butter until browned but not cooked through. Cool, rub paprika all over each piece and put in saucepan. Pour over one quart of canned tomatoes, one small onion chopped fine, little salt, cover and simmer until done. Pour over one pint of cream sauce made as follows: 1 cup of milk, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, blend flour and butter, stir in hot milk and cook until smooth.

Another Chicken Pie: 1 chicken cooked, 1-2 lb cooked veal, 4 ounces of bacon, 2 tablespoons of butter, 3 hard boiled eggs, chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Cut chicken and veal in small pieces, season with salt and pepper. Line baking dish with a layer of pastry, place in the bottom a layer of veal, then a layer of chicken, a slice of bacon, chopped parsley, hard boiled eggs. Continue this until the ingredients are used up. Use stock from chicken to keep from being dry. Cut strips of pastry, lay over top of dish, bake in moderate oven 1 1-2 hours. If desired serve with mushrooms. Saute them in butter.

Pastry for Pie: 2 cups flour, 3-4 cup of butter and lard mixed, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, ice water sufficient to hold flour together, 1 teaspoon sugar. Sift flour and salt into a bowl, chop shortening with a knife into the flour if you wish add egg very gradually, which has been well beaten and mixed with the lemon juice. Allow pastry to stand in ice box for an hour. This will improve it very much.

Meat Loaf: Mix one pound of beef for a stew (put through the chopper) 1-4 cup butter, 1 1-4 cup of bread-crumbs, 1 beaten egg. Mix well together, season with 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Put in casserole and spread thickly with the following paste: 2 tablespoons of prepared mustard with one tablespoon of lemon juice and 1-4 teaspoon of salt. Pour boiling water in the bottom of the pan, about 1 cup, and baste the loaf with this hot water and it will be nice and juicy. Boil potatoes and mash. To serve with them baked apples are nice.

WOMEN'S FRIENDSHIP

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I haven't answered your letter concerning women's friendship. I have been thinking that it is a pity that there is no more real friendship between women. Now almost any girl can win the admiration of some man, but it takes a great deal more charm and force of character, to attract a woman and to make her and keep her as a friend.

There must be absolute sincerity in woman's friendship. If a girl does not act fairly and squarely by a man the chances are that he will overlook her conduct on the ground that she is, "only a girl" and end by calling it "a woman's way." But any disregard of the truth is fatal between women friends.

Girls of shallow minds and selfish dispositions never make friends of their own sex (you watch and see if I am not telling you a straight fact). They may have a host of acquaintances but not one friend with sufficient liking to make excuses for their faults. I have noticed it time and again. They are always telling that this one is their enemy and that one is not a friend. They will visit you for a time and when they think you have learned of their treachery they are gone.

Very lovable is the woman who has cultivated a disposition angelic enough to see the good and not the vile side of human nature, who can be severe with their own failings and excuse faults in others.

We are told that she is a dull, uninteresting creature; and if we take the trouble to look into the matter, we find that she does not laugh at her neighbor's pet weakness; she does not enjoy hitting out right and left at the world at large, and is always ready with a plea for unseen reasons, which, if they could be revealed, would go a long way toward modifying harsh judgment.

Our lovable woman may not be witty, she may be a little prosy, but she it is to whom we go when in trouble, for sympathy, and in whom we confide with a feeling that our secret will not be torn in shreds when or as soon as our back is turned.

It is true sometimes there is such a feeling of animosity that they will even lie and write anonymous letters. The men will also do it (some men). A precious few men or women will stoop so low as to write an anonymous letter. They are always found out. We have been the recipient of several such letters but we have found out who sent them.

I think it is advisable to understand that anyone who is wise has more or less love in their hearts, as wisdom is the lamp of love and love is the oil of the lamp Did you ever think that love sinking deeper, grows wiser and wisdom that springs up aloft comes ever nearer to love. I don't know as I can make it plain so you sisters will understand just how I figure this wise and love theme out. If you love you must need become wise. Be wise and you surely will love. Join a circle of light within which those who love clasp the hands of those who are wise and make friends.

And having that friendly and kindly feeling in your heart, there is no room for jealousy, hatred, deceit—just to try and make people happy.

You remember when you have read in the Bible the story of the unforgiving servant, have you not thrilled with indignation at his conduct, how he had his debt cancelled and relieved him of such a great burden of anxiety immediately went out and threatened with dire punishment the poor man that owed him a small sum.

Sometimes I wonder if we all pass on happiness, or do we regard it as our personal merit. And when we feel happy and all the world seems bright and rosy, and we feel in complete harmony how often do we try to make some one else feel the same?

If we would guard our jealousy and try to pass on happiness instead of trying to hurt our competitors (which we can never do) we will receive happiness ten fold.

GREETINGS FROM MARIGOLD

Dear Sisters of the Social Corners: Good morning everybody. Am glad the Norwich sisters are having such a fine day for their gathering. Hope next Wednesday will be the same for the gathering of Club No. 1. I always enjoy going. Chocolate: Hear you are now living in Willimantic. Hope you will come to our meeting next week. You will have a good time and enjoy them as much as you did the Norwich ones. I did you welcome.

Necia: The sister you spoke of called yesterday, also told me that she had met you and had a nice talk with you. Betsy Brey and I have wondered why you haven't made that promised visit.

Lucy Acorn and Bob White: A bird told me you folks were going to write soon, so I scan the page for your letters but haven't come across them yet.

MARIGOLD.

CLUB NO. 1'S NEXT MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I am hostess at the next meeting of club No. 1 Wednesday, Nov. 10 at the chamber of commerce room, 791 Main street, Willimantic, I hope to see as many as can come. Bring plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon and something good to eat.

Also bring the longest word in the English language and tell what it is. Come prepared to help with the program. Hoping the sick are better.

SERVICE IN OLD BROOKLYN CHURCH

Dear Social Corner Friends: Another long spell of not writing to the Corner but every week I am very anxious to look at the Corner page and find many interesting letters. As I had a very pleasant day on Monday, Nov. 1 I thought I would tell a little about it to the Corner. Through the kindness of a friend I had the privilege of attending service at the old, maybe oldest, church in the United States, the old Trinity church at Brooklyn, Ct., where they have a union service every year on "All Saints' day" which came on November 1. It's the only service held at this church during the year, except occasionally a funeral. No regular service has been held there since 1866. Many old time members and their descendents gathered there this day for prayer and service and song in remembrance of the forefathers who worshipped there years ago. The old organ peeled forth the anthems and a choir from Brooklyn with a lady violinist made the old church ring. Rev. Frank Hallett of Thornton, R. I., preached a most interesting sermon. He was formerly professor of Greek at Brown university. He was assisted by the pastor of St. Albans church at Brooklyn. Anyone would not be sorry after attending one of these meetings and sitting in those old fashioned high back pews with little doors with buttons on to fasten you in and to see the rough hand hewn posts and beams and the narrow straight backed seats in the gallery where in olden times the slaves were made to sit. I wonder as I looked at the uncomfortable seats if they "really" did enjoy the services or did they dread the Sunday mornings in those days. How much different the churches are today! One patriotic feature of the day I was there was the coming into the church of a little sweet faced old lady surely over 80, or maybe much more, going to her pew which herself and family sat in years ago. Before the service began she stood upon the seat looking with tear dimmed eyes out of the window where nearby was a long row of graves of her people who had passed on. She is the only one left of a large family.
